WAYNE, NJ (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - GAF Corp. Thursday announced that the company and its vice chairman, James T. Sherwin, have settled a proposed civil action with the Securities and Exchange Commission, arising out of allegations that the company and Sherwin attempted to increase the price of Union Carbide common stock in October 1986, in connection with GAF's disposition of a portion of its Union Carbide stock position.

Under the settlement, the company and Sherwin, without admitting or denying any of the allegations of the SEC's complaint, have consented to injunctions restraining each of them from violating certain provisions of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

The company has also agreed, as part of the settlement, to pay the sum of $1.25 million plus interest.

A spokesman for the company said, ''The settlement was made with the SEC in order to resolve this matter promptly and avoid protracted and costly litigation.''

DAYTON, OH (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - NCR Corp.'s Data Services Division has announced plans to build a $7.1 million, 40,000 square foot data processing center in Columbia Gateway Business Park, Columbia, Md.

When completed in late 1990, the facility will triple NCR's regional account processing capacity, and act as the on-line hub for financial institutions throughout Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia.

The new data center will replace NCR's existing 20,000 square-foot processing facility, also located in Columbia. Its additional footage and vastly expanded hardware configurations will accommodate NCR's growing regional customer base, which numbers over 100 banks and thrifts in a six-state area. The center's 5.4 acre lot is also large enough to add 20,000 additional square feet to the facility as growth indicates.

''We anticipate two sources of expanded processing in the future, and we will be ready to effectively service both,'' said Jim Wise, vice president Data Services Division. ''Our existing customers will obviously grow as their account volume increases or as they add processing options. We also expect continued growth of new accounts, due to the economic strength of the area and the inherent advantages of service bureau processing.''

NCR Data Services is one of the nation's leading suppliers of data processing services, serving over 860 financial institutions through a nationwide network of data centers. Its Columbia Data Center currently employs over 100 data processing specialists, and more will be added to meet the service needs of a growing account base.

The new center will also house up to 12 NCR 9854 processors, each protected by uninterruptable power supply with generator backup. The building will be designed as a tornado-proof facility, and will be protected by a fire supression system.

NCR purchased the property from the Rouse Co., master developer of Columbia Gateway. Located midway between Baltimore and Washington D.C., the business park will eventually employ up to 20,000 people in a mixed-business environment.

NCR develops, manufactures, markets, installs and services business information processing systems for worldwide markets.

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Ericsson has filed an application with the Greek Ministry of National Economy requesting permission to acquire a minority interest in Intracom, the Greek telecommunications company.

Ericsson and Intracom both agree that a minority shareholding for Ericsson would benefit both companies and facilitate their future collaboration for the modernization of the Greek telecommunications network.

Intracom is a licensed manufacturer of AXE equipment for Greece, where it holds 50 percent of the market for digital lines. According to Ericsson, cooperation between the two companies will increase further as a result of this agreement, and Intracom will be able to participate to a greater extent in the production and development of Ericsson products in the future.

Headquartered in Stockholm, Ericsson is one of the world's leading manufacturers of telecommunications equipment. Its wholly owned North American subsidiary is based in Richardson, Texas.

HOUSTON (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Shell Oil Co. announced Thursday the return of the popular Shell Answer Man and helpful Shell answer booklets that provide motorists tips on automotive safety, maintenance and repair.

The eight-page booklets will be available at Shell service stations across the country and inserted in national magazines beginning in March. The booklets also will be supported by 30-second television commercials that feature the Shell Answer Man, who will highlight key information from each booklet.

Written by a team of Shell experts, the answer booklets cover a wide variety of topics and serve as handy reference guides that may be stored easily in a car's glove compartment.

Shell's new corporate advertising program is reminiscent of the award-winning ''Come to Shell for Answers'' campaign that ran from 1976 until 1982. The campaign became a favorite among America's driving public and an advertising classic. In fact, more than one billion of the answer booklets were distributed during that period.

''This program offers us another opportunity to demonstrate our commitment to the consumer by providing a useful service,'' says Tom Stewart, Shell's manager of corporate communications. ''Our new booklets will provide updated information that deals with today's more sophisticated automobiles along with timely environmental and safety issues.

''Besides, a segment of the driving public has never before been exposed to our information. Many of today's younger drivers were barely toddlers when that first campaign began in the mid-1970s,'' he says.

The new campaign should help remind motorists to perform necessary, routine maintenance tasks.

''We want to help consumers drive safer, longer,'' Stewart says. ''We think the tips in these booklets will help drivers to do that and enjoy the pleasure of driving, too.''

The first answer booklet -- ''Simple Ways to Deal with Car Trouble on the Road'' -- covers emergency repair tips and is written by Shell Auto Care Dealer Manny Gianakakos of Lincolnwood, Illinois. Other topics that will be covered in upcoming booklets include protecting your car and the environment, preventive car maintenance and safeguarding yourself and your car from crime.

The booklets will appear in such national magazines as Reader's Digest, National Geographic, Sports Illustrated, Time, Newsweek and U.S. News & World Report.

BUFFALO, NY (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Barrister Information Systems Corp. (AMEX:BIS), announced Thursday that it will begin offering the FaxPress network fax server, manufactured by Castelle Inc., of Santa Clara, Calif.

The FaxPress server allows workstations on Barrister's Novell local area network, to send and receive fax transmissions.

The FaxPress server is a stand-alone fax server dedicated to sending and receiving faxes directly from networked personal computers. Using a pop-up window, the users can enter a fax phone number, then send the document, without having to print it first or without ever having to leave their desks. The FaxPress server eliminates the need to get up and walk to another part of the building where the fax machine is kept, and then wait in the ''fax line'' while others ahead of you send their messages and while the fax machine is receiving incoming messages.

If the FaxPress server cannot send the fax immediately because of a busy signal, the fax is stored and retried later. In the event the system is unsuccessful after a specified number of attempts, the FaxPress server sends a message to the user's computer ''mailbox'' to inform the user to resend at a later time.

All fax traffic is handled electronically, resulting in better quality fax documents than those which are printed and then scanned by traditional fax machines. Received faxes are stored on the network for plain paper printing or routing to network PC's.

The FaxPress server automatically records information about every fax sent to be used for automated billing. Stored information includes client data, date sent, number of pages in the transmission, and phone number of the receiving fax. These logging, recording and accounting features, when coupled with an automated billing system, make the fax cost recovery process virtually effortless.

Barrister, one of the leading suppliers law office automation, is adding the FaxPress server to its product line to complement an extensive suite of solution-oriented, hardware and software applications. This relationship between Barrister and Castelle signals the end of the ''fax line'' in today's law office.

BUFFALO, NY (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Barrister Information Systems Corp. (AMEX:BIS) announced Thursday that it has signed an agreement with Folio Corp. of Provo, Utah, to resell Folio VIEWS free-form, textbase management system.

Unlike conventional, personal computer database systems, which require the user to adhere to rigid field type and length conventions (numbers in numerical fields, text in text fields, neither to exceed the specified number of characters), the Folio VIEWS product allows information to be stored in a non-structured, free-form format. This method of data storage allows entire text files, such as letters and documents to be input, indexed and stored for future reference and access.

The reality of modern law practice is that lawyers need to sort through mountains of information every day ... correspondence, briefs, reviews, transcripts, research notes, the list is endless. Barrister now offers an invaluable tool to make that task somehwat more manageable.

Information presented in electronic form can now be imported into the PC-based Folio VIEWS system; this includes most word processing documents as well as files which have been electronically downloaded from news, court reporting and data retrieval services. Imported files are scanned by the system and a list of indexed key words in that file is created. This indexing is the means by which fast information retrieval is achieved. The folio VIEWS product then compresses the file and the index table to enable both to occupy less disk space than the original file.

Folio Corp.'s Folio VIEWS software product offers a simple, highly efficent user-interface. With a single key stroke, the system displays two boxes on the screen; a search criteria box and a second box containing a list of indexed words in the database.

As the user enters each letter of the search word, the index display moves through the list to a match. As more matches are found, the number of affected records also appears. The system also has the capability of searching on criteria such as ''and,'' ''or'', ''not'', and so forth.

Barrister, one of the nation's leading legal office automators, believes that the additiion of the Folio VIEWS product to its microcomputer offerings will provide a facility to its client base that is long overdue.

TROY, MI (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Handleman Company (NYSE:HDL) announced Thursday promotions of two officers and the election of a new director. Stephen Strome, previously executive vice president and chief operating officer, has been elected president and chief operating officer of the company.

Louis A. Kircos, previously vice president-finance, has been elected senior vice president-finance. Mr. Kircos remains chief financial officer and secretary/treasurer.

Mr. Strome has been with Handleman since 1978 and has served in a succession of management positions. He had been elected executive vice president and chief operating officer in June 1989, and had previously served as president of the Prerecorded Home Video and Computer Software Division.

Beginning in 1985, Mr. Strome spearheaded the company's entry into the video market. For the nine months ended January 1990, video sales were over $225 million, accounting for 40 percent of the company's total sales.

Mr. Kircos joined Handleman in 1981 and has served as vice president-finance and chief financial officer since September 1987.

Verne G. Istock, 49, has been elected to the board of directors to fill a vacancy. Mr. Istock is vice chairman of NBD Bancorp and its primary subsidiary, National Bank of Detroit. David Handleman, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said, "The growth of our video business -- the fastest growing segment of our company -- has occurred under the leadership and guidance of Steve Strome. We believe that Steve's election to the presidency will insure the company of his continued significant contributions to the future growth of all our product lines.

''The company has built a strong management team with all senior officers having been with the company for more than eight years. Louis A. Kircos is an integral part of the senior management of the company and his promotion is in recognition of his contribution to the company.''

BOCA RATON, FL (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Teletimer International Inc. (NASDAQ:TLTMC) announced Thursday that on Marach 7 Nu-Age Technologies Inc. paid Teletimer International Inc. $325,000 cash as the initial payment for the purchase of four million shares of Teletimer International Inc. Series I preferred stock.

A formal purchase agreement reflecting a total purchase price of $2.8 million is expected to be finalized in the immediate future.

The balance of the purchase price will be payable in cash and notes. The preferred stock will be convertible to common stock on a one to one basis 84 months from the date of issuance. Such preferred shares are non-cumulative, non-participating carry no divided of any kind whatsoever and have voting rights of one vote per share.

Nu-Age Technologies Inc. will also grant Teletimer four million warrants to purchase Nu-Age preferred stock at 75 cents per share for a period of two years.

Teletimer plans to distribute these warrants to Teletimer shareowners of record as of March 7 as a dividend of one Nu-Age warrant for each Teletimer common share owned, thus allowing Teletimer shareowners to participate in any success that Nu-Age may achieve.

This additional capitalization program should provide the capital necessary to carry out Teletimer's business plan according to Robert J. Brown Jr., president.

Teletimer provides a subscription ''Teletimer Energy Saving Service'' (TESS) which reduces energy consumption in return for an annual subscription fee. LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Ducommun Inc. (ASE/PSE:DCO) announced net income from continuing and discontinued operations of $602,000, or 18 cents per share, on sales of $68,571,000 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared with a net loss in 1988 of $19,375,000, or $5.86 per share, on sales of $59,812,000.

The company recorded an extraordinary tax credit for utilization of net operating loss carryforwards to substantially offset the provision for taxes.

Income for 1989 from continuing operations before income taxes and extraordinary tax credit was $1,079,000, compared with a net loss of $14,162,000 in 1988. The company experienced a $456,000 loss from discontinued operations on completion of the sale of its cable assembly business in 1989. The 1988 loss from discontinued operations was $5,213,000.

Encouraged by the profit, Norman A. Barkeley, chairman, president and chief executive officer, stated: ''1989 was a transition year for the company. Eighteen months into the turnaround the company has reduced administrative expenses, increased gross profit margins through revised pricing policies and continued to enhance unit management skills through recruitment and training.''

Barkeley went on to comment: ''1989 was also favorably impacted by a reduction in employee related costs which resulted from an agressive workers' safety program. Asset sales and positive operating cash flow allowed bank debt to be reduced by $3.7 million.''

The company's Aerochem and Jay-El Products subsidiaries experienced dramatic improvement in profitability during 1989. However, the company's AHF-Ducommun subsidiary continued to experience lower than expected gross profit margins due to underpriced military programs, production inefficiencies and excessive growth in overhead expenses associated with a 43 percent increase in production rates in 1989.

Ducommun incurred a fourth quarter 1989 loss of $257,000, or 8 cents per share, on sales of $17,442,000, compared with a loss of $9,897,000, or $2.99 per share, in the fourth quarter of 1988. The loss in 1988 included a loss from discontinued operations of $3,522,000, or $1.06 per share, for the fourth quarter in 1988.

The fourth quarter of 1989 was negatively impacted by reduced operating efficiencies and year-end inventory adjustments primarily due to revised estimates for the cost to complete work-in-process at AHF-Ducommun. These expenses were only partially offset by lower workers' compensation expense company-wide.

Barkeley further stated: ''The first half of 1990 will continue to be negatively impacted by the lower margins at its AHF subsidiary. The company is directing an overhead reduction program as part of a continuing program to reduce expenses. Although the company expects to be profitable in 1990, it is too early to predict whether Ducommun would return to profitability in the first quarter of 1990.''

In 1990 the company expects to benefit from the continuing shift from military to more profitable commercial business on the Boeing, McDonnell Douglas, Airbus Industries and other commercial air-transport programs. The company is changing the mix of its business and expects to be 60 percent commercial, 30 percent defense and 10 percent space-oriented in 1990.

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T Network Systems Thursday introduced a new version of its Integrated Access and Cross-Connect System (IACS), significantly expanding users' options for moving information within North America and to overseas locations.

IACS employs wideband packet technology to integrate digital data, voiceband data, facsimile, and voice in telephone company networks or very large private networks, such as the federal government's.

It also concentrates the signals transmitted -- as a nozzle would the water flowing through a garden hose -- dramatically increasing the network's efficiency. In addition, the system makes networks more robust and self-healing, offers users more or less bandwidth as their needs change minute to minute, an dynamically handles traffic to prevent congestion.

July 1, 1990, include:

--Enhanced network-management capabilities, including fault management, performance management, configuration management, and systems administration. There is also an interface to the ACCUMASTER Integrator, an integral part of Unified Network Management architecture, AT&T blueprint for end-to-end management and control of multivendor voice and data networks.

--Simplified administration. Bell Labs human-factors engineering has produced a user-friendly graphical interface that streamlines the process of issuing commands to the system, increasing the network manager's efficiency.

--A local concentrator using ISDN technology for direct termination of subrate (up to 38.4 Kb/sec.) data, allowing more rapid and efficient access to the network.

--Compression of facsimile transmissions at a ratio of better than five to one, allowing for more efficient handling of burgeoning fax traffic and providing improved image quality.

--Enhanced protection-switching capabilities, increasing network's ability to be self-healing. A fast, packet-network approach foresees problems and takes action within a fraction of a second to maintain important communications, such as sensitive computer sessions.

--International gateway capability, expanding the product's effectiveness in global networking. This employs an interface that can terminate traffic at 2.048 Mb/sec., the Consultative Committee on International Telephony and Telegraphy (CCITT) standard for wideband packet transmission; or 1.544 Mb/sec., the North American standard.

NASHVILLE, TN (FEB. 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Dollar General Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:DOLR) Thursday reported flat sales for the four weeks ended March 2, 1990.

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Cal Turner Jr. said retail sales for the four week period totaled $38.4 million compared with $38.5 million in 1989. Same store sales for the period decreased 4.3 percent.

''While we are disappointed with February sales, we recognized that our greatly reduced inventory level would make this a difficult month,'' Turner said. ''The in-stock levels in the stores improved throughout the month and we expect to begin March with a stronger assortment in the stores.''

Dollar General is a chain of 1,387 neighborhood stores operating in 23 states with distribution centers in Georgia and Kentucky.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Cache Inc., (NASDAQ: CACH), a specialty chain of 50 exclusive women's apparel stores, reported record results for 1989 and major expansion plans for 1990.

Cache Inc. reported record sales and net income for the 52 weeks ended Dec. 30, 1989, as compared to 1988 results. Sales increased 33 percent in 1989, $34,277,000 vs. $25,741,000 in 1988, while net income increased 53 percent, $809,000 vs. $528,000 in 1988.

For the 13 week period ended Dec. 30, 1989, the company reported sales of $10,130,000 vs. $8,176,000 in 1988, a 24 percent increase, and net income of $331,000 vs. $203,000 in 1988, a 63 percent increase.

Roy C. Chapman, chairman, stated the improved results were due both to improved sales at existing stores and sales at the nine new stores opened during 1989.

Separately, the company announced a major new store expansion plan for 1990. Cache will open 14 new stores during the first half of 1990, with additional new locations planned for the second half. The new stores (to be opened during the first half) will be located as follows: Fashion Square, Sherman Oaks, Calif.; Village At Corte Madera, Corte Madera, Calif.; Valley Fair, Santa Clara, Calif.; The Avenue at Tower City, Cleveland, Ohio; Fashion Mall, Plantation, Fla.; The Fashion Center at Pentagon City, Arlington, Va.; Altamonte Mall, Altamonte Springs, Fla.; Brea Mall, Brea, Calif.; Fashion Valley, San Diego, Calif.; Trump Taj Mahal, Atlantic City, N.J.; Walden Galleria, Buffalo, N.Y.; Bridgewater Commons, Bridgewater, N.J.; Willowbrook Mall, Wayne, N.J.; Arden Fair, Sacramento, Calif.

FREMONT, CA (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Sigma Designs Inc. (NASDAQ:SIGM), a leading manufacturer and marketer of graphics controller boards and high-resolution display systems for personal computers, announced financial results for its fourth quarter and fiscal year ended Jan. 31 Thursday.

Net sales for the quarter declined 47 percent to $12 million from $22.6 million a year ago. Net income for the quarter decreased 39 pecent to $1.6 million from $2.7 million while earnings per share were 27 cents compared with 43 cents reported in fiscal 1989.

Net sales for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31 increased 4 percent to $76.2 million from $73.0 million a year ago. Net income advanced 5 percent to $9.2 million from $8.8 million. Earnings per share, on a higher number of shares outstanding, were $1.50 compared with $1.52 last year.

The winding down of a major Air Force contract at Zenith Data Systems, our largest customer, had a significant downward impact on both sales and earnings in the second, third and fourth quarters of fiscal 1990. We expect this negative impact to continue; however, we are making progress in replacing the lost sales with additional sales in retail, OEM and international channels of distribution.

On Feb. 20, the company announced a plan to implement a stock repurchase program whereby up to 500,000 shares of its common stock may be purchased from time to time in the open market.

''The decision was made in view of the current low price of the company's stock which we believe does not reflect the true value of the company,'' stated Thinh Tran, president.

The company's financial condition is sound. As of Jan. 31, Sigma had $29.7 million in cash and eqauivalents with virtually no long term debt. In addition, the total shareholders' equity as of this date was $51.3 million, or a book value of $8.33 per share, of which $4.82 was in cash and equivalents.

LAS VEGAS (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - MGM Grand Inc. (NYSE:MGG) announced Thursday that Clifford Perlman has resigned as a director of the company and as an officer of MGM Grand's subsidiary, MGM Grand Hotels Inc.

Perlman was hired last year to assist in the creation and development of the company's new 5,000-room hotel/casino/theme park located at the northeast corner of Tropicana Boulevard and the Las Vegas strip.

Perlman recently advised the company that primarily due to the pressing demands of his other business affairs and matters relating to his brother's estate (of which he is co-executor), he will have to spend significant time on these matters over the next year.

Perlman stated, ''I did not feel I could devote my full time and undivided attention to MGM Grand's new project while these matters were ongoing.''

Perlman will make himself available on an as-needed basis to provide consulting services in a non-gaming capacity as and when requested by the company.

OKLAHOMA CITY (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - LSB Industries Inc. (ASE:LSB) Thursday reported operating results for the year and three months ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Total revenues incuding interest income and sales for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989 were $261,935,000 compared to $216,309,000 for the same period in 1988.

Included in total revenue were sales derived from nonfinancial services activities of $212,748,000 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared to $211,709,000 for the same period in 1988.

Net income for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, was $4,036,000 compared to $3,251,000 for the same period in 1988. After adjustment for dividends on outstanding preferred stocks of the company, net income applicable to common stock for the year was $1,986,000 or 32 cents per share compared to net income applicable to common stock of $1,092,000 or 19 cents per share in 1988.

Total revenues for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989 were $59,484,000 compared to $59,828,000 for the same period in 1988.

Included in total revenues were sales derived from nonfinancial services activities of $45,918,000 for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared to $57,772,000 for the same period in 1988.

Net income for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, was $77,000 compared to $1,923,000 for the same period in 1988.

After adjustment for dividends on outstanding preferred stocks of the company, net loss applicable to common stock for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989 was $424,000 or 8 cents per share compared to net income applicable to common stock of $1,388,000 or 19 cents per share for the same period in 1988.

Jack E. Golsen, chairman, noted that the company's Financial Services Business was profitable for the quarter, that the Environmental Business had returned to profitability and that the Chemical Business reported record profits in 1989.

Golsen further noted that although earnings for the full year are better than last year, the fourth quarter sales and net income did not compare favorably with last year's sales and net income for the same period. All the company's businesses, other than Industrial Products, performed substantially better in the 1989 fourth quarter than in the 1988 fourth quarter in terms of operating profit. The Industrial Products Business' sales and profits for the fourth quarter of 1988 included the effects of substantial sales of machinery and equipment to a foreign project in the fourth quarter of 1988. Sales to this project were completed during the first nine months of 1989, accounting for the decline in the 1989 fourth quarter.

PEABODY, MA. (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Hyde Athletic Industries Inc. announced that gross revenues for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, were $60,768,000 compared with gross revenues of $57,496,000 for the same period in 1988.

The company had net income of $227,000 compared with a net loss of $740,000 in 1988. Earnings per share were 8 cents in 1989 compared with a loss of 27 cents in 1988.

Gross revenues increased in 1989 by 5.7 percent over the prior year. This increase was attributable to continued growth in Brookfield's licensed character products and greater sales of Saucony athletic footwear.

In the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, the company changed its method of accounting for inventory. This change resulted in an increase to net income of $843,000.

WICHITA, KS (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - In the two weeks since Beech Aircraft won the Air Force's competition for the Tanker Transport Training System (TTTS) program, the company has received 32 orders for the commercial version of the light jet.

''Winning the TTTS competition has given the Beechjet instant credibility and acceptance throughout the world,'' said Charlie Dieker, executive vice president - marketing. ''Of the 32 new orders, 15 have come from foreign countries,'' he added.

Commercial Beechjet production is increasing to a rate of more than two per month in 1992. The company now has non-refundable deposits on 60 Beechjets for delivery through 1992 with an additional 13 aircraft on order for delivery positions in 1993.

''Most of the recent orders came from the company's world-wide dealer organization in anticipation of significant retail interest from their customers,'' Dieker added.

If all the Air Force options are exercised, the TTTS program calls for delivery of 211 military Beechjets from 1991 through 1997. The model designation for the TTTS Beechjet will be the 400T. The military 400T is a derivative of the commercial Beechjet Model 400A.

The 400A has a 467-knot top speed with docile handling characteristics. It features a maximum certified altitude of FL450, a gross weight of 16,100 pounds, a maximum seating capacity of 9, with a commodious cabin.

An optional double club seating configuration is available, while standard seating consists of an aft club and two facing chairs forward, with a refreshment center and accomodations for hanging bags on the other side. Yet another optional configuration adds a third chair to the forward club area.

BROOKLYN, NY (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Maimonides Medical Center became the first customer to use a Northern Telecom (NYSE:NT) Meridian 1 private branch exchange (PBX) system when it placed the 3200-telephone system into operation in Brooklyn on Feb. 27.

''Our new Meridian 1 system is literally what the doctors ordered,'' said Akiba Keehn, director of Management Information Systems at Maimonides. '' As the previous system struggled under its increasing load, the doctors associated with Maimonides requested better telephone service more and more often. Now, they agree the new telephone system is providing them with vastly improved service.''

Key factors in the hospital's selection of the system were the compact size of the Meridian 1 system, its ability to communicate a wide variety of voice and data oriented information, and Northern Telecom's willingness to meet Maimonides' urgent requirements for a reliable telecommunications system.

''We have met our primary objective, which was to establish a good voice system,'' Keehn said. ''Now we are working toward exploiting some of the data capabilities inherent in the new system.''

Data related applications being explored include doctor use of patient telephones as bedside data terminals, allowing them to access computer-based medical information by using the telephone keys; access of a patient directory and billing information through the telephone system; and image transfer.

Advanced features made available by the new system include call detail recording, for tracking patient long-distance calls; automated call distribution (ACD), for more-even call delivery to several service departments in the hospital; data connections from hospital research staffers to the National Library of Medicine data base in Bethsda, Md.; and Meridian Mail voice messaging, used by some 200 doctors and administrative personnel.

The system serves the hospital's seven buildings and several brownstones, which are located in a two-block area of Brooklyn.

The hospital's Meridian 1 system has a capacity for 4,400 lines and has 268 trunk connections to the telephone company's central office over 24 digital high-capacity T-1 lines. Hospital officials expect the system to grow to 10,000 lines by 1995, keeping pace with Maimonides' aggressive expansion program. For additional support in case of emergency, Maimonides has a Meridian SL-1 PBX standing by that is connected to 200 telephones.

The contract for the system was awarded to Northern Telecom in October 1989. Bruce Nauman, a managing partner of Synexus Inc., a Philadelphia-based telecommunications consulting firm, assisted the medical center in planning for and selection of the system.

Maimonides Medical Center, site of the first U.S. heart transplant, plans to add a new medical arts building and several other major projects and acquisitions. The medical center has 700 beds, and close to a 95 percent occupancy rate. It is the major teaching facility of the State of University of New York Health and Science Center in Brooklyn.

The Meridian 1 product line, announced in January 1990, can range in size from 30 to 60,000 lines. Its capabilities extend from voice and data features for very small organizations to high-capacity advanced tandem networking, very large ACD centers, campus communication systems, intelligent network node capabilities, and bridge to future high speed broadband fiber-optic based services.

Northern Telecom is the leading global supplier of fully digital telecommunications systems. The company provides products and services to the telecommunications industry, businesses, universities, governments and other institutions worldwide. Northern Telecom Inc., with its headquarters in Nashville, Tenn., employs more than 22,000 people across the country.

TORONTO (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - Deprenyl Research Ltd., (Toronto Stock Exchange: DEP)(NASDAQ:DEPLF) reported Thursday that, in view of the rapid growth of the company, it has retained a New York-based investment banking firm to evaluate the company and plan for its future development.

Deprenyl Research Limited is a Toronto-based prescription pharmaceutical company which commenced operations in February 1988 to import the product ELDEPRYL for the treatment of Parkinson's Disease.

Over the last year, the company has evolved into an organization with the capability to license, develop and market ethical pharmaceutical products.

In addition, Deprenyl Research owns rights to the sale of ELDEPRYL for use in animals in Canada and the U.S.A. Initial research on small animals indicates that their life span may be extended with the addition of ELDEPRYL to their diet.

ELDEPRYL is a registered trademark licensed by Deprenyl Research from Somerset Pharmaceuticals Inc., Denville, N.J.

Deprenyl Research has also acquired a 20 percent intrerest in Bone Care International Inc. of Madison, Wis., and taken an option for the exclusive Canadian marketing rights to a new osteoporosis drug Bone Care is developing.

ROCKAWAY, NJ (MARCH 8) BUSINESS WIRE - RTI Inc. (NASDAQ: RTII) Thursday reported financial results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Revenues rose 11 percent in 1989 to $3,184,153 from $2,862,202 in 1988. The net loss for the year was $27,759 vs. a loss of $2,859,813 in 1988, an improvement of $2,832,054.

Cost of sales in 1989 decreased approximately 15 percent to $1,559,283, as compared to 1988, primarily as a result of suspension of operations at Salem at the end of 1988 and the company's continuing cost containment program.

The significant reduction of operating costs and more efficient Cobalt 60 utilization provided a gross profit improvement of approximately 60 percent; comparing $1,624,870 to the previous year of $1,012,764.

Operating expenses in 1989 decreased approximately 30 percent to $2,212,855 from $3,193,789 in the prior year, exclusive of an additional cost of $500,981 in 1988 associated with the closing of the Salem plant.

The net loss amounted to less than 1 cent per share as compared to a net loss of 43 cents per share on 6,599,273 and 6,598,719 average shares outstanding for 1988 and 1989 respectively. The 1989 results included a net gain on the sale of the Arkansas plant of $747,330, and additional income of $150,000 related to the grant of a non-refundable option for the purchase of the Salem plant, less a charge of $271,090 in expenses associated with the Salem plant, which curtailed operations in September 1988.

John Scandalios, president and chief executive, said, ''The positive trend of 1989 should countinue as we have taken steps to correct many of the problems which negatively impacted operations since 1985. We are pleased to report a trend of growing revenues and are especially proud of our sharply reduced net losses which are down by approximately 99 percent as compared to 1988.''

RTI Inc. is engaged in supplying gamma irradiation services to a variety of products, primarily disposable medical devices and hospital supplies.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows on Jan. 31, 1990, Mutual Federal Savings Bank, a Stock Corp. exceeded NASD's minimum capital surplus requirement after having been below that minimum since. Dec. 31, 1989. The change was produced through the earning of sufficient capital during the month of January.

On Feb. 7, 1989, a non-binding letter of intent for the acquisition of Mutual Federal by Park National Corp. was extended by the two parties, having originally been dated Nov. 9, 1989. This acquisition was intended as part of a Mutual Federal restructuring plan. To encourage the merger, Mutual Federal granted Park an option to purchase, upon the occurence of certain events, up to 33,174 shares of Mutual Federal common stock, equal to 9.9% of outstanding shares.

On March 1, 1990, the director of the OTS issued an order approving Park's acquisition of greater than 10% of Mutual Federal's common stock, provided Mutual Federal remains a savings association until at least April 6, 1990.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) COMTEX - The 8-K report filed at the SEC shows effective Feb. 26, 1990, American Credit Optical dismissed its independent public auditors of the firm of Wisan and Smith, Salt Lake City, and engaged the firm of Hein + Associates of Dallas, TX, in its stead.

For the previous two years, audits performed by Wisan and Smith contained no adverse opinion or disclaimer of opinion nor were they modified as to uncertainty, audit scope, or accounting principles.

For the previous two years, there were no disagreements between those former auditors and the company.

A letter agreeing with these statements was requested of Wisan and Smith by American Credit Optical for the purpose of filing it with the SEC.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) COMTEX - A House panel was told today that although default on junk bonds is expected to jump in 1990, the current panic over junk bonds is overblown and the market is already moving to solve the problem.

David Wyss, chief financial economist of DRI/McGraw-Hill, said that higher spreads are freezing out additional junk bond issuance and the higher yields will themselves serve to discourage further leverage.

"If the market takes care of the problem on its own, the reduced bond issuance will eventually reduce the susceptibility of both holders and issuers to increase the debt," Wyss said before the House Telecommunications and Finance subcommittee. "Those who need money and can pay the current higher yields will still be able to obtain funds, but the current 700 basis point spread (7 percentage points) between junk bonds and treasuries will discourage borrowing just for the sake of increasing leverage."

When compared with any realistic projection of default rates, Wyss called the 700 basis point spread "ridiculously high". "We feel that the spread widened because of market panic, caused in part by the risk that major buyers will be forced to liquidate their holdings," he said.

The economist warned this fear will grow if Congress takes further action to restrict ownership of junk bonds.

"If major holders must liquidate their holdings, or are restricted in rolling over existing loans, the danger to both borrowers and lenders would be significantly increased," Wyss explained. "If there are no legislative changes, the junk bond market will settle down in the coming years. The losses of the last six months should be made good, as spreads return to a more normal gap."

The recent demise of Drexel Burnham Lambert has focused attention on the junk bond markets. Junk bonds are non-investment grade, high-yield, high-risk securities. Under the stewardship of Drexel, the junk bond market mushroomed in the latter part of the 1980s. The one clear positive aspect of the junk bond phenomenon is the ability it has given smaller companies to access the public capital markets for the first time.

However, junk bonds have often been used to leverage companies at a much higher rate than has been normal for U.S. industry in the past. Because of the increased leverage, a higher share of corporate cash flow is committed to debt service cost. With profits now weakening and interest rates rising the debt is becoming harder to support.

The default rate on junk bonds was 3.8 percent last year. Wyss predicts it will leap to nearly 9 percent in 1990 and then fall back to the 3 to 4 percent range from 1991 to 1993.

Wyss added the greatest threat to junk bonds is not a recession, but interest rates. "The U.S. reliance on foreign capital to fund its excessive borrowing has made U.S. bond yields dependent on bond yields in Frankfurt and Tokyo," he said. "With these countries showing strong growth and higher inflation, interest rates are likely to be rising, not falling, even if the U.S. falls into recession."

Mark Bachmann, senior vice president of Standard & Poor's Ratings Group, cited a number of problems currently affecting highly leveraged companies.

"The market has entered into a circle whereby lack of confidence aggravates refinancing risk, which in turn further undermines confidence," Bachmann said. "The debt burdens of many companies are so high that they can do little more than meet their interest payments ... which means that capital budgets are likely to stay under pressure beyond the point where this can be done without competitive damage to the business."

Bachman said the negative effects of over-leveraging will be felt for years to come but added the correction process is already underway. "The problems associated with excessive leverage are becoming widely recognized by investors, who are increasingly reluctant to invest in over-leveraged companies," he said.

TOKYO (MARCH 8) - There are no grounds for raising Japan's official discount rate, Bank of Japan deputy governor Hiroshi Yoshimoto said here Thursday, according to the Kyoto News Service.

His remark at a meeting of the House of Representatives' Budget Committee followed recent press speculation on an early hike in the key lending rate, possibly after central bank governor Yasushi Mieno's return to Tokyo next Thursday from his current European tour.

The central bank raised the key rate, at which it lends to commercial banks, three times last year to its current 4.25 percent.

"There is no change in economic fundamentals, and the current situation is not the one for raising the official discount rate," Mr. Yoshimoto said.

Asked to comment on the yen's recent weakness against the dollar, he said that speculative moves were strong in currency markets and the Japanese central bank would cooperate with other central banks to check them.

SINGAPORE (MARCH 8) - Singapore Airlines (SIA) has announced plans to buy 234 engines from Pratt and Whitney for 2.2 billion U.S. dollars.

An SIA statement issued Wednesday night said the engines will be used to power the 30 Boeing 747-400 "Megatop" aircraft and 20 McDonnell-Douglas MD-IIs which it ordered last Janury.

The deal, which includes spare engines, covers 152 engines for the B747-400 and 82 for the MD-II.

The new orders are expected to improve the fuel efficiency of the SIA fleet as well as reduce air pollution.

With the delivery of the new planes, scheduled between 1994 and 1999, SIA hopes to offer more non-stop flights.

The national carrier has a fleet of 39 aircraft, which includes B747s, A310s and B757s, and flies to 57 destinations in 37 countries.

SYDNEY (MARCH 8) - Australia's second largest company Elders IXL Ltd. unveiled Thursday a major restructuring plan to sell-off all but its brewing assets and change its name to that of its famous beer Foster's.

Elders IXL said in a statement released in Melbourne that it would sell its investment and resource divisions, float its agribusiness arm and expand its brewing operations in a deal with British brewer Grand Metropolitan Plc.

Commentators said the aim of the restructuring was to relieve debt pressure on Harlin Proprietary Ltd., the vehicle used by chairman John Elliott and nine other Elders board members to take control of the group.

Elders said it would ask shareholders in June to approve the restructuring and new name of Foster's Brewing Group Ltd.

It would also recommend the sale of stakes in Elders Resources Ltd. and Elders Finance Ltd., a number of low-yielding assets and most shareholdings in other public companies.

Elders Agribusiness - covering wool, beef, livestock, merchandise and rural finance - would be floated, with shares issued on a pro-rata basis to existing shareholders worth 23 cents per Elders share as part of their capital return.

Shareholders would receive up to one Australian dollar (76 U.S. cents) a share in cash as part of the capital reduction, after the distribution of Elders Agribusiness shares in July.

The first cash payment of about 50 cents will be made in the middle of 1990, with a second payment of 50 cents early in 1991.

As part of its new focus, Elders said it had agreed to buy GrandMet's British brewery interests and would form a joint venture with GrandMet merging their pub estates.

Cash released from the pub restructuring will offset the cost of buying GrandMet's brewing interests "so the cost of the two transactions would be cash neutral."

Details of the deal were to be announced at a later date.

The stockmarket was wary of the restructuring, with Elders stock closing two cents down at 2.15 dollars (1.63 U.S.) after hitting a low of 2.13 dollars.

"The market is cautious of the plan as it's extremely complex," said J.B. Were analyst Graig Drummond.

PARIS (MARCH 8) - The United States and Japan have accepted a compromise which guarantees access for the Soviet Union to loans from the new European bank for eastern Europe, European financial officials said here.

The Soviet Union would be able to benefit to an extent in proportion with its stake in the bank.

A meeting here on Saturday and Sunday of the 36 founding countries of the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development should confirm a compromise covering this problem and other questions.

The United States and Japan had opposed the view advanced by Europeans, and particularly by French officials, that the Soviet Union should be eligible for loans. The United States argued that the Soviet Union had not made sufficient progress in introducing democracy to qualify for loans.

Sources close to the negotiations, held here since mid January, said that the Soviet Union was likely to acquire a holding of six per cent in the capital of the bank, and would therefore qualify for access to six per cent of loans by the bank.

The holding of each of the main western shareholders, including the United States and Japan, was likely to be about 8.5 percent.

European officials said that leading countries had agreed that up to 40 per cent of all loans by the bank could be used to finance projects in the public (state-owned) sector, or for projects concerning the infrastructure in countries in eastern Europe in which reforms were under way.

These sources said that 60 percent of the loans would be reserved for investment in the private sector.

ABU DHABI (MARCH 8) - OPEC Secretary General Subroto has warned of a sharp surge in oil prices in the next five years unless producers expand capacity to meet demand.

But Mr. Subroto in an interview Thursday with the United Arab Emirates newspaper Al-Ittihad said he expected the oil market to remain stable in the immediate future.

"If we do not take measures from now to face demand (in five years), then we will find ourselves in an uncomfortable situation, where prices will increase sharply," he told the paper in Vienna.

He urged investment of 60 billion dollars to boost OPEC's present output capacity, which he put at 27 million barrels per day.

Mr. Subroto said industrial states and banks must help the 13-nation Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) to finance the expansion.

A meeting of OPEC's market monitoring committee this month is to discuss the balance between production and prices, he added.

TOKYO (MARCH 8) - Japan's Nippondenso Co. Ltd. said Thursday its net consolidated profit rose 24.4 percent from a year earlier to 48.4 billion yen (322 million dollars) in the year to December.

The leading producer of electrical parts for cars said consolidated sales rose 11.4 percent to 1.303 trillion yen (8.7 billion dollars). Sales of air conditioners accounted for 474 billion yen (3.2 billion dollars), while sales of electronic equipment came to 335 billion yen (2.2 billion dollars).

Nippondenso said the consolidated figures, grouping results from the parent company and nine affiliates, reflected improved performances by the company's subsidiaries in the United States and Europe.

The company, which is 30.4 percent owned by Toyota Motor Corp., said its net consolidated profit in the current year was expected to reach 55 billion yen (366 million dollars) on sales of 1.38 trillion yen (9.2 billion dollars).

Hong Kong, March 8 dpa - Good results from the two biggest Hong Kong-based subsidiaries of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corp. released Thursday made an optimistic start to the reporting season for the colony's banking sector.

The Hang Seng Bank, the second biggest quoted bank in Hong Kong, reported a 18.5 per cent post-tax profit rise to 1,820.1 million Hong Kong dollars (233 million U.S. dollars) for the year to December 31 1989. An undisclosed sum was transferred to the bank's inner reserves before calculation of the profit total.

Wardley Holdings Ltd, the merchant banking arm of the Hong Kong Bank, reported what it chief executive described as a better than expected 10 per cent profit rise to 521.7 million Hong Kong dollars (69 million U.S. dollars) for 1989.

The parent Hong Kong Bank will release its 1989 results on Tuesday which are expected to show more moderate profit growth than that of its subsidiaries, mainly because of the poor performance of its American bank.

However the two Hong Kong-based banks generally reflect the performance of other banks in the colony and analysts are therefore pleased with these results although most predict a downturn for the coming year. dpa sc 081253 mrz 90

LONDON (MARCH 8) - General Richard Vincent, a specialist in arms control, has been named the next chief of staff of the British Armed Forces to take over the post a year from now.

The defense ministry announcement Thursday said Gen. Vincent, 59, would be promoted to the rank of Field Marshal when he assumes his new post in March, 1991. He will succeed Air Marshal Sir David Craig, from the Royal Air Force.

The statement did not explain why the announcement was made a year in advance.

Gen. Vincent, who has served as vice chief of defense staff since 1987, has taken part in the Vienna negotiations on reducing conventional forces.

It is the first time a vice chief of staff has been named to succeed his superior.

His nomination breaks with a standing tradition of rotating the chief of staff post among the heads of the army, the navy and the air force. It will also cut the traditionally three-year term to two years for Sir David.

Gen. Vincent, married and a grandfather, last headed a combat unit in 1977 as head of the 19th Airborne Brigade, after serving in West Germany and Northern Ireland.

SANAA (MARCH 8) - The presidents of North and South Yemen met north of here Thursday to examine ways of merging their armies and security services as part of the unification of the two states, officials said.

The summit in the North Yemen town of Taizz is the fourth between South

Yemen's Ali Salem al-Beid and North Yemen's Ali Abdallah Saleh since they agreed in October 1989 to unify their two countries by the end of 1990.

Joint ministerial committees have been working on plans to merge their adminstration and infrastructure.

Unification of North and South Yemen is expected to be confirmed by November 30 after referenda in both states on a proposed constitution, but the North Yemeni leader recently said it could take place before the deadline.

South Yemen is ruled by a Marxist-Leninist party while the North, where Islam is the official religion, has a more conservative administration.

BERLIN (MARCH 8) - West German auto maker Opel is to invest one billion Deutsche marks (590 million dollars) in a factory in East Germany currently producing Wartburg cars, the local daily Thueringer Allgemeine said Thursday.

Wartburg-Werk had previously held talks with West German auto maker Volkswagen, apparently without result.

PARIS (MARCH 8) - Shell France celebrated Thursday its "best ever year" in 1989, with net operating profits rocketing nearly 150 percent to 1.23 billion francs (214 million dollars) plus a windfall property sale.

Operating profits rose from 493 million francs (85.7 million dollars) in 1988, while total profits leapt to 2.823 billion dollars (490 million dollars) with the sale of its Paris offices for 1.58 billion francs.

The windfall helped reduce the oil and chemical company's debts from 5.2 billion francs (904 million dollars) in 1988 to 2.9 billion francs (504 million dollars) in 1989, the company said here.

Star performer was Shell France's oil refining and distribution activities, which turned round 1988 losses of 522 million francs (90.7 million dollars) in 1988 to profits of 256 million francs (44.5 million dollars) last year.

ADDIS ABABA (MARCH 8) - Several thousand students from Addis Ababa University marched to the embassies of the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain here Thursday to petition their intervention for peace in Ethiopia.

Chanting "help us, we need peace" and "unity yes, disunity no", the students marched to each embassy in turn to submit their petition, reading the text out loud at the gates before handing them over to waiting diplomats.

The petitions, addressed to the leaders of the three countries, called for support from their governments to help end the fratricidal war and the general suffering in Ethiopia.

The United States, Soviet Union and Britain were asked to use their influence to discourage support by "Arab governments" for dissidents in Tigre and Eritrea.

The students also wanted them to press the rebels to lay down their arms and return to the negotiating table for a political settlement of their differences.

Intense fighting is going on between the Ethiopian army and rebels of the separatist Eritrean People's Liberation Front (EPLF) and the Tigre People's Liberation Front (TPLF) in the north.

Fresh hostilities erupted in Eritrea from February 7 after peace talks with both the EPLF and TPLF went into recess.

The students also wanted the three powers to persuade countries granting training and other facilities to the rebels to stop doing so.

ROUEN, FRANCE (MARCH 8) - Eastern Europe, apart from the Soviet Union, should be self-sufficient in grain production and occasionally able to export grain by the mid-1990's, a U.S. expert said here Thursday.

The best-placed countries to become self-sufficient in grain production were Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, said Carol Brookins, president of World Perspectives, a Washington-based independent research unit.

But it would take the Soviet Union far longer to meet its grain needs and imports are likely to remain at high levels.

Andre Sizov, of the Soviet academy of sciences, said that he expected Soviet grain imports to fall during the coming decade at the rate of some two to 2.5 million tons a year.

The Soviet Union imported 35.5 million tons of grain in 1988 and produced 186 million tons.

Mr. Sizov said the massive grain imports from the early 1970's were "a classic example of imports which hide the problems of the country's grain industry."

An improved showing in this sector would come through technical progress, he said.

The evolution of the grain market in the coming decade would also be affected by a continuing trend of population growth shifting to Asia, Mrs. Brookins said.

China, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, South Korea, Iran and Iraq were all sure to need more grain.

ATHENS (MARCH 8) - The Greek public sector deficit is expected to total 900 million dollars for the first two months of this year, equivalent to the deficit for the whole of 1988, informed sources said here Thursday.

If it continued to grow at the same rate throughout 1990, the total deficit for the year would total four billion dollars, up from 2.5 billion in 1989.

The deficit hit a record 3.2 billion dollars in 1985, but was reduced to 957 million for 1988 following the introduction of an austerity policy.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) - U.S. Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady confirmed Thursday that both he and Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan would travel to Paris for a meeting of the Group of Seven (G-7) industrialized nations.

Mr. Brady, who was about to appear before a congressional budget committee, said the G-7 meeting of the finance ministers and central bank governors would discuss recent economic developments around the world.

The G-7 comprises the United States, Japan, Canada, West Germany, Britain, France and Italy.

The Paris meeting, scheduled for April 7, would be the first such gathering of the G-7 since the recent political upheaval in Eastern Europe began.

A U.S. official who demanded anonymity said Washington had suggested the meeting so that the world's major economic leaders could discuss how the events in Eastern Europe were affecting money markets and efforts to promote economic coordination among the G-7 member states.

The central banks and monetary authorities of the G-7 have been coordinating their activities over the past week, selling dollars for Japanese yen and West German marks in an effort to halt the U.S. currency's advances against those monies.

The G-7 finance ministers and central bank governors are also due to meet in Washington May 7 for a previously-scheduled regular meeting.

PARIS (MARCH 8) - French publishing group Hachette said Thursday it had taken a majority stake in Imperial News Company of Long Island, the fourth largest U.S. magazine and paperback wholesaler.

Hachette did not give the value of the deal, but said it would be taking slightly more than 50 per cent of Imperial News, with former president Ronald Scherer retaining 32 per cent.

Imperial News acquired another wholesaler, Yankee News Company, at the beginning of March.

Hachette said the two U.S. companies between them had a network of 6,500 sales outlets in the northeastern United States, accounting for three per cent of the U.S. market and with an annual turnover of 100 million dollars.

Hachette is already involved in distribution in the United States through Curtis Circulation, the country's second largest publishing distribution network, accounting for 25 per cent of the market with an annual turnover of 600 million dollars.

Hachette's Distribution and Services division has 4,200 employees in eight countries: France, Belgium, Spain, Britain, West Germany, the United States, Canada and Mexico, with total turnover of 1.7 billion dollars.

BONN (MARCH 8) - Condor, a subsidiary of the West German national carrier Lufthansa, and the East German airline Intterflug agreed to set up a joint charter company, a Condor spokesman announced here Thursday.

The new carrier, Intercondor, is to start operating with a leased 210-seat Boeing 757 from East Berlin's Schoenefeld airport late this year or early next year.

Intercondor will provide flights to the Canary islands, the Caribbean, the Far East and Africa.

Interflug announced late last month that Lufthansa was planning to take a 26-per cent share in its capital.

CARACAS, (MARCH 8) - Nicaragua will top the agenda when Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez, U.S. Vice President Dan Quayle and Spanish Prime Minister Filipe Gonzalez meet here Friday, officials said Thursday.

The mini-summit will take place on the Caribbean island of La Orchila, a resort for Venezuelan officials.

Mr. Quayle is to be in Venezuela for three hours before leaving for Barbados, Chile, Paraguay, Argentina and Brazil.

Mr. Gonzalez arrived in Caracas Thursday for a three-day visit and is also to meet with Costa Rican President Oscar Arias, Honduran President Rafael Callejas and Ecuadoran President Rodrigo Borja after Mr. Quayle leaves.

Mr. Perez met with Nicaraguan president-elect Violeta Chamorro earlier Thursday before she left for the United States, where she will undergo medical examinations in Houston, Texas.

Nicaragua's transition from Sandinista control to Mrs. Chamorro's National Opposition Union (UNO) will be the main topic of discussion, as well as peace in Central America.

After the summit, the leaders are to travel to Chile for the inauguration of Chilean president-elect Patricio Aylwin Sunday.

WASHINGTON, (MARCH 8) - President George Bush accepted a call from a man he believed to be Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani to discuss the hostages, but the call turned out to be a hoax, the White House confirmed Thursday.

The White House confirmed the account first reported on CBS television Thursday, saying a National Security Council staff member first took the call about a month ago "from a man who claimed to be an Iranian official."

White House spokesman Steve Hart said the caller wanted to speak to Mr.

Bush, and "various methods were used to check" the legitimacy of the call, which the president eventually accepted.

Mr. Bush "has stated he would talk to anybody if it would help free the hostages," Mr. Hart said. "He did take the call. It turned out to be a hoax."

Asked how the hoax was uncovered, and what was discussed in the call, Mr. Hart said, "I can't go into specifics. I am unable to offer you any more on this." Eight Americans and 10 other westerners have been held in Lebanon, some as long as five years, by pro-Iranian groups.

There has been a spate of speculative reports over the last several days about the possible release of hostages.

The White House has said it was encouraged but cautious about Mr. Rafsanjani's comment that he believed the hostage problem would soon be resolved.

The United States says it is not holding direct talks with Iran on the hostages but government officials, diplomats and businessmen from other countries have pressed Iran to use its influence to help free the hostages.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, (MARCH 8) - One person died and two others suffered gunshot wounds Thursday when soldiers opened fire on demonstrators demanding the resignation of the head of Haiti's military government, according to witnesses at the scene.

Thick black smoke rose from tires burning round the city, while in the southern suburb of Carrefour, protesters armed with machetes, clubs and sharpened sticks surrounded a police car and set it ablaze, private Radio Metropole reported.

The occupants of the car escaped, the radio station said. The protesters in Carrefour, said to number 3,000, stopped other cars and painted anti-goverment slogans on the hoods (bonnets) or smashed the windshields. Police did not intervene.

Outside the presidential palace in the heart of Port-au-Prince, about a dozen policemen burst out of the building and charged against some 1,000 people demanding President Prosper Avril resign.

The police opened fire and attacked with truncheons, killing one person and wounding two others. Medical officials said another 10 people were treated for minor injuries or contusions.

The rally outside the palace came after funeral services for an 11-year-old girl killed Monday when soldiers fired warning shots to break up an anti-government demonstration in the southern town of Petit-Goave.

Most schools closed Thursday in response to a call for a day of mourning for the girl.

IQUITOS, PERU (MARCH 8) EFE - Authorities estimated Thursday that some 120 people died when a passenger ferry sank earlier this week after being swept along by strong currents on the Amazon river in a remote region of northern Peru.

Many of those aboard the overloaded ferry Andresito jumped overboard and swam to safety, but its captain, Nemihas Garcia said, "I think most of those in the cabins died."

Twenty bodies had been recovered, and some 100 went down with the ferry, according to a police report.

The Andresito, licenced to carry 70 passengers, was carrying at least 250 when it drifted out of control Monday night. Also aboard were hundreds of tons of cement, bricks, construction girders and food.

It collided with another vessel and sank minutes after leaving Iquitos, 1,000 km northeast of Lima. According to the captian, it went adrift because of engine failure.

WOODSTOCK, VT (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Starting Sunday, skiers throughout the U.S. can receive the latest ski area information including skiing conditions and special events news at nearly 400 American ski areas from a unique fax-on-demand service.

A skier in New York, Florida, or California, for example, can receive a printout of conditions and special events at all Rocky Mountain resorts before investing in a plane ticket.

"Never before has such comprehensive, timely, and accurate information about skiing been available on demand to the public," according to Phil Camp of Woodstock, Vt. who worked with SprintFAX(sm) -- a division of US Sprint -- to develop FOLLOW THE SNOW(sm) using state-of-the-art facsimile technology.

Rates for detailed information are by the minute, and vary depending upon the information requested, with a maximum charge of $2.50.

Here's how it works: 1. Dial 1-900-FUN-SNOW(sm) (900-386-7669) from any touch-tone phone. Have your fax phone number handy.

2. You will be told what the charge is per regional report and given the choice of ending the call without being charged anything, or requesting that a regional report be sent to your facsimile machine.

3. Select a ski region by pressing the appropriate number when asked. Reports are available for New England, New York/New Jersey/ Pennsylvania, the Southeast, Midwest, the Rockies plus Idaho, Arizona and New Mexico, and the far West -- Nevada, California, Washington, Oregon, and Alaska.

4. You then input your fax number. Hang up your phone and less than a minute later your fax machine will deliver the latest report for the region you selected.

As the ski season winds down, reports will be consolidated. In May, therefore, a skier will be able to receive a single report showing ski conditions wherever there is skiing nationwide.

1-900-FUN-SNOW(sm) reports are updated daily at 8 a.m. regional time and will be available as long as there is skiing at a minimum of five American ski areas.

SPOKANE, WA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Pegasus Gold Inc. (AMEX, Toronto: PGU) announced today that Allan M. Park has joined the company as vice president of Exploration. Park brings over 25 years of experience in international metals and minerals exploration to Pegasus. He holds bachelor of science and master of science degrees from Stanford University and has done post-graduate studies in Geology at Queen's University in Ontario, Canada.

Prior to joining Pegasus, Park was associated with Freeport McMoRan Inc. for 13 years. He has served as vice president of Exploration for Freeport Sulphur Company for the past seven years and, before that, he held the same position with Freeport Gold Company. He was closely associated with the discovery of the Jerritt Canyon and Big Springs gold deposits and the Main Pass sulphur deposit.

At Pegasus, Park will have overall responsibility for the company's expanding precious metals and other exploration efforts, focusing on North America and Australia. He will report to Pegasus President John M. Willson and will be located at the company's executive offices in Spokane.

Pegasus Gold Inc. is a major North American gold producer that currently produces 340,000 ounces of gold annually from six mines in the western United States. IRVINE, CA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Fluor Corp. (NYSE: FLR) today announced net earnings of $28.2 million, or 35 cents per share, for its first quarter ended Jan. 31, 1990, a 31 percent increase compared with net earnings of $21.6 million, or 27 cents per share in the first quarter of 1989. Revenues were $1.9 billion for the quarter, 32 percent ahead of the $1.4 billion last year.

Les G. McCraw, chief executive officer and vice chairman, said: "Growth in net earnings was due to improved profitability by Fluor Daniel, the company's engineering and construction unit. Higher contract margins and realization of performance incentive fees more than compensated for planned increases in personnel training and development as well as other expansion related costs."

Operating profits from natural resource investments were down from a year ago with significantly improved results from Massey Coal being more than offset by lower earnings from Doe Run lead.

New engineering and constructive awards for the quarter advanced 14 percent to $1.8 billion compared with $1.6 billion for the prior year period. Backlog now stands at $8.7 billion or 25 percent above a year ago.

McCraw continued, "The company is well positioned to capitalize on the positive changes taking shape globally and the outlook remains bright."

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Carter Hawley Hale Stores Inc. (NYSE: CHH) today reported sales for the four weeks ended March 3, 1990 were $176.8 million, an increase of 3.1 percent from the $170.8 million recorded in the comparable fiscal period last year. On a comparative store basis, sales were up 2.6 percent in February.

Philip M. Hawley, chairman and chief executive officer, said, "Sales of junior apparel and cosmetics were strong during February. Home furnishings categories continue to reflect weakness in big ticket demand."

Sales for the first seven months of the company's fiscal year ended March 3, 1990 were $1,819.8 million, an increase of 5.7 percent from the $1,721.4 million recorded in the comparable fiscal period last year. On a comparative store basis, sales were up 3.0 percent for the period.

Last year's comparable fiscal periods ended one week earlier due to the 53 week fiscal year in 1990. Sales in all periods reported exclude the Emporium store in downtown Oakland, which has been closed since the earthquake in the Bay Area.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - At a briefing today, Bethlehem Steel Chairman Walter F. Williams reported that the clean air compromise struck this week between Senate and Administration negotiators offers no relief for the steel industry's coke oven plants.

"Accordingly," Williams said, "we strongly oppose the Senate compromise and will continue to work vigorously in the House to have the Administration's original bill (HR 3030) enacted.

"Adoption of risk-based standards for air toxics will force automatic shutdowns of coke ovens and have a devastating effect on steel and related industries," Williams continued, "even though coke oven emissions have not been shown to be a public health risk and their emissions have not been correlated to cancer cases in communities where they are located."

The bill requires installation of best available technology within five years after enactment. After that, however, the steel industry would have only five more years to meet a rigid one-in- 10,000 residual risk standard for the maximum exposed person unless Congress decides to accept different recommendations from a blue ribbon panel.

Williams stated, "Coke is an essential ingredient to integrated steelmaking, and coke will be needed well into the next century. If the Senate compromise becomes law and the default provision contained in it take effect, a large portion of the cokemaking facilities could be forced to shut down within the next 10 years."

Williams said the industry welcomes provisions for a study of risk assessment methods by the National Academy of Sciences and formation of a blue ribbon commission to make recommendations to Congress on how to deal with risk issues.

Williams, along with other industry leaders participating in the briefing, reiterated steel's commitment to clean air for which its has already spent $4 billion on pollution controls. They stressed, however, that even if the industry spends up to an estimated additional $5 billion to install the best available technology under the Senate bill's tough new requirements, domestic steel producers would still be facing the potential of even more devastating additional costs from the imposition of unscientific risk-based shutdown standards.

LONDON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The TI Group today announced a substantial improvement in profitability, earnings per share and operating margins.

Profit before tax for 1989 was up 31 percent at 111.5 million pounds sterling (1988 85.4 million pounds) and earnings per share increased 29 percent to 49.0 pence per share (1988 38.1 pence per share).

Included in the profit before tax is a 6.7 million pounds credit in respect of surpluses in the Group pension schemes which are now accounted for on an accruals basis as required by SSAP24. The profit of 104.8 million pounds, before the pension surplus, is 25 percent up on 1988, after allowing for a pension credit in that year of 1.9 million pounds on the previous accounting basis. Subject to future actuarial valuations the pension credit should be at a level similar to 1989 for a further ten years.

1989 was another year of significant growth for TI with the majority of the profit improvement coming from organic growth as the benefits of restructuring continued to flow through. Operating margins improved from 9.3 percent to 11.4 percent.

The Group had a positive cash flow in the year and ended with a net cash position of 45.3 million pounds compared with net borrowings of 40.7 million pounds at the end of 1988 representing a positive movement of 86.0 million pounds in the year.

The directors have recommended a final dividend of 11.75 pence per share, giving a total of 17.5 pence per share for the year (1988 13.5 pence per share), an increase of 30 percent. A scrip dividend alternative will be proposed at the AGM.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - A marketing report, The Emerging Soviet Information Industry, provides hot business leads to 238 Soviet scientific, technical and information entities.

The first of Ventures in Information's "The Republic of Information" series to be published, it focuses on "The Soviet Precinct." Online Magazine, calls the report "the basic reference tool to Soviet information opportunities."

This 160 page report by Paul G. Zurkowski, president VII Ventures in Information, and founding president of the Information Industry Association, provides deal-making information including the names, addresses, phone numbers, current activities and business interests of the 238 Soviet entities in attendance at the First East-West Online Information Meeting held October 11-13 in Moscow. Zurkowski was a session chairman and spoke on U.S. and COCOM export licensing requirements for doing business in the Soviet Union.

Of 600 registrants for the meeting, 500 were from the Soviet Union, 50 from Eastern European countries and 50 from the West. Three-thousand Soviet attendees stripped bare all exhibitor literature in the first day and a half. They came to see 26 information service exhibits in the conference rooms and hallways of the International Center for Scientific and Technical Information, the meeting's Soviet sponsor. Learned Information, Ltd., of Oxford, England, sponsor of the London Online Conference, was the co-sponsor and is co-publishing this report.

Zurkowski compares the Soviet "information frenzy" to America's frontier land-rush days. Many Soviets came seeking deals to market Soviet information in the West. Zurkowski brings his 20 years as president of the Information Industry Association to bear comparing the fledgling Soviet information infrastructure with America's competitive information marketplace.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - FTT Alphameric has been awarded a contract by Credit Agricole CNCA to supply and install financial trading systems for the bank's trading operations in New York and Chicago.

FTT Alphameric's Open Trading System (OTS) provides digital market data distribution through its control and communication module to Credit Agricole's trading floors in the two cities; the sites are linked by a Local Area Network bridge. The system's application interface supports analytic decision-making on DEC VAX and PC workstations. Its access control capabilities enable the bank to control service access and make optimum use of market data services via management reports.

OTS is a multi-faceted system composed of functional modules that provide fully integrated trading solutions for the front office environment. The Credit Agricole installation will be FTT Alphameric's first system on VAX workstations in the United States.

"This is a strategically important agreement," said Douglas S. Timms, chairman of FTT Alphameric. "It expands our presence in the major financial marketplaces of North America, and creates opportunities to install similar systems in Europe and the Pacific Rim."

FTT Alphameric designs, manufactures and installs integrated voice, data and video communications and information distribution systems for front and back office operations.

With an installed base of more than 3,200 workstations at 36 sites around the globe, FTT Alphameric is a leading provider of modular solutions to the financial trading community. Many of the world's leading banks, brokers, insurance and financial companies use FTT Alphameric trading information systems for communications, market information access, decision support and risk management.

TROY, MI (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - K mart Corporation (NYSE: KM), the world's second-largest retailer, reported 1989 fourth-quarter and full-year sales and earnings, Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer Joseph E. Antonini announced today.

or $3.71 per share, exclusive of a pretax provision of $640.1 million the company established to cover all expenses associated with an expanded and accelerated K mart store opening, enlargement, relocation and refurbishment program and other non-recurring charges. That represented a 7.2 percent decline from the prior year's earnings of $802.9 million, or $4 per share. After the provision, earnings in 1989 were $322.7 million, or $1.61 per share. Sales in 1989 for the 53-week year reached a record $29.53 billion, an increase of 8.2 percent over the $27.30 billion in the 52-week year ended Jan. 25, 1989,

Exclusive of the provision to cover all expenses associated with the store-modernization program and other non-recurring charges, net income for the fourth quarter of 1989 was $395.6 million, or $1.97 per share, compared with $393.2 million, or $1.96 per share in the comparable 1988 period. After the provision, a loss of $20.5 million, or $0.10 per share, was sustained in the fourth quarter of 1989. Sales for the 14-week period ended Jan. 31, 1990, were $9.75 billion, versus $8.42 billion in the 13-week final quarter of the previous year.

Sales for the 1989 year in comparable stores -- those stores open at least one year -- increased 2.0 percent on a 52-week basis. Comparable store sales in the fourth quarter on a 13-week basis were up 3.5 percent.

K mart Corporation serves America with over 4,000 retail outlets in all 50 states in the United States and in Puerto Rico and Canada. LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - For the 35th consecutive quarter, Sizzler Restaurants International Inc. (NASDAQ: SIZZ) has achieved record year-to-year growth in systemwide sales, revenues and earnings, Thomas L. Gregory, president and chief executive officer, announced today.

During the third quarter of fiscal 1990, which ended Feb. 4, 1990, systemwide sales (which consist of sales from both company- operated and franchised restaurants) grew by 7 percent to $265,200,000 from $247,096,000, and revenues rose to $95,366,000, from $88,965,000, a 7 percent gain. Net income increased 8 percent to $4,975,000 from $4,625,000, with earnings per share advancing two cents, or 7 percent to 30 cents.

For the first 40 weeks of the fiscal year, systemwide sales increased 8 percent to $694,144,000 from $643,346,000, and company revenues rose $16,647,000, or 7 percent, to $252,987,000 from $236,340,000. Net income rose 11 percent, or $1,699,000, to $17,003,000 and earnings per share increased 11 cents to $1.02, a 12 percent gain.

Tom Gregory commented that "While market conditions remained challenging during the third quarter, Sizzler restaurant sales remained flat. As part of our ongoing effort to develop and test new menu and service enhancements to further build restaurant sales and customer counts, Sizzler will launch the systemwide roll-out of the new Buffet Court & Grill over the next year. This represents an expansion of Sizzler's popular fruit and salad bar, soup bar and pasta bar. The Buffet Court & Grill offers customers an appetizer bar, deli bar and a dessert bar, thus providing extremely high value.

"In addition, Sizzler has been active in seeking agreements for the development of new Sizzler restaurants in the Pacific Basin. The company recently completed development agreements for Japan and Korea. Through Collins Foods International Inc., agreements in principle to sub-license Sizzler in Singapore, Thailand, Taiwan and Malaysia have been reached.

Over the next five years, it is expected that 100 new Sizzlers will be opened in the Pacific Basin."

As of Feb. 4, 1990, Sizzler Restaurants International Inc. operated 652 restaurants, consisting of 202 company-operated and 450 franchised units.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Collins Foods International Inc. (NYSE: CF) posted a 13 percent increase in net income per common share for the third quarter of its fiscal year on a 2.5 percent improvement in revenue.

For the first 40 weeks of the fiscal year, net income per common share advanced by 10 percent.

For the 16 weeks ended Feb. 4, 1990, net income amounted to $7,719,000, equal to 34 cents per share, compared with $6,848,000, or 30 cents per share, in the prior year.

Third quarter revenues were $164,307,000, compared with $160,312,000 a year ago.

Richard P. Bermingham, president and chief executive officer, said: "We are pleased to report positive results for the quarter, especially in view of present market conditions. The environment for the restaurant industry is challenging, particularly in California, which is very important to our company. Business remains sluggish in most domestic markets. However, our International Division continues to make good progress as both our Sizzler and Kentucky Fried Chicken units in Australia performed extremely well.

"Third quarter results benefited from the impact of our cost control programs. Administrative expense was reduced from the prior year, and we also had net interest income versus net interest expense a year ago."

Net income for the 40 weeks was $23,259,000, equal to $1.03 per share, up from $21,150,000, or 94 cents per share, in fiscal 1989. Revenues for the first 40 weeks increased to $425,465,000 from $416,843,000 one year earlier.

Bermingham continued: "We are constantly developing and testing new menu and service enhancements to further build Sizzler's leadership position in casual dining. As part of this ongoing effort, we are launching the systemwide roll-out of Sizzler's exciting new Buffet Court & Grill over the next year. This innovative offering represents an expansion of Sizzler's highly popular fresh fruit and salad bar, soup bar and pasta bar. In addition to these fresh and appealing tastes, the Buffet Court & Grill offers customers an appetizer bar, deli bar and a dessert bar, thus providing them with extremely high value. We think that the Buffet Court & Grill will further enhance Sizzler's position as the pace setter in its segment of the market.

"Internationally, we continue to believe that the Pacific Basin offers Sizzler excellent opportunities for growth. Accordingly, we have been highly active in seeking agreements for the overseas development of new Sizzler restaurants in conjunction with capable and experienced partners.

"Recently, Collins Foods reached agreements in principle to sub-license Sizzler in Singapore, Thailand, Taiwan and Malaysia. These agreements complement those signed by Sizzler itself for licensees in Japan and Korea. Over the next five years, it is expected that 100 new Sizzlers will be opened in the Pacific Basin."

The board of directors declared the regular quarterly cash dividend of 5 cents per share, payable April 16, 1990 to shareholders of record March 30 1990.

Collins Food International Inc. operates and franchises casual dining and quick-service restaurants.

The company operates 209 Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in the United States; operates or licenses 95 restaurants internationally; and through Sizzler Restaurants International Inc. operates or licenses 652 Steak-Seafood- Salad Sizzler Restaurants.

INDIANAPOLIS (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Hurco Companies, Inc. (NASDAQ: HURC) has consummated the previously announced purchase of substantially all of the assets of Eltee Pulsitron by a wholly owned subsidiary of Hurco Companies, Inc. (Hurco).

Eltee Pulsitron, located in West Caldwell, N.J., has been one of the leading manufacturers of manual electrical discharge machines (EDMs) in the United States. Eltee Pulsitron had achieved approximately a 15 percent U.S. market share in previous years. The Eltee Pulsitron line of precision EDMs complements Hurco's existing EDM models currently imported from Hurco's U.K. subsidiary. The addition of the Eltee Pulsitron line, which serves primarily tool and die shops and moldmakers, strengthens Hurco's commitment to satisfy the needs of the short-run metalworking market.

Hurco Manufacturing Company, a division of Hurco located in Indianapolis, will manufacture, market and service the precision EDMs purchased from Eltee Pulsitron.

Hurco is one of the largest United States-based manufacturers of computer numerical control systems for stand-alone machine tools. The end market for the company's products consists primarily of independent job shops and short-run manufacturing operations within large corporations in industries such as the aerospace, defense, medical equipment, energy, transportation and computer industries. Hurco is based in Indianapolis and has additional manufacturing facilities in Detroit and High Wycombe, England, and has a sales, application engineering and service subsidiary in Munich, West Germany. Products are sold through 120 independent agents and distributors in the United States and 26 other countries. Hurco also has direct sales forces in the United States, the United Kingdom and West Germany.

WILMINGTON, DE (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Du Pont (NYSE: DD) is establishing a laboratory for the analysis of grain composition at the Iowa State University (ISU) Research Park in Ames.

The laboratory is scheduled to begin operation in the fall of this year. It will conduct chemical and physical analyses of grain products. The laboratory also will provide data analysis support for grain quality breeding programs conducted by Du Pont and collaborating seed companies, instrument training for customers, and support for product quality control.

"We are looking forward to the opportunities this relationship with ISU will provide," said Du Pont's research and development director, Dave Weir. "The research park is a particularly appealing site to us because of its proximity to our seed company partners and future customers, its excellent administrative team, and its accessibility to the diverse research communities at ISU. We're excited about the capabilities the facility will provide."

"We are pleased that Du Pont selected ISU as the site for its grain quality laboratory," said ISU's biotechnology coordinator, Walter Fehr. "Du Pont's emphasis is on improving the market potential for corn and soybeans is akin to a goal of the biotechnology program at our university. It also complements the emphasis of the university through the Center for Crop Utilization Research."

"Du Pont's selection of the ISU Research Park is one more example of the kind of positive economic development that is directly attributable to the state's investment in biotechnology at its land-grant university, ISU," said Gordon Eaton, president of ISU.

"Du Pont should be applauded for this innovative effort. ISU will do all it can to assure that the effort succeeds and Du Pont's presence at the research park grows," said Leonard Goldman, director of the ISU Research Park.

Du Pont, the largest U.S. marketer and manufacturer of crop protection products, is committed to improving the quality of the world's grain supply, Weir said. During the past two years, Du Pont has entered into research agreements with Holden's Foundation Seed Co., Asgrow Seed Co., a subsidiary of the Upjohn Co., Pfister Hybrid Corn Co. and the University of Illinois. Du Pont will work with these collaborators to create added-value grain and seed products. The seed companies and the University of Illinois also will have access to the laboratory at ISU.

The laboratory will be managed by Dan Dyer of Du Pont's Agricultural Products Department.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - ABB Environmental Systems, a unit of Asea Brown Boveri Inc. (ABB), located in Birmingham, Ala., today announced it has entered a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) for a $31.5 million project under Round Two of the Clean Coal Technology Program.

The project will be the first commercial demonstration of WSA-SNOx, a proprietary clean burning process, which removes sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides from emissions of coal-fired power plants, without producing water pollution or solid wastes.

The site will be Ohio Edison's Niles Generating Station project. Funding is being provided jointly by ABB in conjunction with Snamprogetti S.p.A. of Italy, the Ohio Coal Development Office, and Ohio Edison, in addition to the DOE. The co-sponsors will evaluate the technical and economic feasibility of the process for coal-fired utility applications in the United States.

The DOE's Clean Coal Technology Program is a $6 billion joint industry/government initiative aimed at demonstrating new technologies that may play a part in reducing the emission of acid rain precursors.

ABB Environmental Systems is a leader in the development and implementation of flue gas cleaning systems for coal-fired plants. It will be the exclusive licensee of the new proprietary technology in the United States and Canada. Haldor Topsoe A/S of Denmark, an affiliate of Snamprogetti's, developed the technology initially.

Asea Brown Boveri has sales of approximately $7 billion and some 40,000 employees in the United States. ABB Asea Brown Boveri Ltd. is the world's leading electrical engineering company, with total annual sales of about $23 billion and 215,000 employees in 140 countries.

DETROIT (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - U.S. manufacturers will assemble an estimated 216,874 cars and trucks this week, a rate still well below last year's pace, Ward's Automotive Reports announced today.

Ward's said vehicle makers assembled 240,124 cars and trucks in same-week 1989.

With car output for this week estimated at 134,086 units, along with a truck assembly schedule of 82,788, Ward's reported that total estimated U.S. car/truck output for calendar 1990 through the end of this week will stand at 1,690,519, down 29.3 percent from year-ago's build of 2,390,345.

General Motors Corp.'s Wentzville, Mo., car plant remains down this week for model-year changeover to '91 Buick Park Avenue output.

Meanwhile, GM scheduled overtime for this Saturday at its truck plant in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Ford Motor Co. slated Saturday work for its car plant in Wixom, Mich., and light truck plant in Louisville, Ky. Honda of America Mfg. Inc. also scheduled overtime for this Saturday at its Marysville, Ohio, facility.

Of this week's estimated U.S. car output, GM accounts for 43.1 percent; Ford, 25.5 percent; Chrysler Corp., 11.5 percent; Honda, 6.7 percent; Mazda Motor Mfg. (USA) Corp., 2.4 percent; Nissan of America Mfg. Corp., 1.8 percent; New United Motor Mfg. Inc., 3.1 percent; Toyota Motor Mfg. USA Inc., 3.3 percent; Diamond-Star Motors Corp., 2.2 percent, and Subaru-Isuzu Automotive Inc., 0.4 percent.

JACKSON, MS (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Mobile Telecommunication Technologies Corp., or Mtel (NASDAQ; MTTL), announced today its revenues increased by approximately 67 percent in 1989.

For the 12 month period ended Dec. 31, 1989, revenues totalled $35,132,261 compared to $20,990,016 for the same period in 1988.

Revenues for the fourth quarter 1989 are $10,435,505 versus $6,598,647 for the fourth quarter 1988, a 58 percent increase.

Net losses for 1989 are $16,492,733 or 65 cents per share compared with $11,559,635 or 47 cents a share in 1988.

For the fourth quarter 1989, net losses were $6,775,560 or 25 cents per share versus $4,777,657 or 19 cents per share for the fourth quarter 1988.

"We are pleased with our revenue growth in our first year of operation as Mtel," sail John N. Palmer, chairman and CEO. "Net losses are in line with our expectations and reflect instensive investment in the marketing and network development of our SkyTel system."

As of Dec. 31, 1989, SkyTel had 51,400 subscribers to its nationwide paging and voice messaging system -- 44,200 for SkyPager(TM) and 7,200 for SkyTalk(TM).

Palmer also commented on the previously announced December, 1989 purchase of MobileComm Europe, now the company's U.K. paging subsidiary.

"The acquisition of MobileComm Europe was a strategic move by Mtel that has given us both a presence in the U.K. and a hub for future operations on the European continent," said Palmer. "This step also resulted in Mtel's recently announced participation in ERMES."

ERMES, or European Radio Messaging System, is a pan-European paging system that is expected to be operational in the early 1990s.

Mtel, headquartered in Jackson, Miss., is engaged in businesses that include nationwide paging and voice messaging systems; interests in other satellite-based telecommunications systems; air-to-ground and marine telecommunications systems: telephone answering service operations; and a microwave relay system in southern California.

NORCROSS, GA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Murex Corporation, a subsidiary of Murex Clinical Technologies Corporation, today announced that pre-clinical and clinical trials on the company's 10-minute HIV-1 antibody screening test have been successfully completed.

Murex also announced that the company has filed license applications with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) for the test and for its production facility in Norcross.

Murex has sought approval from the FDA for the exportation from the company's Atlanta facility of the Murex SUDS (Single Use Diagnostic System) HIV-1 antibody test to certain countries specified by the applicable FDA statutes.

Dominion Biologicals Limited, the recently acquired Canadian subsidiary of Murex Clinical Technologies, will now manufacture and distribute the HIV-1 antibody test to selected markets outside those specified by the FDA. Dominion Biologicals anticipates a June 1990 availability for the test and the company is currently evaluating and selecting international distributors.

Murex's new AIDS test detects, with high sensitivity, the presence of antibodies generated by the body in response to infection by the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV-1), the causative agent of AIDS.

Employing Murex's patented SUDS format, the new HIV-1 antibody test provides speed and ease of use combined with excellent accuracy, reliability and sensitivity.

The Murex SUDS HIV-1 antibody test is a manually performed, visually read, colorimetric assay which does not require extensive training or specialized instrumentation. The test is completed in ten minutes with the presence of HIV-1 antibodies indicated by the appearance of a distinct blue spot.

Used in a wide-range of applications, Murex's SUDS device is a patented, disposable, hand-held unit in which a patient's sample and reagents are mixed. SUDS tests for detecting antibodies to such antigens as Rubella virus and Toxoplasmosis gondii (a parasite), two major causes of birth defects, are currently used in a number of leading hospitals and medical centers in the United States and abroad. Murex is also developing tests for other infectious diseases.

Murex Clinical Technologies also announced it is proceeding with the granting of further incentive stock options in respect of 1,087,000 shares to directors, management and key employees at an exercise price of $1.00 per share and reducing the exercise price to $1.00 per share of 2,413,000 options granted in December of 1988 with an original exercise price of $1.69 per share. Following completion of the foregoing, the company will have 3,500,000 stock options outstanding, all exercisable at $1.00 per share.

Murex Clinical Technologies is the parent company of Murex Corporation headquartered in Norcross, Ga. and Dominion Biologicals Limited of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia. Murex Corporation is a rapidly emerging, international immunodiagnostics systems company focused on the development manufacture and marketing of novel, rapid in vitro testing systems and products to diagnose and monitor human diseases, including AIDS.

Dominion Biologicals Limited is Canada's leading developer and producer of diagnostic products utilized in blood transfusion practices.

Dominion's advanced biotechnology manufacturing and research facility is dedicated to the development and production of innovative immunodiagnostic reagents and test systems.

AUSTIN, TX (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Sematech and Drytek, a unit of General Signal in Wilimington, Mass., today announced they have signed a joint development contract for low temperature plasma etching. The findings will be used in developing new etching techniques for future plasma etching tools.

The contract reflects Sematech's commitment to the advancement of plasma etching tecnology, which is viewed by industry experts as the most viable method of achieving future semiconductor manufacturing requirements.

Plasma etching creates or "etches" submicron patterns on silicon wafers, the foundation of the semiconductor industry. The technique quickly and efficiently produces a pattern on wafers with high uniformity and a smooth cut. The result is greater production in a shorter amount of time with fewer errors.

Sematech will partner with Drytek in the design, construction, testing, characterization and delivery of a system capable of broad temperature range etch processing.

The resulting technology is expected to enhance etch application performance by providing higher microchip yields. Further, the process will reduce the number of chemicals currently required in plasma etching, resulting in a simpler and less toxic manufacturing process.

"Semiconductor manufacturing is critical to the economic future of this country and our ability to compete globally. Plasma etching is the most promising method of producing semiconductors and I'm pleased that Massachusetts can play such a major role in its development," said Rep. Edward J. Markey (D-Mass.).

Drytek will utilize the quad system multi-chamber architecture to develop the low temperature plasma etching system. During the characterization phase of the project, Drytek will apply the technique to a variety of dry etch applications.

"The two major objectives we hope to achieve through this project are higher yields in semiconductor manufacturing and the simplification of chemistries used in the process," said Thomas Seidel, Sematech's vice president and director of manufacturing equipment and materials. "If we meet our objective, I think it will signify a major advancement in our race for global leadership."

Sematech's joint development program was initiated in an effort to surpass current foreign technology in semiconductor manufacturing. To accomplish this objective, Sematech initiates contracts with U.S. suppliers to develop new equipment, materials and processes that support the manufacturing requirements for future generations of technology.

LONG GROVE, IL (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Chairman of the Board Joseph E. Luecke's plan for realigning the Kemper organizations neared completion today with board action that will more clearly separate Kemper Corp. (NYSE: KEM) and the Kemper National Insurance Companies. At Luecke's recommendation, the Kemper boards approved this new management structure effective in May:

Kemper Corp. --Luecke, 63, will remain as chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

--David B. Mathis, 51, who had been executive vice president in charge of insurance operations for Kemper Corp., was elected president and chief operating officer of Kemper Corp. He will also be recommended for membership on the executive committee of the board. He reports to Luecke.

--Thomas R. Anderson, 52, executive vice president in charge of investment services for Kemper Corp., will also be recommended for membership on the executive committee of the board. Anderson is also chairman and chief executive officer of Kemper Financial Companies, Inc., a Kemper Corp. subsidiary. He will report to Mathis.

--John H. Fitzpatrick, 33, vice president of Kemper Corporation, was named chief financial officer, elected a senior vice president and nominated as a director of Kemper Corp. He reports to Luecke.

--Alan J. Baltz, 52, who had been controller of the Kemper National Insurance Companies, was elected a senior vice president of Kemper Corp. and designated to handle key staff services for the holding company. He will report to Luecke in his new post.

--Kathleen A. Gallichio, 35, who had been an assistant general counsel for the Kemper National Insurance Companies, was named corporate counsel and corporate secretary for Kemper Corp. She will report to Luecke.

Kemper National Insurance Companies --Luecke will continue as chairman of the boards. --Gerald L. Maatman, 59, president of Kemper National Insurance Companies, was also named chief executive officer, reporting to Luecke. He continues as a member of the executive committee of the boards.

--Walter L. White, 49, senior vice president of Kemper National Insurance Companies, was named chief financial officer and also nominated to be a director of the Kemper National Insurance Companies. He will also be recommended for membership on the executive committee of the boards. He will report to Maatman.

--Lee B. McClain, 47, will continue to serve as general counsel of the Kemper National Insurance Companies, but will no longer handle legal functions for Kemper Corporation. He will report to Maatman.

''This new arrangement will give both Kemper Corp. and the Kemper National Insurance Companies their own top-flight management teams,'' Luecke said. ''The new management structures will be effective on the dates of the annual meetings of the Kemper National Insurance Companies and Kemper Corp. set for May 15 and 16, respectively, and will nearly complete the realignment process we began more than a year ago,'' he said.

It was in January 1989 that the planned sale of American Motorists Insurance Co. by Kemper Corp. to Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Co., largest of the Kemper National Insurance Companies, was announced. The sale, effective April 1, 1989, involved exchanging 9.6 million shares of Kemper Corp. common stock owned by Lumbermens and valued at $296.6 million for American Motorists. The move enabled the Kemper National Insurance Companies to pursue long-term growth strategies in the sometimes volatile commercial insurance market under mutual management. It also permitted Kemper Corp. to concentrate on business sectors that have traditionally been afforded a higher price to earnings ratio by financial markets.

Luecke is slated to retire in February 1992. At the time of the transaction, he declared his intention to create separate management teams and distinct boards for the two entities.

Nominations made at the board meetings of Kemper Corp. and the Kemper National Insurance Companies would give the companies boards of differing composition. The board changes require approvals at the annual meetings of the respective companies.

Designated to compose the Kemper Corp. board after the company's annual May 16 meeting were:

Joseph E. Luecke, 63, chairman of the board and chief executive officer; Thomas R. Anderson, 52, executive vice president, Kemper Corp.; J. Reed Coleman, 56, chairman, president, chief executive officer, Madison-Kipp Corp.;

Raymond F. Farley, 65, retired president and chief executive officer, S.C. Johnson & Son., Inc.;

John H. Fitzpatrick, 33, senior vice president, chief financial officer, Kemper Corp.;

George D. Kennedy, 63, chairman, chief executive officer, International Minerals & Chemical Corp.;

David B. Mathis, 51, president and chief operating officer, Kemper Corp.;

Richard D. Nordman, 43, president, chief operating officer, Lawter International, Inc.;

Kenneth A. Randall, 62, corporate director; John C. Stetson, 69, J.C. Stetson, Inc.; Daniel R. Toll, 62, corporate director and advisor. Designated for the boards of the Kemper National Insurance Companies after their annual meetings were:

Joseph E. Luecke, 63, chairman of the board; J. Reed Coleman, 56, chairman president, chief executive officer, Madison-Kipp Corp.;

George D. Kennedy, 63, chairman, chief executive officer, International Minerals & Chemical Corp.;

Dalton L. Knauss, 61, former chairman, Square D Co.; Gerald L. Maatman, 59 president and chief executive officer, Kemper National Insurance Companies;

Shirley N. Pettis, 65, businesswoman, former member of U.S. Congress; Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, (Ret.), 68, former NATO commander; Richard N. Rosett, 62, professor of economics, Washington University; John C. Stetson, 69, J.C. Stetson, Inc.; Daniel R. Toll, 62, corporate director and advisor; Walter L. White, 49, senior vice president, chief financial officer, Kemper National Insurance Companies.

Under the new setup at Kemper Corp., line operations that formerly reported to Luecke will report to Mathis. When the changes are effective, the chief executive officers of Kemper Financial Companies, Inc., Federal Kemper Life Assurance Company, Kemper Reinsurance Company, Economy Fire & Casualty Company, Federal Kemper Insurance Company, and National Loss Control Service Corporation will report to Mathis. Holding company staff services such as financial functions will continue to report to Luecke.

At Kemper National Insurance Companies, staff functions formerly reporting to Luecke will report to Maatman, who already had line and some staff functions reporting to him.

The Kemper National Insurance Companies consists of Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company, American Motorists Insurance Company and American Manufacturers Mutual Insurance Company. The three companies, operated by the same management, had combined sales of $2.7 billion in 1989.

Kemper Corp. has operations in life insurance, investment services, reinsurance, and regional property casualty insurance. Its 1989 revenue was $2.8 billion, and its assets at year-end 1989 were $12.7 billion.

TORONTO (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Campeau Corporation today announced that it has elected not to make interest payments owing to one of its major lenders and to a lender to Federated Stores, Inc., its principal U.S. subsidiary as a result of a failure to reach agreement with The Edward J. DeBartolo Corporation upon a period of time for any further deferral on the payment under its loan.

The two lenders are Olympia & York Developments Limited, through two of its subsidiaries, and The Edward J. DeBartolo Corporation. The failure to pay the interest constitutes an event of default under the loans.

Campeau Corporation stated that it expects to continue discussions with Olympia & York and DeBartolo regarding the development of a long- term business plan for the operations of the corporation.

As previously announced on Jan. 15, 1990, Olympia & York (through two subsidiaries) and DeBartolo have agreed that they will not exercise remedies against certain collateral without first giving nine days notice to Campeau Corporation. The agreement with DeBartolo expires on May 10, 1990 unless terminated prior to that date.

THE WOODLANDS, TX (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Mitchell Energy & Development Corp. (AMEX: MND) today reported that its consolidated capital budget for the current fiscal year has been set at $208 million, compared with $195 million of expenditures last year, and that its drilling partnership, MEC Development, Ltd., has budgeted $48 million, up from prior-year spending of $33 million.

Chairman and President George P. Mitchell said the planned spending increase for the year, which ends Jan. 31, 1991, is in recognition of continued improvement in the outlook for the company's energy and real estate operations. He noted that the company's spending was accelerated in the latter half of the prior year.

The current-year budget provides for a substantial increase in oil and gas exploration and development, both by MEC Development, Ltd., which is not included in Mitchell's consolidated budget, and by the company's exploration and production division, which has been allocated $94 million, compared with $80 million of expenditures last year.

Transmission and processing division capital spending is budgeted at $17 million, compared with last year's expenditures of $29 million, which included a pipeline acquisition. Excluding the aquisition, the division is planning a higher level of outlays this year for relocating processing facilities, connecting wells to pipelines and other comparable activities.

Real estate division additions in the current year, including capitalized interest but net of reimbursements from utility districts, are projected at $91 million, up from $82 million last year. The increase provides for a number of new commercial projects and for a continued high level of residential lot development in The Woodlands, the 25,000-acre, master-planned community being developed by the company 27 miles north of downtown Houston.

Corporate and venture capital spending for the current year is budgeted at $6 million, compared with prior-year expenditures of $4 million.

Mitchell Energy & Development is a large independent producer of natural gas, gas liquids and oil. The company also is a major real estate developer in the Houston-Galveston region.

PANAMA CITY, PANAMA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - AT&T (NYSE: T) today announced the expansion of USADirect Service in Panama, making it easier for Americans in Panama to phone back to the states.

With AT&T's USADirect Service, a caller dials 109 from any phone in most parts of Panama and is connected directly to an AT&T operator in the United States. AT&T and Panama's Instituto Nacional de Telecommunicaciones are providing the service.

Calls charged to the AT&T Card will be billed at $5.92 for the first three minutes and $1.45 for each additional minute. Calls may also be made collect for $8.87 for the first three minutes and $1.45 for each additional minute.

AT&T now offers USADirect Service in 65 countries. Introduced in 1985, the service has been growing rapidly. In the last month alone, AT&T has expanded the service to Czechoslovakia, India, Peru, Ghana and Indonesia.

Also this month, people overseas can reach "800" numbers in the United States through USADirect Service. Previously, people calling from abroad were blocked from completing calls to U.S. 800 numbers. Now overseas callers will pay regular USADirect Service rates to be connected by the operator to 800 numbers.

In the past, Americans living abroad have been unable to order merchandise from certain catalogs because 800 numbers cannot be dialed from overseas. Now people overseas can dial USADirect Service and ask the operator to connect them to the 800 number.

For merchants interested in expanding into overseas markets, AT&T also offers International 800 Services from 42 countries. With AT&T International 800 Service, calls to U.S. merchants are toll-free to the caller.

Travelers, expatriates and military personnel have found USADirect Service a convenient and economical way to keep in touch with their friends and business associates in the United States. USADirect Service is economical because calls are billed at AT&T operator-assisted rates and callers generally avoid hotel surcharges. It is convenient because the use of American operators avoids language difficulties and because charges appear on the caller's regular U.S. phone bill.

Numbers to reach USADirect vary by country. In some countries, the service is only available from specially designated telephones. For further information about USADirect, call 1-800-874-4000.

MARIETTA, GA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Healthdyne Inc. (NASDAQ: HDYN) today announced that it had net income of $7.1 million, or $.43 per share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared to a loss of $5.5 million, or $.38 per share, in 1988.

Revenues increased 45 percent in 1989 to $103 million from $71 million in 1988.

In the fourth quarter of 1989, the company had net income of $5. 3 million or $.32 per share (including $.11 per share relating to an extraordinary item), on revenues of $29.5 million. This compares favorably to a loss of $2.6 million, or $.18 per share, in the fourth quarter of 1988 on revenues of $20.9 million.

All of the company's operating divisions improved substantially in 1989 with operating profit increasing to $6.8 million from a loss of $757,000 in 1988. The most dramatic improvement occurred at Healthdyne Technologies, the company's high technology home health care manufacturing operation, where revenues increased 57 percent to $23.4 million and operating profit increased 240 percent to $2.6 million. HNS, the company's majority owned home infusion therapy subsidiary, also experienced dramatic growth in revenues and profits with revenues increasing 37 percent to $64.5 million and operating profits increasing 46 percent to $12.2 million. Although the company's newest operation, Healthdyne Perinatal Services, which provides home obstetrical care to women at risk for premature delivery, continued to be affected by the lack of FDA approval for the basic uterine contraction monitoring device utilized in its service, its revenues increased over 100 percent from $7 million in 1988 to $15 million in 1989 and its operating loss was reduced from $6 million in 1988 to $3.2 million in 1989.

Two separate transactions in the fourth quarter had a significant impact on the 1989 financial results. First, the initial public offering of a portion of the common shares of HNS resulted in a gain to Healthdyne of $45.5 million. Second, the determination by Healthdyne to divest itself of its health care services group, comprised primarily of durable medical equipment or "DME" dealerships, resulted in a loss of $35 million. The sale of the DME units was completed in February 1990, and the company's 1988 and 1989 earnings statements have been restated to reflect the health care services group as a "discontinued operation".

Healthdyne also announced that its board of directors had approved an increase from $2 million to $4 million in the maximum permitted expenditures under the previously announced open market stock repurchase program of the company.

Parker H. Petit, chairman and chief executive officer of Healthdyne, stated: "I am extremely pleased with our performance in 1989. We have recognized for our shareholders the inherent value of HNS, our home infusion therapy operation, while at the same time divesting ourselves of our DME operations, which have sustained losses since 1984 due to industry related problems. Our three remaining operations, HNS, Healthdyne Technologies and Healthdyne Perinatal Services, all operate in good market areas with considerable future potential. We look forward to continued progress in the years ahead."

Healthdyne is a national provider of high technology home care medical services, including infusion therapy through its partially owned subsidiary HNS and home obstetrical care through its Perinatal Services division, and a manufacturer of high tech home care products through its Healthdyne Technologies division.

ATLANTA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - IRT Property Co. (NYSE: IRT), the Southeastern shopping center REIT, today announced net earnings, revenues and funds from operations for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Funds from operations -- the most accurate measure of performance for a real estate investment company -- were $12,852,327, or $1.06 per share, for the current year, compared to $12,871,378, or $1.07 per share, for the previous year. Funds from operations for 1988 included $580,529 ($.05 per share) of additional interest received on the repayment of mortgage loans. Excluding this additional income received in 1988, funds from operations increased $.04 per share, or 4 percent, during 1989.

Net earnings for the year were $8,911,206, compared to $15,117,333 for the previous year. Property sales in 1988 resulting in a $7.2 million gain and the additional interest of $580,529 were primarily responsible for the higher net earnings last year. Earnings per share were $.73 in 1989, compared to $1.26 in 1988. Gross revenues increased to $30,211,008, compared to $30,082,236 for 1988.

Funds from operations for the fourth quarter of 1989 increased to $3,280,751, or $.27 per share, compared to $3,110,599, or $.26 per share, for the previous year's fourth quarter. Fourth quarter net earnings increased to $2,422,679, or $.20 per share, for 1989 from $1,968,372, or $.16 per share, for 1988. Revenues increased to $7,557,620 in 1989's fourth quarter from $7,502,918 for the comparable period in 1988.

"We are confident that current leasing activity and property development, modernization and expansion programs will result in continuing cash flow growth," stated Donald W. MacLeod, chairman and president.

IRT invests primarily in shopping centers in the Southeastern United States. The company owns in excess of 5 million square feet of retail space in its portfolio of 88 investments.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE -- Damon Corporation, a unit of American Magnetics Corporation (NASDAQ: AMMG), announced today that it has signed a definitive agreement with Life Sciences International Plc, a U.K.-based company with interests in the United States, to sell Damon's subsidiary, International Equipment Company, for a total cash consideration of $12 million, subject to adjustment based upon changes in the net book values of IEC since Nov. 30, 1989. In addition, on the closing date, Damon will be repaid its intercompany balance at IEC through cash and notes.

The cash proceeds from the sale and the repayment of intercompany balances after expenses, are to be applied to reduce Damon's bridge loan due May 31, 1990.

The sale, which is expected to close no later than March 30, 1990, is conditioned on approval by Life Science's ordinary shareholders at a meeting scheduled to be held on March 26, 1990, receipt of certain consents and the accuracy of representations and warranties, including the receipt of an environmental audit reasonably satisfactory to Life Sciences. The sale is not subject to financing.

"We are very pleased to have achieved the sale of IEC to a company which is committed to this business on a worldwide basis. We believe that Life Sciences and IEC are a very good fit, and that as part of Life Sciences, IEC will have greater access to important international markets," said Robert L. Rosen, chairman of Damon Corporation.

IEC is a leading manufacturer of low speed centrifuges and accessories, and also produces a range of microtomes and cell washers. These instruments are among the most widely used scientific equipment in healthcare and scientific research. IEC's instruments are distributed in the U.S. and throughout the world, covering over 90 countries.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Philadelphia Managing Director James S. White, who announced last week that he would leave his cabinet post at the end of this month, will join Provident National Bank on April 30, as vice president and director of real estate management for bank-owned or leased property.

As managing director for nearly five years, White supervised operations in the city's 10 service departments: Fire, Police, Streets, Recreation, Human Services, Water, Public Property, Licenses and Inspections, Public Health and Records.

At Provident, White will be responsible for coordinating and managing all activities relating to the acquisition, administration and disposal of bank-leased or owned real estate.

"Jim White is a man of supreme dedication, integrity and competence," Provident Chairman Robert E. Chappell said. "We are fortunate that he has chosen to launch his next career with us. With his extensive real estate and management experience, he will be a terrific asset to this company."

Prior to his appointment as managing director in 1985, White held two other city government positions, as commissioner of the Department of Licenses and Inspections from January 1984 to June 1985, and as a senior manager in the Office of Housing and Community Development from 1979 to 1983.

Before entering municipal service, White spent 23 years in the U.S. Army, retiring as a colonel. He earned several awards for his military service, including the Bronze Star Medal with "V" (four awards), the Eight Annual Frank Pace Award and the Legion of Merit (three awards). He served in a number of locations, including West Germany, Korea, Vietnam, Africa and Greece, as well as in the Pentagon and other installations in the United States.

White is active in community affairs. He is a member of the board of directors of the Philadelphia Urban Coalition, the Police Athletic League and the Presbyterian Medical Center. He also serves on the executive committee of United Way of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

Provident National Bank is headquartered in Philadelphia and is the third-largest commercial bank in Philadelphia. At the end of 1989, total assets were $9.1 billion, deposits were $6.3 billion and assets under trust management were $31 billion. Provident has 63 branches throughout the Delaware Valley. It is the lead company in the Provident Group of Companies, which is and affiliate of Pittsburgh-based PNC Financial Corp. (NYSE: PNC).

DETROIT (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The Greater Detroit BIDCO, Inc. ("the BIDCO"), a new Business and Industrial Development Corporation, has become the first minority-owned and -operated BIDCO in the nation to begin operations. A few non-minority-owned BIDCOs exist in Michigan, but the Greater Detroit BIDCO is currently the only BIDCO to be headquartered in the city of Detroit. Capitalized initially at $6.6 million, it seeks an additional $3.4 million to complete its targeted funding base.

The BIDCO will invest in Detroit-area-based companies which meet its investment criteria and especially in those companies which create or retain jobs. Primarily, it will fund minority-owned companies engaged in manufacturing, retailing, commercial centers, construction, communications franchises, health care and various service industries. Although it will invest in a few start-ups, most of its investments will be in existing and expanding enterprises and leveraged buyouts. The BIDCO is structured to assume higher risk than is normally taken by commercial banks, but seeks to avoid the risks taken by seed and venture capital funds.

The BIDCO will complement the functions of various private and public programs for minorities and women, including elements of the Detroit Strategic Plan and New Detroit's Business Partnership Plan. It expects to have a significant impact on jobs and the tax base in both the city and Greater Detroit area.

Dr. Karl D. Gregory, the BIDCO's chairman, conducted a national search for top management. It culminated with the selection of Ms. Catherine Lockhart and Locksley Smith.

Lockhart is president and chief executive officer. She was formerly the deputy director of the Maryland Small Business Development Financing Authority, where she was employed for seven years supervising several lending and investing programs. There, she promoted the development of franchises through an Equity Participation Investment Program; helped contractors to obtain bid, payment and performance bonding under a Surety Bond Guaranty Program; financed firms with contract awards which were unable to obtain bank financing; and directed other small business development programs.

Smith, a C.P.A., is vice president and chief investment officer. He has managed his own consulting firm and, for seven years, was a manager of Acquisitions and Investments for the Equico Capital Corporation, a Minority Small Business Investment Corporation in New York City. There, he participated in a series of investments in minority-owned and -operated companies involving manufacturing, services and other industries.

The BIDCO's capitalization includes $3.0 million from the Michigan Strategic Fund, under its minority BIDCO program; matched, thus far, by $1.5 million each from the Ford Foundation and the Metropolitan Life Foundation, both of New York City. Further, private investors paid substantial organizational expenses and invested an added $500,000 in unencumbered equity. Additional funding is sought and anticipated.

The private investors include three corporations and several individuals, many of whom are very prominent in the Detroit business community.

All directors and equity holders are minorities or minority-owned and -controlled entities.

The minority BIDCO's progress will be tracked nationally. The BIDCO anticipates that in its first decade of operations, it will invest well over $15.0 million, assist dozens of firms and help create or retain several hundred jobs.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The Bank of New York (NYSE: BK) today announced that Joseph M. Velli, senior vice president, would be given the additional responsibilities of directing the bank's corporate trust and stock transfer divisions. Since 1984, Velli has been responsible for the bank's American depositary receipt (ADR) division. The Bank of New York handles more than 40 percent of all existing sponsored ADR programs and won almost 60 percent of the new sponsored ADR issues brought to market in 1989.

J. Carter Bacot, chairman and CEO of The Bank of New York, said, "We are the largest overall provider of securities processing services to the private and public sectors. We now have one group serving securities issuers and another serving investors. As a result, we are better able to offer a full range of integrated products to our customers. Today's announcement is the first step in our plan to offer one-stop shopping for securities processing."

In addition to ADRs, corporate trust and stock transfer, The Bank of New York's other securities processing services include: government securities clearance, master trust and custody, institutional custody, unit investment trust and securities lending.

Strong U.S. investor demand for ADRs in 1989 produced an all-time high in ADR trading volume and generated a record number of ADR offerings. The growth in the ADR market was also driven by the significant increase in the number of new ADR programs established and conversions from unsponsored to sponsored ADR programs. Several unique developments took place in 1989, including the first unit investment trust (UIT) with an exclusive ADR portfolio and the announcement of three major ADR stock tender acquisitions.

ADR trading volume on the U.S. exchanges surpassed 1987's record year, as 3.2 billion ADRs valued at more than $60 billion traded in 1989. The Bank of New York said it estimated that a total of 8 billion ADRs traded through the U.S. exchanges and the "pink sheets" over-the- counter market. Overall, the most actively traded ADRs were for West German, Hong Kong, Australian and British ADR companies.

While total new issues in the U.S. equity markets dropped sharply in 1989, a record number 20 ADR public offerings valued at more than $2.6 billion took place. Within the ADR public offering market, the preferred share became an effective tool for six ADR companies to tap a lower cost source of funding and to take advantage of the most liquid preference share market in the world. The success of the ADR capital raising market and secondary trading market was strongly supported by the increasing use of ADRs by institutional investors.

The Bank of New York said it views 1990 as another strong year for the establishment of new sponsored ADR programs, particularly in the emerging ADR markets of Latin America, Asia and Central Europe. It said it also believes that investor demand for ADRs will continue and that the ADR capital raising market will surpass 1989's level.

KIRKLAND, WA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - McCaw Cellular Communications, Inc. (NASDAQ: MCAWA) today announced that a consortium in which it is participating, Movitel de C.V., has been granted a 20- year franchise to provide cellular telephone service in northwestern Mexico. The award was made this week by the Ministry of Communications and Transportation of the Government of Mexico. Unlike the U.S., only one cellular license has been established for this region.

The consortium, in which McCaw Cellular has a 19 percent interest, has been granted a license to build a cellular telephone network in the states of Sinaloa and Sonora. The states have an estimated population of more than 4.2 million, much of which is located in the cities of Hermosillio, Mazatlan, and Nogales.

Combined, the pair of states contain more than 900 miles of the Pan American Highway, principally along the coastline of the Gulf of California and Pacific Ocean. The northernmost, Sinaloa, borders California and Arizona; Sonora is known, in part, for the tourism businesses developed there during the past decade.

Other parties in the consortium are Tubos de Acero de Mexico, S.A. de C.V. (TAMSA), Industrias Bachoco, S.A. de C.V., Contel Cellular, and DBL Americas Development Association.

DETROIT (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Nissan today began a pilot program of exporting U.S.-made vehicles to Taiwan.

The company's first shipment, which began loading this morning at the docks of Los Angeles Harbor, consists of 330 1990 Sentra XE four-door sedans and Hardbody 4X4 trucks that were built by Nissan Motor Manufacturing Corporation U.S.A. (NMMC) in Smyrna, Tenn. Nissan has previously exported American-made Hardbody King Cab trucks for sale in Japan.

"This action is another example of our growing commitment to U.S.-based production and marketing," explained Thomas D. Mignanelli, executive vice president, operations, of Nissan Motor Corporation in U.S.A., Nissan's marketing and distribution subsidiary.

"From the beginning, our goal has been to build the highest quality vehicles sold in North America," said Jerry Benefield, president and chief executive officer of NMMC. "We're simply expanding that production to include other markets, and I'm confident that our cars and trucks will be received positively in Taiwan," he continued.

A novel trade agreement between Nissan Trading Corp. U.S.A. and the Taiwan-based Nissan-affiliated company Yue Loong Motor Co. will enable Nissan, for the first time, to sell automobiles in Taiwan under its own brand name.

Taiwan, which restricts the import of finished vehicles from Japan, has no such restiction on products from Europe or the United States.

WHITE PLAINS, NY (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - France Telecom has recently awarded the French software engineering firm CAP SESA Telecom, in association with NYNEX International Company, a contract for the development of a control system for the national telephone network. The award follows an international request for proposal issued in April 1989. CAP SESA Telecom is a subsidiary of CAP SESA, the French operational holding company of the software engineering firm CAP Gemini Sogeti.

The system, which will subsequently be deployed in large urban telephone networks, will allow France Telecom to monitor the flow of telephone traffic by means of sophisticated graphic interfaces such as a display wall and graphics workstations. The system will also permit the rerouting of traffic, reducing the network's response time to unusual events such as technical failures or extraordinary surges in traffic volume.

The collaboration will bring together the software development capabilities of CAP SESA Telecom and two decades of public network management experience at NYNEX. The project represents the first time CAP SESA Telecom and NYNEX have worked together. Both firms have worked individually for France Telecom in the past. Terms of the collaboration were not disclosed.

Jean-Paul Vautrey, deputy general manager of CAP SESA Telecom, said: "We are confident that the practical experience of NYNEX in this field will enhance the leading edge system we have proposed to France Telecom." Janet Martin, a director at NYNEX International Company, noted that collaboration is the watchword in the complex systems environment. "We are very pleased that this contract gives us the chance to become better acquainted with France's leading software engineering group."

CAP SESA Telecom, a systems integrator, has provided advanced telecommunications systems such as major packet switching networks (e.g. Transpac), electronic directory services (e.g. Minitel videotex), and telecommunication credit card services to France Telecom and other telecommunications services providers.

NYNEX Corporation is the parent of New York Telephone and New England Telephone Companies, which provide telephone service to the Northeastern United States. The NYNEX network serves some of the most demanding telecommunications users in the world in the major metropolitan areas of New York and Boston, and handles 170 million calls each business day. NYNEX International Company, with offices in Geneva, London, Frankfurt, Hong Kong and New York, represents the NYNEX family of companies outside the United States.

GERMANTOWN, MD (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Rymac Mortgage Investment Corporation (AMEX: RM) has declared a 40 cent per share dividend for the first quarter of 1990 to be paid on April 16, 1990 to shareholders of record on March 30, 1990.

Representatives of management said that they are pleased with the continued outstanding performance of the portfolio. Management projections for the foreseeable future indicate that earnings from the portfolio are likely to allow the continuation of dividends in this range.

This is the sixth consecutive 40 cent quarterly dividend Rymac has declared since its formation over one year ago. Management's strategy of a self-hedged portfolio of mortgage derivatives has proven itself to be effective over a wide range of interest rate movements. This strategy was implemented by the company at the time of its initial public offering.

RICHMOND, VA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Chesapeake Corporation (NYSE: CSK), announced today that it plans to exercise its option to purchase 1,200 acres of land from Auburn University. The property in Colbert County, Ala., near Florence, has been used as an agricultural research farm by Auburn University.

Chesapeake conducted a regional search which identified two or three possible industrial sites prior to securing the option on the Alabama land. The decision to exercise the option on the Auburn property comes after a year of intensive evaluation of the Colbert County land. A multi-discipline Chesapeake team evaluated the site in terms of human resources, natural resources, education and training capabilities, taxation, utilities and infrastructure, and environmental regulations.

"Our study team strongly recommended the Alabama property as the optimum site for expansion of any or all of our core businesses," said J. Carter Fox, president and chief executive officer. "Our decision to select the site was influenced by the excellent support that Governor Guy Hunt, Senator Bobby Denton, County Board Chairman Charles Thompson, Jim Brown of Shoals Industrial Development Authority, and civic leaders of the Shoals area have given us during our search. In addition to explaining the attractiveness of the site, these leaders communicated to us the outstanding quality of life in the Shoals area, and that intangible was an important factor in our decision. Over the next several years we will continue our studies on the best use of the land. We look forward to a good relationship with the people of Alabama as we investigate our possible future use of this property."

Chesapeake Corporation is an integrated paper and forest products company that produces and markets craft, tissue, packaging and treated wood products.

BLUE BELL, PA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Castle Energy Corp. (NASDAQ: CECX) announced today that its refining subsidiary, Indian Refining Co., has been designated an Enterprise Zone by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

Designation as an Enterprise Zone entitles the company to significant tax and economic benefits including substantial real estate, utility and sales tax abatement and state investment and job credits.

The announcement was personally made by Gov. James R. Thompson during his visit to the refinery in Lawrenceville, Ill. The refinery was last operated by Texaco, which mothballed the plant in 1985. William Sudhaus, president of the refinery, indicated that he anticipated the refinery would recommence production at approximately 57,000 barrels a day once restoration is complete.

Castle is an oil and gas exploration and production company and also the manager of 110 oil and gas limited partnerships. Castle has offices in Blue Bell, Pittsburgh, and Laurelville, Pa., and Tulsa, Okla. The company recently acquired the Lawrenceville refinery of Lawrenceville, Ill.

TAMPA, FL (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Business opportunities abound for U.S. financial institutions that look to Europe and other foreign markets to expand their credit card portfolios, according to H. Robert Heller, executive vice president of Visa International.

Heller, addressing the National Credit Card Forum here, told an audience of bankers that credit cards currently account for less than 1 percent of retail transactions in Belgium, France, Germany, Italy and other countries.

"It's a vastly under-served market, but as political and economic barriers erode in Europe and elsewhere we will see greater movement of people, capital and goods and greater use of credit cards," he said.

Heller predicted that Visa would have nearly 50 million cards and annual card volume exceeding $100 billion in Europe alone this year, four times the volume for 1986. By 1992, Visa cards should top 70 million in Europe with volume increasing to more than $200 billion, he said.

"Bank cards have a powerful ally in Europe -- the European Community (EC) itself. The EC sees the credit card as a means of facilitating the transition to a single market," Heller noted.

With no single European currency, credit cards are a kind of international payment medium -- good for purchases across national borders with cardholders paying for transactions later in their own currencies when the bill arrives. Heller said his company can even clear and settle transactions denominated in the European Currency Unit or ECU.

Heller noted that other parts of the world are also ripe for expansion of credit card services, in particular Asia. He also singled out Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union as potential markets for card growth.

Heller said U.S. bankers can use their expertise and experience in serving American consumers to gain a foothold in foreign markets. As an example, he pointed to the growing popularity of company credit cards for small U.S. businesses. Marketing of such cards is practically nonexistent in Europe, yet the potential is vast with European small businesses expected to spend $150 billion on travel alone and $200 billion for restaurants and gasoline this year, he said.

Visa is the world's largest consumer payments service with more than $200 billion in card transaction volume and 22,000 participating financial institutions.

COCONUT GROVE, FL (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Watsco, Inc. (AMEX: WSOA, WSOB) today announced 1989 earnings from continuing operations were a record

This compares to $766,000 or 41 cents per share in 1988. A loss from discontinued operations of $640,000 or 35 cents per share reduced 1989 net income to $1,429,000 or 74 cents per share (72 cents on a fully diluted basis).

Revenues in 1989 reached an all time high and were $94,318,000 compared to $22,456,000 in 1988.

For the fourth quarter, earnings from continuing operations were $316,000 or 16 cents per share on both a primary and fully diluted basis.

This compares to $75,000 or 4 cents per share in 1988.

A loss from discontinued operations of $483,000 or 25 cents per share caused a fourth quarter net loss of $167,000 or 9 cents per share. Revenues were $22,703,000 compared to $5,867,000 in 1988.

In 1988, the company changed its year end to Dec. 31 from a Jan. 31 fiscal year end. Accordingly, revenues and earnings are reported for the quarter and year ended Dec. 31, 1989 compared to the two months and 11 months ended Dec. 31, 1988.

These record results were aided by the strong performance of the company's Gemaire Distributors, Inc. subsidiary, one of the largest distributors of heating, ventilating and air conditioning equipment in the United States. Gemaire operates primarily in Florida and was acquired in January 1989.

Also contributing to this growth, was the company's Dunhill Personnel System, Inc. subsidiary, which operates in the personnel services industry. This segment is targeted for faster growth through acquisitions as well as internal expansion in both its temporary help and permanent placement businesses.

Watsco's Class A and Class B Common Stock and Convertible Debentures are traded on the American Stock Exchange under the symbols WSOA, WSOB, and WSOC.A, respectively.

NORCROSS, GA. (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Colorocs Corp. (NASDAQ: CLRX) today announced preliminary unaudited results for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Net sales are expected to be approximately $8-9 million, with additional income from dividends and interest to total around $700,000. Net sales for the third quarter of 1989 were $4.1 million. The company expects to report its first profit from operations in the 1989 fourth quarter.

In discussing the company's future growth, Charles A. Muench, chairman and president stated: "Based on orders, we expect net sales of between $12-13 million in the first quarter of 1990. To satisfy the increasing demand for the Colorocs-based machines, Sharp Corp. is in the process of expanding its manufacturing facilities and expects to have additional capacity on line by April of this year."

Colorocs was formed in 1982 to develop and distribute full color copiers and printers. Savin Corp., which is one of the largest independent marketing companies in North America of mid-range black and white copiers, now markets the full color copier under the "Prism I" trademark. TORONTO (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - ARC International Corporation (AMEX, Toronto: ATV) today announced that its subsidiary, Precision Technology Inc., has completed its acquisition of all rights to the "Precision Location" system.

The "Precision Location" system is a location/tracking system that utilizes sophisticated computer programs with tracking and measuring devices in order to provide instantaneous data capture and immediate data analysis of vehicle ride and handling performance tests. The system provides real-time tracking and testing which improves analysis capability because it allows matching exact track location with vehicle performance data. The system provides high quality data for vehicle dynamics analysis and shortens prototype test time with immediately available analysis results.

The first such system was sold to Nissan and installed at a Nissan test track in Japan in October 1989. The first system to be sold in North America, valued at approximately U.S.$400,000, is scheduled for delivery to Ford Motor company of Dearborn, Mich., in early spring. Automobile, motorcycle and tire manufacturers in the United States, Japan and Europe have expressed interest in acquiring the system and related technology.

The Precision Location system was developed in New Zealand by a team of physicists, mathematicians and computer experts who own one-third of Precision Technology Inc. Patent applications in respect of the technology have been made in the United States, Japan and in major Western European countries.

Commenting on the transaction, Arnold S. Tenney, president and chief executive officer of ARC, said: "This new venture complements our current measurement and testing systems business, provides a resource available to develop new products and services in our other operating divisions and underscores our strong commitment to growth."

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The following is AT&T's (NYSE: T) reaction to today's FCC decision to consider new regulatory policies affecting the nation's long distance telecommunications industry:

AT&T applauds the FCC proposal.

The fundamental issue is whether customers will be granted or denied the benefits of new and innovative services, at lower prices, that AT&T can offer if given equal flexibility in an intensely competitive marketplace.

Those who argue against greater customer choice and equal AT&T flexibility should be required to justify their position. Today the FCC took a major step toward shaping policies based not on outdated orthodoxy but on future flexibility in one of this country's most dynamic industries. The FCC's proposal validates AT&T's premise that everyone gains when all competitors are free to anticipate and meet customer needs.

DEARBORN, MI (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) distributed $166 million in profit-sharing checks to 150,891 of its U.S. hourly and salaried employees today for contributing to the company's success in 1989.

The average payment per eligible employee was about $1,025. It marked the seventh consecutive year since Ford and the UAW negotiated profit sharing in their 1982 contract that profit-sharing checks had been distributed. An eligible employee receiving the average amount each of the seven years has gained $13,225.

Ford President Philip E. Benton Jr. participated in special check-distribution ceremonies at Dearborn Engine Plant where he congratulated and thanked employees for making profit sharing successful and emphasized Ford's continuing challenges.

Benton noted that although Ford profit sharing was down this year compared with 1988, it still was the best in the industry. He also said that if Ford were going to succeed at its goal of being the low-cost, highest quality producer of cars and trucks in the industry, continued teamwork and cooperation would be essential for profits in the 1990s.

Including today's distribution, the company has distributed nearly $2.3 billion in profit sharing to its U.S. employees since the first profit-sharing checks for 1983. Average profit-sharing payments per eligible employee have been $400 for 1983, $2,000 for 1984, $1,200 for 1985, $2,100 for 1986, $3,700 for 1987 and $2,800 in 1988.

The profit-sharing percentage factor for 1989 is 2.8 percent. When multiplied by an employee's eligible pay in 1989, the percentage factor determines each employee's profit-sharing amount.

SEATTLE (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Ackerley Communications Inc. (AMEX: AK) announced today that it has completed the previously reported acquisition of WAXY-FM licensed to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., from GenCorp, Inc. The sale price was approximately $21 million in cash.

Additionally, Ackerley announced its fourth quarter and audited fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1989, results. The preliminary unaudited numbers were previously released on Jan. 30, 1990.

Sales for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31 were $45.9 million, up 13 percent from $40.8 million a year earlier. Sales for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31 reached $168.6 million, up 10 percent from $153.5 million for the prior year.

Adjusted operating profit (defined as net revenue less operating expenses plus other income before depreciation, amortization and interest)--the "cash flow" by which the company measures its performance--increased to $9.3 million, up 6 percent for the fourth quarter and reached $33.6 million for the year, up 6 percent from $31.6 million for the previous year. The year-to-date figures reflect the January 1989 acquisition of radio station WBOS-FM - Boston. Without the acquisition, the year-to-date adjusted operating profit would have risen 11 percent.

The company showed a net loss applicable to common shares of $2.8 million or 18 cents per share for the quarter ended Dec. 31, compared to a gain of $0.1 million or one cent per share, for the previous fourth quarter. For the year, the company lost $7.4 million, or 48 cents per share compared to the previous year's loss of $2.5 million, or 16 cents per share. In 1989 the company had major acquisitions in both the broadcasting and out-of-home segments. These acquisitions increased the non-cash expenses of depreciation and amortization, as well as interest due to borrowings associated with them. These increases more than offset the gain in adjusted operating profit.

Ackerley Communications is a national multimedia advertising business, with interests in broadcasting, outdoor and airport advertising, and professional sports, notably the Seattle SuperSonics.

The company's other radio stations include WBOS-FM in Boston; KJR-AM and KLTX-FM in Seattle; and KGON-FM and KFXX-AM in Portland, Ore. Ackerley also owns television stations WIXT-TV in Syracuse, N.Y.; KKTV-TV in Colorado Springs, Colo.; KCBA-TV in Salinas, Calif.; KVOS-TV in Bellingham Wash.; and KGET-TV in Bakersfield, Calif.

Ackerley Communications provides display advertisements in 130 airport terminals throughout the United States. The company's outdoor advertising division ranks among the nation's largest, and serves the metropolitan markets of Boston and Worcester, Mass.; Miami and West Palm Beach, Fla.; Seattle/Tacoma, Wash.; and Portland, Ore.

SANTA PAULA, CA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - H & H Oil Tool Co. Inc. (NASDAQ: HHOT) today announced a net loss of $566,000, or $.18 per share, for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1989. This compares with net income of $404,000 or $.13 per share, for 1988. Revenues advanced 25 percent to $17,999,000 from $14,412,000 in the prior year, primarily reflecting contributions from recent acquisitions and a gain on the sale of certain equipment. Excluding acquisitions, revenues would have declined by 3 percent.

The company sustained a net loss for the fourth quarter of $18,000, equal to $.01, compared with net income of $229,000, or $.07 per share, for the prior year period. Revenues for the period were $5,248,000 vs.

Henry H. Rushing, H & H president and chief executive officer, said that although 1989 oil prices increased 25 percent from 1988, the average rig count dropped to its lowest level since 1942. The historical cause and effect relationship between oil prices and rig counts has yet to occur in California.

Rushing noted that rig counts improved substantially in the Rocky Mountain Region in the fourth quarter of 1989 primarily as the result of higher oil and gas prices. However, the increased rig count and resulting higher revenues were not enough to offset the losses incurred in that region for the first three quarters of the year.

"Lower rig counts also translate into lower discovery rates and a shrinking domestic reserve base," said Rushing. "After a decade of up and down markets, it is noteworthy that there appears to be some emerging consensus that worldwide prices for crude are beginning to react to a tightening of supply. If true, it is reasonable to expect that domestic exploration and production spending will follow.

"At some cost to our operating profits, H & H has kept its key personnel and maintained tool inventories in top condition. The company has not only been a survivor of the 80's but has strengthened itself and built a foundation for our success in the 90's," Rushing added.

H & H Oil Tool, founded in 1953, and its wholly owned subsidiary, H & H Bi-Co Rental Inc., rent a wide range of equipment to oil, gas and geothermal companies throughout the Western United States. The Midway Fishing Tool Company division provides rentals and specialized services and equipment for recovery of downhole tools at drilling and production sites throughout California.

CHICAGO (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - A Miami jury today returned an unanimous verdict in favor of Searle in a trial involving the Cu-7 intrauterine copper contraceptive.

This is the 16th trial that Searle has won since 1974, when the Cu-7 was first marketed. Of the four trial losses, three were later settled and one is currently pending on appeal. Searle has obtained successful dispositions in more than 450 other lawsuits.

By today's verdict, the six-person jury unanimously concluded that the Cu-7 was not responsible for any alleged injury of plaintiff Holliday Adams. The trial, which began on Feb. 26, was presided over by U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Marcus.

"We are pleased that the Florida jury was persuaded by the weight of science and the long history of safety and effectiveness of the Cu-7," said Charles L. Fry, vice president, public affairs.

Currently, about 300 lawsuits involving the Cu-7 are pending against the company, a number that has decreased substantially in the last year.

Searle discontinued its IUD business in the United States in 1986 due to the lack of product liability insurance and the growing costs of defending against unwarranted lawsuits.

The Cu-7 was approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration as a safe and effective prescription product when used in accordance with its label. The Cu-7 remains endorsed by worldwide organizations including the World Health Organization, Planned Parenthood, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists and the Population Council.

Searle is a research-based company that develops, manufactures and markets prescription pharmaceuticals worldwide. It is a wholly owned subsidiary of Monsanto Co. (NYSE: MTC).

CAMBRIDGE, MA. (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Genetics Institute, Inc. (NASDAQ: GENI) announced today that it has entered into an agreement with Hoffmann-La Roche, Inc. to collaborate on a research program directed toward the discovery of therapeutic agents useful in the treatment of AIDS.

The collaboration is based on the development of agents which block the action of HIV-RT (human immunodeficiency virus reverse transcriptase), an enzyme which is used by the AIDS virus to replicate itself inside infected human cells. By identifying molecules which interfere with the HIV-RT function, scientists at Genetics Institute and Roche hope to be able to develop more effective treatments for AIDS patients.

Under the terms of this collaborative agreement, Genetics Institute and Roche will each contribute certain research materials and technical information, and self-fund their own research programs.

Genetics Institute will have the right to market and manufacture on a worldwide basis any protein/biosynthetic polypeptides, and Roche will have the right to market on a worldwide basis any synthetic molecules developed in the course of the collaboration. The parties will each receive royalties on the other party's net sales of products covered under this agreement.

"This collaboration combines Genetics Institute's unique reagents and HIV-RT research understanding with Roche's demonstrated strength in structural biology and chemistry," said L. Patrick Gage, Ph.D., executive vice president of Genetics Institute. He continued,"Working together on this effort should enhance our collective ability to discover potent new compounds to combat this tragic disease."

"We are hopeful that our collaborative efforts may lead us toward the design of new classes of drugs to fight AIDS," said Michael Sherman, Ph.D. senior director of cell biology at Hoffmann-La Roche.

Genetics Institute is a leading biotechnology firm engaged in the discovery and development of human pharmaceuticals through recombinant DNA and other technologies. The company has a diversified portfolio of licensed and proprietary pharmaceutical products.

Headquartered in Nutley, N.J., Hoffmann-La Roche is widely known for original research and development in the health care field, producing numerous important prescription drugs. Roche also provides a wide range of diagnostic products and clinical laboratory services and is a major producer of pure bulk vitamins and medicinal products. In addition, the company recently launched a new business that provides infusion therapy for patients who can be treated outside the hospital.

ROSLYN HEIGHTS, NY (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, New York, announced today that it has chosen Impressions as its sole advertising agency for all consumer and trade advertising.

"Now, for the first time, all divisions of The Guardian will be speaking with one voice presenting a unified, consistent corporate image under our new theme: 'The Guardian. The Intelligent Choice Since 1860'," said Bob Gillespie, The Guardian's manager of corporate communications.

Previously, The Guardian retained separate advertising agencies for each of its four major profit centers -- individual life insurance, individual health insurance, group insurance and equity products -- as well as other agencies as they were needed on a project basis.

The Guardian is one of the largest mutual life insurance companies in the country, with $5.6 billion in assets and more than 3,000 employees. More than 2,800 agents and 56,000 brokers serve its customers through a nationwide general agency distribution system.

Impressions, a 19-year-old marketing services and sales promotion agency, has worked on many of The Guardian marketing programs in the past decade. Since 1987, it has been the advertising agency of record for the company's group insurance division.

Impressions was chosen The Guardian's sole agency in a competition among the other agencies working for The Guardian as well as one outside agency. The final choice was based on presentations made by the competing agencies before a panel of The Guardian's senior executives.

"What played an important role in our selection of Impressions was the creative work Impressions had already done for us, particularly the very successful Premier Image ad campaign," Gillespie added. "Impressions has a good, long track record with The Guardian."

HOWELL, NJ (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Union Valley Corporation (AMEX: UVC) today announced a small decrease in net income on slightly lower volume for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Chairman Herbert E. Wishnick said that, for the full year, revenues declined by 3 percent to $86,573,000, from $89,079,000 in the full year of 1988. Net income fell to $300,000, or 7 cents per share, versus $361,000, or 8 cents per share, for the previous year. Results for 1988 included a credit of $635,000, or 15 cents per share, related to an accounting change for income taxes.

In the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989, revenues decreased by 19 percent to $18,200,000, from $22,522,000 in the comparable period in 1988. There was a net loss of $746,000, or 20 cents per share, in the 1989 fourth quarter, compared with a net loss of $1,678,000 or 35 cents per share, for the fourth quarter of the preceding year. Results in the 1988 fourth quarter were lowered by expenses related to the settlement of a dispute concerning management control and direction.

Wishnick said results for 1989 were adversely affected by weakness in the company's core homebuilding business.

The company's backlog of sales, including non-binding reservations, at

Dec. 31, 1989, was 225 units with an aggregate sales price of $30,109,000, These figures compare with 508 units with an aggregate purchase price of $77,972,000 as of the same date in 1988.

In addition, Union Valley has been notified that First Fidelity Bank, N.A. New Jersey, will not renew its $100 million revolving credit agreement with the company. First Fidelity and Union Valley are negotiating terms of a new financing arrangement that will accommodate current business conditions and provide adequate financing for the company's residential construction activities.

First Fidelity takes the position that all outstanding sums under the $100 million revolving credit agreement will be due and payable Aug. 1, 1990. No assurances can be given regarding the outcome of these negotiations.

Union Valley Corporation designs, builds and markets retirement and pre-retirement communities, non-age restricted housing and commercial real estate, in New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

TAMPA, FL. (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Paragon Acquisitions Group, Inc., a publicly traded company (OTC) and Sun Up Foods, Inc., a privately owned, Kentucky based processor of fruit juice products have entered into a Letter of Intent to merge within the next 60 days.

Sun Up Foods, Inc. blends and distributes a variety of frozen citrus concentrates to more than 70 dairies and bottling companies throughout the United States and Canada. Sun Up foods has grown from less than $400,000 in annual sales in 1983 to over $60 million in 1989 annual sales. Sun Up recently began operating a new blending facility in Benton, Ky. The company anticipates sufficient inhouse capacity to achieve annual sales in excess of $200 million in the 1990s. Sun Up Foods is also expanding its contract sales of orange juice concentrate to Europe, Australia, Japan and Korea and has extensive contracts as exclusive sales agents worldwide for offshore producers of orange juice concentrate.

Paragon and Sun Up signed a Letter of Intent to merge which calls for the exchange of Sun Up shares for the shares of the public company. The merger is subject to shareholder approval.

PALM SPRINGS, CA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - USAA Senior Vice President and Chief Actuary Steven F. Goldberg told the ADP/Audatex Ninth Annual International Auto Physical Damage Conference here today that U.S. insurers and auto manufacturers should develop a cooperative testing system that will stop or slow the increase in collision repair costs.

"We are way behind the Europeans in building partnerships with auto manufacturers to improve damageability," Goldberg said. "The concept (of cooperation) makes sense .... After all, when the car insurance payment exceeds the car financing payment, the insurance premium will become a more major factor in the car purchase decision."

Goldberg suggested a system for testing new cars could be developed that would enable insurers to rate vehicles' damageability before historical performance data were available. He indicated a well-managed testing program could provide repair-cost comparisons between different vehicles that would show very clearly the damageability of various design characteristics prior to confirmation by actual loss experience.

Comparative test results could determine whether insurers discount or surcharge a particular vehicle model when establishing premium rates.

"The immediate reflection of lower repair costs in improved insurance rates gives the automobile manufacturers the competitive incentive to consider damageability when developing new models," Goldberg told conference attendees.

While he noted there were significant differences in the U.S. and European insurance environments, Goldberg said Allianz, one of Europe's largest insurers, worked with a major German auto manufacturer and developed a crash-repair test that simulates an accident as realistically as possible. According to Goldberg, more than 90 percent of manufacturers that sell automobiles in Europe cooperate in the program by providing cars to crash, and the program offers a successful conceptual model for a similar approach in the United States.

"German insurance statistics show clearly the results of these efforts. Despite an average 45 percent increase in new car prices in Germany since 1981, the overall repair cost increase was contained to only 35 percent," Goldberg said. "Comparison to the U.S. market shows a 77 percent increase in repair cost for the same time period, while new car prices increased only 42 percent."

The USAA actuary said cooperation between auto manufacturers and auto insurers should lead to significant future incentives toward building more damage-resistant vehicles. "A partnership between manufacturers and insurers can be a 'win-win' for both parties and, therefore, consumers," he said.

Goldberg's comments were part of a panel discussion titled, "Recommendation for a New Initiative in the 1990's -- Cooperative Design for Damageability and Repairability."

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Private Export Funding Corporation (PEFCO) today launched a public offering of $200 million of five-year secured notes, Series EE. The issue, which is non-callable, matures March 15, 1995, with interest payable Sept. 15 and March 15. The 8.90 percent issue was priced at par, a spread of 33 basis points above Treasury securities with a similar maturity.

BT Securities Corporation is the issue manager. The co-managers are Bank of America N. T. & S. A.; Chase Securities, Inc.; Citicorp Securities Markets, Inc.; Dillon, Read & Co., Inc.; J. P. Morgan Securities Inc.; and Salomon Brothers Inc.

It is anticipated that the notes will be rated Triple A by Moody's and Standard & Poor's. Net proceeds from the sale of the notes will be used by PEFCO to fund outstanding loan commitments.

As in the case of previous PEFCO secured notes, the new Series EE notes will be secured as to principal by deposit with a trustee of obligations backed by the full faith and credit of the United States, with repayments scheduled to provide the trustee with sufficient cash to pay the unpaid principal balance of the notes at maturity. Timely payment of interest on the PEFCO notes will be directly guaranteed by Eximbank.

PEFCO is owned by 42 commercial banks involved in export financing, six manufacturing companies involved in exporting U.S. products and services, and three financial services companies.

GLASTONBURY, CT (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - DataImage, Inc. (NASDAQ: DATA) of Glastonbury announced today financial results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Revenues increased from $287,310 in 1987 to $1.3 million in 1988, and more than doubled to $3.0 million in 1989 for a compound annual growth rate of 225 percent.

The company reported losses from continuing operations in 1987 and 1988 of $569,487 and $276,517, respectively, and reported a turnaround to profitability with income from continuing operations of $132,245 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989. DataImage reported losses from continuing operations for the years ended Dec. 31, 1987 and 1988 of 64 cents and 23 cents per share, respectively, and reported income from continuing operations of 9 cents per share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

As of year end Dec. 31, 1989, DataImage had working capital of $2.7 million and shareholders' equity of $3.1 million, well in excess of the shareholders' equity for year end Dec. 31, 1988, of $697,183.

Robert L. Brasher also stated that he is "pleased with the progress the company has made by more than doubling in revenues each year since inception and by achieving a turnaround to profitability for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

"Despite expenses incurred with the opening of the New York City sales office and the efforts put in by management for the company's initial public offering, management was pleased with DataImage's financial results for the year.

The year 1989 was one of building a strong foundation upon which the company can grow and position itself strategically to take advantage of opportunities in the image-processing industry. The completion of our initial public offering of 464,023 shares of shares of common stock netted approximately $2.1 million to the company in November 1989.

A portion of the net proceeds has been and will continue to be used to establish regional sales operations and to hire additional staff to complement DataImage's already strong management team. We are optimistic about the increasing acceptance of image processing in the corporate marketplace and DataImage's role as a meaningful player in that market.

QUINCY, MA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Clean Harbors, Inc. (NASDAQ: CLHB), disclosed today that it has been notified by the Massachusetts Superior Court that the court rejected an effort by the towns of Braintree and Weymouth to stop the siting of the company's rotary kiln incinerator. The towns had alleged that state funds available to the communities were inadequate and the siting process should be stalled until the state legislature appropriated additional funds to the towns.

The court further ruled, that under the state siting law the legislature is not obliged to appropriate additional funds to the communities. To date, the towns involved in the suit and another abutting community have received and expended over $650,000 in state funds to review the company's proposal and have met with the company in over 200 public meetings.

The company retained expert consultants to produce a nearly 10,000-page environmental impact report which demonstrates that there will be no adverse environmental impact from the proposed incinerator. The report is presently pending before the State Secretary of Environmental Affairs for review.

Clean Harbors provides environmental services from 32 locations in 11 states in the Northeast, Midwest and Mid-Atlantic, and furnishes a wide range of environmental remediation, hazardous waste management, and engineering and laboratory services to a diversified customer base.

FORT WORTH, TX (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Justin Industries Inc. (NASDAQ: JSTN) announced that it has received an unsolicited offer from Perry H. Sutherland and Barry S. Rosenstein proposing an acquisition of all of the capital stock of Justin Industries at a cash price of $18.50 per share. According to recent Schedule 13D filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, Sutherland and Rosenstein represent a group holding approximately 11.2 percent of the total common shares outstanding. The letter indicated that the group is seeking a friendly negotiated transaction in which management will be invited to participate. Sutherland and Rosenstein further indicated that they would consider acquiring less than the entire company and are open to further negotiations, including price.

Responding to the letter, John Justin, Justin Industries' Chairman, CEO, and largest individual shareholder (20 percent of the common stock; 100 percent of its preferred) said:

"I expect the Board of Directors will consider this matter in due course, probably at its next Board Meeting, scheduled to follow the shareholders meeting on March 23, 1990. As I have earlier advised Mr. Sutherland, the subject of a possible sale of all or parts of the Company is not a new one for us. The Board of Directors has regularly and systematically examined how best to preserve and enhance the values inherent in the businesses of Justin Industries. We have looked at all the options on several occasions over the last 18 months, with the assistance of experienced independent professionals. In fact, we again reviewed these very issues just a couple of months ago. Through this process, the Board has formulated a long term strategy for Justin Industries. Management has been pursuing that strategy, we think successfully, for some time, even though we have for some time been suffering from the unprecedented homebuilding depression in the Southwest.

Investors should not be confused by my suggestion to Mr. Sutherland that he put any offer he had in mind in writing. He has had several conversations and private meetings with me and at least one other director over the course of the past several months. In them, he has made numerous private proposals and statements about his group's intentions. I thought it was time to see something in writing so we could evaluate it. Now that we have the letter, we will study it.

Notwithstanding our long term strategy, both management and the Board have always been willing to carefully reconsider its plans as and when attractive short term alternatives present themselves. But as Mr. Sutherland already knows from our private discussions, it has been my own view, which I think the Board agrees with, that a sale of our brick business, to say nothing of the entire Company, during this period of sluggish homebuilding in our region, particularly at a price that reflects that down cycle, hardly makes sense for the Company or its shareholders, even over a relatively short period."

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Price Stern Sloan Inc. (NASDAQ: PSSP) today reported a net loss of $11,735,000, equal to $3.10 per share, for 1989, due largely to asset write-downs and a loss on the sale of the company's English subsidiary.

The company had net operating losses of $772,000, equal to $.21 per share, in 1988. Sales for 1989 were $41,033,000 compared to $56,514,000 a year ago. The sales figures for 1988 include $8,436,000 from the U.K. subsidiary. Sales for 1989 exclude all U.K. operations since that subsidiary was sold in January 1990 and was up for sale throughout the previous year.

For the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989, the company registered a net loss of $1,679,000, equal to $.43 per share, compared with a net loss of $1,560,000, or $.42 per share, for the corresponding period of 1988. Sales for the fourth quarter were $9,140,000, compared with $13,845,000 for the fourth quarter of 1988. Included in the fourth quarter of 1988 was $3,237,000 in sales from the U.K. operations.

L. Lawrence Sloan, chairman and chief executive officer, said that over three-fourths of the 1989 losses were attributable to asset write-downs, including a loss of $4,344,000 on the sale of the U.K. subsidiary, a write-off of deferred taxes of $1,097,000, and the company's decision to write off and write down certain inventories, authors' advances and pre-publication costs totalling $3,628,000.

Sloan stated he believes Price Stern Sloan is now well positioned to take advantage of its product strengths and its large backlist of steady revenue-producing titles. "Dealing with the problems in the U.K. placed on enormous drain on the company's resources and management time," he added.

"However, we are now able to concentrate on cost-cutting measures and on fully exploiting the company's most profitable lines, such as Wee Sing and other audio and video products, calendars, automotive, gift and humor books."

Sloan also stated that the investment banking firm of Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette Securities Inc., retained by Price Stern Sloan in October, has completed its analysis of the company and will be pursuing the alternatives available to it, which the company expects to include discussions with potential strategic purchasers.

The company also announced that Martin P. Levin, a director of the company who had been retained as a consultant to work with Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette, has resigned from the board due to a potential conflict of interest in connection with the consulting agreement. Levin's directorship has been filled by Gary Nardino, chairman and chief executive officer of Orion Television Entertainment.

SMYRNA, GA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The Banker's Note Inc. (NASDAQ: BKNT), an Atlanta-based chain of women's apparel stores, reported a loss in the fourth quarter ended Feb. 3, of ($860,000) or ($.26) per share compared with earnings of $51,000 or $.01 cent per share in the same quarter a year ago.

For the 53 weeks ended Feb. 3, the net loss was ($553,000) or ($.17) cents per share compared with earnings of $679,000 or $.21 cents per share, for 1988.

Sales revenue was $12,705,000 for the quarter compared to $8,116,000 for the same period last year. Total sales revenue for 1989 was $43,888,000 compared to last year's $36,712,000 results.

The company attributed the loss to reduced margins resulting from an aggressive promotional stance throughout the holiday season. These reduced margins combined with increased operating expenses, resulting from investments in people and programs to enhance future store operations, led to the loss.

The company currently operates 75 women's specialty stores in Alabama (3), Florida (12), Georgia (25), Louisiana (7), Mississippi (2), North Carolina (8), South Carolina (1), Tennessee (2) and Texas (15).

HOLLYWOOD, FL. (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - HEICO Corporation (AMEX: HEI) today reported that it has completed the previously announced sale of its laboratory products businesses to Varlen Corporation (NASDAQ: VRLN) effective March 6, 1990, for approximatley $11 million in cash and the assumption of approximately $5 million of related liabilities.

HEICO recently made the decision to sell its unprofitable laboratory products businesses which had operating losses in four of the past five years. In fiscal 1989 and 1988 this division reported pre-tax operating losses of $951,000 and $856,000 respectively.

The sale will result in a one-time non-recurring charge to the company's first quarter results ended Jan. 31, 1990 of approximately $2.5 million for the disposal of these discontinued operations. In addition, the sale will create approximately $7 million in capital loss carryforwards which can be used to offset future potential taxable capital gains over the next five years.

The company also reported that it expects first quarter 1990 income from continuing operations to approximate $450,000 or $.14 per share on sales of $6.4 million. Results in the current quarter were comparable to fourth quarter fiscal 1989 continuing operations when income before non-recurring charges totaled $443,000 or $.14 on sales of $6.1 million. First quarter 1989 income from continuing operations was $1,063,000 or $.33 per share on sales of $7.9 million. Sales and earnings in the first quarter of last year benefited from unusually high shipments as compared to the balance of fiscal 1989.

In addition, HEICO reported that its backlog from continuing operations increased to $22.8 million as of Jan. 31, 1990, up from $20.3 million as of Oct. 31, 1990. Further, the current backlog reflects a record $13.7 million for HEICO's LPI subsidiary.

Laurans A. Mendelson, co-chairman of the board of directors, stated "We are pleased that the sale of the laboratory products companies will permit HEICO to concentrate all of its capital resources and management efforts on the aviation and aerospace related products industry. In addition, the cash generated from the sale will allow HEICO to maximize shareholder value through opportunities such as stock repurchase programs, acquisitions and other activities."

HEICO's operations are now all based in South Florida with locations in Hollywood, Fla. (Jet Avion Corporation) and Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. (LPI Corporation). Jet Avion principally manufactures replacement parts for jet aircraft engines, while LPI manufactures a variety of component parts for the aviation and defense industry.

DALLAS (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Southwest Airlines (NYSE: LUV) announced that effective with its April 16, 1990, schedule, it will be offering additional flights from several of its most popular destinations. Also, on April 16, the airline will inaugurate service from Burbank to Oakland with 10 daily roundtrip flights between the two cities.

From Dallas, Southwest will be adding one flight per day to Albuquerque, and one flight per day to Houston.

Flight No. 158 to Albuquerque from Dallas is perfectly timed for the business traveler, departing Dallas Love Field at 8 a.m. and arriving in Albuquerque at 8:35 a.m. With the addition of this flight, Southwest offers four daily nonstop flights from Dallas to Albuquerque, along with other direct and connecting flights.

The new flight from Dallas to Houston will be No. 145, departing Dallas at 5:15 p.m. and arriving Houston Hobby at 6:10 p.m. -- just in time for the Houston business person to return home from Dallas at an early hour. The addition of this flight brings to 32 the total number of daily flights from Dallas to Houston.

As an added convenience to customers flying into Houston Intercontinental Airport, Southwest has changed the departure time of its first flight from Dallas to Intercontinental. Flight No. 119 now departs Dallas Love Field at 7:45 a.m. and arrives in Houston at Intercontinental at 8:35 a.m. This change was made to accommodate those customers.

Flight No. 204 departing Houston at 7:15 a.m. and arriving Dallas at 8:10 a.m. will give the business traveler one more opportunity to get an early start. Southwest has also added a 4:15 p.m. flight from Houston arriving in Dallas at 5:10 p.m. With the addition of these two new flights, Southwest brings to 34 the number of daily departures to Dallas Love from Houston Hobby.

Southwest is also offering a new daily roundtrip flight between Houston and New Orleans. Flight No. 425 departs Houston Hobby at 6:30 a.m. and arrives at New Orleans at 7:30 a.m. Flight No. 588 departs New Orleans at 7:30 a.m. and arrives at Houston Hobby at 8:35 a.m. This additional roundtrip brings to 17 the number of daily nonstop roundtrip flights between New Orleans and Houston Hobby.

Additional nonstop service to Houston will be offered from El Paso, with flight No. 969 departing El Paso at 1:25 p.m. and arriving in Houston at 4 p.m., bringing to six the number of daily nonstop flights from El Paso to Houston Hobby.

A new flight will depart San Diego at 10:35 a.m. and arrive in El Paso at 1:15 p.m., bringing the number of daily nonstop from San Diego to El Paso to two.

With the addition of flight No. 468 from Albuquerque to Las Vegas, Southwest will offer five daily roundtrip flights between these two cities. The new flight departs Albuquerque at 8:50 a.m. and arrives nonstop in Las Vegas at 9:10 a.m.

Southwest Airlines has increased its San Antonio-Phoenix service by adding two nonstop flights, one in the morning, the second in the afternoon.

The conveniently timed new service consists of flight No. 718, which departs San Antonio at 7:50 a.m. and arrives in Phoenix at 9:05 a.m.; and flight No. 587, leaving San Antonio at 5:45 p.m., arriving in Phoenix at 7 p.m. Both flights have convenient connections to most of Southwest's West Coast destinations.

Southwest also has a new nonstop from Phoenix to San Antonio. Flight No. 637 departs Phoenix at 9:20 a.m. and arrives in San Antonio at 12:20 p.m.

Southwest will also offer a new nonstop flight from Las Vegas to San Diego bringing to six the number of roundtrips between the two. The additional flight departs Las Vegas at 9:25 a.m. and arrives San Diego at 10:15 a.m.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The Competitive Telecommunications Association (Comptel) today welcomed the Federal Communications Commission's (FCC) initiation of a proceeding to study the current structure of the long distance market and the appropriate future regulation of AT&T.

Comptel President James M. Smith commented: "We welcome this proceeding, which we have advocated for over a year. Chairman Al Sikes and the FCC recognize the need to examine the progress that has been made in introducing competition to what was so long a monopoly market, as well as the serious competitive problems that remain. We are at a crossroads: one road leads to a market with many vigorous competitors with the public as the beneficiary; the other leads to a tight oligopoly market ruled by AT&T. The FCC will decide which road the nation takes. We are gratified that the FCC has taken steps to substitute fact-finding and rule-making for the ad hoc deregulation that AT&T has gained through the tariffing process in recent years.

"We look forward to studying the full text of the FCC's proposals," Smith added. "We are concerned that the commission has essentially proposed to fully deregulate a large segment of AT&T's long distance services. Such proposals are very premature. There is competition, but it is still very fragile. While we are pleased that the commissioners recognize AT&T's advantages in the 800 market, that is only one small part of the problem. It is overshadowed by AT&T's continuing access cost advantages resulting from AT&T's pre-divestitive relationship with the local telephone companies, and many other market advantages gained when AT&T was a monopolist and the public paid the bill. AT&T alone enjoys these many embedded technical and competitive advantages not because of intrinsic merit but because of its pre-divestiture monopoly. They underlie AT&T's 70 percent market share, over five times the size of its nearest rival.

"We hope the text of the commission's notice will address these many problems," Smith continued. "The FCC must move forcefully to finish the job of affording truly equal access to all long-distance competitors before it further deregulates the dominant carrier." Smith stated that Comptel's submissions to the FCC would fully document these inequities and urge corrective action by the commission. "After AT&T's access advantages are erased and the benefits of effective, sustainable competition are secured for the public, we would support deregulation. With affirmative actions to foster competition and prudent interim regulation, we believe that the FCC could proceed to an unregulated long-distance marketplace in as little as two to three years.

Comptel is the national industry association of competitive long distance companies, with approximately 120 member companies, including large nationwide carriers as well as scores of smaller regional carriers.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Journal Graphics, Inc., the same company which transcribes most of America's television programs, today announced a new service.

Have you ever intended to write a letter to the editor, but not done so? Well, now all you need to do is pick up the phone and it will be written for you.

It works like this: when you have a letter that you want to write, you just pick up the phone and call 900-VIP-MAIL. You will be asked (1) your name, address and phone number, (2) the name and address of the person or organization you want to write to, and (3) what you want to say.

You don't have to dictate the letter -- just say what you want to convey. Journal Graphics' professional writers will "make it sound good."

About a week later, you'll receive your finished letter ready for your signature. You'll even receive an envelope already addressed. Just affix a stamp and drop it in the mail. If you have corrections or additions, you can phone those in too and a new letter will be generated.

The service can be used by anyone to write to anyone -- not just for letters to the editor. Journal Graphics has written complaint letters, letters to politicians, and a wide variety of letters to the television shows which are transcribed by Journal Graphics -- even a couple of love letters.

Several letters to "60 Minutes" complained about Andy Rooney's suspension; another couple of letters to Sally Jessy Raphael offered the donation of bone marrow for transplant in response to a show on that subject.

Callers pay for the service on their phone bill: $2 per minute. Since most callers take less than three minutes to describe their letter, the average cost per letter is only about $6.

COLUMBUS, OH (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Huntington Bancshares Incorporated (Columbus, Ohio) (NASDAQ: HBAN) and First Home Federal Savings and Loan Association (Sebring, Fla.) (NASDAQ: FSEB) announced today they have signed a definitive agreement with respect to a merger in which First Home Federal would become a subsidiary of Huntington Bancshares Incorporated.

"First Home Federal is a strongly capitalized financial institution in south-central Florida with a record of consistent high-quality performance " stated Frank Wobst, chairman and chief executive officer of Huntington Bancshares Incorporated. "We are extremely pleased that First Home Federal has entered into this agreement with Huntington. The respective strengths of each company will result in a beneficial partnership between our two organizations.

"The Huntington Trust Company has established a solid presence in the attractive Naples, Fla. market since its entrance in 1987. It has exceeded our expectations in terms of its growth and performance objectives. Upon completion of this merger, Huntington intends to open a full-service banking office in Naples which will complement its existing trust business," Wobst continued.

"While we anticipate modest dilution in 1990," he added, "the acquisition will become anti-dilutive in 1991 through significant synergies that will result from the introduction of banking services in Naples, and the introduciton of Huntington's select products in First Home Federal's markets."

The transaction involves the exchange of Huntington common stock for all outstanding shares of First Home Federal, and will be accounted for as a pooling-of-interests. Based upon Huntington's current market price, the value of the transaction is approximately $34 million. When the merger is consummated, each First Home Federal common share will be converted into the number of Huntington common shares determined by dividing $23.50 by the average closing sales price of Huntington common stock for the five trading days preceding the closing (but not less than $16.56 nor more than $20.24).

In connection with this transaction, First Home Federal has granted

Huntington a warrant to purchase, under certain specified circumstances, 24.9 percent of the outstanding First Home Federal common stock. Consummation of the merger is subject to customary closing conditions, including approval by the shareholders of First Home Federal and appropriate regulatory authorities. In addition, Huntington has the right for a ten business day period, to terminate the agreement based on its review of certain information to be provided promptly by First Home Federal regarding various exceptions to First Home Federal's representations and warranties.

"This affiliation with a major midwestern bank holding company enables First Home Federal to continue to improve the services offered to its long-standing customers," stated Stanley Davis, chairman of First Home Federal. "Huntington is an excellent, well-diversified financial services company with a reputation for high quality customer service. Its similar marketing philosophy and depth of product offerings will be a great asset to First Home Federal's markets and customers."

First Home Federal operates a total of 8 banking offices in south- central Florida with $208 million in assets. Huntington Bancshares is an $11.7 billion regional bank holding company headquartered in Columbus, Ohio. The company's banking, mortgage, trust and investment banking subsidiaries operate 280 offices in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Virginia.

CHERRY HILL, NJ (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - SAI Group Inc. (OTC) has released the following figures for the fourth quarter of 1989:

Periods ended	Three months		Year
Dec. 31	1989	1988	1989	1988
Revenue	$947,000	$1,323,000	$3,990,000	$4,251,000
Net income (loss)	(431,000)	25,000	(2,427,000)	168,000
Shares outstanding	15,272,065	15,272,190	15,272,065	15,272,190

Earnings (loss) per share	($.03)	--	($.16)

THREE MONTHS ENDED DEC. 31, 1989, VS. DEC. 31, 1988, REVENUES

Revenues in the fourth quarter of 1989 were $376,000 (28.4 percent) lower than the comparable period in 1988. While premiums associated with the company's reinsurance operations increased by $57,000, revenue from direct marketing activities declined by $425,000 and revenues from other sources fell by $8,000. The decline in direct marketing revenues resulted from a reduced response to the company's autumn marketing campaigns and from the loss of a stream of renewal commissions which terminated in the fourth quarter of 1988.

NET LOSS A net loss of $431,000 was incurred in the fourth quarter of 1989 as compared to a profit of $25,000 in the prior year's comparable period. Significant operating factors contributing to the current period loss were first-year costs of the 50-Forward Club venture in the United Kingdom and the decline in marketing revenues mentioned above. Results in the current period were further reduced by a charge of $100,000 in settlement of all claims relating to a 1985 sale of certain reinsurance treaties.

YEAR END DEC. 31, 1989, VS. DEC. 31, 1988, REVENUES Total revenues during 1989 decreased by $261,000 (6.1 percent) from the prior year. Direct marketing revenues fell by $563,000 while list rentals and other income were down $65,000. Partially offsetting these decreases were growth in premiums from reinsurance activities of $256,000 and initial dues and advertising revenues of $111,000 from the 50-Forward venture.

NET LOSS A loss of $2,427,000 ($.16 per share) was incurred during 1989 as compared to a profit of $168,000 ($.01 per share) in 1988. Last year's net income included a gain of $183,000 on the sale of the company's headquarters building. Approximately $2.2 million of the current year's loss results from the expense of initiating and supporting the development of the 50-Forward Club. The remainder results from settling legal claims connected with a previous sale of reinsurance and decline in commissions from direct marketing activities.

SAI GROUP REPORTS UNSATISFACTORY RESULTS FROM 50-FORWARD CLUB MAILING; PRINCIPAL SHAREHOLDER EXPRESSES INTEREST IN ACQUIRING PUBLIC SHARES

Separately, SAI Group Inc. announced that the preliminary results of its 50-Forward Club mailing to convert the members to a dues-paying status had been substantially less than anticipated. Larry Solomon, president of the company, said that the projected revenues from the Club are not expected to produce sufficient funds to maintain the company's current level of operations and meet its long-term debt obligations. The 50-Forward Club, launched in January 1989, is a U.K.-based division of the company marketing a range of insurance and other products and services to people over age 50. Solomon also reported that Fortuna Holding, which currently owns 25 percent of the company's outstanding shares of common stock, had indicated an interest in acquiring the balance of the company's outstanding shares and had requested additional information to assist it in formulating an offer. The board of directors has authorized the delivery of the requested information. Solomon emphasized that although Fortuna had indicated a strong interest in making an offer, there was no assurance that it would. He also said that he had no indication of the price which Fortuna might offer. The board, Solomon said, would consider any offer promptly upon its receipt.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Several key management changes at First Interstate Bank of California have been announced by Chairman William E. B. Siart.

Named as the new head of the bank's Bay Area Division in San Francisco is Executive Vice President Daniel R. Eitingon who has been managing the Los Angeles North Division. He succeeds Executive Vice President Richard L. Barkhurst, who is joining First Interstate Bancorp (NYSE: I) as an executive vice president and will focus on retail banking throughout the system.

Charles J. Buchta, executive vice president and head of the Operating Services Group (OSG) in Los Angeles, will take over for Eitingon as manager of the Los Angeles North Division. He has been in charge of the Operating Services Group for the past five years.

Senior Vice President Pamela Reis, who has been manager of the South Bay District in the Los Angeles Metro Division, will fill Buchta's position as OSG manager. She also will become the newest member of the bank's Managing Committee.

Taking Reis' position in the South Bay District will be Senior Vice President Michael G. Powell who has been serving as head of the Private Banking and Regional Corporate Center for the Los Angeles North Division since September 1986.

Larry Andrews, vice president and manager of the Lancaster office, has been named San Fernando Valley manager. He replaces Senior Vice President Miles Adam who is joining First Interstate Bancorp to work in consumer banking and be a primary resource for the holding company's Policy Committee for Operations and Information Services.

According to Siart the positions vacated by Powell and Andrews will be filled shortly.

First Interstate Bank of California has 329 branches statewide and is the principal subsidiary of First Interstate Bancorp, the nation's largest retail banking system.

Including the offices of 39 banks licensed to use First Interstate's name, technology and products, more than 1,140 full-service offices are located in 650 communities in 21 states. International banking is conducted through 33 strategic locations worldwide.

PITTSBURGH (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Equitable Resources Inc. (NYSE: EQT) reported consolidated net income for the calendar year 1989 of $50.9 million, or $2.43 per share, compared with $47.1 million, or $2.27 per share, for 1988, the company said today.

The increase in income is due primarily to a general increase in retail rates effective January 1989 for distribution customers in Pennsylvania and a December 1989 settlement of a pipeline subsidiary's rate increase in effect since 1986. The full effect of the pipeline rate increase had been reserved pending the outcome of regulatory proceedings.

Net income for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989, amounted to $20.0 million, or $.95 per share, compared with $19.5 million, or $.93 per share, for the same quarter last year. The increase reflects the effect of colder weather and increased utility rates in effect during the current quarter.

TACOMA, WA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Ten thousand dollars will go to the Pierce County nonprofit organization that submits the best idea for using the money to enhance the lives of Tacoma Hilltop youth. The winning organization will receive those funds from First Interstate Bank in the Tacoma Hilltop Best Idea contest.

The contest was announced today by Tacoma Mayor Karen Vialle and First Interstate Bank's new President and Chief Executive Officer John Dean.

Pierce County nonprofit organizations interested in participating in the Best Idea program need to prepare a two-page typewritten summary that includes the following: 1) a concise and specific description of the idea

2) a persuasive statement on how the idea will enhance the lives of Hilltop area youth, and 3) an outline of how the idea will be carried out (with an estimate of costs, a timeline, and names of persons responsible for implementing the idea). Pierce County nonprofit organizations have until Wednesday, April 18 to submit their best ideas.

"Tacoma's Hilltop area has had its share of serious community challenges, and finally, because of the dedicated efforts of area leaders, the Hilltop is starting to see progress in the alleviation of problems," said Vialle. "First Interstate's generous grant offering will enhance that progress."

According to Dean, the Best Idea program is an ongoing community support effort that has motivated creative solutions to community problems in the communities where the bank has sponsored it. To date, the bank has brought the program to Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Bellevue, Everett, Vancouver, Yakima, and, most recently, to the Rainier Valley community. In each program a judging panel, consisting of local community leaders, reviews the proposals and selects the winning idea based on its feasibility, practicality and overall community impact.

"We are particularly pleased to focus this Best Idea program on the needs of Tacoma Hilltop area youth," said Dean. "Many dedicated community groups are working diligently toward reclaiming the Hilltop community and making it more livable and prosperous. First Interstate's goal is to draw attention to these positive efforts and to provide a substantial financial boost to the organization that can put the grant funds to its best use."

Dean added that the Tacoma Hilltop Best Idea proposals will be shared with other local businesses and community leaders in an effort to attract additional support for the top entries. "In past programs, local corporations have helped expand our $10,000 grant by providing matching monies, discounted materials or by funding additional ideas," said Dean, "and we believe that is very likely to happen again in the Tacoma Hilltop Best Idea program."

Mayor Vialle concluded, "There is no community in Washington more deserving of positive support than the Tacoma Hilltop community," said Vialle, "and I am most grateful to First Interstate and to the other responsive local corporations that invested their time and money in this valued community. First Interstate's $10,000 grant is a welcomed gift."

Founded in 1885, First Interstate Bank of Washington is a subsidiary of the nation's largest retail banking system, First Interstate Bancorp. The bank provides retail, commercial, international, trust, investment, real estate and private banking services through its more than 100 branches statewide.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Chock full o' Nuts Corporation (NYSE: CHF) today reported net income of $2,366,000, or $.30 per share, for the quarter ended Jan. 31, 1990.

This compares to net income of $2,347,000, or $.30 per share, in the year-ago quarter. Last year's results reflect an unrealized pre-tax gain of $1.1 million ($.08 per share) on marketable equity securities and an extraordinary credit of $564,000 ($.07 per share) arising from the utilization of capital loss carryforwards.

Net sales for the quarter were $61.7 million compared to $64.9 million last year. Operating profits increased by 45 percent reflecting increased margins as well as the results of the instant coffee business acquired from Tetley, Inc. on Nov. 7, 1989.

Net income for the six months was $3,678,000 or $.47 per share versus $3,255,000 or $.42 per share. Last year's results included an unrealized pre-tax gain on marketable equity securities of $1.3 million ($.10 per share) and the extraordinary credit of $564,000 ($.07 per share).

Net sales were $119.4 million compared to $115.4 million in the year-ago six month period. Operating profits increased by 49 percent reflecting increased margins as well as the results of Jimbo's Jumbos, Incorporated acquired Nov. 14, 1988, and the acquired instant coffee business.

Dr. Leon Pordy, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, stated, "We are delighted with the results of our food service coffee operations and the significant contribution made by retail coffee in the second quarter. We are pleased with the operating profits of our peanut company as well as those from our recently acquired instant coffee operation."

Chock full o' Nuts Corporation roasts, packs and markets regular, instant and decaffeinated coffees under the Chock full o' Nuts label. Its best known coffee product is its premium, vacuum packed, all-method grind coffee. The Company is one of the largest marketers of food service and private label coffee, tea and beverage products, as well as the number one supplier of in-the-shell peanuts in the United States.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Motor Trend magazine, the world's automotive authority, today has named the Ford Aerostar 4WD its 1990 Truck of the Year. The Ford Aerostar 4WD outscored nine rivals to earn the magazine's annual Truck of the Year honors.

The field of 10 vans and sport/utility vehicles, ranging in base price from $10,897 to $18,625, included domestic and import vehicles.

Each entry was challenged to a series of nine objective and subjective tests, according to Motor Trend editors. The nine categories were styling and design, quality control, comfort and convenience, ride and drive, chassis dynamics, dollar value, utility and function, performance and handling.

The performance tests were comprised of 0-60 mph elapsed time, quarter-mile elapsed time, and combined EPA fuel economy, while handling included lateral acceleration, slalom speed, and braking from 60-0 mph.

Motor Trend editors scored the vehicles in the seven subjective categories. Results were tabulated by the national accounting firm of Ernst & Young.

In the end, the redesigned seven-passenger Ford Aerostar 4WD outdistanced the competition to become the Motor Trend Truck of the Year.

Originally introduced in May 1985 as a rear-drive mini-van, the fifth model-year version has come into its own for a variety of reasons, including its torquey, new four-liter multiport fuel-injected V-6 engine capable of producing 155 hp, a well-matched four-speed automatic overdrive transmission, and a powertrain that provides a hefty 5,300- pound towing capacity rating.

Additionally, its electronically activated full-time four-wheel- drive system directs power to the wheels with the most traction when road conditions warrant. Ford has developed a vehicle with a responsive engine tractable handling, abundant hauling and towing capabilities, and a high degree of comfort, said the Motor Trend editors. A detailed accounting of the entire testing and evaluation process for all candidates is described in Motor Trend's April Truck of the Year issue, on sale March 8.

HOUSTON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Shell Oil Company announced today the return of the popular Shell Answer Man and helpful Shell answer booklets that provide motorists tips on automotive safety, maintenance and repair.

The eight-page booklets will be available at Shell service stations across the country and inserted in national magazines beginning in March. The booklets also will be supported by 30-second television commercials that feature the Shell Answer Man, who will highlight key information from each booklet.

Written by a team of Shell experts, the answer booklets cover a wide variety of topics and serve as handy reference guides that may be stored easily in a car's glove compartment.

Shell's new corporate advertising program is reminiscent of the award-winning "Come to Shell for Answers" campaign that ran from 1976 until 1982. The campaign became a favorite among America's driving public and an advertising classic. In fact, more than one billion of the answer booklets were distributed during that period.

"This program offers us another opportunity to demonstrate our commitment to the consumer by providing a useful service," says Tom Stewart, Shell's manager of corporate communications. "Our new booklets will provide updated information that deals with today's more sophisticated automobiles along with timely environmental and safety issues.

"Besides, a segment of the driving public has never before been exposed to our information. Many of today's younger drivers were barely toddlers when that first campaign began in the mid-1970s," he says.

The new campaign should help remind motorists to perform necessary, routine maintenance tasks.

"We want to help consumers drive safer, longer," Stewart says. "We think the tips in these booklets will help drivers to do that and enjoy the pleasure of driving, too."

The first answer booklet -- "Simple Ways to Deal with Car Trouble on the Road" -- covers emergency repair tips and is written by Shell Auto Care Dealer Manny Gianakakos of Lincolnwood, Ill.

Other topics that will be covered in upcoming booklets include protecting your car and the environment, preventive car maintenance and safeguarding yourself and your car from crime. The booklets will appear in such national magazines as Reader's Digest, National Geographic, Sports Illustrated, Time, Newsweek and U.S. News & World Report.

SEATTLE (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Braathens S.A.F.E., the privately owned Norwegian airline, yesterday took delivery of the first Boeing 737-500 slated for European service, Boeing Commercial Airplane Group announced.

The airplane, certified by the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration in February, was delivered to Braathens in Seattle.

Braathens S.A.F.E., a launch customer of the 737-500, has ordered 25 of the twinjets.

Powered by CFM56-3B1 engines, the 737-500 will service European markets as Braathens expands its fleet. The airline currently operates 17 Boeing 737-200s and two 737-400s.

Launched as a program in May 1987, the 737-500 rolled out of the Renton plant June 3, 1989. First flight occurred June 30, 1989.

The -500 is the shortest version of the advanced technology 737s. It provides operators a quieter, more fuel-efficient replacement for the 737-200. In Braathen's configuration, the 737-500 will accommodate 124 passengers in a single-class cabin. The 737-500 complements the 737-300, which seats 128 passengers and the 737-400, which seats 146 passengers.

The three Boeing 737 models enable airlines to select the right airplanes to match traffic demands since all three offer a common type rating.

Other commonality advantages include reduced training, maintenance and spare parts costs.

Nineteen customers have ordered 193 of the 737-500s.

CHICAGO (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - On March 10, a new McDonald's Corporation (NYSE: MCD) commercial will highlight the excitement and delight thousands of Soviets experienced Jan. 31 when the Oak Brook, Ill.-based restaurant chain opened its first outlet in the Soviet Union.

Using footage primarily shot by McDonald's during this historic event in Moscow, Leo Burnett Company, Inc., the Chicago-based advertising agency, has woven those images together to create a special commercial: "Magic in Moscow."

The commercial begins as folk artist Bonnie Koloc sings, "There's still magic to be found out there. The magic of moments and times to share..." Visually, a snowy courtyard and sweeping long shot of Moscow's famed St. Basil's Church fills the screen. The commercial goes on to show how the fundamental themes of food, friendly folks and fun transcend geographic boundaries and create magic almost anywhere.

"From the moment we opened the restaurant, we saw nothing but smiles on both sides of the counter," said George A. Cohon, vice chairman of Moscow-McDonald's and president, CEO of McDonald's of Canada. "I'm very excited about sharing our Moscow experience through this television spot."

As the doors opened at the world's largest McDonald's, over 300 journalists from around the world recorded the event, watching as Soviets lined up in Moscow's Pushkin Square to enjoy their first taste of perestroika. By the end of the day, over 30,000 Muscovites joined the billions of other people McDonald's has served since it was founded in 1955.

"As we looked at the footage, it was apparent that this was truly a magic moment in history," said Cheryl Berman, executive vice president, group creative director at Burnett who wrote the lyrics for the commercial. "Seeing the Muscovites enjoy their first Big Mac and fries was moving. We wanted to capture that warmth, which has always been the core of McDonald's advertising, and craft it into something our audience could relate to."

Added senior producer Stuart Kramer, "This was an interesting project from a production standpoint. Since we didn't shoot the video, we were hoping that the images we wanted were there. We viewed over 30 hours of tape, searching for the right moments. The McDonald's of Canada film crews captured many. It was almost as if we had shot it ourselves."

The commercial will debut during NBC's American Cup Gymnastics on March 10. It will also air on the Academy Awards, March 26 on ABC. Other media dates will be scheduled later in the U.S. and Canada.

Moscow-McDonald's is a joint venture partnership between McDonald's Restaurants of Canada, Ltd. and the Food Service Administration of the Moscow City Council. The largest ever Soviet-Canadian venture, the Moscow-McDonald's agreement provides for an eventual 20 McDonald's restaurants and a state-of-the-art food production and distribution center. This outlet joins the more than 11,000 McDonald's worldwide.

RICHARDSON, TX (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - CompuTrac Inc. (AMEX: LLB), today announced they expect to report a 9 percent increase in operating revenues resulting in net income of $1.7 million for the fiscal year ending January 1990.

For the first time in company's history, operating revenues will exceed $13 million, reflecting continued positive acceptance of the company's products in the legal marketplace.

Quarterly operating revenues were $3,371,333, compared with $3,859,307 in the prior year's fourth quarter. Operating income totaled $592,453 in the quarter compared with $729,476 in the comparable prior period.

Pre-tax earnings closed at $639,906, down from $791,299. After income taxes at 33 percent, net income was $427,906 or 7 cents a share, compared with $544,493, or 9 cents a share in the prior quarter after income taxes at a 31 percent rate. There were 5,878,718 weighted average primary shares outstanding vs. 5,920,568 in the prior quarter.

For the 12 months, operating revenues rose 9 percent to a record $13,366,004 from $12,304,193 in the prior year. Operating income totaled $2,426,465 for the year compared with $2,417,289 in the comparable prior period. Pre-tax earnings were $2,628,935 vs. $2,690,358.

Net income (excluding an accounting change benefit of $434,000 recorded in the prior year) was $1,760,935 or 30 cents a share compared with $1,872,358 or 32 cents a share in the prior period. Subject to the accounting change benefit, net income in the prior period was stated at 39 cents a share. There were 5,917,195 weighted average primary shares outstanding vs. 5,944,005 in the prior year.

Although operating revenues increased significantly between periods, total expenses kept pace limiting operating income growth. Contributing to the increase expenses were additional personnel costs and capitalized software development amortizaion expenses. However, significant research and devlopment efforts have resulted in a new line of applications called "LawVision."

The LawVision products, which were publicly shown for the first time at the American Legal Association Conference in New York last week, were received with great enthusiasm from market analysts and prospective clients. The LawVision suite of products will mean a new look and feel for the CompuTrac system, making use by non-technical people a reality. These products will bring applications from the back-office to the desk of lawyers and secretaries, who have no computer technical ability whatsoever and allow them access to information in a fashion never before seen in this industry.

ATLANTA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Microvitec PLC of Bradford, England -- the parent company of Microvitec Inc., of Atlanta -- and Electrohome of Kitchener, Ontario have announced a joint agreement to manufacture and market video displays (monitors) worldwide.

Paul Dhesi, CEO of Microvitec PLC, said: "Both organizations should benefit significantly because of natural efficiencies that evolve when talents are merged. Together, we have considerable expertise in developing products for financial, medical, public information, OEM chassis and distribution applications. We'll also deliver the size, development capabilities and purchasing power necessary to succeed in a very competitive international marketplace."

Corporate resources will be pooled for the design, development, manufacturing and distribution of color and monochrome monitors. Each company will, however, retain an independent identity and its own trademarks.

David B. Lowater, Electrohome sector general manager, Display Systems, said: "For the most part, Electrohome will produce monochrome monitors for sale internationally by both companies, and Microvitec PLC will do the same for color units. Monitors marketed in North and South America will essentially carry the Electrohome trademark and be sold by its sales organization. In the U.K. and Europe, Microvitec PLC will be responsible for sales and distribution of the comprehensive color and monochrome product range."

The new arrangement should be phased in within six months, according to Lowater. In the interim all current products will be available as usual. Afterwards, the product range is expected to expand.

Both companies have built solid reputations for high performance products tailored to customer needs. This thrust will continue as joint development teams explore new opportunities.

ALEXANDRIA, VA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - United Way of America recently recognized J.C. Penney Company Inc. (NYSE: JCP), with a Spirit of America Summit Award for one of the three best corporate volunteer programs in 1989.

Spirit of America Awards honor companies, business leaders and employees for outstanding commitment to voluntarism and philanthropy in support of United Way. JCPenney was one of three companies recognized with a Summit Award for outstanding leadership in the Volunteer Programs awards category.

JCPenney, with over 1800 locations nationwide, and more than 190,000 associates (employees), carries out a tradition of community services to impact the quality of life in the communities it serves. Its corporate policy manuals contain guidelines and criteria for volunteer activities.

Newsletters, bulletin boards, and notices promote volunteer opportunities. National and local recognition of volunteer activities is provided through the James Cash Penney Award for Community Service. In addition, the JCPenney Golden Rule Awards recognizes the volunteer efforts of citizens in communities where JCPenney operates.

In 1989, JCPenney announced a youth component to its local and national Golden Rule Awards. The national winner will receive a $5,000 educational scholarship, and a $5,000 contribution to a non-profit organization of their choice.

The award was recently presented to JCPenney at United Way's National Volunteer Leaders Conference in Miami. The other two Spirit of America Summit Awards for outstanding leadership through volunteer programs went to Dayton Hudson Corp. and Houston Industries.

Spirit of America Awards are part of United Way of America's National Corporate Leadership (NCL) Program. More than 400 major corporations participate in the NCL Program.

United Way is the largest voluntary organization meeting health and human-service needs in communities across the country. The 2,300 independent United Ways collectively raise nearly $3 billion annually.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Steelcase Inc. has launched a new company that provides products which support the personalization and humanization of offices, it was announced today. The new company, Details will join the Steelcase Design Partnership, a group of leading contract furnishing, lighting and textile companies, formed in 1987.

"The creation of Details supports our ongoing commitment to meet changing office needs," said Frank Merlotti, president and chief executive officer of Steelcase Inc. "It will broaden our product line to include items that enhance all types of workspace, from clerical areas to CEO suites."

According to Merlotti, the formation of Details exemplifies the current "intrapreneurial" atmosphere at Steelcase. "Details is the brainchild of one of our own employees who saw a significant business opportunity and developed a sound business plan to support it," added Merlotti. "Under the auspices of the Steelcase Design Partnership, we are able to establish Details as an independent organization that will maintain its entrepreneurial focus."

Under the direction of Jack Cottrell, president, Details will provide a broad range of products -- from productivity-enhancing work tools to desk accessories. Cottrell, a former Steelcase district manager, saw the market need for such products and approached senior management at Steelcase Inc. with the idea of forming a new company to serve this area.

"Today, office workers spend more time in their offices than ever before," said Cottrell. "Our goal is to offer products that address the comfort and aesthetic needs of today's workplace, providing opportunities for workers to personalize their workspaces and boost their productivity and efficiency. To that end, we will be exploring new areas beyond traditional office accessories products, placing greater emphasis on innovative and attractive design."

Details draws on the talents of a network of independent designers to create its products. This network presently includes The Richard Penney Group, Fahnstrom and McCoy, IDTWO, and Stephen Copeland.

The first collection of products will be launched at NEOCON in Chicago in June 1990. A special display will be installed in the Steelcase showroom on the tenth floor of the Merchandise Mart. This initial product offering will include two product lines, Work Flo(TM) and Desk Scape(TM).

Following the June launch, Details products will be displayed in Steelcase regional showrooms and will be distributed to the contract market through the Steelcase dealer network. Added Cottrell, "As other markets for our products emerge, we will evaluate additional distribution opportunities."

"Details represents an important addition to our organization," noted Paul Brayton, president of the Steelcase Design Partnership. "It fills a key niche in our product offerings and will maintain the high standard of design that is synonymous with Steelcase Design Partnership products."

Like other companies in the Steelcase Design Partnership, Details will operate autonomously under its own management. In addition to Cottrell, the Details executive team includes David M. Gresham, director of design; James P. Kenyon, director of sales and marketing; and Alan H. Rice, director of finance and administration. Details will be based at 379 West Broadway in New York City.

Other member companies of the Partnership include ai, Brayton International Collection, Metro, DesignTex, and Vecta.

ROANOKE, VA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - A round trip March 31-April 1 from Birmingham, Ala., to Chattanooga, Tenn., will inaugurate the 24th year of Norfolk Southern's (NYSE: NSC) steam excursion program.

From then until mid-November Norfolk Southern plans to run 60 trips in 16 states, according to Carl S. Jensen, manager of steam operations. In 1989, more than 52,000 persons rode on 68 trips, he noted.

Between March 31 and Aug. 1, excursions will run in parts of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Plans for the spring and summer trips are announced in the first edition of Norfolk Southern's 1990 steam schedule. Plans for fall excursions will be announced in the second edition, which is to be issued in late spring, Jensen said.

Excursions will be sponsored by local chapters of the National Railway Historical Society and by railroad clubs and museums. Most will be powered by the world's largest active steam engine, the NW 2-6-6-4 Class A 1218, or the NW streamlined 4-8-4 passenger Class J 611.

The first edition of the 1990 steam schedule is available free from: C.S. Jensen, Manager, Steam Operations, Norfolk Southern, 8 N. Jefferson St., Roanoke, Va., 24042-0002. The schedule lists addresses and telephone numbers for trip sponsors, who can provide specific schedules, fare information and tickets.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The Washington-based Center for Democracy and the Philip Morris Companies (NYSE: MO), responding to an urgent request by the Senate of Poland, have donated a supply of personal computers, printers, copy machines, typewriters, fax machines and other equipment to the Senate, announced Center President Allen Weinstein.

A delegation of center staff and Philip Morris executives traveled to Warsaw last week bringing the first shipment of the urgently needed technical equipment to the Senate. During its two-day visit, the delegation met with Solidarity Leader Lech Walesa and leaders in both houses of the Polish Parliament.

Walesa personally thanked delegation head Guy L. Smith IV, vice president of Philip Morris Companies and a member of the board of directors of The Center for Democracy, for the equipment donation during a meeting at Solidarity headquarters in Gdansk last Friday. A second shipment of technical equipment donated by the two organizations will arrive in Poland next week.

The Center for Democracy has been working with the United States Congress since last December on the Congress's "Gift of Democracy" program for the Polish Parliament. On Feb. 9, the center organized a meeting of U.S. and West European legislative officials to discuss legislative assistance to the Polish Parliament. The U.S. congressional staff delegation that traveled to Poland to assess needs of the Polish Parliament stopped in Strasbourg to participate in this meeting. The center has since facilitated coordination between the U.S. Congress, the Canadian Parliament, and national parliaments in Europe on their respective assistance programs for the Polish Parliament.

The Center for Democracy plans to continue providing legislative and technical assistance to the Polish Parliament including working with the U.S. Congress on the "Gift of Democracy" program.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - MCI Communications Corporation (NADSAQ-NMS: MCIC) announced today it has purchased the assets of the Advanced Transmission Systems (ATS) Division of Western Union Corporation (NYSE: WU).

ATS provides private communications network capacity to large corporations and other common carriers.

The purchased physical assets, include rights-of-way, urban conduits and underground trenches, and active fiber optic systems, including more than 14 million feet of conduit and some 3 million feet of optical fiber cable in more than 100 major cities, as well as more than 3,000 building entrance links. In addition, MCI is assuming ATS' business contracts.

Terms of the transaction were not disclosed. Other assets and services of Western Union Corporation are unaffected by this purchase.

"The acquisition of the business agreements and physical assets of Advanced Transmission Systems complements MCI's current service offerings and provides our company with new and valuable facilities to enhance the MCI network and to better serve our large corporate customers," according to Bert C. Roberts Jr., president and chief operating officer of MCI. He added, "MCI today is the largest customer of ATS and this acquisition can only serve to improve MCI's capabilities and responsiveness to its growing customer base in the major cities of the U.S."

TROY, MI (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Richard A. Smith, president and chief operating officer of Newcor, Inc. (AMEX: NEW), announced the following results for the first quarter ended Jan. 31, 1990:

SALES AND EARNINGS

Sales	$11,530,000	$12,473,000
Net (loss) income	($2,390,000)(a)	$32,000
Income per share	($.81)(a)	$.01

(a) -- Includes one-time charge of $1,250,000, or $.42 per share, for the closedown of Newcor Canada Limited.

Despite moderately higher sales of precision parts, consolidated sales were below the prior year due to lower deliveries of special machines and systems. The first-quarter loss reflects idle capacity at certain operations and the charges for the shutdown of Newcor Canada.

The company's backlog of open orders was $41.5 million as of Jan. 31, 1990 compared with $39.6 million at the start of the year and $68.6 million a year earlier. The Jan. 31, 1990, backlog does not include four major orders for advanced welding and assembly systems valued at $50 million which were awarded to Newcor earlier this month. The new contracts will be included in the company's second-quarter backlog.

While sales and earnings are expected to improve over the remainder of fiscal 1990, results for the full year will not match 1989. Financial results should improve sharply in 1991 as a result of the recent new orders for manufacturing systems and the continuing strength of Newcor's precision parts businesses.

Newcor, headquartered in Troy, designs and manufactures custom machines and manufacturing systems as well as special precision machined parts. Newcor is listed on the American Stock Exchange.

AUSTIN, TX (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Dell Computer Corp. (NASDAQ: DELL) today announced that E. Lee Walker, president and chief operating officer, has changed his status with the company to take a less active role because of serious back problems resulting from complications related to surgery last May.

Walker will resign as president and chief operating officer but will continue to serve on the company's board of directors. He has been elected to the newly created position of vice chairman of the board.

"Lee Walker is one of the finest people I have ever known," said Michael S. Dell, chairman and chief executive officer. "He has played a very important role in the company during its critical, formative years and has helped us in the transition from a start-up company to a public corporation.

"In that process, one of Lee's most significant contributions was helping us build a strong and capable management team," Dell said. "We are fortunate that we will continue to benefit from the talent he has brought to the company and from his guidance as a member of our board of directors."

Walker's responsibilities will be assumed by other officers of the corporation, primarily Andrew R. Harris, senior vice president of marketing and international; and Joel J. Kocher, who has been promoted to senior vice presient of U.S.A. sales and support, reporting directly to Dell. Kocher was previously vice president and general manager of Dell USA, reporting to Walker.

Harris will assume operations management of the company's international subsidiaries in the United Kingdom, Canada, Germany, France and Sweden. Three years ago, he founded Dell's first international subsidiary in the United Kingdom and since has played a pivotal role in the company's successful program of international expansion. Through the first nine months of fiscal 1990 (Dell's fiscal year ended Feb. 2, 1990), international sales accounted for 21 percent of corporate revenues, up from 14 percent in the comparable period the prior year. Since April 1989, Harris has been responsible for worldwide marketing and corporate strategic planning, reporting to Dell. In this role, he has been instrumental in defining the company's product strategies and marketing plans.

As senior vice president of U.S.A. sales and support, Kocher will continue to be responsible for Dell's business in the United States. Under Kocher's leadership, domestic sales rose to $220 million in the first nine months of fiscal 1990, up 44 percent over the comparable period in fiscal 1989. During the same period, the quality of Dell USA's service and support earned it the top ranking in all three PC WEEK-sponsored polls of corporate customer satisfaction.

G. Glenn Henry, senior vice president of the Product Group, will continue to head the company's product development, quality, information systems and manufacturing function, reporting to Dell. A former IBM fellow, Henry has created a team of key executives in product design and development, procurement and manufacturing. Under his direction, the company has developed its first laptop and 386SX-based systems, has instituted stringent inventory controls and has made significant strides in improving product quality and manufacturing efficiencies. Every product introduced by Dell in the past year has won either an "Editor's Choice" or "Best Buy" award from leading PC-industry publications for outstanding quality, performance and reliability.

Dell Computer Corp. designs, develops, manufactures, services and supports a complete line of personal computers compatible with industry standards. The company is recognized in independent surveys as having the highest customer satisfaction level in the industry for its line of personal computers.

NEWTOWN, PA (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Aero Services International, Inc., a Pennsylvania-based aviation services company, announced today that on March 7, 1990, it obtained a Temporary Restraining Order from Federal District Court in New Orleans to permit it to continue with plans to hold its meeting of shareholders on March 29, 1990, in New Orleans, and further to enjoin a rival shareholders' meeting purportedly called for the same time and date by Ronald C. Nowling, a dissident shareholder.

Nowling had sought to call a meeting of the company shareholders for March 29 and subsequently filed an action in state court in Louisiana against the company and also against Triton Energy Corporation, its single largest shareholder, to enjoin his own meeting as well as any other meeting of shareholders of the company until certain issues regarding voting rights were resolved.

On March 5, 1990, Robert L. Starer, a shareholder and a director of the company, filed documents with the Securities and Exchange Commission indicating that he may have formed a group with Nowling and his wife, the dissident shareholders.

The restraining order obtained by the company and Triton restrains both the Nowlings and Starer from seeking to apply the Louisiana Control Share Acquisition Act to the voting by shareholders at any shareholders' meeting from relitigating prior orders of the federal court on this issue, and from issuing any further notices or proxies regarding shareholder meetings of the company that are not in compliance with Aero's bylaws and state and federal laws.

The Federal District Court in New Orleans also enjoined the Nowlings and Starer from taking any action to hold the rival shareholders' meeting purportedly called by the Nowlings. Besides issuing the restraining order the federal court set a hearing for later this month to consider the appropriateness of extending the injunction in favor of the company and Triton.

GLEN COVE, NY (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - Pall Corporation (AMEX: PLL) today reported its orders, sales and earnings for the second fiscal quarter ended Jan. 27, 1990.

Earnings for the quarter were $13,435,000, equal to 35 cents per share, compared to last year's $11,813,000, or 31 cents per share. Sales for the quarter were $134,084,000, up 13-1/2 percent over last year's $118,339,000.

In commenting on these results, Pall President and CEO Maurice G. Hardy noted that price increases of 3 percent offset the effect of lower exchange rates, and that unit growth for the quarter was 13-1/2 percent.

Hardy also said that incoming orders were on target for annual increases of about 19 percent for health care, 12 percent for aeropower, and 15 percent for fluid processing.

DFW AIRPORT, TX (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The nation's air transportation system is a vital component of the U.S. economy.

It underpins the country's economic vigor and is essential to U.S. competitive capabilities in the emerging global marketplace.

American Airlines congratulates Secretary of Transportation Samuel Skinner for having the foresight and vision to produce a comprehensive package of transportation-related initiatives.

We are particularly enthusiastic about the policy's stated goal of "removing the barriers the impede efficiency and restrict the free flow of interstate and international commerce," and of its recognition of the importance of devoting the resources necessary to devlop a fully capable transportation infrastructure.

While welcoming this initiative, we are concerned about the wisdom of focusing responsiblity for financing the transportation infrastructure so heavily on system users. It is possible that such a policy may lessen the vigor of the transportation system and, ultimately, weaken the national company.

However, we enthusiastically support Secretary Skinner's determination to find ways, within the constraints of a user-funding policy, to overcome the shortages of capacity, facilities and technology which have hampered the system's growth in recent years. We hope that in the months ahead, the new statement, and Secretary Skinner's vigor, will lay the groundwork for an even more healthy and competitve air transportation system.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - The United Shareholders Association today announced that the group has lodged a formal complaint with the Securities and Exchange Commission against "false and misleading" statements made by management at Lockheed Corporation (NYSE: LK).

The statements were contained in a full-page Washington Post advertisement which is part of an $8 million campaign launched to defend Lockheed management in a proxy contest against NL Industries (NYSE: NL) and to defeat pro-shareholder proposals submitted by major Lockheed shareholders, including the New York City Employee Retirement System and the California Public Employee Retirement System, USA said.

According to USA Director Ralph Whitworth, the Lockheed campaign is "an obvious case of management spending shareholder money to fight against shareholder rights." Whitworth noted, "if Lockheed took the $8 million it plans to spend against these proposals and distributed it to shareholders, the average shareholder would get $539."

The company's campaign complains that "none of these (NL Industries-supported) nominees has any direct personal investment in Lockheed." It also tells shareholders that "NL Industries is seeking to take control of your company without making an offer to acquire it or announcing any specific plans." Finally, management urges opposition to the investors' efforts to eliminate the company's poison pill management defense scheme, which the ad calls a "shareholder rights plan," USA said.

"It is misleading for management to claim that the NL Industries board nominees are unqualified because they own no Lockheed stock," said Whitworth, "when three of Lockheed's current board members, including the vice chairman of the board and chief operating officer, have purchased no stock in Lockheed. And, since none of the board members that currently control the company has made an offer to acquire it, making that statement about NL Industries' slate an obvious effort to mislead shareholders." NL Industries, led by Harold Simmons, owns 19 percent of Lockheed's stock, or 12 million shares, more than 100 times more than Lockheed's current board of directors' 69,238 shares.

Whitworth also noted that the use of the term "shareholder rights plan" to describe the company's poison pill, and the description of the plan as "designed in part to protect against the acquisition of control in the marketplace by any shareholder without paying a full and fair price for that right," falsely imply that the plan protects the rights of shareholders.

"Lockheed's poison pill is not a 'shareholder rights plan,'" Whitworth said. "It does nothing more than give Lockheed's board and management the right to decide whether Lockheed's shareholders can accept a premium offer for their stock. Lockheed's shareholders were smart enough to decide to buy the stock -- why does Lockheed's board think that the shareholders are not smart enough to know when to sell?"

USA is urging support for shareholder proposals to eliminate the company's poison pill, "golden parachute" executive severance plans, and defensive "greenmail" payments. USA also called on Lockheed shareholders to support proposals to require confidential proxy voting and exempt Lockheed form Delaware's "anti-shareholder" state law.

"These proposals, which are opposed by management, would protect the rights of Lockheed shareholders," said USA director Ralph Whitworth. "I urge every shareholder to support passage of these pro-shareholder reforms."

LAS VEGAS, NEV (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - In the future the postmark for the Apr. 15 tax deadline could become a collector's item, and taxpayers would no longer need to go to the post office for income tax forms.

Those are some possibilities according to Mail Boxes Etc. (NASDAQ: MAIL) (MBE), the nation's largest franchisor of postal, business and communication services with 1,100 centers nationwide. The reason: electronic filing promises quicker IRS refunds, and the use of credit cards to pay income taxes may signal a change in how taxpayers approach tax deadlines in the future.

MBE has already processed more than 15,000 refunds with approximately 50 percent of customers opting to receive a Refund Anticipation Loan (RAL) available in approximately 3 to 5 working days. With electronic filing, customers can also receive their IRS refund in as little as 12 working days with a direct deposit to their checking account or in as little as 18 days through the mail.

In Las Vegas, all 20 MBE centers offer the service. With just a month before this year's April 16 deadline, electronic filing is a great option for receiving your refund in a few days. This year the IRS estimated 10 million returns could be filed for quick refunds.

MBE's tax-time services are available as a result of the company's agreement with San Diego-based InstaTax Inc., and IRS authorized electronic filer. DiGennaro believes that electronic filing is the wave of the future. Faxing in tax returns will save operating costs in processing returns, and cut down on the IRS' massive paper accumulation.

Mail Boxes Etc. has centers in the United States, Puerto Rico, Canada, Mexico and Japan. Forbes magazine ranks the company No. 42 out of "America's 200 Best Small Businesses."

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The United Shareholders Association today announced that the group has lodged a formal complaint with the Securities and Exchange Commission against "false and misleading" statements made by management at Lockheed Corporation (NYSE: LK). The SEC strictly prohibits such statements in proxy solicitation materials under its Rule 14a-9.

The statements were contained in a full-page Washington Post advertisement which is part of an $8 million campaign launched to defend Lockheed management in a proxy contest against NL Industries (NYSE: NL) and to defeat pro-shareholder proposals submitted by major Lockheed shareholders, including the New York City Employee Retirement System and the California Public Employee Retirement System, USA said.

According to USA Director Ralph Whitworth, the Lockheed campaign is "a typical case of management spending shareholder money to fight against shareholder rights." Whitworth noted, "if Lockheed took the $8 million it plans to spend against these proposals and distributed it to shareholders, the average shareholder would get $539."

The company's campaign complains that "none of these (NL Industries-supported) nominees has any direct personal investment in Lockheed." It also tells shareholders that "NL Industries is seeking to take control of your company without making an offer to acquire it or announcing any specific plans." Finally, management urges opposition to the investors' efforts to eliminate the company's poison pill management defense scheme, which the ad calls a "shareholder rights plan," USA said.

USA is urging support for shareholder proposals to prohibit management from making "greenmail" payments, and to eliminate the company's "poison pill" and its "golden parachute" executive severance plans. USA also called on Lockheed shareholders to support proposals to require confidential proxy voting and exempt Lockheed form Delaware's "anti-shareholder" state law.

SUNNYVALE, CA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Atari Corporation (AMEX: ATC) today reported income from continuing operations of $5.8 million or 10 cents per share on sales of $170.6 million for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1989. This compares with income of $9.3 million on sales of $152.6 million for the fourth quarter ended Dec. 31, 1988. Net income was $5.7 million in the fourth quarter of 1989 as compared to a loss of $97 million last year.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, income from continuing operations was $4 million or 7 cents per share on sales of $423.6 million. This compares with income from continuing operations of $39.4 million on sales of $452.2 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 1988. Net income was $4 million for the year as compared to a loss of $84.8 million or $1.46 per share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1988.

The results for the quarter reflect continued revenue growth from the Atari ST and Atari PC4 MS-DOS compatible product lines, and from initial shipments of the new handheld Portfolio computer and Lynx handheld color video game machine. During the quarter, sales of certain products were facilitated by lowering prices in order to make room for our new product lines.

The decline in total sales for 1989 as compared to 1988 can be attributed to the decline in the United States of our traditional video game line. European markets continue to out-perform all other markets in both computers and video games.

Subsequent to year end, Atari consummated the sale of certain Southern California leasehold interests held by its discontinued Federated Group unit. No additional losses are anticipated on final disposition of Federated.

Sam Tramiel, president and chief executive officer, stated: "For Atari, 1989 was a transition year. It witnessed the introduction of a new generation of handheld machines -- the Lynx and Portfolio; and, the disposition of an extraneous business segment. For 1990, Atari is fully committed to regaining market share in the video game sector with products like the Lynx, increasing our market share in the personal computer sector with products like the Atari STE, and maximizing our opportunity in the handheld or palmtop computer business with Portfolio."

(MARCH 8) UPI - In a college basketball world in which new conference tournaments seemingly spring up every year, the Pacific 10 Conference lays one to rest beginning Thursday.

The fourth and final Pac-10 Tournament, which never has generated the interest or revenue of the other major college tournaments, opens at Arizona State with two games Thursday featuring the sixth- through 10th-place teams.

Thursday marks the beginning final stretch of conference tournaments, with all the major conferences beginning play by Friday. Also scheduled to begin play Thursday are the Big East and Southeastern conferences, with the Big Eight and Southwest conferences starting Friday.

All told, a total of 29 conference tournaments will have been completed by Sunday. Most are huge successes, but the Pac-10's is not. In December, conference presidents voted to end the tournament after this season.

Last year's tournament in Inglewood, Calif., earned $774,000. The 1988 version at McKale Center on the campus of the University of Arizona made $780,000. Other big-time conference tournaments generate in the $1 million-plus range.

''I think we would have eventually made the money some of those other conferences do if we had given it time,'' UCLA Coach Jim Harrick said. ''Our conference is spread out so far you knew this thing was going to take longer to take hold, but they never gave it a chance.''

Oregon State is top-seeded in this year's tournament, followed by No. 16 Arizona, California, UCLA and Oregon.

Arizona, seeking its third straight tournament title, have won their last 11 conference games. Arizona limited its conference opponents to 40.2 percent shooting this season, and no Pac-10 foe sank better than 47.6 percent of its field-goal attempts.

''Winning the co-championship meant an awful lot, given the fact we were six feet in the ground with dirt thrown on us after the first weekend (which featured losses at Oregon State and Oregon),'' Arizona Coach Lute Olson said.

The tournament begins with host Arizona State, 13-14, playing Washington, 11-16. Southern Cal, 11-15, then meets Washington State, 7-21 and loser of its last 17 conference games.

In Wednesday night's action, the list of teams gaining automatic berths to the NCAA Tournament grew to 12 with the addition of Northeast Louisiana and Northern Iowa.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Now that Philadelphia has reached the top of the Atlantic Division, exuberant Sixers forward Charles Barkley is calling for his team to maintain perspective.

Philadelphia defeated the New York Knicks 110-93 Wednesday night to move past the Knicks into first place by a half-game. The triumph was Philadelphia's third in four meetings and moved the Sixers into first place this late in a season for the first time since the 1982-83 championship campaign.

''We're glad to be in first place but we don't want to get too high or too low,'' said Barkley, who had 15 points, 12 rebounds and 11 assists. ''We've got a long way to go.''

The Sixers scored the last 15 points of the first quarter to take a 31-14 lead at the end of the period. Hersey Hawkins, who finished with 26 points scored 12 in the period and 5 in the 15-0 run.

''I like the way we're playing right now but the key is to keep it going '' said Philadelphia Coach Jim Lynam.

The Sixers exteneded the lead to 25 points in the second quarter and never let the Knicks closer than 12 points the rest of the way.

''When you're playing a team like that, it's nice to get a spurt,'' Hawkins said. ''Everybody expected it to go down to the wire and so did we. But we played good defense, they didn't hit their shots and we were able to hold on to the big lead.''

New York, which has lost six of its last 10, received 26 points from Johnny Newman, 23 from Gerald Wilkins and 20 from Patrick Ewing.

''They played like a first-place team,'' New York Coach Stu Jackson said. ''We wanted to compete and we haven't been doing that lately. They had the hunger tonight.''

''A game like this could be a turning point for Philly,'' Wilkins said. ''They've got over this hump and now they can go on to beat some very competitive teams and that is scary.''

-- AROUND THE NBA --

Elsewhere, Phoenix nipped Washington 113-111, Portland pounded Boston 130-117, the LA Clippers nipped New Jersey 119-115, Miami dumped Orlando 122-105, the LA Lakers defeated Dallas 103-91, Denver beat Minnesota 86-73.

SUNS 113, BULLETS 111

BLAZERS 130, CELTICS 117

At Boston, Clyde Drexler, who had his string of 183 consecutive double-digit games snapped, scored season-high 39 points, and added 12 assists and 11 rebounds for Portland. Boston was paced by Larry Bird's 22 points.

CLIPPERS 119, NETS 115

At East Rutherford, N.J., rookie Jeff Martin came off the bench to score 6 points during a fourth-quarter surge for the Clippers. The Nets were led by Purvis Short with 25 points.

HEAT 122, MAGIC 105

At Miami, rookie Scott Haffner scored 10 of his 14 points in the first five minutes of the fourth quarter to seal the Heat triumph. Miami was led by Rony Seikaly with 31 points and 21 rebounds. Reggie Theus scored 31 points for Orlando.

LAKERS 103, MAVERICKS 91

At Dallas, James Worthy scored 24 points and hit a 3-point shot with 4:35 remaining to halt a Dallas comeback bid. Los Angeles' Magic Johnson scored 21 points, including 4 3-point shots. The Mavericks were led by Derek Harper with 24 points.

DENVER 86, MINNESOTA 73

At Minneapolis, Danny Schayes scored 24 points and Walter Davis came off the bench to add 15 to help Denver win its fourth straight. Denver tied a franchise record by holding Minnesota to 73 points.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan, likening the supermarket to the Tower of Babel, has announced the first major government effort to improve food labeling in 17 years.

Sullivan said Wednesday the labeling changes are needed to reduce the ''confusion and frustration'' that exists among Americans trying to select healthful foods.

''Some food labels are hard to read and understand. Vital information is missing. And frankly some unfounded health claims are being made in the market place,'' Sullivan said. ''It's a real mess.''

The labeling changes to be proposed by the Food and Drug Administration this year will require most foods to carry consistent nutrition labels, Sullivan said.

Currently, the FDA requires nutrition labeling only when a food company adds vitamins, minerals or protein or makes a nutritional claim. About 60 percent of all packaged foods currently bear nutrition labels, most provided voluntarily by manufacturers.

Other changes include establishing uniform serving sizes, and standardizing currently unregulated descriptions like ''low fat'' and ''high fiber,'' the health secretary said.

''The grocery store has become a Tower of Babel, and consumers need to be linguists, scientists and mind readers to understand the many labels they encounter,'' Sullivan said, referring to the biblical story in which God mixed up human language and people could not understand each other.

The last time U.S. food labels were changed significantly was in 1973, when the FDA established requirements based on a conference convened by President Richard Nixon.

It will probably take about a year before any of the new regulations take effect, FDA officials said.

In a speech to the National Food Policy Conference, Sullivan outlined the FDA's strategy for revising food labeling to provide better nutritional information.

Within the next six months, the FDA will propose rules to:

-Require nutrition labeling for all foods that are ''meaningful sources'' of nutrition. Some spices, flavors and foods made by small businesses may be exempt.

-Mandate new nutrients - such as saturated fat, fiber, cholesterol and calories from fat - be listed on labels. Make some currently required nutrients, such as thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, optional.

-Ensure standard serving size.

In a second stage of proposals, which will start ''later this year,'' the FDA will aim to:

-Standardize descriptive terms such as ''low fat'' and ''high fiber.''

-Begin consumer tests of different label formats.

-Possibly require the percentage of each ingredient be listed. Currently, just the names of ingredients are listed in order of weight.

The third phase of food labeling changes, starting in 1991 ''and beyond,'' will involve making specific changes to the food label format, Sullivan said.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Cuban leader Fidel Castro is quoted saying he'll end military co-operation with Nicaragua once President-elect Violeta Chamorro takes office. But the Cuban news agency says co-operation on medical issues and a project to build new housing could be maintained if the new Nicaraguan government agrees. Havana and Managua developed close military and economic ties during more than a decade of Sandinista rule. Those years of rule end April 25th when Chamorro takes office.

The Senate continues working its way through new clean air legislation. On Wednesday, it voted to preserve states' rights to set more stringent limits on radioactive industrial emissions than those set by the federal government. Later in the day, the Senate defeated an amendment that proposed to lower the amount of oxygen required in gasoline for 44 areas which do NOT meet standards for carbon monoxide emissions in winter months.

Two U-S Army sergeants face a federal trial in Miami and then a court-martial after being indicted on charges of smuggling cocaine from Panama to the United States in duffel bags. Prosecutors say Raphel Fultz and Jarvis Earl Worelds are among 20 people indicted Wednesday. The others are civilians. The U-S attorney in Miami says there's NO evidence of involvement by any of the soldiers who were part of the invasion of Panama in December.

A team from the National Transportation Safety Board has arrived in Philadelphia to investigate Wednesday's subway train derailment that killed three people and injured 152 others. Transit officials say the accident may've been caused by a motor coming loose under one of the cars and dragging along the tracks. But an N-T-S-B spokesman says it's too early to speculate.

(MARCH 8) UPI - An ice storm that swept through Iowa Wednesday has left about 75-thousand customers in and around Des Moines in the dark. In addition to falling branches and ice knocking down power lines, utility officials have discovered major damage to high voltage lines stretching from just north of Des Moines to Sioux City. They say between 15 and 20 miles of towers may have collapsed.

Freezing rain also stung parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin Wednesday. The rain was part of a savage winter storm that dumped heavy snow from the South Dakota Blackhills to the Nebraska Panhandle. One day earlier, the same storm brought things to a halt in cities in the Rockies with near blizzard conditions. Many highways remained closed Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Senate leaders are battling to preserve a delicate pact on clean air legislation, hounded by potential killer amendments and a reluctance among some to complete action by the end of the week.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell urged his colleagues to offer their amendments and threatened them with late night and even a session on Saturday.

But during a lengthy day Wednesday, the Senate made only marginal progress and several Republicans, including Sens. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, and William Armstrong, R-Colo., indicated they wanted more time to study the bill.

On the first major vote, the Senate stripped from the bill a provision that would have eliminated the authority of the Environmental Protection Agency - and thus the states - to regulate radioactive emissions under the Clean Air Act.

The action came on a voice vote after after the Senate first refused 61-36 to kill the stripping amendment.

By wiping out the EPA's regulatory authority, the provision also would have eliminated states' powers to set their own limits for radioactive pollution from nuclear power plants, uranium mines and other facilities using radioactive materials, such as hospitals and universities.

Later, the Senate defeated by 53-43 an amendment by Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., proposing to lower from 3.1 percent to 2.7 percent the amount of oxygen required in gasoline for use in 44 areas that do not meet the standards for carbon monoxide emissions in winter months.

Lautenberg argued that the higher percentage would force communities to turn only to gasahol, which he said was the only alternative fuel which could meet the 3.1 percent standard.

Sen. Thomas Daschle, D-S.D., said there are six other oxygenated fuels that can meet the 3.1 percent and said reducing the oxygen percentage standards would result in the additional release of 400,000 tons of carbon monoxide each year.

The pre-emption section, quietly inserted in the during Senate committee action last fall, would have given the Nuclear Regulatory Commission sole authority to regulate radioactive emissions under the federal Atomic Energy Act, which bars states from overseeing NRC-licensed facilities.

Opponents of pre-empting state controls questioned the NRC's vigilance on radioactive emissions and said the EPA and state authorities provided ''an important safeguard'' to ensure regulations were tough enough.

''If the NRC is not doing its job, then the EPA and the states will act to assure the public health is protected,'' said Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio. ''States must be free to act to protect their citizens.''

Glenn said the NRC's rules on radioactive emissions were - for many types of nuclear facilities - 50 times weaker than existing EPA standards.

However, supporters of the pre-emption provision said that in the 13 years states have had regulatory authority over radioactive emissions, few have exercised those powers, indicating state officials feel the NRC is doing a good job.

MIAMI (MARCH 8) UPI - Drug trafficking by U.S. soldiers stationed in Panama and elsewhere does not appear to be a major problem, despite the indictment of two Army sergeants on cocaine charges, Miami's chief federal prosecutor says.

''There is no evidence of massive involvement of soldiers in drug trafficking,'' Dexter Lehtinen, the U.S. attorney for south Florida, said Wednesday, shortly after announcing the indictments.

Two U.S. Army sergeants were indicted by a Fort Lauderdale grand jury along with 18 others on drug charges stemming from a smuggling ring that shipped cocaine from Panama to the United States in duffel bags, authorities said.

The ring apparently was limited to those charged, and did not involve any troops sent to Panama during the U.S. invasion in December, Lehtinen said.

''The individuals named here were stationed in Panama prior to the extensive increase in armed forces there. We are confident with the scope of this that the operation has been shut down,'' he said. ''Frankly it is not surprising that a couple of soldiers were running drugs.''

Col. Mark Mueller, commander of the 3rd region of the Army's Criminal Investigation Command, said Army investigators believe the arrests ended the smuggling operation.

''There is no appearance of any other individuals working in conjunction with this operation other than those named here,'' Mueller said, adding that there was no evidence linking the ring to the notorious Medellin cartel.

Named as defendants in the indictment were Sgt. Raphiel Fultz, who is in custody in Miami, and Sgt. Jarvis Earl Worelds, who was arrested at Fort Ord in California.

Both men will be tried in federal court in Miami before being turned over to the Army for court-martial, Lehtinen said.

Nine Colombians were in custody in Miami and one Panamanian was being held in his homeland, Lehtinen said. The other defendants were fugitives.

Charges contained in the indictment include conspiring to import narcotics importing of 66 pounds of cocaine, attempting to import 396 pounds of cocaine, conspiring to distribute cocaine, attempting to possess cocaine and one firearms count. The alleged criminal activities took place between Oct. 1, 1989 and Feb. 27 of this year.

Lehtinen said there was no evidence supporting media reports that a nighclub bombing in Panama last Friday was connected with the drug smuggling operation. One American soldier died in the blast and 32 other people were injured.

''No, there's no reason for that speculation,'' he said.

Lehtinen said Fultz was arrested in January at his Sunrise home following a tip to Drug Enforcement Administration agents that he was involved in shipping cocaine from Panama to south Florida. Fultz was stationed in Panama, but was on leave when arrested.

Agents found $100,000 in Fultz's home during his arrest, and the sergeant confessed the money was payment for shipping 66 pounds of cocaine to the Miami area Jan. 10, Lehtinen said. He also confessed to shipping 8.8 pounds of cocaine to south Florida Oct. 1, 1989.

The shipments were sent in duffel bags through the Army's mail system and escaped detection by customs officers, Lehtinen said.

Following his arrest, Fultz began working undercover in Panama and introduced an agent with the Army's Criminal Intelligence Division to the smuggling operation that allegedly involved the other defendants.

The ring arranged for the shipment of 396 pounds of cocaine in duffel bags through the Army's mail system to Fultz's Sunrise home, Lehtinen said. Five Colombians came to the house Feb. 27, paid Fultz agent $100,000 and took the cocaine to a house in Miami, where they were arrested.

Worelds was arrested the same day in Fort Ord and four other Colombians and one Panamanian were arrested in Panama, Lehtinen said. The Colombians were sent to the United States for prosecution.

About 13,000 soldiers have been withdrawn from Panama after the invasion, which deposed Manuel Noriega as dictator. Noriega is awaiting trial in Miami on drug-trafficking, conspiracy and racketeering charges stemming from his activities while de facto ruler of Panama.

(MARCH 8) UPI - A jury has been selected and opening arguments are scheduled Thursday in the Iran-Contra trial of former national security adviser John Poindexter. The first witness to take the stand in the federal courtroom in Washington, D-C, will be former White House aide Oliver North... who was convicted last year on three charges stemming from the scandal. But first, U-S District Judge Harold Greene will rule on a defense motion that North's testimony about his former boss be limited.

On Thursday, President Bush will unveil a new transportation policy that seeks to ease traffic jams and increase state and local highway spending through tolls and other user fees. Transportation Secretary Skinner will detail the plan to Congress later in the day. Local officials and the American Trucking Association say a new policy is badly needed. But they worry about being stuck with BILLIONS of dollars in increased costs.

Moscow's ambassador to the European Community is urging the West NOT to attach any strings to its aid to Eastern Europe. The Soviet envoy told the Center for European Policy Studies in Brussels Wednesday that aid linked to specific democratic reforms represents a ''new monster'' on the horizon. Several Western institutions... including the European Commission... call for countries receiving economic aid to meet certain levels of democratization.

Authorities at Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island nuclear power plant say a leak that released tiny amounts of radiation into the atmosphere for 28 hours was halted Wednesday. The leak in the Number One reactor was discovered Tuesday morning when operators attempted to restart the reactor following a two-month routine shutdown for maintenance. The Number Two reactor has been idle since suffering a near meltdown in the nation's worst nuclear accident in March 1979.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Jacqueline Onassis and the Wampanoag Indians settled a 10-year dispute over beachfront lands on Martha's Vineyard with cash and a land swap approved in probate court in Edgartown, Massachusetts, Wednesday. The case stemmed from the refusal of Onassis to allow public access to a one-and-a-half-acre site in the Gay Head section of the island. Indians consider the land sacred. The site is surrounded by her sprawling 380-acre oceanfront estate.

The Seattle Landmarks Preservation Board denied landmark status Wednesday for the Blue Moon Tavern, where prize-winning writers and counterculturists gulped beer between arguments and scribbled grafitti in Sanskrit. The ruling means the Blue Moon could be razed to make way for a luxury apartment development. However, the owners of the fumy beer joint have four more years on a five-year lease at a busy corner on the edge of Seattle's University District. They say they will pursue other options to keep the Blue Moon alive.

MEXICO CITY (MARCH 8) UPI - Cuban leader Fidel Castro announced his communist nation will end military cooperation with Managua by the time Nicaraguan President-elect Violeta Chamorro takes office, the official Cuban news agency Prensa Latina reported.

Castro also said Wednesday that an unspecified number of Soviet-made MiG-29 jet fighters had arrived in Cuba, the news agency reported.

''President Fidel Castro announced today the withdrawal of Cuban military cooperation with Nicaragua as soon as the new government assumes (office), or maybe before that,'' Prensa Latina quoted Castro as saying. ''It would not be conceivable to maintain it with the presence of a government that has amply expressed its aversion to the Cuban revolution.''

Chamorro, the U.S.-backed candidate who scored a surprise election victory over President Daniel Ortega Feb. 25, is scheduled to take office April 25 ending more than a decade of Sandinista rule.

Castro had developed close military and economic ties to Nicaragua during the period of Sandinista rule, supplying Managua with petroleum and food in addition to other forms of aid. Both nations also have been the Soviet Union's closest allies in Latin America.

The agency, in a dispatch monitored in Mexico City, said cooperation with Nicaragua in the area of medicine and on a project to build houses for 1,000 families could be maintained if the new Nicaraguan government agreed.

A decision on the future of some 1,000 Cuban advisers in Nicaragua will be made taking ''into consideration the opinion of the Sandinistas and the new authorities,'' Prensa Latina quoted Castro as saying.

Castro, who has been in power since 1959 when his revolutionay forces ousted dictator Fulgencio Batista, has vowed to stand by Marxist-Leninist principles despite democratic inroads in the Soviet Union and Warsaw Pact nations.

Prensa Latina quoted Castro as saying Cuba could no longer continue to supply Nicaragua with 90,000 tons of petroleum annually. He also said food and other products for the inhabitants of the Caribbean coast of Nicaragua would be eliminated.

''These might also have to have been withdrawn in the case of a Sandinista victory,'' Castro said.

Castro announced the arrival in Cuba of Soviet-made MiG-29 jet fighters, but he did not specify how many. He rejected U.S. charges that the presence of the jets affects the security of the United States. Cuba is less than 100 miles south of Florida.

''The dispatch (of MiG-29s) is the result of accords established between Cuba and the Soviet Union,'' Prensa Latina quoted Castro as saying.

He said that despite Moscow's economic and political upheaval, the Soviet Union is still adhering to its economic accords with Cuba. The Soviet Union sends an estimated $5 billion in annual aid to Cuba.

The news agency reported Castro said Cuba was prepared should there be a reduction or elimination of Soviet aid.

''Anything can collapse ... but Cuba will not fall,'' Castro said. ''The Cuban Revolution is a spine, a bone stuck in the throat that could neither sell out nor give up. Yankees know this.''

POMONA, Calif. (MARCH 8) UPI - A mild aftershock rolled across parts of Southern California late Wednesday, shaking residents but apparently causing no serious injuries or damage, officials said.

The aftershock, measuring 3.5 on the open-ended Richter scale, struck at 10:25 p.m. and was centered 4 miles north-northeast of Pomona, one of four cities hardest hit by last month's 5.5 temblor.

The Caltech Seismology Laboratory in Pasadena said the quake was an aftershock to the Feb. 28 quake, which resulted in several injuries and more than $10 million in damage.

The other cities hit hard by the initial quake were Upland, Claremont and La Verne, all on the Los Angeles-San Bernardino county line.

Residents from across the region reported feeling the aftershock Wednesday describing it as a rolling motion.

Douglas Smith, a spokesman for Caltech, said the aftershock, although felt by a large number of residents, was not extraordinary in seismic terms.

''(A) 3.5 is not all that big as far as earthquakes go,'' Smith said. ''It's right on the border of not being felt at all.''

Smith said the aftershock was traced to a cluster of faults that intersect the foothills north of Upland.

(MARCH 8) UPI - A number of senators have urged Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole to intercede in the contract dispute between striking Greyhound bus drivers and the owners of the nation's largest intercity bus line.

''We urge you to take an active role in seeking to resolve this dispute on an expedited basis,'' the group of 11 senators said in a letter to Dole, the nation's top transportation official. ''Your timely intervention could avert major disruptions of interstate commerce that threaten the safety of the traveling public.''

The letter was sent to Dole as Greyhound said it doubts resuming talks with the union representing striking drivers would prove fruitful while the drivers refuse to budge on their demands.

The strike began March 2, when many of Greyhound's 9,000 union drivers, baggage handlers, mechanics, ticket agents and reservation clerks walked off the job after five days of intense talks in Phoenix failed to yield a new three-year contract.

Greyhound carried 22 million passengers last year, and is particulary crucial to low-income travelers who live in smaller communities.

''The importance of this service cannot be overestimated,'' the senators said, noting that the bus line is also a major carrier of emergency medical supplies throughout the country.

The company responded to the crisis by hiring replacement drivers, but the senators joined the union in questioning ''the safety of this makeshift approach.''

''There are serious questions about the training and previous driving records of these replacement drivers,'' they wrote, citing an accident last weekend in Redding, Calif., where a striking employee, Robert Waterhouse, was struck and killed by a bus driven by a replacement driver.

A memorial was held for Waterhouse, 59, Wednesday, with nearly 500 mourners - half of them striking drivers wearing their uniforms and black armbands - marching two miles in Redding. Drivers across the nation observed five minutes of silence in memory of Waterhouse.

Greyhound's chief negotiator, Anthony P. Lannie, said the company has no more to offer the union and the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Unions should understand that the company has already ''offered every single red cent that it can afford to pay.''

''No new talks ... are scheduled because we have not received a request for talks that would be fruitful at this time, given the present attitude of the council,'' Lannie said.

Lannie said union president Edward Strait requested an ''off-the-record'' meeting with company negotiators, but Strait had no new proposals to make.

''Instead, he engaged in a rambling conversation that was nothing more than a rehash of issues discussed at the negotiating table and a repeated demand that the company raise its wage for drivers,'' Lannie said.

Greyhound, based in Dallas, has obtained court orders in at least 11 cities, including Los Angeles, Chicago and Philadelphia, limiting the activities of pickets at terminals and bus yards.

The last strike against Greyhound was in 1983 and lasted 48 days. Greyhound was sold in 1987 to a group of Dallas-based investors headed by Fred G. Currey.

Late last year Greyhound offered the union a new contract that included what the company described as a 6.9 percent increase in wages and benefits in the first year of the three-year contract. The union rejected that offer but has refused to disclose its demands.

The company has accused drivers, who now average $24,700 a year, of asking for wage hikes that could be financed only through a fare increase. Each side has accused the other of distorting its positions.

The letter to Dole was signed by Sens. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., John Heinz, R-Penn., Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Brock Adams, D-Wash., Paul Simon D-Ill., John Rockefeller, D-W. Va., and James Jeffords, R-Vt.

LINDEN, NJ (MARCH 8) UPI - Cleanup crews expect to be sopping up more than 100,000 gallons of spilled fuel oil in the Arthur Kill waterway for at least two weeks, but hope the weather helps dissipate the mess, officials said Thursday.

Lt. Junior Grade Cedric Hughes, the U.S. Coast Guard's assistant pollution response officer, said the worst of the spill - precipitated by a thunderous pair of explosions aboard an oil barge in the waterway between Staten Island and New Jersey - remained near the barge itself.

''There weren't many other trouble areas besides that, thank God,'' Hughes said early Thursday. ''What remains is being vacuumed up. But with this type of light fuel, the sun as well as nature play a big part. It'll disperse with the wind and current.''

Coast Guard spokesman Gene Hoff earlier described the last part of the cleanup as the ''hardest ... because you're going after the splotches.''

''As seen just before dusk (Wednesday) there were scattered, broken (patches of oil) and very light sheen left in the Arthur Kill waterway,'' a statement from the Guard said.

Hughes said crews would be involved in cleanup in the Arthur Kill ''for at least two weeks.'' The Coast Guard said it deployed Wednesday more than 200,000 feet of boom to contain the oil and protect Pralls Island - where a bird sanctuary is located - Shooters Island, the Rahway River, Morses Creek, Old Place Creek and the Arthur Kill above the Rahway River - all considered sensitive areas.

More than 100,000 gallons of fuel of a 4.4 million gallon shipment were blown off the barge on Tuesday when two explosions ripped through the ship nearly tearing it in half.

Most of the oil was contained by booms, and the Coast Guard late Wednesday said skimmers recovered tens of thousands of gallons by late Wednesday.

The Coast Guard, the lead agency in the cleanup, had only a rough estimate on the size of the spill because investigators did not know how much oil burned off during the fire.

But investigators from environmental agencies who examined the area believed the spill did little damage.

The Coast Guard Wednesday night reopened the Arthur Kill from the north as far south as Pralls Island and from the south as far north as Tufts Point.

Earlier, New Jersey Gov. Jim Florio toured the area, including the damaged Cibro Savannah.

''I'm getting a bit tired of coming out to these things,'' the governor said, as he viewed his second Arthur Kill spill in less than a week. ''The water can't take it. The air can't take it and most assuredly the people can't take it.''

''What's being done here, whether it's in compliance with the law or not has to be changed,'' he added. ''If the laws have to be changed, we'll change them.''

Firefighters used water pressure to push the crippled barge back to the dock and to hold it there. About half of the barge's 12 tanks were undamaged and much of its cargo was considered salvageable.

Meanwhile, Coast Guard officials began their investigation into the cause of the huge blast while New York and New Jersey environmental agencies were deciding whether any laws have been violated.

The spill was the latest of environmental mishaps to plague the local waterways since January. More than 500,000 gallons of oil leaked from a pipeline connecting Bayway with a Bayonne tank farm at that time; 27,000 gallons spilled last week while a barge was loading at Bayway.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - The Players Association, in an overture that could rescue Opening Day or put the season on the brink of cataclysm, offered Wednesday to compromise on the key issue of salary arbitration.

Under terms of the proposal announced early Thursday, Day 22 of the lockout, players in the disputed category would be ranked by total Major League service, with the top half eligible for arbitration and the bottom half not.

Union chief Don Fehr said the players have gone as far as they can to resolve negotiations that began in November. Chuck O'Connor, who represents the owners, said he felt the chances of it being accepted in that form were ''slim to none.''

''If those two suppositions hold, then I guess the prospects for a lockout of some length are pretty good,'' O'Connor said.

Owners insist that only players with three years of service be eligible, while the union, until its latest proposal, wanted the requirement reduced to two years.

Both sides offered compromise solutions on Wednesday, but the owners' was based upon money and performance while the players submitted a plan based on service time.

Opening Day is scheduled for April 2 and only an agreement this week could save that date. With the latest proposal on the table, a great deal more could be at stake.

Surrounded by players in a show of solidarity and with his voice tight with emotion, Fehr said the proposal represented the only way he could think of to prevent a prolonged lockout.

''What we have said is this is the best shot we can give it,'' Fehr said. ''This is the best we can do, and moreover, it is eminently fair. Nobody gets everything, and everybody gets half.

Fehr also said, if the proposal is not accepted, ''Don Fehr is out of ideas. I don't know where we go from here.''

''Players made the most reasonable move they could make,'' said Oakland right-hander Scott Sanderson. ''We split everything right in half. It's a legitimate compromise.

''We as players came into tonight with the thought in mind of closing this agreement and going to spring training. We gave it our absolute best shot. If this isn't accepted, then I feel saddened for the industry of baseball.''

O'Connor said he would present the proposal to the Player Relations Committee, and perhaps to other clubs, later Thursday.

''We urge them to think very long and very hard,'' Fehr said.

''I think we have made an effort on our side,'' O'Connor said. ''I believe the union has made an effort on their side to bridge this gap. But we're still far apart.''

Earlier in the day, the owners offered their own attempt to bridge the gap on players with two to three years of service. This proposal would place $4 million into a pool and would be distributed to players based on their performance.

Players dismissed the proposal and countered with their own, producing what O'Connor called ''shock'' on the part of some owners.

''They had been through the session this morning where we had a rather lengthy debate as to whether or not we could cross the line and say to the clubs, 'That which you believe you achieved in 1985 was going to be returned in the way of a $4 million bonus,''' O'Connor said.

The union said that Tim Belcher and Jeff Ballard, two pitchers who experienced star 1989 seasons but who are not eligible for arbitration, would not even make it under the union's proposed guidelines.

''I know how I feel not being able to arbitration after the two years I've had,'' Belcher said. ''I wanted to do all that I could to see that that didn't happen to players in the future.''

''I feel like the loss of dollars, not having the ability to arbitrate after the two good years I've had, is an enormous enough loss to fight to see that it doesn't happen to the Tim Belchers and Jeff Ballards of the future.''

Ballard went 18-8 with a 3.43 ERA. He owns two years and 30 days of service time. Belcher, 15-12, led the majors with eight shutouts. He has two years and 32 days in the big leagues.

Ellis Burks, Boston's star outfielder, would qualify under the union's proposal but not under the current system.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Through the muddle of unsettled division crowns and unexpected contenders, the defending Stanley Cup finalists Wednesday night reminded why possibility lurks for a rematch two months down the road.

Neither the reigning champion Calgary Flames nor Montreal Canadiens have wrapped up anything beyond a playoff berth. The Flames at least look a lock for home-ice advantage in the opening round of playoffs but almost nightly juggle the Smythe Division lead with the Edmonton Oilers. The Canadiens are three points out of second place (and first-round home ice) in the Adams Division.

Yet, in separate non-division games, they displayed the balance of spread-out offense, defensive priority and goaltending depth that allowed them to reach the Cup final last spring.

Each played depleted opponents; nonetheless the end result was that with the playoffs on the horizon, the Flames and Canadiens trotted out their proven formulas to dismiss supposed up-and-coming offensive powerhouses.

At Calgary, the Flames routed the Pittsburgh Penguins 6-3 after leading 5-0 in the third period. The Canadiens, on the road, shut down the Los Angeles attack to win 5-2.

A sign of the Flames' stretch-run mindset was their annoyance with the inconsequential late goals they surrendered.

''I don't think a lot of guys are very happy giving up three goals in the last six minutes,'' said winning goaltender Rick Wamsley, who lost his bid for a second straight shutout. ''It's something we have to be made aware of, that we have to work for 60 minutes.''

Similarily, the Canadiens showed their level of standards with outrage at a rare three-game losing streak.

''We were 0-3 on the road and I wasn't going to accept any excuses whatsoever tonight,'' Montreal Coach Pat Burns said. ''The boys had some rest here.''

The Flames used a 32-9 onslaught of shots through two periods to establish control; the Canadiens typically pounced on their opportunities while being outshot.

''Getting outshot means nothing,'' said Burns after Stephane Richer and Russ Courtnall each snared a breakaway score en route to two goals apiece.

No, but the sign of promise might.

-- AROUND THE NHL --

In other games, Winnipeg downed Quebec 6-3, and Minnesota edged Chicago 5-4.

FLAMES 6, PENGUINS 3

At Calgary, Alberta, Theoren Fleury scored short-handed during the Flames' three-goal first period and added two assists to help Calgary overtake the Edmonton Oilers for first place by one point and keep Patrick Division runner-up Pittsburgh six points behind the idle front-running New York Rangers.

CANADIENS 5, KINGS 2

At Inglewood, Calif., Richer scored on a breakaway on Montreal's first shot of the game and scored the go-ahead goal with 47 seconds left in the first period, 15 seconds after the Kings tied the score 1-1.

JETS 6, NORDIQUES 3

At Winnipeg, Manitoba, Dale Hawerchuk contributed a goal and two assists, and defenseman Teppo Numminen added a goal and assist to help the Jets clinch the Smythe's third playoff berth and send Quebec to its 12th straight road loss.Hawerchuk's three-point performance came on the heels of a five-assist effort.

NORTH STARS 5, BLACKHAWKS 4

At Bloomington, Minn., Brian Bellows scored during a power play at 8:52 of the third period to collect his 43rd goal of the season and send Chicago to its fifth straight loss. Goaltender Greg Millen made his first appearance since being traded from Quebec Monday for Chicago, which stayed two points behind St. Louis for the Norris Division lead. Minnesota pushed one point ahead of Detroit for the fourth and final playoff spot.

LONDON (MARCH 8) UPI - Authorities said hired troublemakers rather than local citizens were behind the violent demonstrations against a new tax to be levied in England and Wales next month.

Scores of people were wounded and arrested when police and demonstrators clashed in at least 12 cities and towns Tuesday night and Wednesday.

A woman handcuffed herself to the black rails outside Parliament, took off her raincoat and while nude displayed a banner that said ''No Poll Tax.'' Police freed her with bolt cutters, and arrested her on charges of being drunk and disorderly.

Asked for his reaction to the revealing demonstration, Lord St. John of Fawsley, 60, said, ''I am past the age, dear boy, of shock.''

The violence was worst in Bristol, where 500 demonstrators tried to storm council chambers during a meeting Wednesday that set the tax at $803 per adult. Four police were wounded and 21 people were arrested.

''The militants are on the march again,'' Conservative Party Chairman Kenneth Clark told The Daily Telegraph. ''These are rent-a-mob yobs, part of a carefully organized and orchestrated protest.''

Alan Eastwood, national chairman of the Police Federation, which represents 43 police forces in England and Wales, also blamed the violence on hired agitators.

''Everybody in the land feels a little aggrieved over this polls tax. A little is probably an understatement,'' Eastwood said, ''but people in this country do not take to arms, do not assault police officers when they feel aggrieved.

''Peaceful demonstrations have been a way of our life for years, but the people that are orchestrating the violence are not from the local communities,'' he said.

Steve Nally, secretary of the Anti-Poll Tax Federation, denied that the demonstrations were centrally plotted. ''The federation has never supported violence,'' he said.

Olive Dancer, who organized a demonstration in Maidenhead, denied that the protesters were outsiders. ''It is time the government listens to people '' she said.

The last time an English government imposed a poll or head tax was in 1381 precipitating the Peasant's Revolt, when mobs beheaded the archbishop of Canterbury and the treasurer. The tax was abandoned.

The community charge, commonly called the poll tax, requires local councils to set a flat sum that must be paid by every Briton who is at least 18 years old, with some exceptions.

Unlike income tax, or the property tax it replaces, the community charge must be paid regardless of wealth or earnings. Critics say the richest man in Britain, the duke of Westminster, will pay the same amount as his chauffeur.

After a morning lull, demonstrations resumed Wednesday afternoon in Plymouth, where five people were arrested after eggs were thrown during a council meeting.

About 2,000 demonstrators in Norwich forced a tax-setting meeting to be adandoned Tuesday night. Windows were smashed and 200 people threw rubbish at councillors.

The Windsor and Maidenhead council's attempt to set a poll tax was delayed when its offices were besieged by more than 500 protesters. Two people were arrested.

In Reading, up to 400 people tried to rush the council's headquarters, leaving at least three people injured. Police arrested five people.

In Birmingham, protesters invaded City Hall and stopped proceedings.

(MARCH 8) UPI - A winter snowstorm buried cities in the Rockies and hammered its way through Thursday the Plains, where ice storms knocked out power to thousands and made traveling on slickened roads a nightmare.

Heavy snow fell from the South Dakota Blackhills to the Nebraska Panhandle Wednesday. Lighter amounts fell over southeast Wyoming and northeast Colorado. Freezing rain stung parts of Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Up to a foot of snow hit the Nebraska Panhandle, closing a 102-mile westbound stretch of Interstate 80, from Big Springs to the Wyoming border and 55 miles of the eastbound lane from Wyoming to Sidney.

Iowa Power Co. officials in Des Moines said about 75,000 customers remained without power Thursday morning as a result of an ice storm Wednesday.

A high-voltage line between Johnston, just northwest of Des Moines, and Sioux City suffered extensive damage, spokesman John McCarroll said. At least 72 of the 90-foot steel towers holding the line may have collapsed.

McCarroll said up to 2 inches of ice was covering the line in places and other power lines continued to collapse or snap despite rising temperatures in the Des Moines area.

Some major Des Moines streets were either blocked or cut to one lane because of fallen trees and branches.

The National Weather Service issued a freezing rain advisory for Wisconsin and northern Illinois early Thursday, while thundershowers extended from central parts of Illinois south through northern Missouri.

Freezing rain was reported from Wausau, Wis., to Dubuque, Iowa. Temperatures were in the lower 30s and roads were glazed over with ice in both states. Chicago saw some light rain and temperatures around 34 degrees.

Michigan, still ahead of the major storm system that moved in from the Rockies, reported partly cloudy conditions with temperatures in the teens and 20s.

In the West, widespread rain moved through Washington and Oregon into Idaho Thursday. The same Pacific front was dissipating Thursday in California, where it only brought drought-stricken areas minor amounts of moisture. It left behind some high clouds and gusty winds but very little rain.

Showers and thunderstorms moved through parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana Thursday, and the weather service issued flash flood warnings and flash flood watches for much of the area.

Some heavy rain was reported in northeast Texas, southwest Arkansas and northwest Louisiana. Little Rock, Ark., received 3.48 inches of rain Wednesday, setting a new rainfall record for March 7.

Motorists were warned of reduced visibility as fog developed along the Texas-Louisiana Gulf Coast.

A cool air mass pushed moist Gulf air into portions of the South, causing scattered light showers in Mississippi, Alabama and north Georgia. Forecasters predicted the possibility of light rain in central and south Florida.

Temperatures dropped from recent mild readings, ranging from 44 at Charleston, S.C., to 49 in Atlanta, 52 in Knoxville, Tenn., 58 in Jacksonville, Fla., and 72 in Miami.

Southern New England dug out from a late winter storm that dumped as much as 6 inches on Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island Wednesday, as near-record cold settled in for an expected one-day stay.

Temperatures were in the mid-teens and low 20s Thursday morning under clear skies across New England. Forecasters said more seasonable temperatures would slowly return late Thursday and Friday.

Clear skies and sub-freezing temperatures prevailed over most of Pennsylvania, Maryland and southern New Jersey. Cloudy skies were reported over much of West Virginia, with light precipitation recorded in some western parts of the state.

Overnight temperatures across the mid-Atlantic region ranged from around zero in northeast Pennsylvania to the teens and 20s in Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia.

BEIJING (MARCH 8) UPI - Police in China's largest southern metropolis have established their first elite riot squad, and the city's paramilitary police detachment also has formed a SWAT-style team, the semi-official China News Service reported Thursday.

The new forces were set up in Guangzhou, formerly known as Canton, in order to ''attack serious and violent crimes and handle sudden incidents timely and well,'' the news service said.

The report did not elaborate on the timing for establishment of the new teams. But Guangzhou, the largest city in China's free-wheeling southern provinces, has been beset by hundreds of thousands of rural laborers who have flocked to the metropolis looking for work.

Authorities are known to be concerned about the possibility of urban instability among such a large transient population and have recently sent many of the hopefuls back to the rural provinces they left in search of better jobs.

The CNS report said Guangzhou police set up the riot squad, the city's first, and began training in recent days. Members were ''chosen strictly'' and will become a reserve force with a ''deterrent capability,'' it said.

At the same time, the Guangzhou branch of the People's Armed Police, a paramilitary force, has established a special team with ''rapid reaction capability,'' the report said. The force has already completed its basic training.

At a ceremony marking the new riot squad, CNS reported, a senior police official admonished the team to ''strengthen ideological and political study and master the ability to fight the enemy in order to win victory and become loyal guards of Guangzhou city.''

Several regions of China have already established such forces. The Beijing riot squad, formed in 1988, was deployed several times during last spring's pro-democracy protests.

MANILA, Philippines (MARCH 8) UPI - Foreign Secretary Raul Manglapus said Thursday he expected exploratory talks would begin in mid-April on the future of strategic U.S. military bases in the Philippines.

The talks either April 18 or April 19 will be ''open-ended'' and will determine whether Manila will extend the 1947 treaty covering six U.S. facilities, including the giant Clark Air Base and Subic Bay Naval Station Manglapus said at a news conference. The pact expires next year.

Any agreement requires approval by the 23-member Senate, where anti-American sentiment is strong.

Manglapus said he will head the Philippine panel in the talks, and his U.S. counterpart will be U.S. Ambassador to the Philippines Nicholas Platt.

No agenda has been set, but Manglapus said a $96 million shortfall in U.S. aid levels this year would likely be discussed.

Washington has pledged to do its best to provide the Philippines with $481 million in military and economic aid in each of the last two years of the pact.

U.S. officials say aid reductions were prompted by federal budgetary problems and developments in East Europe where some assistance was being channeled.

''I think it would be very important for us to have a clear idea of the reasons why there have been shortfalls and of the attitude of the United States toward making up for these shortfalls and of the time frame that they have in mind,'' he said.

Philippine officials have indicated Manila will ask for increased compensation for an extension of the pact.

During a visit in Manila last month, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said the United States will remain in the Philippines for as long as Manila allows, ''and only if the terms and conditions negotiated are acceptable to both parties.''

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - Police charged that a 13-year-old abducted a Brooklyn boy who was on his way to school, bound and beat the youth and then set him afire after apparently trying to force him to smoke crack.

The victim, whose 12th birthday is Thursday, was in critical condition in the burn unit at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center in Manhattan, where doctors said he had third-degree burns over more than half of his body, and was fighting for his life.

The 13-year-old, whose name was withheld because of his age, was taken into custody about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and charged shortly before midnight as a juvenile delinquent, said Sgt. Pete Berry, a police spokesman.

The suspect, who at 5-foot-9 looks three or four years older than his age, was charged with second-degree kidnapping and attempted murder, first-degree assault, three counts of third-degree attempted robbery and two counts of robbery, Berry said.

Police said the robbery charges stemmed from muggings of other schoolchildren in the area.

The youth was remanded to the Spofford Juvenile Center in the Bronx and was expected to go before a family court judge Thursday morning, the sergeant said.

Police and doctors said the victim, David Aupont, was beaten in the head and neck with a baseball bat and was burned over his chest, back, chin, mouth and stomach before he managed to flee his attacker, apparently known in the neighborhood to extort money from schoolchildren.

''The boy was on his way to school this morning. He was abducted by a teenage male and taken to a building,'' said officer Anthony Mazzola, a police spokesman.

Inside a narrow garage littered with garbage and a few crack vials, the youth was bound, beaten, doused with flammable liquid and set afire, said police, who noted that the place was frequented by prostitutes and derelicts.

Mazzola said the boy was later seen running down the street in Flatbush with his clothing on fire.

''He ran into an auto body shop,'' said Efrain Parrilla, a Fire Department spokesman. ''That's where the firefighters picked him up.

''His clothes were on fire. Most of his clothes were burned off. It was terrible,'' Parrilla said.

Parrilla said the boy refused to answer police questions about the incident. ''We don't know the nature of why someone did this,'' he said.

The youngster told workers in the auto body shop that his attacker had tried to force him to smoke crack and John Mulligan, an assistant fire commissioner, said the incident was possibly drug related.

Tests showed the boy did not have respiratory tract burns, said a hospital spokesman.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - An anonymous caller who said he was enraged by Cardinal John O'Connor's criticism of heavy metal music threatened to blow up St. Patrick's Cathedral, forcing officials to cancel evening mass, police said.

Police Bomb Squad and Midtown North Precinct officers used explosive-sniffing dogs to search the cavernous Gothic-style cathedral after the 5 p.m. telephone threat Wednesday, but found nothing, police said.

The threat forced police to clear the church of worshipers for about two hours, and the cardinal canceled the 5:30 p.m. mass, said officer Fred Weiner, a police spokesman.

''A male caller said the cardinal should not have said anything about music or anything else and (said) the church will blow up in 30 minutes and everyone in it would die,'' Weiner said. ''He said he had put a bomb in a paper bag inside the church.''

Worshipers were permitted to return to the cathedral after police swept through the pews, Weiner said.

During a sermon last Sunday, O'Connor criticized heavy metal music, singling out heavy metal rocker Ozzy Osbourne's song ''Suicide Solution,'' which he said encouraged young people to kill themselves and commit diabolical acts.

Osbourne, known for his occult-oriented stage shows, later sent a telegram to O'Connor, protesting the sermon and ending with the words, ''God Bless You.''

O'Connor denounced some heavy metal as ''pornography in sound'' and blamed the music for popularizing satanic worship.

The cardinal also warned the music can lead to demonic possession and even suicide, and said in the same sermon that Catholic priests had performed two exorcisms in the past two months.

Police were investigating the bomb threat, Weiner said.

HONG KONG (MARCH 8) UPI - China next month will launch a U.S.-made communications satellite whose transfer to the mainland was nearly blocked by U.S. sanctions following Beijing's brutal suppression of the pro-democracy movement, a business group said Thursday.

AsiaSat, a communications satellite intended to provide television and telephone service throughout the Far East, will be launched aboard a Chinese-made Long March III rocket from the Xichang missile range in China's southwest Sichuan Province.

''We are now looking to put AsiaSat 1 into orbit between April 5 and 9,'' Terry M. Seddon, chief executive officer of Hong Kong-based Asia Satellite Telecommunications Co. Ltd., told reporters.

''We will be able to be more specific in the last week of this month when variables such as the weather can be allowed for,'' he said.

Delivery to China of the satellite was held up by U.S. sanctions against the Beijing government following the crackdown on protesters at Tiananmen Square in June. The sanctions include a ban on transferring to China U.S. high technology that has possible military applications.

The satellite was manufactured by the Hughes Aircraft Co. of Westchester, Calif., near Los Angeles. Hughes is one of the biggest defense contractors in the United States.

President Bush in December approved the export of the satellite on grounds that it and two others owned by Australian interests intended for later launch by China represented about $300 million worth of business to U.S. companies.

The White House said AsiaSat would provide badly needed telecommunications services to several friendly countries in Asia.

AsiaSat will be the first Western-made communications satellite to be launched by China. Its backers said it also will be the first privately owned communications satellite in the region.

AsiaSat intends to profit by leasing the satellite's 24 transponders, which transmit voice, data and broadcast pictures. The asking price for each transponder is $1.3 million to $2 million per year.

Seddon said there was heavy interest in leasing the transponders and expected the satellite's capacity to be fully booked by 1992.

AsiaSat's service area ranges from China through Bangladesh and Pakistan and into the Persian Gulf states. The satellite will hover in a stationary orbit 22,000 miles above the earth over the South China Sea in the vicinity of Malaysia and Indonesia.

Ownership of the AsiaSat company is equally shared by Cable and Wireless PLC of Britain, Hong Kong's Hutchison Whampoa Ltd. and the China International Trust and Investment Corp. of Beijing.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Oliver North takes the witness stand again... President Bush presents histransportation plan... The Greyhound strike heads into day seven... and investigators are on the scene of a fatal subway derailment. Those stories and more, next from U-P-I.

Former President Reagan's national security adviser, John Poindexter, will see a former employee in court today.

Oliver North is scheduled to be the first prosecution witness in Poindexter's Iran-Contra trial. The jury was seated yesterday... and opening statements are set to begin today.

Poindexter faces five felony charges... including accusations that he obstructed congressional inquiries and made false statements to Congress in the investigation of the Iran-Contra affair.

North was convicted of obstructing a congressional inquiry, destroying government documents and accepting an illegal gift. He has appealed the conviction.

Federal Judge Harold Greene says he will rule on requests by Poindexter's lawyers to limit North's testimony.

Poindexter is the highest-ranking administration official indicted in the scandal. He resigned his White House post in 1986 when the scandal was exposed, and later retired from the Navy at the rank of rear admiral.

President Bush plans to unveil the first new national transportation policy in a decade today.

Administration officials say the president will try to ease mounting congestion and increase the state and local share of highway spending. The Bush plan also will address mobility problems on land, sea and air... and urge greater reliance by state and local governments on road tolls, airport taxes and other user fees.

Bush will announce the new transportation policy to legislators at the White House. Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner, who drafted the document, will testify before Congress about it later.

In his plan, Bush will NOT offer any specifics about how much it will cost to improve the nation's roads and bridges, airports and waterways, railroads and shipping lanes.

In keeping with Bush's pledge of NO new taxes, the administration WON'T raise the federal motor fuel tax. But it will urge the states to increase their own fuel taxes.

The American Trucking Association, which obtained a draft of the policy, praised the plan. The A-T-A says it provides a ''sound basis from which Congress can address highway issues.''

This year, the federal government will spend about 18-BILLION dollars on transportation... 14-BILLION on highways.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Federal transportation officials say it's too early to speculate on the cause of a subway crash in Philadelphia that killed three people and injured 152.

Officials say a six-car subway train derailed during yesterday's morning rush hour in a tunnel near a busy station.

A team of 13 investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board arrived from Washington to inspect the wreckage. N-T-S-B spokesman Dr. John Lauber says it could take a year before a final report is issued.

One engineer speculated that the derailment may have been caused by a motor beneath one of the cars that dislodged and dragged along the tracks. But N-T-S-B spokesman Alan Pollack emphasized that it's too early to speculate.

Officials say at least 152 people were rushed to nine hospitals... mostly for minor minor cuts and bruises or broken legs. Four people are in critical condition and one man is in guarded condition with a spinal column injury.

Philadelphia transit officials say all trains running on the line were stopped and there will be NO service on the line today.

Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole is being asked to intercede in the Greyhound strike.

11 senators wrote Dole, asking her to mediate between striking Greyhound bus drivers and the owners of the nation's largest intercity bus line.

The senators told Dole her timely intervention could avert major disruptions of interstate commerce that they say could threaten the safety of the traveling public.

Greyhound carried 22 Million passengers last year. It is particulary crucial to low-income travelers in smaller communities.

The senators noted that the bus line is also a major carrier of emergency medical supplies throughout the country.

Greyhound says it doubts that resuming talks with the union representing the striking drivers would be successful while the drivers refuse to budge on their demands.

About 300 mourners marched two miles in Redding, California, yesterday to honor a fellow striker killed by a bus last weekend. More than half of the marchers were Greyhound drivers wearing black armbands.

NO decision is expected until early next week on possible criminal charges against the substitute driver whose bus hit the striker.

In their letter to Dole, the 11 senators cited the accident as reason for concern over the training and driving records of the substitute drivers.

The measure is being hounded by potential killer amendments... and some senators are reluctant to complete action by the end of the week.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell urged his colleagues to offer their amendments and threatened them with late night, and even a Saturday session.

But during a lengthy day yesterday, the Senate made only marginal progress. Several Republicans indicated they wanted more time to study the bill.

On the first major vote yesterday, the Senate stripped from the bill a provision that would have eliminated the authority of the Environmental Protection Agency to regulate radioactive emissions under the Clean Air Act.

Later, the Senate defeated by 53-43 an amendment proposing to lower the amount of oxygen required in gasoline for use in 44 areas that do NOT meet the standards for carbon monoxide emissions in winter months.

A 12-year-old Brooklyn boy lies in critical condition in a New York hospital after a brutal attack by a 13-year-old neighborhood acquaintance.

Police say the 13-year-old, whose name was withheld because of his age... abducted David Aupont... bound and beat him and then set him afire after apparently trying to force him to smoke crack.

Police have charged the 13-year-old with juvenile delinquency, second-degree attempted murder, assault and robbery. Officials say the youth apparently is known to extort money from schoolchildren in the neighborhood.

Officials say Aupont, whose 12th birthday is today... is in critical condition in the burn unit at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. Officials say he was beaten in the head and neck with a baseball bat and was burned over his chest, back, chin, mouth and stomach before escaping. Doctors say he's fighting for his life with third-degree burns over most of his body.

Authorities say the attacking youth is expected to go before a family court judge this morning.

BONN, West Germany (MARCH 8) UPI - The West German parliament Thursday confirmed the inviolability of Poland's western border and Chancellor Helmut Kohl denied he wanted to link the issue to a Polish pledge not to seek further war reparations from Germany.

''It is not in our well-understood interest to encumber the way to unity through border questions,'' Kohl said in an address to the Bundestag, the West German parliament.

During a two-hour debate the Bundestag adopted a resolution stating Germans would ''neither now nor in future'' question the territorial integrity of Poland.

Polish territory includes former German lands ceded to Poland after Germany lost World War II.

The deputies agreed that the East and West German parliaments should simultaneously adopt a similar resolution after March 18 elections in East Germany. At a later stage, a united Germany would negotiate a border treaty with Poland.

The resolution was adopted by the government coalition parties - Kohl's Christian Democratic Union, its Bavarian sister-party, the Christian Social Union, and the Free Democratic Party.

The Bundestag rejected a demand by opposition Social-Democrats who wanted a resolution condemning Kohl for having linked confirmation of the Polish border to a demand Poland renounce any war reparation claim.

The chancellor provoked internal and international outrage last week by coupling the two issues but, under fire from his coalition partners, he later agreed to drop the condition.

Social Democrat leader Hans-Jochen Vogel said that, by comparison, Kohl's political clumsiness made ''the famous elephant (in the china shop) look like a ballet dancer.''

He said Kohl had become ''a risk factor'' in German politics.

In his address to parliament, Kohl said he did not want to link the issues adding that he only sought a confirmation that Poland would respect a 1953 pledge not to seek further reparations for Nazi crimes.

''It would serve no one's interest if the impression arose that incalculable burdens still awaited Germans,'' he said.

He said it was in Germany's interest to request that Poland clarify its position on war reparations.

Kohl also sharply criticized the communist-led East German government for failing to adopt far-reaching economic reforms.

''In the last hours of their existence ... they are trying to consolidate the old structures that lead to misery,'' Kohl said.

Kohl who left for Brussels later in the day, for talks with NATO officials reiterated his opposition to East German suggestions for a neutral, demilitarized reunited Germany.

He said the country would be part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but that a transitional solution would be found for East Germany, which is a member of the Warsaw Pact, the East Bloc military alliance.

Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher backed Kohl's suggestion that East Germany simply join West Germany, as provided for under Article 23 of the West German constitution.

He rejected claims that the move would amount to annexation of East Germany by the West and comparisons to the 1938 ''Anschluss'' of Austria, in which Nazi Germany swallowed the smaller state without a single shot being fired.

He said Article 23 was ''not an 'anschluss' clause but one for membership application'' and added that the final decision rested with a new East German government, to be formed after the elections.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Police say an explosion rocked a Korean restaurant in the West German city of Frankfurt last night, killing 11 people and injuring seven others.

Police officials said they are still investigating the cause of the explosion, which apparently occurred in the kitchen of the restaurant.

Authorities say they do NOT suspect a bombing.

Five men, five women and a child were killed and seven others injured in the crowded restaurant... which became engulfed in flames immediately after the explosion.

Several people jumped out of the windows of the restaurant in the first floor of a downtown Frankfurt building.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The number of initial claims for state unemployment insurance benefits decreased by 16,000 to 346,000 for the week ending Feb. 24, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

The revised figure for the previous week was 362,000 initial claims, the department's Employment and Training Administration announced.

The government also reported that during the week of Feb. 17 the unadjusted rate of insured unemployment was unchanged at 2.8 percent, with 2,926,000 workers claiming state benefits, a small increase of 35,500.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Stock prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange staged a dramatic recovery Thursday as early morning losses attributed to computerized program selling gave way to a rush of bargain hunting.

The blue-chip Nikkei Average of 225 selected shares, which tumbled 428.74 points Wednesday, recovered 328.55 points to 33,690.89.

The broader-based Tokyo Stock Exchange Index of all major listed shares gained 20.27 points to 2,536.54, after losing 20.10 points Wednesday.

Trading was moderate, with an estimated 600 million shares changing hands, up from 443 million shares Wednesday.

Gains outnumbered declines 666 to 287, with 169 issues unchanged.

The Nikkei Average plummeted nearly 400 points in the first half hour of trading as foreign investors cleared their arbitrage positions ahead of Thursday's close of March futures indexes and options.

Investment trusts and individual investors then swooped into the market, triggering a 900-point turnaround that pushed the Nikkei index 470 points above Wednesday's finish by the end of the morning session.

The key indicator lost some ground in the afternoon, but then surged to the day's high of 33,938-points before drifting lower toward the close.

Mikiya Mori, a trader at Goldman Sachs Japan, said investment trusts carried the market.

''They waited for prices to dip then they bought everything,'' Mori said.

Dealers said individual investors also jumped into the fray, buying up a wide range of issues, especially domestic-demand related stocks.

Prices rose across the board led by construction issues expected to benefit from increased government spending on public works.

Bargain hunters largely bought domestic-demand shares including steels, shipbuildings and real estates, as well as machineries, retailers and foods.

High-tech and blue-chip stocks also rose along with smaller-capital communication stocks.

Nippon Steel paced the actives, followed by Chiyoda Corp., Miyoshi Oil, Okura Industries and Maeda Road.

Elsewhere in Asia, prices closed lower in moderate trading on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

The Hang Seng Index, which lost 6.78 points Wednesday, fell 10.72 points to 2,915.73.

Finance and property counters came under the heaviest selling pressure with the financial sector falling 17.97 points. Properties lost 19.65 points, industrials fell 7.32 and utilities closed down 2.97 points.

An estimated 996.3 million shares changed hands, up from the 849 million shares traded Wednesday.

''Attention once again focused on the secondary issues, but around midday we saw some bargain hunters coming into the market to scoop up some of the blue chips,'' a analyst with a local brokerage said.

Prices closed higher in light trading on the Singapore Stock Exchange aided by the recovery in Tokyo.

The Straits Time Industrial Index, which climbed 16.38 points Wednesday, added another 7.05 points to 1575.98. The narrower All Singapore Index rose 2.67 points to 430.55.

An estimated 82 million shares were traded, unchanged from the 82 million Wednesday.

Analysts said the Tokyo market's gain and some mild bargain hunting helped boost prices.

Yamaichi (U.S.) paced the advancing issues, followed by Development Bank of Singapore, Metro Holdings, Singapore Airline (foreign shares) and Jurong Shipyard.

Times Publishing Ltd. led the declining issues, followed by Overseas Chinese Banking Corp., Tat Lee Finance and United Overseas Bank (warrants).

In Australia, stock prices closed lower in moderate trading on the Sydney Sharemarket.

The blue-chip All Ordinaries Index, which gained 2.8 points Wednesday, fell 12.6 points to 1570.5.

An estimated 79.8 million shares changed hands, up from the 57.2 million shares Wednesday.

Analysts said the early weakness in Tokyo sent prices lower.

On the trading floor, Elders IXL dipped 25 cents to $2.15, Westpac Bank lost 8 cents to $5.22, NAB Bank lost 6 cents to $6.30, BHP Mining fell 14 cents to $9.58, CRA Mining lost 25 cents to $11.90, WMC fell 10 cents to $5.28 and North Broken Hill slipped 4 cents to $2.32.

HASBAYA, LEBANON (MARCH 8) UPI - Israeli troops killed five Islamic fundamentalist guerrillas in a fierce three-hour firefight Thursday in Israel's self-declared security zone in south Lebanon, an Israeli army spokesman said.

The military spokesman told Army Radio in Jerusalem that an Israeli patrol encountered a guerrilla squad near the Zimrayah crossing, killing all its members. No Israeli soldiers were wounded, he said.

''We believe that the terrorists belonged to the Hezbollah,'' Maj. Gen.

Yossi Peled, head of the northern command, told Army Radio.

''The equipment they carried indicates they were going to attack one of the command posts or place an explosive device in the security zone,'' he said.

Israeli soldiers, inspecting the scene after the firefight, found five dead gunmen on the ground with rifles, hand grenades and explosives, the spokesman said.

The Zimrayah passageway is one of five crossings linking Israel's self-declared ''security zone'' to the Moslem-controlled territory. The enclave, which runs up to 9 miles (15 km) along the Lebanese border, was established by Israel in 1985 to combat guerrilla attacks.

A spokesman of the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army said SLA troops took part in the three-hour gunfight.

The violence broke out after a bomb blast ripped through an SLA patrol as it was combing a terrain near Hasbaya, 37 miles southeast of Beirut, the SLA spokesman said.

The explosion destroyed two vehicles and injured a number of SLA members, he added.

Hezbollah claimed in a statement that its fighters had planted the bombs that hit the SLA patrol.

Some 2,500 SLA troops backed by an estimated 1,000 Israeli personnel patrol the zone.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Former National Security Council staffer Oliver North will be the lead-off witness today in the Iran-Contra trial of his former boss, John Poindexter. But just how much North will say is in doubt. Poindexter's lawyers have asked federal Judge Harold Greene to limit North's testimony. Green says he will rule on that today. North is appealing his conviction in the Iran-Contra case.

Diplomatic sources say the capital of Afghanistan is quiet today, although it's NOT clear whether an attempted coup has been crushed. However, the Soviet-backed Afghan government says ''peace and security prevails.'' Some sources say the alleged leader of the coup is in Pakistan, while others say he was in Pakistan but has returned to Afghanistan.

An explosion in a Korean restaurant in Frankfurt, West Germany, last night killed 11 people. Seven others are being treated for serious burns in a fire that followed the explosion. Police say they believe the explosion was an accident- NOT a bombing. The blast apparently occurred in the restaurant's kitchen.

Fire broke out in one of the top hotels in Egypt's capital today... the second hotel fire in Cairo in a week. Officials say today's fire started in the kitchen of Shepeard's hotel. Officials say at least two members of the hotel staff were hurt. Fire last Thursday in the Heliopolis Sheraton killed at least 19 people, including four Americans.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Speculation has diminished that a bomb caused an explosion that leveled a bank in Crested Butte, Colorado. Officials say there had NOT been any bomb threats against the Crested Butte State Bank. And a doctor says autopsies on three bank employees killed in the blast showed NO marks of a bombing. The bank was in an area known for underground deposits of methane gas.

A proposal for a ''Food for Freedom'' program to help the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe has run into problems. The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, Texas Democrat Kika de la Garza, says technology and equipment would be more useful than food. House Democratic leader Richard Gephardt of Missouri proposed giving food to the East Bloc.

Holyoke, Massachusetts, Mayor Martin Dunn is up in arms about a plan to house prisoners in his city's little-used National Guard armory. Dunn is against the proposal because a child-care center is 25 yards away. FRANKFURT, WEST GERMANY (MARCH 8) UPI - Eleven people, including an American soldier, his wife and their two young children, died in a fire caused by an explosion at a Korean restaurant, police and U.S. officials said Thursday.

Police ruled out a terrorist attack, but said they were still investigating the explosion and fire Wednesday night in the packed second-floor restaurant. Several people escaped by jumping out the windows.

''Our information is that a terrorist act or arson can be excluded,'' said Ann Adams, a U.S. military spokeswoman. She said the American military had not joined in the German police investigation of the blast.

Police said four of the 11 dead were a U.S. man and woman, both 33, and their two children aged 2 and 4.

Adams confirmed ''four victims have been identified as U.S. citizens. One was a soldier who was assigned to the Frankfurt army regional medical center.

''The other three were some of his family members,'' she said, adding one family member survived the fire.

Police described other victims as a 47-year-old British citizen, a French national, aged 40, two West German women and a 27-year-old Korean. Police gave no information about the remaining two victims.

''Identification was very difficult,'' a police spokesman said. ''Some victims have not been identified yet.''

Police also said seven people were hospitalized for serious burns.

Restaurant workers called the Fire Department as soon as the blast occurred, police said, but added by the time fire engines arrived seven minutes later, the only exit leading to a wooden staircase was blocked by flames.

Police also said firefighters were unable to use an emergency exit to enter the restaurant as the access gate was locked.

''We could no longer save any one who had not escaped by himself,'' a Fire Department official said. ''There was no help for anyone inside.''

GENEVA (MARCH 8) UPI - U.S. and Soviet negotiators reported major progress Thursday on an agreement on deep cuts in stockpiles of lethal nerve gas and other chemical weapons that could be signed at the June superpower summit.

The two superpowers said terms were drawn up at the latest three-week round of talks to test treaty verification methods in seven reciprocal visits to chemical arms production and storage facilities.

They also agreed on mutual inspections of facilities for ''safe, speedy and also economically and ecologically sound'' destruction of stockpiled weapons.

Another round of talks will begin around April 23 and the two sides are confident about having the accord ready for President Bush and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev when they meet in late June in the United States, officials said.

''Sure, it's pretty well certain,'' a Soviet spokesman told United Press International when asked if negotiators would complete the text in time for the summit.

''There are still some problems, such as the Americans wanting to keep producing some modern chemical weapons while others are being eliminated but we believe these things can be settled in time,'' he said.

A report on ''good progress'' at the latest round was delivered on behalf of both sides by Soviet negotiator Sergei Batsanov to the larger 40-nation Disarmament Conference in Geneva.

It was agreed that the Soviets would draft and deliver the statement while the U.S. delegation would handle the English translation.

U.S. chief negotiator Stephen Ledogar will issue a statement Friday, an American spokesman said.

''Good progress was reached during this round ... on the text of the future agreement although a number of problems remain,'' Batsanov told the multilateral disarmament body.

Washington and Moscow aim at immediate chemical arms cuts of about 80 percent down to equal low levels without waiting for an international prohibition treaty being negotiated at the 40-nation conference.

When the multilateral disarmament forum completes such a global convention the two major military powers would gradually go down to just 2 percent of their original arsenals.

They would eliminate remaining stocks when that convention is signed and ratified by all countries either holding or able to manufacture the so-called ''poor man's nuclear bomb.''

Libya is a good case in point, U.S. officials said, referring to Washington's new charge that weapons are being produced at the Rabta factory near Tripoli.

Saying his statement was ''in accordance with an understanding'' with his U.S. counterpart, Batsanov said the two big powers believe their initial bilateral cuts will promote a global ban on such weapons.

He reported agreement at the latest round on modalities for exchanging chemical wseapons data and on a ''joint verification experiment.''

''An understanding was reached between the sides about an exchange of seven visits to three categories of facilities ... for storing CW (chemical weapons), for producing CW and industrial chemical facilities,'' he said.

''It was agreed that the first exchange of visits to CW storage facilities will take place during early June, 1990,'' Batsanov told the 40-nation conference.

''Delegations have practically concluded the development of programs and other detailed conditions for the visits to specific categories of facilities,'' he said.

''Delegations have started to discuss questions of cooperation between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. concerning technology and procedures for safe, speedy and also economically and ecologically sound methods for CW destruction.

''An agreement was reached to exchange visits to relevant facilities in the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A.,'' Batsanov said.

Bush and Gorbachev also previously instructed other negotiators at parallel START talks to draw up at least an interim ''preliminary'' agreement for the summit on 50 percent cuts in long-range strategic nuclear weapons.

Those negotiators have reported solid progress but officials warn that it will take several months longer to achieve a complete START treaty.

CHICAGO (MARCH 8) UPI - Six indicted soybean traders at the Chicago Board of Trade have been granted hearings to determine whether incriminating admissions to FBI agents and prosecutors should be thrown out, the Chicago Sun-Times reported Thursday.

U.S. District Judge George Marovich granted separate hearings to each of them. The hearings will decide whether statements made during surprise visits at their homes by the government in January 1989 were voluntary.

The six are among 13 soybean traders who are accused of illegal trading practices and are scheduled for June trials before Marovich. Their lawyers argue that the circumstances of the visits at night or early in the morning and alleged threats of criminal penalties if they did not cooperate were coercive, the newspaper said.

In addition, the attorneys claim the statements were improperly obtained because the government failed to advise traders Martin Dempsey, James Nowak, Charles Bergstrom, Bruce Mittlestadt, Joel Fetchenhier and Brasley Ashman of their constitutional rights.

The FBI investigation into trading fraud at the CBOT and Chicago Mercantile Exchange has resulted in the indictments of 47 traders and a clerk. Fifteen have pleaded guilty.

ATHENS, GREECE (MARCH 8) UPI - Iran pledged Thursday to publish a list of drug traffickers executed over the past 11 years, the official Islamic Republic News Agency said.

Quoting Mokhtar Kalantari, the chief of the anti-narcotics campaign headquarters in Tehran, the news agency said the publication of the list, which will date from Feb. 11, 1979, ''will be a response to obnoxious foreign propaganda.''

Kalantari did not elaborate but he was apparently referring to an Iranian dissident group's claims outside the country that many of the people executed as drug traffickers recently were political prisoners.

Since January 1989, when Iran launched its latest campaign to stamp out the illicit drugs trade, the official media in Tehran have reported that at least 1,324 people have been executed on charges of trafficking in illegal drugs, mainly opium, heroin and hashish.

Another 340 people, convicted in Islamic courts, were executed over the same period for other crimes, including murder, armed robbery, rape and sex-related vice.

Hundreds of others were executed for drug trafficking in Iran in the first two years after the revolution that brought the late spiritual leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to power in February 1979.

The earlier anti-drugs campaign was headed by Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali, nicknamed ''the hanging judge'' in the Western media because of the large number of people he sent before firing squads when he was chief of an Islamic court.

Khomeini removed Khalkhali from the anti-narcotics campaign after reports that large quantities of drugs and money under his control remained unaccounted for. The earlier anti-drugs campaign then fizzled out.

An IRNA dispatch monitored in Athens quoted Kalantari as saying Iran has been relatively successful in its latest campaign to stamp out the drug trade.

''He said drug abuse has recently been on the increase even in the Soviet Union,'' and that Iran was ready to assist the Soviets to stamp out the trade, IRNA reported.

Kalantari said 19,241 people have been arrested in Iran on charges of drug trafficking since March 1989. These included 735 foreign nationals, including Afghans, Turks and citizens of Pakistan, India and Bangladesh.

Another 66,000 people were arrested in the same period on charges of drug addiction, a criminal offense under a new law passed early last year.

Thousands of those arrested for addiction were sent to labor camps in remote areas, but some 10,000 were reportedly released after they were cured.

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND (MARCH 8) UPI - The 60th Geneva Automobile Show opened Thursday with cars ranging from small $6,500 models for doing the shopping to $250,000 high-performance Ferraris and Aston Martin Lagondas. From plain to luxurious, however, the emphasis was on safety, with anti-lock braking systems (ABS) widely included in the price or available as an option.

The age of turbocharged engines also mainly gave way to the era of multi-valve motors, with a wide range of 12, 16 and 24-valve designs shown. Putting up to four valves on each cylinder offers greater power with generally lower fuel consumption.

There were 32 world premieres among the 99 makes of automobiles shown by manufacturers from 16 countries. West Germany led the way with 19, followed by Japan with 16, Italy 13, Britain 12, United States 11, and France nine. Counting special coachworks, accessories and garage equipment, there were 1,236 exhibits from 25 countries at the show, which closes March 18.

Models shown for the first time included the Porsche 911 Turbo, boosted-power BMW 520i, 525i and M3, and three four-wheel-drive Ford Sierras - the 220-horsepower Ford Sierra Cosworth, 1.8-liter turbodiesel, and 2.0 liter model.

General Motors Corp. displayed its new Opel Omega Caravan, while Mercedes showed its 2.5 liter, 16-valve Evolution II, a racing version of the 190E with production limited to 500 units.

World firsts from France included the 605 SRDT turbodiesel limousine, four-wheel-drive 405 from Peugeot, and the 210-hp Turbo Baccara and Alpine V6 turbocharged Le Mans from Renault.

Italy's Maserati displayed the new eight-cylinder, 32-valve Shamal, which puts out 325 hp, has a six-speed gearbox and suspension that can be adjusted from inside the car. Volvo of Sweden showed its 480 turbo convertible.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The Food and Drug Administration moved Thursday to ban sales of all non-prescription drugs to treat enlarged prostate glands, saying the ineffective drugs may lull men into a false sense of security.

In announcing the ban, FDA officials said there is little evidence that such drugs, made of plant extracts or amino acids, actually work.

Nearly all men over age 45 has some degree of enlargement of the prostate gland - a male gland surrounding the neck of the bladder and urethra - but the condition is usually not troublesome before age 60.

In about 10 percent of elderly men, overgrowth of the prostate gland gradually blocks urine flow and creates serious problems, like pressure in the kidneys or urinary tract infections.

Currently, surgery is the only effective treatment for an enlarged prostate gland, the FDA said.

While some irritating symptoms like the frequent urge to urinate may be partly relieved by the non-prescription drugs, the FDA warned that relying on such drugs could cause delays in getting proper treatment for more serious conditions. One possible threat is failing to get help for stagnation of urine, which can lead to an infection of the entire urinary tract.

The agency also pointed out that men who fear surgery could be lulled into a false sense of security by taking such drugs. As the condition progresses, about 50 percent to 80 percent of affected men will develop unstable bladders and have urgency incontinence.

The products affected by the ban, scheduled to take effect in six months, contain the amino acids glycine, alanine and glutamic acid and sabal, a plant extract. There are relatively few such products being sold today, FDA officials said.

Only one manufacturer, whom the FDA would not name, submitted data in an effort to back up its products claims. The agency found that evidence insufficient to prove effectiveness.

The action against the prostate drugs is part of the FDA's ongoing review of the efficacy of all non-prescription drugs.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The Air Line Pilots Association International and the Trump Shuttle, following what were called extremely amicable negotiations, signed their first labor contract Thursday.

The 48-month contract, which was ratified by the pilots' union Feb. 24, is retroactive to July 1989 and will expire July 2, 1993.

It provides for wage increases for all 227 Trump Shuttle pilots and gives the fledgling airline the opportunity to use aircraft and crews more efficiently and productively, according to company officials.

The contract also eliminates the two-tier wage scale for Trump Shuttle pilots.

Trump Shuttle provides every hour-on-the-hour service between New York's LaGuardia airport and both Boston and Washington, D.C.

Donald Trump purchased the shuttle from strike-bound Eastern Airlines in 1989 for $365 million.

''The new pilot contract is further indication to the travelling public that the Trump Shuttle provides the stability and reliability that customers count on when choosing a shuttle,'' said Ray Grebey, Trump senior vice president for employee and corporate affairs.

''Since our start-up in June, we have worked closely with all employee groups to build the best transportation system in the world,'' Grebey added.

SEATTLE (MARCH 8) UPI - An attorney suffering from leukemia says his chances of surviving the disease are much slimmer now that a potential donor apparently has backed away from a bone marrow transplant procedure.

Marc Smith, 38, of Los Angeles, said Thursday was the last day the unknown woman donor could go through with the transplant procedure and benefit him.

''It's very disappointing to me and my family; shocking really,'' he said.

Smith, the father of three, has been hospitalized at Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center since January while waiting for a bone marrow transplant that could save his life.

A woman in another city who signed up on a bone marrow registry was found through a computer comparison to have morrow matching Smith's. However, she apparently backed away from the relatively painless donor procedure, failing to keep several appointments at her local donor center, Smith said.

The attorney said the cure rate for his leukemia would have been 70 to 80 percent with the donor transplant, but that is now lowered to 10 to 15 percent.

''It's a substantial difference,'' said Smith from an isolation room at the cancer center.

''If she came forward by (today) we could probably do it. After that it's too late.''

It's not known why the donor declined to have the procedure, and her identity is protected under the confidentiality rules of the donor registry system.

Smith, who began chemotherapy Tuesday to prepare for a transplant of his own bone marrow, said he didn't think the woman had been sufficiently informed about the potential life-saving value of the procedure. Receiving a transplant of his own marrow is not as potentially beneficial as receiving matched bone marrow from a healthy donor.

The two most common reasons for people to back out of transplants are pregnancy and discovery of health problems that weren't known when they placed their names on the national donor registry, said Susan Edmonds, spokesman for the Hutchinson center.

Donating bone marrow usually means the donor must spend a night in a hospital. The donor is placed under a general or local anesthetic and the bone marrow is removed from the pelvic bone.

The donor usually feels soreness that goes away in a day or two.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Some of the nation's retailers Thursday reported healthy sales gains for February, mainly on the strength of spring apparel that captivated shoppers during an unseasonably warm month, analysts said.

Continuing a months-long trend, the best showings were posted by specialty retailers including The Limited Inc. and The Gap Inc. Due to consumers' continuing disinterest in hard goods, general merchandisers did not fare quite as well, analysts said.

Among the three largest U.S. retailers, only K mart Corp. reported February sales gains Thursday - and the figures were the best the Troy, Mich.-based chain has posted in months.

On a store-for-store basis, considered by analysts to be the most telling indicator of a merchant's performance, K mart's sales were up 4.4 percent from a year ago.

Overall, the company, which operates 2,315 K mart stores and nearly 1,700 specialty retailers including Pay Less Drug Stores and Waldenbooks, said February sales rose 14 percent to $1.9 billion from $1.66 billion. "Strong gains were seen in ladies', men's and children's apparel lines," said Chairman Joseph E. Antonini.

K mart Corp. also Thursday reported its fourth-quarter earnings, which amounted to $395.6 million, or $1.97 a share, up slightly from $393.2 million, or $1.96, a share in the comparable 1988 period. Analysts said the results were in line with expectations.

Sears Roebuck & Co. and Wal-Mart Stores Inc., the first- and third-largest U.S. retailers respectively, reported February sales gains along with several other retailers last Thursday. On a store-for-store basis, Sears' sales were ahead 1.5 percent and Wal-Mart's sales rose 17 percent.

Warm weather in most areas of the country helped merchants get a good start on spring clothing sales at full mark-ups, said Elizabeth Armstrong, a securities analyst with Prescott, Ball & Turben Inc. in New York. "The environment was definitely less promotional," she said.

Although February is not a big volume month, analysts said the strong sales gains posted by merchants indicated most retailers should have decent first-quarter showings. "It's a good sign that going forward the consumer is alive and well," Armstrong said.

Among the most notable performances, The Limited, based in Columbus, Ohio, had gains at stores that were open at least one year, known as same-store or comparable-store results, of 16 percent. Net sales for the month at the chain's 3,174 outlets rose 21 percent to $318.2 million from $263.8 million.

Another sportswear-oriented merchant, The Gap based in San Bruno, Calif., had same-store gains of 20 percent, while total sales at the chain's 965 stores rose 29 percent to $103 million from $80 million.

Among other retailers, Minneapolis-based Dayton Hudson Corp., said same-store sales were up 6.3 percent in February. Net sales increased 13 percent to $821 million from $725 million. Chairman Kenneth A. Macke said the results exceeded the company's plans. "These increases are strong against a solid February last year," he said.

St. Louis-based May Department Stores Co. said comparable store sales were ahead 7.7 percent in February. Sales, overall, rose 10.6 percent to $596.1 million from $538.8 million.

Carter Hawley Hale Stores Inc. of Los Angeles said February same-store sales were up 2.6 percent while total sales amounted to $176.8 million, a 3.5 percent increase form $170.8 million a year ago. "Home furnishings categories continue to reflect weakness in big ticket demand," said Chairman Philip M. Hawley.

Hills Department Stores Inc., of Canton, Mass., said February comparable-store sales rose 27 percent. Total sales were up 50 percent to $116 million from $77.5 million.

Miami-based Claire's Stores Inc. said same-store February sales rose 26 percent while net sales of $14 million were up 71 percent from $8.2 million a year ago.

Charming Shoppes Inc. of Bensalem, Pa., said comparable store sales were flat while total sales for the month increased ten percent to $48.5 million from $43.9 million a year ago.

Neiman Marcus Group Inc. of Chestnut Hill, Mass., said same store-sales declined 0.8 percent. February sales in total were up 1.5 percent to $104.9 million from $103.3 million.

MOVIES

''Field of Dreams'' - ''If you build it, he will come,'' a mysterious voice tells Iowa farmer and baseball fan Ray Kinsella (Kevin Costner), sending him off on a remarkable, mystic adventure to recapture lost chances and rekindle old dreams. Ray is promptly moved to build a ball park in the middle of his cornfield - the locals think he's nuts - and sure enough, out from the stalks strides baseball legend Shoeless Joe Jackson (Ray Liotta) to look things over. ''Is this heaven?'' he asks his awe-struck host. ''No, it's Iowa,'' says Ray, but soon believes Shoeless Joe wasn't too far off. As other baseball legends appear, visible only to Ray, his wife (Amy Madigan) and their young daughter, the voice directs him to seek out a reclusive writer (James Earl Jones) and a doctor (Burt Lancaster), all playing a key role in the glowing, eye-opening windup back at the farm. While at first sounding like something from ''Twilight Zone '' it's a fascinating, thought-provoking fantasy that says a great deal. Nominated for Best Picture in the upcoming Academy Awards. 1989. 106 minutes. MCA Home Video. Rated PG. No suggested retail price.

''Little Monsters'' - Fred Savage and Howie Mandel co-star in this young folks' comic fantasy about an adolescent Beetlejuice. Brian (Savage) maintains there is a monster under his bed and it turns out he's right - a goofy blue spook named Maurice (Mandel) who spirits him to a mysterious ''under-the-bed'' world, teaches him the secrets of little monsters and even helps him get even with the school bully. 1989. 103 minutes. MGM/UA Home Video. Rated PG. $89.95.

''Apartment Zero'' - A quirky, baroque tale of murder and odd friendship, set in Buenos Aires. Adrian (Colin Firth), a dedicated loner strapped for cash, takes in a lodger, Jack (Hart Bochner), an outgoing, fascinating individual, the exact opposite of the eccentric Adrian and possibly linked it develops, to a series of political murders. The interplay between Firth and Bochner is first rate. 1989. 114 minutes. Academy Entertainment. Rated R. $89.95.

''Desk Set'' - Spencer Tracy is an efficiency expert automating Katharine Hepburn's TV network research department in this bright comedy from the '50s making its home video debut. Tracy and Hepburn are in top form and the constant banter between the two as they clash, then cuddle makes for great fun. 1957. 103 minutes. CBS/Fox Video. $39.98.

''Millennium'' - Disaster investigator Bill Smith (Kris Kristofferson) finds a strange alien device amid the wreckage of two jumbo jets, then meets Louise (Cheryl Ladd), sent back in time to recover the equipment or risk drastically altering the future. Adventure and romance along the time warp. 1989. 108 minutes. International Video Entertainment. Rated PG-13. $89.95.

''River Of Death'' - A psychotic Nazi scientist flees to the Amazon jungle where he sets up shop with plans for deadly germ warfare and a new ''master race.'' Michael Dudikoff, Robert Vaughan, Herbert Lom. 1989. 103 minutes. Cannon Video. Rated R. $89.95.

MUSIC

If country music is the choice, two new, tune-filled videos are playing your song.

''The Making Of 'Will The Circle Be Unbroken, Volume II''' (Cabin Fever Entertainment, 87 minutes, $19.95) features, along with interviews and informal chats, a series of recording sessions for the acclaimed album headlining top musicians assembled by The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band. Among those taking part: Johnny Cash, Rosanne Cash, Emmylou Harris, John Denver, Chet Atkins, Earl Scruggs, Bruce Hornsby, Ricky Skaggs and Roy Acuff.

The first volume of ''Inside Country Music Video Magazine'' (NewMedia, 100 minutes, $19.95), spotlights a concert by Randy Travis and Tammy Wynette, including portions of the show itself and what it took to put it on. There also are segments with the Bellamy Brothers at their ranch, Roy Clark on a Russian goodwill tour, the Oak Ridge Boys at a recording session and Les Paul, master of the electric guitar, with some tips for better picking.

Financial experts, in making a strong case for more attention to retirement planning, point out that today's workers will need 70 to 80 per cent of their present income to enjoy the same standard of living when they retire, but Social Security and a company pension will supply only 40 to 60 per cent of that. How to close the gap is the main thrust of ''The Ernst & Young/Kiplinger Guide to Retirement Security,'' a 55-minute video and 76-page booklet that touches on savings and investment strategies, types of retirement plans, the financial impact of early retirement and tax-smart financial decisions. $29.95. CRESTED BUTTE, CO (MARCH 8) UPI - The investigation into an explosion that leveled a bank, killing three people and injuring 14 others, focused on methane gas Thursday as medical evidence appeared to discount a bomb blast.

Dr. Mike Renzinger, a pathologist who performed autopsies on three women who died in the explosion, said preliminary results showed no marks on the bodies ''to indicate explosives were involved.''

Mount Crested Butte Police Chief Hank Smith said no possibility has been ruled out yet but added that there is ''no definitive reason to expect foul play.''

Geologist Ray Pilcher has been studying methane gas from abandoned coal mines as a possible fuel source for the resort town. He said there are ''tremendous amounts of gas available in the coal beds.''

''The area has a history of very extensive gas conditions,'' Pilcher said, citing an explosion at the Jokerville mine in 1884 that killed 59 miners.

Tony Mihelich, 86, a long-time Crested Butte resident, said mine workers constantly had to ventilate methane from the mine shafts.

Resident Holly Rasche said the methane theory is a relief to townspeople.

''The fear diminishes a lot,'' she said. ''It's a sigh of relief if it wasn't a bomb.''

There were no natural gas or propane lines to the bank building.

The explosion blew the roof off the Crested Butte State Bank shortly after it opened Tuesday. Moments later, the red brick walls collapsed.

Agents from the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms arrived Wednesday in the town of 1,000, located in a 7,000-foot valley in southwestern Colorado, to begin an investigation. The agents included members of the bureau's national explosives team.

Gov. Roy Romer also offered the help of the Colorado Bureau of Investigation.

The explosion left only the bank vault sitting in the rubble. But bank records were stored at a Colorado Springs computer service, and the bank reopened for business Wednesday in a nearby building.

The dead, all bank employees, were identified as Monica Henning, 30, Jade Woelk, 32, and Donna Smith, 31. Joe Savino, 23, a bank teller, was buried in rubble but suffered only minor burns.

''I was standing in the center of the bank and I felt a gigantic explosion and then the floor just sunk beneath me,'' he said. ''Everything just fell in. I was covered up and could barely move.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The House ethics committee dismissed most charges against Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., Thursday but admonished the second ranking House Republican for abusing franking privileges and failing to report a real estate deal.

The decision, which followed a Wednesday meeting, came one year after Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., brought charges against Gingrich. Alexander expressed satisfaction with the outcome.

Thursday's action carried no penalty, giving Gingrich a political victory over Democrats who he said had tried to soil his reputation for his role in ousting House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, on ethics charges last year.

''I am glad the committee was thorough and I am happy the changes have been exposed as politically inspired nonsense,'' Gingrich told a news conference.

The panel's decision seemed to embolden the maverick Republican who became the assistant House Republican leader last year.

''I never had a 'you get me, I'll get you' attitude'' with regard to Wright, Gingrich said.

Gingrich said he expected repercussions for his involvement in the charges against Wright, but remained defiant that his pursuit was well founded.

''I think it's very important to recognize that the process has to go foward and you have to stand up for what you believe in,'' he said.

Nonetheless, Gingrich, who said his defense cost more than $100,000, acknowledged an ''error in judgment'' stemming from the use of his office to promote a ''three day all expenses paid cruise'' for senior citizens. Tom Robinson, the office worker who put out the letters on congressional stationary, has since been dismissed.

Gingrich has steadfastly denied any personal knowledge of the letters.

The committee dropped the most serious charge against Gingrich involving a book deal in which 21 investors formed a partnership and put up $5,000 each to promote the book, ''Window of Opportunity,'' written by Gingrich and his wife, Marianne. The ethics panel, formally called the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, also dismissed charges against Gingrich that he allegedly used congressional staff members for campaign work.

But the committee admonished Gingrich for a real estate venture and the use his office's stationary for vacation tours promoted by Marathon Travel Co. in Marathon Fla.

The 12-member panel said Gingrich failed to disclose his interest in a house he bought in Atlanta with his daughter Linda in 1986.

The house was sold by Patricia McCall Grunden, wife of John Grunden, who was a longtime political supporter of several Gingrich campaigns.

Alexander alleged that Gingrich and his daughter contracted with Citizens and Southern Commercial Corp. for a $77,800 mortgage on the house but failed to report the transaction on his financial report he submitted to Congress.

However, at the news conference, Gingrich said he merely cosigned for his daughter's loan on the Atlanta house because as a recent college graduate she had no credit.

The ethics committee in effect agreed that Gingrich's failure to report the transaction amounted to little more than a technicality.

The committee said it decided to release the 166-page report on the Gingrich affair becasue of ''considerable media and other attention devoted to the complaints.''

The report details the dozens of charges leveled against Gingrich, records the lawmaker's response and makes conclusions on each count.

In its final conclusion, the committee noted that Gingrich has ''been informed of the inadequacy of his oversight and administration of his congressional office'' on the real estate venture and mailing incidents. It orders the lawmaker to ''take corrective action,'' which essentially means amending his financial disclosure form to show the real estate deal and vowing not again to use his office to promote any private undertakings.

Gingrich said he has made the modifications in his disclosure form.

But the panel said the allegations on the book deal and the use of congressional staff for campaign work, ''even if true, have been generally deemed not to state violations of applicable standards of conduct.''

Gingrich has maintained his innocence on all charges and accused Democrats of attempting to destroy him after his successful campaign to oust Wright.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - A key witness in the racially-motivated slaying of a black teen in Bensonhurst, whose disappearance forced delay of the trial, was placed in protective custody Thursday as he decided whether to testify in the case.

John Vento, 21, flown to Brooklyn from Dayton, Ohio, and accompanied by an FBI agent and city policeman, was among a bat-wielding gang of white youths who attacked Yusuf Hawkins in the predominantly white neighborhood of Bensonhurst. The attack ended in the fatal shooting of Hawkins, 16, last August.

Vento's attorney, Gerald DiChiara, argued successfully that Vento should be placed in protective custody as he decided whether to testify.

Vento surrendered Monday evening to the FBI in Dayton hours after his disappearance forced the delay of the trial in Brooklyn involving four of the seven white men accused in the slaying.

Charges against Vento were never brought because he made an agreement with former Brooklyn District Attorney Elizabeth Holtzman to become a witness for the prosecution.

Sometime around Christmas, however, Vento fled his Brooklyn home, apparently to avoid testifying against his friends. His disappearance was revealed only last week.

DiChiara said Vento had not told him where he had stayed since his disappearance.

LONDON (MARCH 8) UPI - Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher Thursday condemned the violent demonstrations over a new tax being levied next month in England and Wales and defended the plan as ''the best way of collecting money.''

Dozens of people were arrested Wednesday night in the second round of violence against the flat tax individuals must pay regardless of income.

In the normally quiet town of Walton-on-Thames, an estimated 700 protesters hurled bricks, eggs and fireworks as council members tried to set the charge at $740 per person.

Protesters argue the new tax penalizes poor, large families at the expense of the elite.

Thatcher indicated she was behind those who have suggested that hired troublemakers rather than local citizens were behind a second night of rowdy demonstrations.

The government promised to spend an extra $82.5 million to ease the burden of the new tax on 1.5 million more people. The total expenditure for tax relief this year would rise to $578 million.

Conservative Party Chairman Kenneth Baker has called the unruly protesters ''rent-a-mob yobs'' and accused the hard-left group Militant Tendency of hiring them.

''Any violent or intimidatory demonstrations organized, I understand, by the militant left, are a negation of democracy, and people should pursue their protests peacefully and in accordance with the democratic process,'' Thatcher said during her weekly appearance before the House of Commons.

''I utterly condemn violent scenes which seem to have been organized by the Militant Tendency,'' she said.

Liberal Democrat leader Paddy Ashdown urged Thatcher to reconsider the advantages of a local income tax but she rejected the idea.

''It would be just about the most unpopular and bureaucratic way for raising money for the local authorities,'' he said. ''When the community charge has been working, it will be realized that it is quite the best way of collecting money for the local authorities.''

The poll tax, known as the community charge, requires local councils to set a flat sum that must be paid by every Briton who is at least 18 years old, with some exceptions.

Unlike income tax, or the property tax it replaces, the community charge must be paid regardless of wealth or earnings. Critics say the richest man in Britain, the duke of Westminster, will pay the same amount as his chauffeur.

The last time an English government imposed a poll or head tax was in 1381 precipitating the Peasant's Revolt, when mobs beheaded the archbishop of Canterbury and the treasurer. The tax was abandoned.

In her address, Thatcher also criticized the 28 Labor members of Parliament who have pledged not to pay the poll tax, and the thousands of Scots who have withheld payment of the poll tax since it was imposed north of the English border last year.

''We also condemn anyone, particularly a member of this house, who chooses to disobey the law by refusing to pay his community charge,'' Thatcher said. ''That is totally wrong and it means that opposition MPs only obey the law when they make it and not when another government does.''

Recent polls have shown the popularity of Thatcher's Conservative Party has plunged to its lowest level in nearly two decades, a decline due in large part to the poll tax.

In a letter to Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock, Baker called the Anti-Poll Tax Federation a front for the Militant Tendency far-left group.

Baker also said he believed the protesters were hired.

''The action of the hard-left bully boys gives the lie to your promise to wipe out Militant once and for all,'' he said.

Labor's campaign coordinator John Cunningham said Baker's letter represents ''a pathetic new low in political conduct. ... You know full well that Neil Kinnock and the Labor Party are opposed to violence and opposed to those who seek to perpetrate it.''

Peter Taafee, editor of a Militant Tendency publication, told the Times newspaper that his group had a prominent role in the resistance movement.

''The role of Militant in the federation is a prominent one,'' he said. ''We believe in organizing resistance to the poll tax.''

The Times said 13 of the 17 regional organizers of the Anti-Poll Tax Federation are Militant Tendency supporters.

CLEVELAND (MARCH 8) UPI - Authorities say nine people, including five children, died in two apparent murder-suicide shootings within seven hours of each other.

Both shooting episodes occurred in apartment complexes - one in the Cleveland suburb of Mayfield Heights and the other in Painesville, about 30 miles northeast of Cleveland - and neither was discovered for more than 12 hours.

The fathers were responsible in both cases, police said.

Mayfield Heights Police Chief Dominic Caprara said Robert Lynch, 51, shot his pregnant wife, Joy, 43, and their three sons, Michael, 16, Matthew, 15 and Andrew, 10, about 2 a.m. Wednesday.

In Painesville, authorities say Bruce Clinton, 36, shot and killed Angela Green, 23, his live-in girlfriend, and their two children, Wesley Adam, 5, and Winston Allen, 14 months, about 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Each man then committed suicide.

The Mayfield Heights shootings were not discovered until about 5 p.m., after a neighbor called the apartment manager and said she had heard shots nearly 15 hours earlier. The bodies of the Painesville victims were discovered shortly before 9:30 p.m., after a friend called police.

Caprara said a suicide note was found near Lynch's body.

''The essence of the note was, 'This is the last straw,''' the chief said, adding police had no idea what the note meant.

''It's a tragic scene,'' Caprara said. ''We have never had anything comparable to this. It's the biggest murder we've ever had.''

Other neighbors also heard the shots but did not call authorities.

In Painesville, police Sgt. Darryl Dunlap said authorities went to the otherapartment when a friend called and said she'd failed to hear from Green, who was in the process of moving out of the apartment.

''We understand she had gone back to get her kids and that's when it apparently happened,'' Dunlap said.

Clinton was unemployed, but had at one time worked as a security guard and also applied for a job with the police department.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Federal aviation officials have a ''tombstone technology'' approach to air carrier accidents and should concentrate more on detecting defects before they cause fatalities, Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Fla., said Thursday.

The criticism by Lewis and other lawmakers came at a House subcommittee hearing on his proposal to require the Federal Aviation Administration ''to develop a workable research plan to detect these problems before they become accidents.''

Lewis cited the 1989 Sioux City, Iowa, crash of a United Airlines DC-10 that killed 112 people and a fatal 1988 incident in which part of the fusilage of an Aloha Airlines Boeing 737 blew away as examples of tragic accidents caused by defects that could have been avoided.

''These were preventable accidents but the current procedures did not detect the problems,'' Lewis said. ''It is no longer acceptable to just conduct tombstone technology. Instead, we must have aggressive research programs with the goal of preventing all fatalities.''

Rep. Tim Valentine, D-N.C., chairman of the transportation panel of the House Science, Space and Technology Committee, agreed that too many safety measures are decided by the government ''after the fact.''

''Horror stories of engines falling off airplanes and cargo doors blowing open are gradually undermining the public's confidence that air travel is 'the safest form of transportation,''' Valentine said.

Lewis's legislation would set up a centralized program within the FAA aimed at uncovering aircraft defects. It would be responsible for coordinating data gathered from government agencies, the airlines, aircraft manufacturers, the military and other sources.

Thomas McSweeny, deputy director of the FAA's Office of Aircraft Certification, said the agency has ''no objection'' to the measure because it already has ''compatible'' or similar programs in place.

But Valentine said the current FAA efforts are too slow, particularly in mandating aircraft design changes once defects are found. ''Why does it take as long as 10 years before an aircraft is retrofitted to meet these new requirements?'' Valentine asked.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (MARCH 8) UPI - The upsurge of violence in black townships and nominally independent homelands that has left at least 13 dead and 450 wounded was ''part of an overall plan to destabilize the country,'' the government said Thursday.

Police spokesman Maj. Gen. Herman Stadler said the unrest was ''worrying'' but declared police forces ''in full control,'' and army troops were poised to enter the homeland of Bophuthatswana as trouble continued for a second day but showed signs of abating.

At least eight people were killed and 350 wounded when security forces opened fire in the Bophuthatswana town of Ga-Rankuwa to break up a demonstration for ''reincorporation'' into South Africa Wednesday.

Homeland troops Thursday conducted house-to-house raids and detained an undetermined number of people, state-run radio reported.

Police also fired teargas to break up mobs gathering around burned out buildings, several schools remained closed and streets cluttered by tires, stones and wrecked government vehicles, the radio said. Violence also spread to the town of Winterveld where a homeland transport bus was set ablaze, it said.

Homeland President Lucas Mangope, who declared a state of emergency in several towns Wednesday, said in a statement ''certain sectors'' in South Africa were behind the unrest but he declined to name them. He reaffirmed his opposition to ''reincorporation.''

South Africa's controversial homelands policy, which provided independence to Bophuthatswana in 1977, has stripped millions of blacks of South African citizenship since 1976 by placing them in four homelands. No other nation recognizes their independence.

The government's chief racial reform negotiator, Constitutional Affairs Minister Gerrit Viljoen, told reporters in Cape Town Thursday the unrest was interpreted ''as a sign of unreadiness on the part of certain leaders to get involved in the negotiation process.''

''The violence is certainly part of an overall plan to destabilize the country and make it difficult to commence negotiations,'' Viljoen said in an apparent reference to the African National Congress. A spokesman for the ANC in Lusaka denied the charges.

''It is quite clear that certain elements pretend to be keen on participating in a negotiating forum but are in fact are not ready to do so,'' Viljoen said.

The upsurge in violence prompted President Frederik de Klerk to defend his refusal to lift a 44-month-old state of emergency which is a condition set by the ANC before it accepts his call for power-sharing negotiations to end the country's racial conflict.

De Klerk, who vowed to take ''strong steps'' where necessaary to avert ''anarchy and chaos,'' conferred Thursday with the leader of another self-governing black homeland, Gazankulu, hit by political unrest.

A joint statement said South Africa would provide additional security aid to the territory's leader, Hudson Ntsanwisi, and de Klerk reiterated that ''a situation of calm and of law and order ... is essential for the normalization of the political process.''

The violence in the eastern portion of Bophuthatswana, which is divided into seven separate sections across northern and central South Africa, came three days after a successful military coup in the coastal homeland of Ciskei deposed President-for-life Lennox Sebe.

Foreign Affairs Minister Roelof ''Pik'' Botha met coup leader Brig. O.J. Gqozo in the homeland capital of Bisho and said in a statement he was ''encouraged'' by Gqozo's ''declared objections.''

But Botha withheld official recognition of the new government, saying ''at this time the priority was peace, stability and reconstruction.''

In the black township of Katlehong east of Johannesburg, police reported three killed and 73 injured Wednesday in clashes with police and violence between rival taxi associations. Two other people died and 23 injured in unrest in other townships.

LONDON (MARCH 8) UPI - The last word in disputes over proper English usage is The Oxford English Dictionary, and its half-million entries became available for swift consultation through a computer-linked, dial-a-definition service that was started Thursday.

''I am officially the full-time talking dictionary,'' said Juliet Fields, who answers the service's telephone in Oxford, 55 miles northwest of London.

Most people are unwilling to invest $2,500 for the complete 20-tome set, which within its blue covers defines more than 500,000 words and provides more than 2.4 million dated quotations to illustrate meanings.

Oxford University Press has provided since 1983 a word service consulted by journalists, writers, fanatic players of crossword puzzles and the word-game Scrabble, and people wishing to solve a language tiff.

An increase in people requesting the definitive word on words prompted it to expand the service, installing a telephone line dedicated to such inquiries and giving access to a computer in which are stored all present, and possible future, dictionary entries.

''Callers either telephone or write in with any particular use of language that they can't find in the dictionary, and I will do my best with my bank of books in front of me to answer them,'' Fields said.

''A lot of people have said, 'Thank goodness, I have wanted to ask this for ages,''' she said.

The service also has a role of introducing words that are public parlance, but not officially recognized.

One such word was suggested on the first morning by one of about 20 people who called.

Fields said a woman phoned because she did not believe her brother who said he had heard an actor in an American film use the word ''humongous.''

The word is listed in the American dictionary Webster's as slang meaning ''of enormous size or extent, very large or great.'' It is not in the Oxford dictionary, but researchers are considering whether it is worthy of inclusion in the next edition, Fields said.

''I started off the day without knowing this extraordinary word,'' she said. ''Everyone says I will be awfully good at Scrabble after this.''

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA (MARCH 8) UPI - Senior government legal officials denied Thursday a charge by former President Raul Alfonsin that they were preparing a contingency plan to close Congress.

Alfonsin said in a television interview Wednesday night that President Carlos Menem's advisers were studying legal precedents to shut down the legislative branch, thus concentrating power in the presidency.

Urging a political pact by several parties to preserve Argentina's democracy, Alfonsin said the alternative to a broad political agreement now would be ''authoritarianism.''

Granillo Ocampo, a legal adviser to Menem, Thursday called Alfonsin's charge a ''total falsehood.''

A supposed project to close Congress, he said, was ''only in the imagination of those who say it.''

Justice Secretary Cesar Arias called Alfonsin ''irresponsible'' and said the charge was the result of ''a possible fantasy.''

Alfonsin, who was president from 1983 to 1989, remains president of his Radical Civic Union Party, now the chief opposition to the incumbent Peronist Party.

In recent weeks, leaders of Alfonsin's party have been negotiating a possible political pact with Menem's Peronists with the aim of preserving Argentina's fragile democracy at a time of economic crisis, but the talks did not bring results.

The country has suffered numerous coups since 1930. An especially severe period of military rule, lasting 7 1/2 years, ended with Alfonsin's assumption of the presidency in December of 1983.

Inflation is running at an annual rate of over 8,000 percent, and Menem, since he assumed office on July 8, has unsuccessfully tried to stem the galloping cost of living with five different unpopular economic austerity packages.

In another sign of a possible drift toward authoritarianism, Interior Minister Julio Mera Figueroa admitted in a news conference Wednesday that he, Menem, and Defense Minister Humberto Romero had signed a decree enabling the armed forces to intervene in cases of ''internal commotion.''

Mera Figueroa denied that the decree violated a 1986 law that restricts the army to fighting foreign enemies or those who attack military bases.

Alfonsin and other opposition leaders, as well as some members of Menem's own party, have charged the decree violated the law, and the subsecretary of human rights, Guillermo Frugoni Rey, resigned in protest against the decree.

In an instance of the sporadic looting that has plagued cities in the interior in recent weeks, police shot and wounded a 14-year-old boy early Thursday. Police said he was in a group of 50 people assaulting food trucks on a highway outside of the city of Rosario, 200 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

NORTH BERGEN, NJ (MARCH 8) UPI - A citizen activist in a town known for its lively political wars has come up with a new way to get the word on dirt - a corruption hotline.

''We had to set up a hotline so people could talk to us without being seen '' said James Wiley, a critic of North Bergen's Municipal Utilities Authority.

But local officials call the hotline ''a political ploy,'' charging that Wiley is a tool of Joseph Mocco, the former township clerk convicted last year of taking payoffs from trash haulers using North Bergen's marshland as a private and illegal dump.

Advertisements in local newspapers a few days ago said, ''Report Corruption - call North Bergen Hot Line.'' In much smaller letters, readers are told, ''Not affiliated with the Township of North Bergen.''

Wiley claims he has received more than 250 telephone calls.

North Bergen, which straddles the Palisades between the Hudson River and the Hackensack Meadowlands, is locally famous for its unstable politics. Mocco, ousted by a recall election in the late 1970s with his brother Mayor Peter Mocco, successfully orchestrated another recall in 1985 that put the present administration in power.

DETROIT (MARCH 8) UPI - The Chevrolet and Pontiac divisions of General Motors Corp. announced Thursday they will essentially hold the line on prices of their restyled 1991-model Camaro and Firebird coupes that go on sale this month.

However, those cars, at least intially, will not carry customer rebates of between $500 and $1,000 now offered on 1990 versions.

The 1991-model Camaro will start at $10,995, while the RS convertible begins at $16,880, the same as for 1990, Chevrolet spokeswoman Mary McElyea said. The 1991-model Z-28 coupe is up by $60 to $14,615, while the Z-28 convertible is $60 less, with a base price of $20,135.

The Camaro models officially go on sale March 22, McElyea said.

The Pontiac Firebird, on sale immediately, starts at $11,985, up $665 from last year, division spokesman Ed Lechtzin said.

However, a 4-speed automatic transmission and AM-FM stereo cassette has been added as standard equipment for 1991 in the base model, expected to account for 75 percent of total Firebird sales.

The 1991-model Formula Firebird starts at $14,610, the same as the 1991 model. The Trans Am version starts at $16,732, up from $16,510, but AM-FM stereo cassette and larger wheels and tires are now standard.

The GTA version begins at $23,475, up from $23,320. A new dual converter exhaust system is standard for 1991.

A destination charge of $459, raised $20 from 1990, is extra on all Camaro and Firebird models.

GM began building the 1991 models, which have new front- and rear-end appearances, at its Van Nuys, Calif., plant last month. Production for the 1991 model, still based on the basic rear-drive platform first used for 1982, is to to continue for about 18 months, with minor changes made for 1992.

Both divisions expect sales to pick up substantially from steadily declining levels in previous years because of increased import competition and escalating insurance rates.

Camaro sales during 1989 fell 6.1 percent from the previous year, while Firebird sales declined 5.9 percent, according to GM sales figures.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Richard Nixon, returning to the House where he began his political career bashing communism, said Thursday the United States has an important role to play in China and warned anyone who ''thinks Japan is going to export democracy to China must be smoking pot.''

Nixon spoke for more than an hour before House Republicans on Capitol Hill where 43 years ago he opened a tumultuous career that led him up the political ladder to the White House, then down to the disgrace of Watergate, and now back to an emerging prominence as a GOP elder statesman.

Appearing vigorous, relaxed and in good health, Nixon, 77, gave the House Republicans and later reporters a review of the revolutionary political changes that he said have closed the door on the Cold War - the threshold of his entrance into politics.

As president, Nixon reopened U.S. relations with China in 1972 and has firmly supported President Bush's efforts to restore ties with Beijing despite the brutal repression of pro-democracy demonstrators last June. He warned that the United States cannot leave China to the designs of Mikhail Gorbachev's Soviet Union or Japan, an ambitious economic superpower with a largely closed society.

''Does anybody think the Soviet Union is going to export human rights to China,'' Nixon said. ''Gorbachev has not criticized what happened on June 4.

''And anybody that thinks Japan is going to export democracy to China must be smoking pot.''

Nixon, jamming his hands in the pockets of a well-tailored blue pinstriped suit and gesturing to make his points, also said:

-The challenge of his generation was to defeat communism. Today's challenge is ''the victory of freedom'' by assuring that the new democracies emerging in Eastern Europe succeed.

-U.S. aid to the Soviet Union is ''a bad idea'' unless Gorbachev asks for it and stops the export of arms to the Third World.

-There will be a ''peace dividend'' from a shrinking defense budget, but it should be tapped first to reduce the deficit and strengthen the economy.

-The days of Cuba's Fidel Castro are numbered, and if Gorbachev cuts off his annual $6 billion in aid, Castro will have to deal with the West.

-Ronald Reagan is not trying ''to cover up'' about his role in the Iran-Contra scandal and the 79-year-old former president has simply forgotten many of the details.

Nixon also visited later with Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, and Secretary of State James Baker dropped by Dole's office for a chat.

The former president paused to look over his bust outside the second floor of the Senate, where he was presiding officer as vice president under President Eisenhower in 1953-61.

Nixon recalled that he and John F. Kennedy, who came to Congress the same year as Nixon and was the man who beat him in the 1960 presidential race, had urged a strong role for the United States in world affairs after World War ll.

''Here's where it all began,'' Nixon said. ''Jack Kennedy and I had has our goal the defeat of communism. The members of Congress today have as their goal a much more important challenge, the victory of freedom.''

Nixon said Congress must see the importance of the U.S. relationship with China, despite its human rights record.

''Even if there were no Soviet threat, a constructive relationship with China is indispensable to peace'' and the U.S. role in the Pacific, said Nixon, who visited Beijing late last year and met with Bush at the White House Nov. 5 to report on his visit.

''It is very important that we re-establish our relationship with China, continuing to put pressure on them to change their ways, because we will use that relationship to get China to moderate its policies. And I think they will.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Federal aviation officials have a ''tombstone technology'' approach to air carrier accidents and should concentrate more on detecting defects before they cause fatalities, Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Fla., said Thursday.

The criticism by Lewis and other lawmakers came at a House subcommittee hearing on his proposal to require the Federal Aviation Administration ''to develop a workable research plan to detect these problems before they become accidents.'' that killed 112 people and a fatal 1988 incident in which part of the fusilage of an Aloha Airlines Boeing 737 blew away as examples of tragic accidents caused by defects that could have been avoided.

''These were preventable accidents but the current procedures did not detect the problems,'' Lewis said. ''It is no longer acceptable to just conduct tombstone technology. Instead, we must have aggressive research programs with the goal of preventing all fatalities.''

Rep. Tim Valentine, D-N.C., chairman of the transportation panel of the House Science, Space and Technology Committee, agreed that too many safety measures are decided by the government ''after the fact.''

''Horror stories of engines falling off airplanes and cargo doors blowing open are gradually undermining the public's confidence that air travel is 'the safest form of transportation,''' Valentine said.

Lewis's legislation would set up a centralized program within the FAA aimed at uncovering aircraft defects. It would be responsible for coordinating data gathered from government agencies, the airlines, aircraft manufacturers, the military and other sources.

Thomas McSweeny, deputy director of the FAA's Office of Aircraft Certification, said the agency has ''no objection'' to the measure because it already has ''compatible'' or similar programs in place.

But Valentine said the current FAA efforts are too slow, particularly in mandating aircraft design changes once defects are found. ''Why does it take as long as 10 years before an aircraft is retrofitted to meet these new requirements?'' Valentine asked.

MANAGUA, NICARAGUA (MARCH 8) UPI - Nicaraguan President-elect Violeta Chamorro flew to Venezuela Thursday to discuss the Central American peace process and bilateral cooperation with President Carlos Andres Perez.

''They will be discussing the electoral process (in Nicaragua), the peace process in Central America, and relations between Venezuela and Nicaragua '' said a spokesman for the National Opposition Union, the political coalition that backed Chamorro in last month's presidential election.

The spokesman said Chamorro is traveling to Venezuela at the invitation of Perez and would be in Caracas for five hours.

After meeting Perez in the Venezuelan capital of Caracas, Chamorro will fly to Houston to receive treatment for her right kneecap, which Chamorro broke in an accident in December. The spokesman did not know how long Chamorro would stay in Houston.

Chamorro is traveling with Antonio Lacayo, one of her top advisers.

On Tuesday, in her first trip abroad since the election, Chamorro met with Costa Rican President Oscar Arias in the Costa Rican town of Liberia, 40 miles from the Nicaraguan-Costa Rican border.

Chamorro won an upset victory over President Daniel Ortega in the Feb. 25 election by a 55 percent to 41 percent margin and is to be sworn in on April 25.

DETROIT (MARCH 8) UPI - U.S. passenger car output during the second quarter of 1990 is expected to total about 1.76 million units, down 9.4 percent from year-ago levels, the statistical publication Fast Track News said Thursday.

But total U.S. car output is expected to rise substantially from the 1.48 million units estimated for the first quarter, said the newsletter, published 24 times a year by Integrated Automotive Resources Inc., of Wayne, Pa.

First-quarter passenger car output is expected to be about 22.4 percent below the 1.9 million cars produced in the 1989 first quarter because top automakers, as well as Mazda Motor Manufacturing (USA) Corp., cut production rates either through widespread temporary plant closings or line speed reductions during the January-March period to trim high stockpiles.

''When you add production for the first two quarters of 1990 and compare it with the first two of last year, that's about the equivalent of three assembly plants going down for the entire year,'' said Thomas O'Grady, head of Integrated Automotive Resources.

Noting this works out to over 600,000 fewer units produced, O'Grady said there continues to be ''excess capacity in this market.''

The Big Three producers - General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. - are scheduling just over about 1.4 million units of production for the April-June quarter, down 14.3 percent from the 1.65 million units built during the second quarter of 1989.

But most Asian producers building cars in the United States plan to continue increasing line speeds at their relatively new plants, with output expected to rise 18.6 percent to 345,185 cars during the next quarter from the 291,145 cars built in the year-ago second quarter, the newsletter said.

The latest production estimates follow first-quarter forecasts that were recently raised by about 11,000 cars to bolster supplies of some models that sold well largely because of heavy buyer incentives, Fast Track News said.

Those models include cars like the Plymouth Acclaim, the Dodge Dynasty and the LeBaron covertible built by Chrysler, as well as Ford's Lincoln Continental, O'Grady said.

Separately, Ward's Automotive Reports said Thursday U.S. carmakers plan to build an estimated 134,086 cars this week, up from 131,289 cars last week but below the 149,688 cars built this week last year.

U.S. truck production this week is estimated at 82,788 units, up from 82,169 trucks last week but also below the 90,436 trucks built in the year-ago week, the weekly statistical publication said.

GM's Wentzville, Mo., car plant remains down this week as it changes over to build the 1991-model Buick Park Avenue, Ward's said.

Several U.S. vehicle plants are slated to work Saturday overtime this week including Ford's Lincoln luxury car plant in Wixom, Mich., and Honda of America Manufacturing's car plant in Marysville, Ohio.

GM's pickup truck plant in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Ford's plant in Louisville, Ky., which started building Explorer sport utility vehicles, are also slated to work Saturday overtime, Ward's said.

HENDERSON, NC (MARCH 8) UPI - First lady Barbara Bush took her battle against illiteracy to an elementary school Thursday where she read to the children and was rewarded with a shiny red apple from a shy 4-year-old.

Mrs. Bush requested the visit to Carver Elementary School to get a first-hand look at its innovative program that makes it possible for parents to return to school.

''This is the kind of thing that is needed in communities across the nation,'' the first lady said of the 15 mothers and their children who make up the school's literacy program.

''It opens the doors for them (the mothers) as well as their children. It has raised their level of self-respect. It's exciting,'' she said.

When she arrived at the school she was given a shiny red apple by 4-year-old Glenee Johnson, who smiled shyly at the first lady but said not a word.

The Carver Elementary School literacy program is one of seven in North Carolina and Kentucky funded by the William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust. Over the past two years, 52 schools in 23 states have begun similar programs.

At 7 a.m. each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, a van rounds up the mothers and their pre-school children, transporting them to school.

The children, all 3- and 4-year-olds, spend the day with two teachers who concentrate on socialization and verbal skills and pre-school education.

The mothers, meanwhile, attend a class next door, where they are taught algebra, history and other subjects that will enable them to receive a high school equivalency diploma. They also hear speakers talk about communicating with children, basic nutrition and the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse.

''You can see the improvement instantly,'' said Laura Wright, one of the teachers. ''They (the mothers) read to their children now. That's a thing they didn't do before.''

Mrs. Bush knelt down on the floor next to Tenika Seward, 4, whose pig tails sported yellow ribbons.

''I like your hair,'' she told the little girl, before reading to her from a pre-school book.

Tenika's mother, Brenda Seward, told the first lady the literacy program has restored some of the self-esteem she lost when she dropped out of high school as a teenager.

''It helped me learn,'' she said. ''My daughter won't be so far behind when she starts kindergarten. It's really important to me. I was the only one of my family who didn't finish school.''

Mrs. Bush applauded the efforts of the mothers and told them she realizes drugs and joblessness exacerbate the problems of people who do not know how to read.

However, funding for the Carver Elementary program runs out next year. The government does not pay for such programs, and school officials are looking for alternative funds to keep the program going.

LONDON (MARCH 8) UPI - Stock prices closed higher in moderate trading Thursday on the London International stock exchange boosted in part by a resurgence of bid speculation.

The blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which gained 14.3 points Wednesday, closed up 19.7 points at 2,250.0. The narrower top 30 industrial average gained 17.4 points to 1,774.4.

Volume amounted to around 430 million shares, compared with 415 million shares changing hands Wednesday.

Market watchers said investors, after struggling to overcome a bout of bad news including political upheaval and economic worries earlier in the week received a boost from a survey which showed slower growth in retail sales last month.

Analysts said another round of annual results coupled with news that Elders IXL Ltd. had reached an understanding with Grand Metropolitian PLC to acquire breweries, also helped to send prices higher across the broad.

Elders of Australia, which currently owns 5,000 pubs in Britain, announced it had reached an understanding with Grand Metropolitan to acquire Grand Met's breweries and form a joint venture that will control the two companies' combined 8,500 pubs in Britain.

Elders said the transaction is subject to approval by the British regulators and shareholders of both companies.

Grand Met ended the day 18 cents higher at $8.96 in heavy trading.

Elsewhere in the strong breweries sector, Allied Lyons gained 11 cents to $7.04 while Guinness, Bass, J.A. Devenish, Eldridge Pope & Co. and Scottish & Newcastle all ended higher.

In a strong insurance sector, General Accident gained 27 cents to $16.55 and Commercial Union Insurance gained 10 cents to $7.66 in what analysts described as some bargain hunting.

Among the day's other highlights, Body Shop 46 cents to $7.56, Lasmo gained 16 cents to $9.79, British Gas gained 6 cents to $3.42 and B.A.T. Industries gained 11 cents to $12.85.

Elsewhere in Europe, prices on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange closed broadly higher in moderate trading.

The German Stock Index, which climbed 22.50 points Wednesday, rose 16.20 points to 1,860.92.

Traders said strong demand from large institutional investors and firmer bond prices helped boost prices.

JERUSALEM (MARCH 8) UPI - Facing possible breakup of the Israel's governing coalition over the peace process, leaders of the Labor and Likud parties Thursday met separately with religious parties to discuss forming a narrow coalition.

The deepening government crisis and political maneuvering followed a Labor ultimatum that the Cabinet decide on a U.S. proposal for talks with a Palestinian delegation.

The Inner Cabinet, a 12-member committee of the full 26-member cabinet that debates key policy matters, did not vote on the proposal Wednesday and delayed until Sunday further discussion on the issue. Labor has scheduled a meeting of its Central Committee Monday to consider leaving the 14-month-old coalition if the measure is not approved.

Arguing that important problems cannot be resolved hastily, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, head of the right-wing Likud Party, has said the Inner Cabinet may not came to decision Sunday.

''I think that the decision process will drag on,'' Shamir said. ''When people talk to me in ultimatums, I don't hear anything.''

In Washington, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said of the new stalemate in the peace process: ''We have been working with this problem for some period of time. There have been stops and starts. We don't look at them as being good or bad. We'll stick with the process.''

At issue is the role of East Jerusalem Arabs in the peace process. Likud objects to their participation, fearing it will lead to negotiations on Israel's sovereignty over Jerusalem. Labor supports their involvement. It unlikely that Palestinians will agree to any talks if East Jerusalem Arabs are excluded.

Throughout the day, representatives of Israel's two main parties met with the small religious parties in the hope of putting together a narrow coalition should Labor withdraw from the current government. No contacts occurred between Labor and Likud.

Shamir talked with Immigration Absorption Minister Yitzhak Peretz, head of the National Religious Party, and leaders of the ultra-Orthodox Shas party. Labor Party chairman Shimon Peres met with the head of ultra-Orthodox Flag of the Torah party.

Meanwhile, the two parties engaged in a heated, sometimes personal, public debate over the peace process. Shamir said the current crisis was hurting the nation and charged Peres accepted every proposal.

''It is not politically wise to accept everything that is given to you,'' he told students in northern Israel. ''In the past years, I haven't seen Mr. Peres refuse to accept everything that was offered by the United States and the Arabs.''

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin, a senior Labor leader, again warned the government would not last if the U.S. proposal is rejected.

''If the chance to continue the peace process is ruined not by Egypt, not by us, but by the Likud, there is no reason for this government to continue,'' Rabin said.

Under the compromise put forward by U.S. Secretary of State James Baker, Israel would agree to meet with a Palestinian delegation made up residents from the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip that included one deportee and Arabs with an office or second residence in Jerusalem. The issue of East Jerusalem Arabs would be left until later.

Talks between the Israeli and Palestinian delegations would focus on elections to pick representatives to negotiations on the future of the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

In the occupied West Bank, at least six Palestinians were wounded during disturbances that erupted after soldiers broke up International Women's Day marches, Palestinian sources said. Two other Palestinians were wounded in separate incidents, they said.

In Arab East Jerusalem, police used tear gas and rubber bullets to break up two marches by dozens of Palestinian women. Arab youths later threw stones at police and overturned a car in on Salah A Din Street, East Jerusalem's main commercial thoroughfare. At least six people were brought to Mokassed Hospital for treatment of beatings, rubber bullets and tear gas inhalation.

Eight suspects were arrested, a police spokesman said.

In the Gaza Strip, four Arabs were wounded during a general strike called by the Islamic Jihad, Palestinian sources said.

SEATTLE (MARCH 8) UPI - The illegal trafficking in classified Pentagon documents that landed a former Boeing Co. executive in prison was commonplace at the company and involved hundreds of employees, it was reported Thursday.

Although Richard L. Fowler was the only Boeing employee tried and convicted for illegally obtaining secret papers, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer said an examination of company records and court documents as well as interviews with dozens of federal investigators, government officials and former and current Boeing employees shows that Fowler did not act alone.

Fowler, 64, was sentenced Jan. 12 to two years in prison for obtaining the secret documents and passing them on to other Boeing officials in the early 1980s. He is not expected to begin his sentence, however, for up to eight months, the time he may serve in jail for contempt of court for refusing to tell a grand jury who in the Pentagon gave him the documents.

Boeing pleaded guilty in November to two counts of accepting documents from Fowler. The company paid $5.2 million in fines and restitution, and its Rosslyn, Va., procurement office was suspended from contact with the federal government for four months. That suspension was recently lifted. At the time of its guilty plea, Boeing contended no other employees currently working for the company took part in any illegal trafficking in secret papers.

But the Post-Intelligencer said previously undisclosed Boeing records show at least 15 other executives - some still on the company payroll - obtained classified Pentagon documents and brought them to Boeing.

Between 1983 and 1985 alone, the P-I said, other Boeing marketing executives obtained 75 secret reports, including sensitive internal memos to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Chief of Naval Operations, as well as reports that could have given Boeing inside information on the products of rival defense contractors.

A Boeing spokesman said the company has tightened its controls and that the government had found no evidence of wrongdoing either after 1985 or "by any current Boeing employee."

And while the company is still conducting an internal review, it said Wednesday it had "derived some degree of assurance about the degree of ... present employee involvement" from prosecutors who concluded that only Fowler should have been prosecuted.

But Richard Smith, a special agent with the Pentagon's Defense Criminal Investigative Service, said others in Boeing besides Fowler had acquired documents without authority and that the U.S. attorney had agreed not to prosecute them in exchange for their cooperation.

Other government investigators said more than 300 Boeing officers including at least one division president and three division vice presidents were involved in the operation in some ways, including reading the documents, transporting them, or acting as custodians of the documents.

An unspecified number of Boeing officers were named by a federal grand jury as unindicted co-conspirators in the Fowler case, but federal attorneys chose not to prosecute them. They have not been publicly identified, and Boeing said it does not know who they are.

Investigators said illegal document-gathering seemed to come to a halt in 1985, meaning that a five-year statute of limitations has expired or is about to expire for others who may have been involved in dealing in the secret documents.

(MARCH 8) UPI - TODAY'S PEOPLE:

WAXY BUILDUP: There will be a before-and-after exhibition of Luciano Pavarotti's girth Monday at Madame Tussaud's in London. The ''before'' will be a replica unveiled at the wax museum and the ''after'' will be Pavarotti himself, who has been dieting since posing for the statue in July. ''Look at me, I have lost 80 pounds and so I am 80 pounds less than what I was,'' the opera star said at a news conference Thursday to mark his coming appearance in ''The Elixir of Love.'' Pavarotti's suit hung loosely on him and he says he's limiting himself to 1,800 calories a day and avoiding alcohol, sugar and fat. The Pavarotti statue, which will wear his own evening clothes and shoes, will be placed with those of Dudley

Moore and Jane Seymour for a new display titled ''The Garden Party.'' ''It will be fascinating to see just how the two (the singer and the statue) do match up on Monday,'' said Juliet Simpkins of Madame Tussaud's. ''He might have lost 80 pounds but we don't know in what areas. It might have been his ankles.''

LOOKING HOMEWARD: Former boxing champ Roberto Duran, a Panamanian strongman in his own right, made the rounds in Washington Wednesday to lobby for his native country. ''There's lack of clothing, lack of food, and assitance has just been trickling in,'' Duran said through an interpreter. He urged Congress to expedite aid to Panama now that Manuel Noriega has been ousted. He dwelled on his hometown, El Chorio, and the problems there in the wake of the U.S. invasion - children without clothes inadequate sanitation - and mentioned that he was in the town the night of the attack. ''On that particular night he was with some friend of his '' Duran's interpreter said. ''At one in the morning, there were all kinds of explosions and noises outside. He had to leave the club where he was. He went out running. He's never been afraid in the ring but if somebody launched a bomb at a building you were in, you'd probably run, too.''

MCAULIFFE PLANETARIUM: New Hampshire Gov. Judd Gregg is hoping to draw President Bush and Mikhail Gorbachev to Concord next month for the formal opening of a planetarium honoring space teacher Christa McAuliffe. Gregg already has invited Bush, who has a summer home in nearby Kennebunkport, Maine, and when he heard that Gorbachev would meet with Bush and perhaps speak at Brown University in Providence, R.I., he expanded the invitation to include the Soviet leader. ''Should any of these meetings be in the Kennebunkport area, we would like to invite you and (Gorbachev) to participate in the formal opening of the Christa McAuliffe Planetarium in Concord,'' Gregg wrote to Bush. The planetarium, is New Hampshire's tribute to the Concord High School social studies teacher killed in the Challenger explosion on Jan. 28, 1986.

COURT BOUNCES PAYCHECK: Country singer Johnny Paycheck lost his appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court. Paycheck, who was convicted of shooting a man in 1985 argument in a Hillsboro, Ohio, bar, had been appealing his seven-to-nine-year sentence on a technicality involving firearms charges. Paycheck went to prison 13 months ago and won't be eligible for parole for another 4 1/2 years.

ON THE BLOCK: The new heavyweight boxing champion, Buster Douglas, will join Lynda Carter at a Washington celebrity auction Tuesday to raise money for ''boarder babies'' abandoned at hospitals by their mothers. Among the items to be auctioned are a hat from Michael Jackson, a ''Miami Vice'' script autographed by Don Johnson, boxing gloves from Sugar Ray Leonard and a jersey from San Francisco 49ers quarterback Joe Montana ... A large portion of the late philosopher Jean-Paul Sartre's essay on the classical French novelist Gustave Flaubert will go on the auction block Monday in Paris with an estimated price of about $30,000. The manuscript, entitled ''The Idiot of the Family'', represents 95 percent of the work as it was published in 1972 and also includes several variations of some passages. Also up for auction are several other Sartre essays written between 1970 and 1972 on such diverse subjects as racism, prisons and the Palestinian.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Medicare will begin paying for certain adult liver transplants at hospitals with proven success in performing the procedure, Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan announced Thursday.

Medicare previously covered heart and kidney tranplants, but did not pay for liver transplants in adults because they were considered experimental.

An HHS task force recommended in 1986 that liver transplants be covered, and a subsequent Public Health Service study found the procedure to be safe and effective for certain conditions, prompting the rule change, Sullivan said.

Among the conditions to be covered will be alcoholic cirrhosis. But to receive a transplant a patient with that condition must have stopped drinking and demonstrate ''evidence of sufficient social support to assure assistance in alcohol rehabilitation,'' Health Care Financing Administration officials said.

Medicare, which covers 30 million elderly persons and 3 million Social Security disability aid recipients, has covered certain liver transplants in disabled children since 1983, but has never had an applicant, HCFA officials said. Some state Medicaid programs do cover liver transplants for children.

More than 3,500 liver transplants have been performed in the United States. Medicare estimates it will spend $10 million in the first year of liver transplant coverage and $120 million by the fifth year of the program.

However, HHS officials said the actual costs to Medicare should be less than their estimates because the tranplants ''will result in savings from the costs of treatment for patients with end-stage liver disease.''

There are 59 liver transplant facilities in America. To qualify for the Medicare program, hospitals must demonstrate one-year survival rates of 77 percent and two-year survival rates of 60 percent for adult tranplant patients having the conditions covered by Medicare.

In addition to alcoholic cirrhosis, the other conditions to be covered will be primary biliary cirrhosis, primary sclerosing cholangitis, hepatitis B, antigen negative (postnecrotic cirrhosis), Alpha-1 antitrypsin deficiency disease, Wilson's disease and primary hemochromatosis.

Proposed rules for how hospitals can qualify for the program were published Thursday in the Federal Register. After a 60-day comment period, the rules will become final and hospitals can apply. HCFA officials said coverage could be granted retroactively for tranplants as early as Thursday.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - In another sign of the warming U.S-Soviet relationship, the two countries Thursday announced American participation in a Russian plan to launch a radio telescope into orbit.

The United States will play a role in the RADIOASTRON project, a three- to four-year mission to launch a satellite into orbit in the mid-1990s carrying a radio telescope to probe the universe.

''This is a small but a significant step in the evolving cooperation in space activities between our two nations,'' said Vice President Dan Quayle chairman of the National Space Council.

''Space is an area where in the past we have had competition with the Soviet Union,'' Quayle said at a news conference. ''With the reduction of tensions, perhaps this will be a place where we can have not competition but cooperation.''

Quayle was joined by the space council members and several Soviet officials, including the Soviet ambassador to the United States, Yuri Dubinin.

''This is a good start to a new era of U.S.-Soviet space cooperation,'' Dubinin said. ''It will be a new page in the history of humanity.''

The project involves launching a Soviet satellite between 1993 and 1995 equipped with a 33-foot antenna that will gather data and transmit it to ground-based radio telescopes for up to five years.

Scientists will analyze the data to study such fundamental astrophysical phenonmena as active galaxies and quasars, neutron stars and black holes and hopefully acquire a greater understanding of basic physics, officials said.

The United States will help track the satellite and lend the Soviet Union data recorders. In addition, U.S. scientists will help plan the launch and be involved once the mission is under way, officials said.

''We feel we are entering a golden era in relation to space exploration,'' Quayle said.

Quayle noted Soviet physicist and human rights activist Andrei Sakharov requested U.S. involvement in the project before he died, and that 17 other nations are also participating in the project.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. will layoff 190 employees in its investment banking division, part of the 2,000 layoffs previously announced, company executives said Thursday. Of the 190 employees, 80 are in corporate finance while 40 are public finance bankers. Another 70 are support staff, the company said.

The layoffs are part of a strategic review of the firm's core businesses - individual investor services, investment banking, capital markets and asset management - to improve the firm's profitability. Further reduction in the work staff are likely if the firm decides to shrink further or pull out of certain businesses, the company has said.

Shearson's parent, American Express Co., announced earlier this week it will purchase all the publicly held shares of its investment subsidiary in a deal estimated at $350 million.

Purchasing all the publicly held shares of Shearson will enable American Express to pare down and streamline the investment firm more easily, analysts said. American Express already announced a plan to infuse $750 million in capital into Shearson through the purchase of common and preferred stock. Analysts have said Shearson has suffered from slowdowns in the capital markets, investment banking and merchant banking areas.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Federal prosecutors opened the last major Iran-Contra trial Thursday, accusing former national security adviser John Poindexter of masterminding a conspiracy ''to rewrite and change history'' and ''brainwash'' Congress into believing nothing was wrong.

In a 2 1/2-hour opening statement to a U.S. District Court jury, prosecutor Dan Webb said Poindexter lied to Congress about the Reagan administration's secret plan to sell arms to Iran and funnel illegal covert aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

''This is a case of cover-up, deception and concealment,'' Webb told the five-men, seven-woman jury, which will decide whether Poindexter is guilty of five criminal counts of misleading Congress and obstructing its investigation into the affair.

As part of the conspiracy, Webb said, Poindexter and North shredded many documents, including secret White House computer communications.

''They literally tried to rewrite and change history. But they got caught '' Webb said.

Webb, referring to Poindexter's destruction of a secret 1985 order by President Reagan authorizing a shipment of Hawk missiles to Iran, pointed his finger at the former White House executive and shouted: ''He destroyed it. He ripped it up. It was destroyed and torn up by John Poindexter.''

Poindexter has said he destroyed the document because it showed the arms shipment was an explicit deal for the return of U.S. hostages.

''Oliver North will tell you this document was a big, big, big problem,'' Webb said. ''It was a gross, terrible political embarrassment to the president of the United States, Ronald Reagan.''

Poindexter watched Webb impassively, surrounded by his lawyers. His wife, Linda, an Episcopal priest, sat in the first row of the courtroom.

For the most part, the jury listened attentively, although one juror briefly dozed off during Webb's remarks.

After opening statements from the defense, the first witness in the case will be former National Security Council aide Oliver North, the former Marine lieutenant colonel who was at the center of the worst scandal of Reagan's eight years in office.

North, who has been convicted in the case but received no jail time, was scheduled to testify against his old boss Friday. He has been given immunity from further prosecution.

North conducted the arms sales to Iran and secret aid to the Contras, but Webb told the jury that the former Marine ''wasn't out there operating as a Lone Ranger'' and ''kept Poindexter advised at all times.''

The Iran-Contra operation, Webb said, was elaborate and ''the brains behind it, the authority to run it, was back in Washington, in the National Security Council staff with John Poindexter and (former national security adviser) Robert McFarlane and Oliver North to run it.''

McFarlane, who pleaded guilty to withholding information from Congress, was Reagan's national security adviser during the early stages of the scandal in 1984 and 1985 and was later replaced by Poindexter, who had been his deputy.

At the heart of the charges against Poindexter, 53, is whether he participated in lying when House and Senate members were trying to find out about the secret operations. Poindexter also is accused of destroying key documents.

Webb, a former U.S. attorney from Chicago, told the jury that Poindexter was not only aware that Congress was being deceived, but that he rejected North's advice not to lie and ordered his aide to appear before lawmakers and mislead them.

''John Poindexter agreed to allow Oliver North to go on and lie to Congress,'' Webb said, charging that Poindexter, a Navy rear admiral, insisted to lawmakers that false information about the Iran-Contra operation was true.

''Admiral Poindexter wanted them to be brainwashed before they talked to North,'' Webb said.

Webb addressed the jury shortly after U.S. District Judge Harold Greene rejected a defense motion and ruled prosecutors could attempt to elicit damaging testimony from North that was given during North's Iran-Contra trial last year.

The opening of the trial was delayed because Greene dismissed one juror whose residency was in question because she lived in Maryland some of the time.

Poindexter, the eighth Iran-Contra defendant, is the last major figure in the scandal to face prosecution.

GENEVA (MARCH 8) UPI - The World Health Organization reported Thursday that cancer experts lack any conclusive evidence on possible carcinogenic effects of caffeine contained in coffee and tea.

WHO headquarters in Geneva distributed a carefully worded news release on a weeklong meeting of 23 experts from 14 countries that ended Tuesday.

The meeting was held at the U.N. health agency's International Agency for Research on Cancer (IARC) in the French city of Lyon.

Discussed were studies into the possible effects of large world consumption of coffee, tea and the South American drink of mate, the press statement said.

Officials at the center said that although not mentioned in the press release, the experts basically evaluated coffee as ''a possible'' carcinogenic substance.

''The health effects of coffee and tea are difficult to isolate and assess '' the official media statement said.

That is because of different methods of preparation like boiling, steeping and filtering, and the frequent addition of milk and lemon, the statement said.

''Furthermore,'' it said, ''coffee and tea drinking are associated with concomitant behaviors such as cigarette smoking and certain dietary habits.''

Available studies do not permit any conclusion about carcinogenic effects of caffeine, the statement said.

''Approximately 1.5 billion cups of coffee are drunk every day throughout the world,'' it continued. ''The most coffee per person is drunk in the Nordic countries where people drink four-five cups a day.

''More than 5 million tons are produced annualy in some 50 coffee-growing nations and coffee is ... second only to oil in international commerce. Therefore, concerns about te safety of this product can have major consequences for public health and the world economy.''

The experts evaluated ''a very large number'' of studies into coffee drinking in various countries, the statement said, continuing in part:

''Different results were obtained for cancers at different body sites, but studies of bladder cancer provided little evidence that the occurrence of cancer at this site may be related to coffee drinking.

''On the other hand, there was an indication that coffee may protect against cancer of the colon and rectum. In between these two poles, the risk for breast cancer was shown remarkably consistently to have no association with coffee drinking.

''Tea is at present the msot popular beverage in the world (but) perhaps because of its widespread use it has been difficult to study the effects. The Working Group was unable to classify tea with regard to its carcinogenity to humans. One interesting observation, however, was that the risk for cancer of the esophagus appeared to be increased in populations who drink their tea very hot, as in the Caspian littoral.

This finding was of particular interest since mate is also associated with esophagal cancer when drunk very hot as it is in those parts of South America where the epidemiological studies available were carried out. The results of a study in progress in Paraguay, where mate is drunk cold, is awaited with interest.''

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (MARCH 8) UPI - West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl told NATO allies Thursday that Germany will not ''go it alone'' on unification, but defiantly defended the pace toward unity seen by many as a headlong rush.

The West German leader said unification was proceeding along the 10-point plan he presented last November, but had been dramatically speeded up by rapid deterioriation of the situation in East Germany.

''This is none of my responsibility,'' he said of the ''disastrous situation'' in East Germany's economy. ''This is not an academic seminar, but rather a stormy development.''

At one point, Kohl glared at a questioning journalist, saying, ''I invite you to join me'' at a speech in the East German city of Leipzig, where ''hundreds of thousands of people shout, 'We are one people.'''

The chancellor's three-hour visit to NATO's sprawling headquarters was designed to stem concern among NATO allies that Kohl's zeal for unification had made him insensitive to concerns of other Western European nations.

''Most of the allies are totally bewildered at the pace Mr. Kohl is pursuing,'' said a Brussels-based diplomat from NATO's southern flank.

Kohl, not apologizing for the speed toward unity, said Germany would consult NATO allies at every stage.

''Nobody has to be concerned about the Germans wanting to go it alone,'' he told a news conference after meeting with the 16 NATO ambassadors. ''I believe we deserve confidence and trust and that is what I am asking for.''

Some NATO allies, including Italy and Holland, have objected to their exclusion from upcoming talks on German unity, dubbed the ''two plus four'' process, which will involve only the two Germanys and the four World War II Allies - France, Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union.

''Discussions should be synchronized with our friends and allies,'' Kohl said. ''It is our obligation to talk to all those who are affected. We shall do that in all possible forums, like NATO, like the European Community.''

NATO Secretary-General Manfred Woerner said NATO ambassadors unanimously endorsed a unified Germany remaining within NATO, and also welcomed Kohl's recognition, following weeks of waffling, of the Oder-Neisse Line forming Poland's western border. The Bundestag, the West German Parliament, Thursday confirmed the inviolability of the border.

Kohl again ruled out neutrality for a unified Germany, as sought by the Soviet Union. The United States has endorsed a compromise that would have a united Germany within NATO, but with no NATO troops in the current territory of East Germany.

LONDON (MARCH 8) UPI - The government Thursday introduced legislation that would enable it to prosecute Nazi war criminals, and for the first time extend its jurisdiction over crimes committed outside the country by people before they became British citizens.

The police say they have plans to bring charges of mass murder against three men and evidence to justify investigations into 121 others suspected of committing crimes in Germany or German-occupied territory during World War II.

Home Secretary David Waddington said in Parliament the War Crimes Bill would give British courts jurisdiction over offenses of murder, culpable homicide and manslaughter committed within the Third Reich of Adolf Hitler by anyone who is now a British resident or citizen.

The bill is to be given a second reading on March 19. The House of Commons last Dec. 12 endorsed the legislation following an inquiry that found suspected former Nazis were probably safely residing in Britain.

Police investigated 301 possible war criminals and found there was a ''realistic prospect'' of conviction on the evidence found in four cases if laws were changed. One of the suspects has since died, but there should be inquiries into 75 people and efforts made to trace 46 others, they said.

According to the Simon Wiesenthal center, the Los Angeles-based organization that studies the holocaust and modern anti-semitism, at least 17 British residents are Nazi war criminals.

The Commons voted to amend the law only after a fierce debate, with opposing members saying the measure would reopen old wounds nearly 50 years after the war and that suspects were now geriatrics and should not stand trial.

But parliamentarians sided with a leading Jewish legislator, who said allowing Nazis to go unpunished would be a posthumous victory for Adolf Hitler.

WICHITA, KS (MARCH 8) UPI - A gunman drove through east Wichita in a station wagon and shot seven people early Thursday in a spree that ended when police stopped him and discovered a bomb in his car.

The explosive device was removed and destroyed in an isolated area. The suspect, a 50-year-old man who was not identified, was arrested and sent to a hospital for mental evaluation, police said.

Police spokesman Lt. Mike McKenna said 10 people were fired upon in the shooting spree and seven were hit. It was uncertain why the gunman waged the attack, and it seemed the shootings were made at random.

''There doesn't appear to be any rationale or motive for this,'' McKenna said. ''the victims were just going about their own business.''

Most of the seven hurt suffered only minor injuries.

But William Brown, 41, of Newton was in critical condition at HCA Wesley Medical Center with a gunshot wound to the back of the head, hospital spokeswoman Terry Giles said .

McKenna said Brown was on his newspaper delivery route and was shot while loading a vending box.

The shootings occurred during a one-hour period in the north, central and south parts of east Wichita. The spree ended with the suspect's arrest around 6:20 a.m., police said.

In his car, police found a bomb and a revolver with a 6-inch barrel, McKenna said. He said he had no further details about the gun or bomb.

Motorists were kept out of an area of several square blocks surrounding the spot where the vehicle was stopped. Members of the Wichita-Sedgwick County bomb squad and U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms removed the bomb, McKenna said.

''It was taken out to an isolated area out of the city and destroyed,'' McKenna said.

Three others besides Brown were taken to HCA Wesley, Giles said. William King, 24, of Wichita was treated for an ear wound and released; Russell Maddux, 36, of Wichita was treated for abrasions to his face and released; and Allen Cox, 54, of Kechi suffered a head wound and was listed in good condition.

The other three shooting victims were treated at other area hospitals and released, including one man hit in the face with flying glass.

McKenna said the district attorney's office would decide late Thursday or Friday what charges might be filed.

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY (MARCH 8) UPI - Members from three opposition parties will accompany a government delegation to Moscow Friday for crucial talks regarding the withdrawal of about 50,000 Soviet troops from Hungary, the official news agency MTI said Thursday.

It was believed to be the first time ever that opposition figures of an East bloc country attended inter-governmental talks in the Soviet Union. The arrangement apparently has the agreement of Moscow.

A similar troop withdrawal agreement was concluded by Czechoslovakia and was signed by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and Czechoslovak President Vaclav Havel in Moscow Feb. 26. It set the deadline for the withdrawal of an estimated 73,500 troops from that country at June 30, 1991.

The three people who will accompany Foreign Minister Gyula Horn and Deputy Foreign Minister Ferenc Somogi will have the status of observers at the talks, which are expected to lead to a signing of a pullout accord on Saturday, Defense Minister Ferenc Karpati said. Karpati said the pullout of Soviet troops could begin as early as next week.

The three major opposition parties will be represented at the talks by Gabor Demszky of the Alliance of Free Democrats, Lajos Kosa of the League of Young Democrats and Erno Raffay of the Hungarian Democratic Forum. They received their authorization Friday from the Hungarian Parliament.

The withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary was a crucial issue at a national summit meeting last week between the government and 12 opposition parties that set up a list of candidates for the March 25 national elections, the first freely contested balloting in Hungary in more than 40 years.

The League of Young Democrats and the Hungarian Democratic Forum had demanded a speedup of the Soviet troops pullout from Hungary, with the bulk to leave 90 days following the signing of the accords.

But the government noted it would take 2,000 trains to transport materiel back to the Soviet Union, putting an added burden on the already overtaxed railways.

The official Hungarian position is that the complete withdrawal of the Soviet troops cannot be acomplished before June 30, 1991, but it was also said that combat troops will leave the country by the end February 1991.

On Wednesday, authorities for the first time released the exact number of Soviet troops and weaponry stationed in Hungary since 1956, the year when the Soviet army crushed the Hungarian revolution.

Maj. Gen. Jozsef Biro, first deputy of the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the Hungarian Defense Forces, said the number of troops stationed in Hungary is 49,700, but the total number of military personnel including family members is 100,000, including 14,000 children.

The military material, including ammunition, amounts to 560 thousand tons, including 230,000 tons of explosives and ammunition.

The Soviets have 60 garrisons in the country and six military airports.

There are 860 tanks, 1,500 armored personnel carriers, 6,600 mobile cannons and 600 self-propelled rockets. The general said there are no missiles with nuclear warheads.

It is expected that offensive forces would be the first to leave Hungary, with 70 percent of missile troops and tank divisions out by the end of the year.

The Hungarian government said the full withdrawal of troops will take 415 days. Somogi called on the opposition parties not to set up ultimatums for the talks.

PASADENA, CA (MARCH 8) UPI - Beverly Enterprises, the nation's largest operator of nursing homes, will relocate its corporate headquarters to Fort Smith, Ark., as part of a move to place the company's administrative operations in a single location, a spokesman said Thursday.

Besides moving 40 headquarters jobs from Pasadena, Beverly will transfer more than 500 financial operations center jobs to Arkansas from Virginia Beach, Va., spokesman Bill Ihle said.

Beverly also plans to transfer 20 jobs from its Atlanta quality assurance center to the new Arkansas headquarters, Ihle said. "The company has wanted to bring these functions under one roof for quite some time," he said.

Beverly's board approved the move to Arkansas last week but did not set a specific timetable for the change, Ihle said. Beverly's Central Division offices already are located in Fort Smith, as is a supply center.

Beverly's board began exploring a move last year when it invited Fort Smith, Little Rock, Ark., and Virginia Beach to submit information on bids covering aheadquarters relocation. The move was first disclosed Wednesday by the Southwest Times Record in Ft. Smith.

Beverly, which operates 885 homes with about 96,000 beds, has been undergoing major restructurings in recent years designed to divest the company of unprofitable operations. About 200 nursing homes have been sold since 1988, and Beverly is planning to sell about 200 more homes.

Beverly lost $104.2 million last year, stemming from a $120 million reduction in second-quarter earnings related to the planned sales. Revenues in 1989 totaled $2.1 billion.

NEWARK, NJ (MARCH 8) UPI - A judge ordered the seizure of Eddie Antar's domestic assets Thursday, pending the outcome of a federal suit charging that he made millions of dollars illegally on his Crazy Eddie Inc. stock.

Antar, founder of the defunct Crazy Eddie chain of discount electronics stores, has already been ordered to return $52 million he transferred to Israeli banks to the United States and hand it over to a court-appointed receiver. He faces both civil and criminal contempt for his failure to do so and for his continued failure to appear at court hearings.

His lawyers objected to an "open-ended freeze" on Antar's property. In a brief memorandum, lawyer Jack Arsenault said the Securities and Exchange Commission has not yet proved that Antar falsified Crazy Eddie financial records to inflate profits and has not even begun to deal with the complex question of damages.

"Thus six months after beginning the action, the SEC seeks all of a defendant's assets without having to specify, let alone establish, the amount of the money that it could obtain were it to win," Arsenault said.

U.S. District Judge Nicholas Politan signed the order for a freeze after a brief hearing. But the judge delayed a hearing on the criminal contempt charge, telling federal prosecutors there was no evidence that Antar knew he was supposed to appear Thursday.

The SEC last year sued Antar and a small group of Crazy Eddie executives, including his brother and cousins, charging massive violations of insider trading laws. Antar allegedly realized $54 million in illegal trading profits - the difference between what he received for his stock and what it would have been worth if the company's true financial picture had been public. If Antar loses the case, he could be ordered to pay triple damages as well as to disgorge his profits for a total of $216 million.

Although the SEC believes that Antar transferred much of his fortune to the Bank Leumi in Israel and to the Cayman Islands, he owns real estate in Deal, an expensive Jersey Shore resort and in Union, N.J., SEC attorney Rick Simpson said. He was also a silent partner in the American Diner, a Princeton restaurant that burned down last week.

A former Manhattan resident, Antar has dropped out of sight but remains in touch with his lawyers by telephone. He has been notified that he is a target of a federal grand jury investigation in New Jersey.

Lawyers for the SEC have begun taking depositions from Antar's associates and relatives. Jerry Carroll, the actor who trumpeted "Crazy Eddie, his prices are insane" in commercials for the chain, appeared Thursday.

Carroll, a New Jersey resident, told reporters before his deposition that he has not seen Antar for more than a year. He recently began doing commercials for another electronics chain. Crazy Eddie filed for bankruptcy last year and was liquidated after a turnaround attempt failed.

CHICAGO (MARCH 8) UPI - The grain market reversed itself about midday Thursday and turned higher on aggressive buying on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Closing prices were mostly higher except for soybean oil which fell from the highs and were virtually unchanged.

Oil had rallied on hopes of export business and rumors of tight supplies, then gave up the gains to profit-taking and liquidation.

Just before the close the Agriculture Department said China had bid for 400,000 tons of export bonus wheat. That sparked additional buying in wheat, although gains were tempered by widespread rain across the Upper Midwest.

Corn was mostly higher, but gains were limited by the rain and predictions of more rain for several days. Light country movement provided underlying support for corn prices.

Soybeans rallied on spillover from soybean meal and were at or near session highs at the final bell. The buying in meal was based on the prospect of export sales before the week is over and on reports of moderate trading of meal on European markets.

At the close, corn was off 1/4 to up 2, soybeans up 4 to 7, wheat up 2 to 3 1/2 and oats up 1 1/4 to 2.

ATLANTA (MARCH 8) UPI - Government health officials urged more Americans Thursday to be tested for the AIDS virus - or at least seek counseling on the risks - to help prevent the spread of the deadly virus.

Many of an estimated 1 million Americans remain unaware they are carrying the HIV virus that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome, the Centers for Disease Control said.

A survey conducted by the federal health agency of those tested between January 1988 and September 1989, showed that one in 22 people seeking publicly funded AIDS counseling and examination services were infected.

Between 1985 and 1989, 63 CDC-supported AIDS prevention programs in every state, seven territories, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia conducted about 2.5 million HIV tests. Six percent, or 149,639 of the tests, were positive.

''Knowledge of HIV-infection status and appropriate counseling can assist people in initiating changes in behavior that will reduce the risk of infecting others or becoming infected,'' the CDC said in its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report. ''Positive behavioral changes can also occur in the large number of people who elect not to be tested but who receive risk-reduction counseling.''

Looking at the period between January 1988 and September 1989, for which test results were broken down by risk-group, the highest rates of positive tests were found among homosexual and bisexual men and intravenous drug users.

Those who should get tested are not restricted to these two groups, but they remain in the greatest danger of being infected with the AIDS virus, said Dr. G. Stephen Bowen, deputy director of the CDC's HIV division.

''The testing and counseling system would be quickly overwhelmed if everyone went in to get tested,'' Bowen said. ''So, we are not asking every American to go out and get an AIDS tests. We are asking those who have engaged in high-risk behavior or who have partners who have.''

He said heterosexuals who have had multiple sex partners are among that group. Bowen declined to specify what constitutes ''multiple partners.''

''The more sex partners you have, the more you should consider HIV-counseling,'' he said.

Despite the increased risk to homosexuals and drug users, the groups that most often sought AIDS testing between January 1988 and September 1989 were heterosexuals who reported having had sex with a high-risk partner and heterosexuals who reported no particular high-risk behavior.

About 73 percent of those who sought testing in that period were in one of the two heterosexual groups. Only 2 percent of them, however, tested positive for the virus.

Bowen said fear of having the virus likely kept the number of homosexuals and bisexuals who sought testing in the two-year period down to 14 percent.

The good news for the homosexual population is that only 16.5 percent of those tested at the sites surveyed by the CDC had the virus. Of the heterosexual intravenous drug users tested, 11.6 were positive.

''This data provides a lot of hope for people,'' Bowen said. ''The message not only is for high-risk people to get tested and counseled, but that there is still a large majority of people who have engaged in high-risk behavior in the past still who do not have the HIV infection.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Lead in paint, soil and dust, even at low levels, can cause brain damage, low IQ levels and behavioral problems in children, experts told a Senate panel Thursday.

''Lead poisoning is one of the most serious pediatric health problems in the United States today and ... is completely preventable,'' Dr. Herbert Needleman of the American Academy of Pediatrics told a Senate Environmental and Public Works subcommittee.

However, lead industry officials debunked studies critical of lead and emphasized its valuable role in the economy.

The hearing followed an Environmental Defense Fund report released earlier this week finding that children with moderately elevated lead levels in early childhood later exhibited seven-fold increases in school dropout rates, six-fold increases in reading disabilities and lower high school class standing.

In 1977, the federal government banned lead-based paints for household use but not industrial use. In 1986, the government banned lead pipe and solder in plumbing that carries drinking water, but lead solders are still made and used, for example, in food cans. And since 1986, 90 percent of lead has been removed from gasoline.

The problem is lead's legacy - especially older homes that still have coats of leaded paint. Removal is expensive and painting over leaded paint does not solve the original problem.

Leaded paint chips that have fallen off buildings drop to the ground, contaminate the soil and, through the weathering process, are converted into a fine dust, said Robert Bornschein, a University of Cincinnati professor.

Lead exposure is particularly harmful to a child's developing brain and nervous system and extremely devastating to the fetus, said Vernon Houk, assistant surgeon general.

''Many of the most serious effects of lead are irreversible. Children who have moderate lead levels when they are very young have markedly increased school dropout rates, decreased ability to learn, difficulties with reading and neuro-behavioral abnormalities,'' Houk said.

''There is no level shown to be safe,'' Needleman said. ''Quantitative reviews of the literature had led to a striking convergence of scientific opinion on the effects of low doses of lead on the IQ of children.''

James Keck of Baltimore's Health Department said, ''It is not possible to eliminate the problem of illiteracy until we elimiate lead poisoning.''

But Jerry Cole of the International Lead Zinc Research Organization, an industry group, disputed studies critical of lead, contending the conclusions ''lack consistency.''

Jeffrey Zelms, chairman of the Lead Industries Association, said that lead produced today is used in products ''essential to our economy.'' He said such uses include batteries, radiation shields, electronics and earthquake shock absorption.

The health and environmental experts agreed that lead poisoning cuts across societal lines, but it has been a major problem in poor neighborhoods.

On April 1, the Department of Housing and Urban Development will begin implementing interim guidelines for testing and removal of lead-based paint in public housing.

HUD is working with the Environmental Protection Agency on lead contamination, but Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., expressed frustration with the government's approach.

The EPA ''has not focused a single responsible office on lead as a unique toxic substance'' and HUD ''has yet to begin an organized removal of lead from public housing, much less private residences, around the country,'' Lieberman said. ''We have failed our children by not protecting them.''

DALLAS (MARCH 8) UPI - Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca Thursday said he expects improvements in the second quarter for his company, which saw a sharp sales decline in the first quarter, but warned the market will continue to be tough. "The spring market will be better. I hope things will pick up in the second quarter ... but it is a tough market out there " he said.

Iacocca said the beneficial effects of the company's huge cost-cutting measures that included the closure of two plants will also begin to kick in from the second quarter.

Chrysler's 1989 earnings fell nearly 66 percent to $359 million from $1.05 billion in 1988. The company's sales have continued to decline in the first quarter of 1990.

Iacocca and a large contingent of Chrysler executives stopped in Dallas on the second leg of a six-city tour to publicize their campaign "Chrysler in the 90s" and their new advertising campaign which pits Chrysler products and features directly against key Japanese competitors. The purpose of the campaign is to show that Chrysler cars are just as good if not better than Japanese cars.

In the 30-second television advertising campaign, Iacocca, a strong critic of Japan's trade policies, complains that the United States has developed an inferiority complex about Japan.

"Everything from Japan is perfect, everything from America is lousy," Iacocca is heard telling his management team. "The truth is we've got advantages over the Japanese in every car we make, but nobody knows it. And that's going to change." Among the advantages Chrysler claims its cars have over Japanese cars are:

- Chrysler has three times more vehicles equipped with standard driver air bags than the Japanese manufacturers combined offer in the United States.
- Chrysler offers anti-lock brake systems in more car and truck models (26) than the next nearest (4) Japanese manufacturers.
- Chrysler leads the industry in four-wheel drive technology.

Conceding U.S. automakers share part of the blame for the so-called interiority complex, Iacocca said Chrysler is determined to be competitive with the Japanese or any other maker in the future. He said his company has $15 billion committed over the next five years to achieve its targets.

Talking to reporters, Iacocca rejected any suggestion Chrysler may eventually be merged with another automaker. "It will not happen," he said emphatically. Iacocca said the auto industry should be able to weather a mild recession. "If a businessman can't stand a five to ten percent decline, he should get out," he said.

Iacocca also called for changes in the rebate program which he said has affected sales and caused confusion among buyers. "I would roll back prices. The rebates are too confusing to the public," he said. Iacocca said production plans for the Dodge Viper, the widely talked about sports convertible, may be announced in the next 60 days.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole named a blue-ribbon commission Thursday to study pension and health-care issues in the coal mining industry.

Dole had promised to set up the review panel during government efforts to settle the bitter strike between the United Mine Workers union and the Pittston Coal Co.

"During the strike and settlement negotations, it became quite clear that the overriding issue of concern was the long-term security of the pension and health-care benefits of the miners, retirees and their families," Dole said in announcing the creation of the 11-member panel. "This is an issue that is larger than the Pittston dispute," she added.

One of the key issues in the Pittston strike was the company's stand that it would not pay the medical bills of retired miners. Pittston had withdrawn from the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, which in the past negotiated union contracts on behalf of most coal companies. Pittston contended that the BCOA should pay the benefits for the retirees and wanted to work out a new contract for future pensioners with the union.

Dole said the commission would include members of the mine workers union, the BCOA and other coal operators and representatives of the employee health funds, pensions and insurance fields.

She named William Usery, a former labor secretary who served as "super mediator" in the Pittston dispute, as chairman of the panel. "We are now twice-blessed with Bill's leadership during the past seven months," she said.

Dole said she has asked the commission to make its report in six months. "The commission's primary goal is to make recommendations to me which will ensure the long-term security of health and retirement benefits for coal miners covered by the 1950 and 1974 plans," she said.

"However, we are all aware that escalating costs of health care and insurance pose a significant problem for all employers, employees and retirees," she said. "Our entire work force and our competitive edge in the world market are affected by health-care costs."

Other members of the commission are: Henry Perritt Jr., former deputy undersecretary of labor and now law professor at Villanova University; UMW President Richard Trumka; BCOA Chairman Robert Quenon; Curtis Barnette, Bethlehem Steel Corp. senior vice president; Richard Holsten, Pittsburgh-Midway Coal Mining Co. chairman and president; Carl Schramm, Health Insurance Industry of America president; Max Pepper, St. Louis University School of Medicine; Arleen Holen, former associate director for human resources, veterans and labor affairs in the Office of Management and Budget; Walter McNerney, former head of National Blue Cross/Blue Shield and now at the Kellogg Graduate School of Management at Northwestern University; Michael Mahoney, managing partner for the actuarial firm of Milliman and Robertson.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The Pentagon denied Thursday there is a split between Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and the Defense Intelligence Agency over the future Soviet threat or that Cheney tried to ''stifle'' optimistic CIA views.

Defense Department spokesman Pete Williams also denied suggestions that Cheney had ignored optimistic U.S. intelligence assessments of the future Soviet threat in preparing his $306.9 billion 1991 military budget.

''I don't believe that anyone has ignored any intelligence assessment,'' Williams said.

The Washington Post, citing congressional and Bush administration sources, reported Thursday the DIA disagrees with Cheney's contention that an aggressive Soviet military threat could re-emerge if Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev is removed from power.

The DIA reportedly agrees with the views of Central Intelligence Agency Director William Webster, who told Congress last week that ''even a major reversal of leadership and policies in Moscow would be unlikely to restore an international order resembling the one that existed until only a few years ago.''

The DIA declined comment.

If true, it would mean Cheney is pushing a conservative assessment that is not based on any U.S. intelligence analysis.

Cheney has repeatedly warned that a Soviet reversal is possible in arguing before Congress for his 1991 defense budget, and he later said Webster's testimony ''was not helpful.'' He said he would have an easier job of selling his budget if Webster showed ''a little more restraint in his statements.''

Cheney later telephoned the CIA about Webster's statements.

At a Pentagon news briefing, Williams was asked about the report of a Cheney split with the DIA.

''There is no evidence that the secretary and the DIA are out of step,'' Williams said. ''The secretary obviously relies on the totality of evidence that he sees, from the DIA, from the CIA, from all sorts of different analyses.

''... Based on those assessments, the administration put forward the '91 budget. ... It's not Dick Cheney's personal view that he has reached in isolation,'' Williams said.

Pressed again as to whether there is a Cheney-DIA split, Williams said, ''I think the way to say it is that there are differences within the national security community about what may happen in the Soviet Union. We don't discuss intelligence.''

Asked if it would be true to say there was no difference of opinion on the future Soviet threat between Cheney and the finished DIA analysis, Williams replied, ''I think that would be a fair characterization.''

Regarding suggestions that Cheney's phone call to the CIA was intended to quiet Webster for political purposes, Williams said, ''The secretary has no intention nor has he ever intended to stifle different views within the intelligence community.''

''What did he mean when he said publicly that Judge Webster's views were not helpful?'' Williams was asked.

''He meant exactly what he said,'' Williams replied. ''His statement is very clear.''

He denied it was meant to keep Webster from providing objective intelligence assessments so that the administration could sell its defense budget.

''Secretary Cheney does not view anyone's job as defending the defense budget in their testimony in Congress,'' Williams said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The House Financial Institutions Subcommittee approved legislation Thursday that could lead to the revocation of the charters of banks, savings and loans and credit unions convicted of laundering drug money.

Subcommittee Chairman Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., said that the legislation ''will send a message to the financial institutions that we will not tolerate money laundering. It must be stopped, and banks that engage in money laundering must be stopped - no ifs, ands or buts.''

Annunzio, who sponsored the bill along with Reps. Thomas Carper, D-Del., and Bill McCollum, R-Fla., said law enforcement and regulatory officials have not dealt severely enough with those institutions and their officers and employees who have engaged in money laundering.

''We are not talking about jaywalkers or sidewalk spitters here,'' he said. ''We are talking about banks that have either been convicted by a jury or have pleaded guilty to criminal charges. We are talking about felons. People or institutions convicted of a criminal activity are criminals, and I do not think criminals deserve a financial slap on the wrist.''

The legislation was drafted as a direct response to a recent case in Florida where two U.S. branches of the Luxemburg Bank of Credit and Commerce International pleaded guilty to laundering about $30 million in drug money and paid a civil fine of nearly $15 million.

Although the legislation began by demanding automatic charter revocation, it was rewritten in subcommittee to set up a number of procedural requirements that must be met before a charter is revoked.

Under the legislation, federal regulators may appoint a conservator for any financial institution convicted of money laundering after considering several issues, including the extent to which senior management was involved and whether the institution had policies and procedures to prevent money laundering.

In addition, the regulators must consider the degree to which the institution cooperated with law enforcement authorities and whether the institution had implemented new procedures to prevent future money laundering crimes.

And in deciding whether to revoke a charter after an institution and directors and officers are convicted of money laundering, federal regulators must hold a hearing to consider the extent to which senior management was involved in the offense.

It also calls for the removal from the institution and lifetime disbarment from affiliating with financial institutions for any person convicted of money laundering or of structuring transactions to evade reporting requirements.

Financial institutions would be required to get a detailed written and signed statement from any customer seeking an exemption from the current reporting limit of $10,000, and the statement would have to be renewed annually.

KATMANDU, NEPAL (MARCH 8) UPI - The Nepalese kingdom fired a government minister Thursday, a week after he blamed the government for violence that erupted during pro-democracy demonstrations last month.

The principle leaders of the unrest also appealed to the international commuity to stop material assistance to Nepal until the pro-democracy campaign succeeded.

Assistant minister for water resorces, Keshab Kumar Budhathoki, had told UPI last week that the country was being run by ''hard-liners'' in Prime Minister Marich Man Sing's government who were responsible for the violent clashes that left at least 13 dead. He called for ''a political solution to political problems.''

Demonstrators have been demanding a multi-party system in the Himalayan kingdom, where political parties have been banned for 29 years. King Birendra has said he believes a referendum held in the early 1980's is proof the majority of his subjects support his government.

Birendra, in an announcement released Thursday by the Royal Palace, charged Budhathoki with ''irresponsible action not commensurate with the dignity of his post.''

Budhathoki's interview with UPI was published Feb. 25 by newspapers in neighboring India and picked up by local Nepalese media, creating a political flap within the government.

The leaders of the banned Nepali Congress party, which has been a leading player in the unrest, said in a statement that the ruling government should ''not get any more opportunity to misuse foreign aid to repress the people.''

It appealed to the international community to ''stop all material assistance'' to the kingdom until the confrontation was resolved.

Also Thursday, the editors and publishers of 40 publications called for more freedom of the press, saying in a statement ''it is natural for any citizen to be distressed by the confusing atmosphere prevailing in the country at the moment.''

''We believe that magazines and creative works can only flourish under a full-fledged democracy,'' the statement said.

About 500 female students of the Padma Kanya campus, wearing black arm bands, held a quiet demonstration to protest what they said were human rights abuses against female students by police. Witnesses said seven women were arrested.

Chief government spokesman Radhe Shyam Bista said Thursday 991 people were still held in detention. Another 1,800 people arrested in connection with the pro-democracy movement have been released, according to government figures.

''The government will release all those persons not involved in extremist activities after investigations are complete,'' Bistra said in a meeting.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - A government national health insurance system would be less costly to society than the public-private plan for ensuring access to care proposed by the Pepper Commission, officials of the panel said Thursday.

But a commission document issued at a news conference said the panel's plan was preferable because it would create ''minimal disruption to individuals and institutions'' by building on the existing system - in which about 85 percent of workers and their families receive health insurance from employers.

The congressional commission voted last Friday in favor of providing access to health care for all Americans through a mixture of employer and public insurance, and for setting up a government program to pay for long-term care.

The panel estimated its plan would cost the federal government $66.2 billion - $23.4 billion for ensuring access and $42.8 billion for long-term care.

Under the insurance plan, employers would provide coverage or pay into a public insurance pool. Small businesses would receive subsidies to help them afford coverage, and a public program would be established for everyone without employer coverage.

In the document released at the news conference, commission officials estimated the plan would cost society as a whole $14 billion a year in new health spending, compared with $8 billion for a public plan.

The commission said in addition to the federal expenditures, its plan would increase costs to employers who do not provide insurance by $27.4 billion. The plan would produce savings of $10.6 billion for employers now providing coverage, $20.6 billion for individuals and $5 billion for states, it said.

A government program, the commission estimated, would require $222 billion in new federal spending, but would reduce spending by $209 billion for businesses and individuals and $5 billion for states.

Judy Waxman, a commission staff member, said a public program ''saves money in administrative costs because it does away with all the different payers we have now, all the insurance companies, the various government programs.''

At another news conference, the commission report was praised by an array of medical, labor, elderly, business and consumer groups, including the AFL-CIO, Consumers Union and the American Medical Association.

Some have criticized the report for failing to say exactly how the federal government should pay for its share of the program. But Sen. Jay Rockefeller, D-W.Va., chairman of the panel, repeated his position that the recommendations broke new ground by spelling out the costs of providing access to care.

''There's a lot of demagoguing going on,'' he said. ''Sooner or later people are going to start looking ... at what's in that plan.''

An estimated 31 million to 37 million Americans have no health insurance. Nine million people need coverage for expensive long-term care.

BOSTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Pop singer Bobby Brown and teen phenomenon New Kids on the Block dominate the nominations for the fourth annual Boston Music Awards.

Brown and New Kids on the Block received six nominations apiece Thursday for the regional music awards, which will be presented April 19 at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

Boston native Brown, 20, ex-lead singer of New Edition, was nominated for act of the year, outstanding male vocalist, pop/rock album, pop/rock single, video and R&B act.

New Kids on the Block, who hail from Boston's Dorchester section, were nominated for act of the year, outstanding pop/rock album, single, band, video and R&B act. Maurice Starr, the producer who created the band, received nominations for outstanding songwriter and producer.

The hard rock band Aerosmith received five group nominations and various members received five more individual nominations.

Whisky-voiced singer-guitarist Bonnie Raitt, who shook up the music industry by winning four Grammy Awards last month, was nominated for five Boston awards: act of the year and outstanding female vocalist, pop/rock album, single and video.

Folksinger Tracy Chapman joins Brown, New Kids, Aerosmith and Raitt in the act of the year nominations.

Raitt, Chapman, Kristin Hersh of Throwing Muses, Cinde Lager of East of Eden, and Aimee Mann of Til Tuesday were nominated for outstanding female vocalist in the major label category. Brown, Aerosmith's Steven Tyler, Gary Cherone of Extreme, Ray Lemieux of Heretix and Dan Zanes of the Del Fuegos are in the running for outstanding male vocal honors.

The top album nominees are ''Pump'' by Aerosmith, ''Dance!...Ya Know It!'' by Brown, ''Smoking in the Fields'' by the Del Fuegos, ''Merry Merry Christmas'' by New Kids on the Block, and Raitt's Grammy-winning ''Nick of Time.''

Nominations in 43 categories cover a range of music including rock, R&B, country, jazz, folk, blues and three newcomers: world music, Celtic and Latin.

The categories include segments for major artists with Boston connections, musicians recording for smaller independent labels, and unsigned artists who are hits on the Boston club scene.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - A white mother who claims she was mistakenly inseminated with the sperm of a black man rather than the sperm of her late white husband is suing her doctor and a Manhattan sperm bank.

Julia Skolnick of Queens, in a negligence suit against Idant Laboratories and Dr. Hugh Melnick of Advanced Fertility Services, claimed her 3-year-old daughter has already become the target of racial ridicule and discrimination, according to court papers that came to light Thursday.

David Gould, Skolnick's attorney, said Thursday his client was heartbroken that the girl is not her husband's child.

''She loves this little girl and is taking this action partly in the hopes that this will never happen to anyone else,'' Gould said.

Skolnick and her husband were married in 1984, and eight months later, he learned he had a cancer called Ewing Sarcoma. Because chemotherapy was directed at his reproductive organs, impairing his ability to father children, he decided to deposit some of his sperm at Manhattan's Idant Laboratories so his wife could be impregnated at a later date.

''As my husband's illness progressed,'' Skolnick said in court papers, ''I decided that having his child was the bond that would link us together forever.''

She was inseminated in March 1986 but when her baby was born, ''it became apparent that she was not my husband's child,'' court papers said. The child appeared to the mother and pediatrician to be black, the papers said.

Skolnick's husband died in April 1989 and she filed suit in October.

Justice Kenneth Shorter sealed the court case at state Supreme Court in Manhattan. Because of that action, attorneys for both the sperm bank and the physician declined comment on the case.

Court papers did not further identify the husband and child.

Idant, according to authorities, is under investigation by the state Health Department, which began regulating sperm banks in October 1989.

''We did get a complaint within the last couple of weeks. We are investigating,'' said Health Department spokesman William Fagel, who declined further comment.

Gould said he assumed the sperm deposits labeled as Skolnick's late husband's could still be used. However, he said he doubts she will want to take chances again with the sperm bank.

''How could she possibly go through this again, having been told the first procedure was risk free?'' Gould said.

He said the child is constantly teased because she is black and her mother is white. That and the media attention now directed at them has deeply disturbed his client, he said.

''The press attention is adding a tragedy to what already is a nightmare to this woman,'' Gould said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - President Bush announced Thursday he has approved a series of policy decisions for the long-term Space Exploration Initiative he announced last summer, which includes a mission to Mars.

Acting on the recommendation of Vice President Dan Quayle and the National Space Council, Bush has approved a program that will focus first on developing technology and new innovative approaches to expeditions to the moon and Mars.

Bush last July 20 commemorated the 20th anniversary of the Apollo Moon landing by announcing three new objectives in space - completion of Space Station Freedom, a return to the moon to stay, and a manned trip to Mars. At his request, Quayle and the Space Council developed the following program:

-The initiative will include both Lunar and Mars program elements.

-The early program will focus on technology development with a search for new innovative approaches and technologies.

-It will include investment in high leverage innovative technologies with potential to make a major impact on cost, schedule, and or performance.

-It will take at least several years defining different systems for human space exploration.

-It will perform mission, concept and system analysis studies amd include robotic science missions.

-By spurring research and development in high tech fields, program will help promote American economic leadership and will require efforts of various agencies with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as the principal agency.

MANAGUA, NICARAGUA (MARCH 8) UPI - The refusal of Contra rebels to disband immediately is one of the main obstacles to a peaceful transfer of power from the Sandinista government to President-elect Violeta Chamorro, opposition sources said Thursday.

''There are serious concerns (about the Contras) on the part of the outgoing government which are shared by the incoming government,'' said Luis Sanchez, a member of Chamorro's transition team, on Radio Catolica, a private Managua radio station. ''The solution to the problem is the demobilization of the Contras.''

At talks between delegations representing Chamorro and the outgoing Sandinista government Wednesday, both sides expressed concern over the Contras' refusal to disband.

A source close to the talks said Defense Minister Humberto Ortega insisted Wednesday that the Contras disarm before April 25, the day the Sandinistas are to turn over the government to Chamorro.

''He (Ortega) insists that, before April 25, the Contras put down their guns,'' the source said.

Despite his concerns, Sanchez said the transfer of power would go forward even if the Contras continue as an armed force. He also said the talks between the Sandinistas and the UNO are covering administrative details and are not ''negotiations'' for the Sandinistas to leave power.

The talks are to continue but the two sides were not scheduled to meet Thursday, according to a government statement. Humberto Ortega heads the Sandinista delegation while Chamorro advisor Antonio Lacayo heads Chamorro's team.

Chamorro, backed by the National Opposition Union, or UNO, a coalition of 14 political parties, won an upset victory over President Daniel Ortega in the Feb. 25 election.

The Contras, who have been fighting the Sandinista government for almost nine years from Honduran base camps, have said they will not demobilize until Chamorro takes power and the Sandinista army is restructured, and until Humberto Ortega and Interior Minister Tomas Borge leave their posts.

Chamorro and other UNO officials, however, have called for the Contras to disband immediately, while President Ortega called for a cease-fire following his election loss.

During the past week, however, skirmishes have broken out in the northern Nicaraguan departments, or states, of Jinotega and Nueva Segovia between the Contras and Sandinista troops.

President Ortega has struck a conciliatory tone following the election and has promised to turn over power. But he has also warned that the Contras' refusal to disband could threaten a peaceful transition process.

A three-member Chamorro delegation met with Contra leaders in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Tuesday but no progress was made, according to Francisco Lacay, the Nicaraguan ambassador to Honduras, in Thursday's edition of the Sandinista daily Barricada.

Alejandro Acevedo, a Contra spokesman, said the rebels on Tuesday proposed retiring to internationally monitored enclaves in Nicaragua once the Sandinista army returns to its barracks.

Similar proposals, however, have been discussed by the two sides during the past two years without success.

A diplomat with long experience in Central America said that after nine years of war, the Contras remain fearful of returning to Nicaragua while the Sandinistas still control the army and police force.

He added that while Chamorro would probably replace some high officials, the Sandinistas will retain a powerful presence in the army and that the force may still be called the Sandinista Popular Army.

LONDON (MARCH 8) UPI - Grand Metropolitan PLC said Thursday it was close to clinching a deal under which it would sell its British breweries and merge with Australian conglomerate Elders IXL to manage their combined 8,500 public houses.

The announcement came hours after Elders said in Australia it planned to sell or float off its non-brewing businesses and rename its core operation, Foster's Brewing Group Ltd.

Executives of Grand Metropolitan, a food, drinks, and retail giant, said they were "at an advanced stage in discussions" with Elders about merging their combined 8,500 pubs in Britain under a new company called Inntrepreneur Estates Ltd.

Elders and Grand Metropolitan will each hold 50 percent of Inntrepreneur under the proposed merger, the officials said. The executives said Grand Metropolitan was discussing plans to sell its British brewing operations to Courage Ltd., an Elders subsidiary.

Grand Met shares rose 18 cents to close at $8.96 in heavy trading on London's International stock exchange Thursday following the release of its statement on the talks.

Elders said the cash released from the joint venture will offset the cost of acquiring Grand Metropolitan's brewing interests. The Grand Metropolitan executives predicted the deal would be finalized next week.

Elders holdings include Courage Ltd., which owns three breweries in Britain, Foster's brand beer, and 50 percent of Molson Breweries in Canada. Grand Met, one of the biggest British companies operating in the United States, counts Burger King and Pillsbury among its extensive holdings.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 8) UPI - Federal investigators crawled over the mangled cars of a subway train Thursday, searching for the cause of the city's worst mass transit accident, which killed three and injured scores more.

With typical caution investigators declined to confirm reports that the cause of Wednesday's accident was a traction motor which broke loose underneath one car of the six-car train that was jammed with rush hour commuters.

National Transportation Safety Board officials Thursday held a media tour of the crash site in a tunnel just west of downtown's 30th Street Station.

The wreckage left the tunnel impassable. The fourth car of the Market-Frankford line train was sheared in half by a row of steel pillars. The front wheels of the car were lying on one side of the pillars with the rear wheels on the other.

The front three cars traveled farther down the tracks and appeared to be in better condition than the following cars.

NTSB spokesman Alan Pollock pointed to a traction motor hanging down from the wheel carriage of the third car.

''I would certainly say this is a motor,'' Pollock said. ''I wouldn't say it's the motor.''

Pete Brauner, an engineer with the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority, earlier said it appeared a traction motor that dislodged from under the third car had tripped a switch causing the following cars to derail.

NTSB investigators were combing the crash site, now cleared of blood and medical paraphernalia, to document the position of and damage to each car.

''Our people are underneath the cars, they're crawling all over the cars, they're underneath and around the sides and all over,'' NTSB investigator John Lauber said.

''We've also been collecting bits and pieces from along the entire accident scene, splinters in the ties and whatever else they can find that might shed some light on what happened and what the sequence of events was '' Lauber said.

Panic flooded the train when the crash plunged the tunnel into darkness. Survivors said they had to step over screaming passengers pinned in the wreckage to escape.

Rescue workers, including Army Medical Corpsmen, had to use the hydraulic-powered Jaws of Life to cut through the twisted metal and free trapped passengers. The last trapped commuter was freed 4 1/2 hours after the crash.

Doctors amputated the leg of one woman in order to free her. She later died in hospital and has not yet been identified, a Medical Examiners Office investigator said. Doctors also severed the leg of one person already dead, in order to reach a survivor.

The others killed in the crash were identified as Denise Devlin, 34, of the city's Juniata Park section, and Gospodin Kancev, 52, of Philadelphia's Northwood section.

The 163 injured were rushed to nine area hospitals where most were treated and released. About 15 passengers remained hospitalized Thursday and, according to hospital officials, none were in life-threatening situations.

No trains were running on a 37-block section of the Market-Frankford line and SEPTA officials said once the NTSB finishes at the site it would take 36 hours to restore service.

The crash, which SEPTA General Manager Louis Gambaccini called ''clearly the worst accident'' in the history of the city's transit system, was likely to heighten concerns over SEPTA service and maintenance.

Gambaccini last month proposed a fare hike as the only way SEPTA can maintain comprehensive service to the Philadelphia area.

Just weeks before the proposal, a previous rate increase was approved after nearly a year of court battles between SEPTA and consumer groups.

Discontent among the consumer groups and SEPTA management has focused on inadequate state and federal support for Philadelphia's mass transit system.

Increased federal funding was unlikely to be forthcoming as President Bush Thursday unveiled a national mass transportation plan that calls for more state and local money and less federal help.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Highlights of President Bush's new transportation policy:

-Highways: Concentrate federal spending on major national arteries; increase state and local share of funding federal highway projects. (The government now picks up about 80 percent of the tab, up to 90 percent on some projects.)

-Tolls and taxes: Urges states to use more road tolls and increase state gasoline taxes to fund road construction.

-Mass Transit: Reduce federal assistance and increase the state and local share.

-Railroads: Encourage high-speed trains; eliminate federal subsidies to Amtrak and help find private financing for the passenger railroad system.

-Aviation: Build additional airports; allow local airports to impose passenger facility charges; modernize the air traffic control system.

-Hazardous material: Strengthen the oversight of the transportation of hazardous material.

-Trucking: Further deregulate the industry; uniform reporting practices and procedures at state level.

-Safety: Increase the number of federal aviation, railroad and motor carrier safety inspectors; improved safety standards.

-Research: Increase federal research and development funding by 70 percent over the next five years; this would include about $13 million for further development of a ''smart car,'' equipped with sensors that alert drivers of traffic congestion and alternative routes.

Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner said the policy is built on six essential themes:

-Maintaining and expanding the transportation system.

-Providing ''a sound financial base'' for transportation.

-Maintaining a competitive transportation industry.

-Ensuring public safety.

-Protecting the environment.

-''Advancing transportation technology into the 21st century.''

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - Sir James Goldsmith is expected to make a new offer for B.A.T. Industries PLC by September, the chairman of Axa Midi Assurances, the partner company in the British tycoon's $21 billion bid, said Thursday.

"We'll hope to have an agreement regarding the acquisition of Farmers Insurance Group by Axa Midi by June or July, and then, Sir James will make a new offer for B.A.T. by September," Claude Bebear, chairman of the Paris-based insurance company, told United Press International. "We cannot say at this stage what the new offer will be," he said.

State insurance regulators must approve Axa Midi's acquisition of Farmers Group Inc. in the nine states where the subsidiary of the British tobacco-based conglomerate operates.

Bebear has been testifying for two weeks before regulators about Axa Midi's $4.5 billion takeover bid for Farmers, a crucial part of Goldsmith's elaborate plan to acquire B.A.T.

Goldsmith last year set up Hoylake Investments Ltd. to acquire the B.A.T. empire, including Farmers, the third largest life insurance company in the United States. In August, Goldsmith struck an alliance with Axa Midi to overcome objections that a tobacco giant and a life insurer had conflicting interests and that Hoylake had no experience in the insurance industry.

Under the agreement, if Axa Midi secures U.S. approval for its proposed acquisition of Farmers, Goldsmith will pursue the takeover bid for B.A.T. and, if successful, immediately sell the U.S. insurance operations to Axa Midi. Goldsmith also said he will sell all of B.A.T.'s non-tobacco interests.

Goldsmith's latest offer for B.A.T. was made in November and amounted to nearly $21 billion, or $13.60 a share. B.A.T.'s currently trades at $12.85 a share on the London International stock exchange.

Bebear has testified before insurance regulators in Illinois, California, Idaho, and Oregon. He expressed confidence his company will secure regulatory approval in the four states. Bebear said Axa Midi will appeal an unfavorable ruling "up to the highest level" if necessary.

Regulators could block the acquisition if they feel it would run against the interests of policyholders. They could instead decide to let another insurance company buy Farmers' operations in any of the nine states. "It is impossible to imagine that insurance regulators would want to break up the company, but technically it is possible," Bebear said.

Regulatory hearings are still to be held in Washington, Texas, Arizona, Kansas, and Ohio. Bebear expected all of the nine states to make a decision by July, paving the way for the Goldsmith's takeover bid. "The B.A.T. deal then should be finalized by November or December," Bebear said.

B.A.T.'s board has been fighting off the takeover attempt and recently bought back ten percent of the company's shares on the open market. B.A.T. has also put on the market its plush retailing units, New York-based Saks Fifth Avenue and Chicago-based Marshall Field, a move seen by analysts as an attempt to raise cash to repurchase more shares and strengthen its position against Goldsmith's bid.

"Whatever the reasons are, it is a bad move for the shareholders," Bebear said, pointing out that under British laws, a company has to pay heavy taxes when it repurchases shares, and that there are only too many U.S. retailers up for sale.

"It is the will to retain corporate power, and not any consideration for the shareholders' interests, that motivates the opposition of B.A.T.'s chairman to the takeover," Bebear said. "B.A.T. is using Farmers as a poison pill."

Bebear also disclaimed B.A.T.'s charges that Axa Midi could buy Farmers only through a leveraged buyout. "It is definitely not an LBO," he said, pointing out that Axa Midi could free up nearly $7 billion in non-insurance assets.

A banking consortium led by Banque Paribas has arranged for a $2.25 billion long-term loan which Axa Midi will use to buy Farmers. The remaining $2.25 billion will be paid over two to three years and be backed by secured notes.

Axa Midi, France's third largest insurance company, reported profits of $560 million on revenues of $7.6 billion in 1989. About 68 percent of Axa Midi's revenues are generated in France while 32 percent come from its foreign operations, including in Canada. Farmers and other B.A.T. business interests in the United States come under the umbrella of Batus Inc., the British conglomerate's main U.S. subsidiary.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - A doctor dying of AIDS reached a settlement Thursday in her landmark $175 million suit against a city hospital she blamed for her contracting the disease from a discarded needle.

Her lawyer accused city attorneys of putting ''a gun to our head'' because Dr. Veronica Prego was not expected to survive any appeal.

In the agreement, in which the money award was not revealed, suits against two doctors were dropped.

''I'm happy, I want to put it behind me,'' Prego said after the settlement was announced.

In her suit against the city's Health and Hospital Corp., which operates Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, Prego claimed that in 1983 she pricked her finger on a needle filled with blood from an AIDS patient.

She accused her supervising intern, Dr. Joyce Fogel, of leaving the needle with other medical trash in the patient's room.

Prego's lawyer, Diane Wilner, said the decision to accept the settlement came when city officials warned they would appeal if Prego won.

Wilner said an appeal could take two or three years - longer than Prego is expected to live.

''In essence, I believe they put a gun to our head,'' she said. ''Dr. Prego must live the rest of her life with some peace.''

Prego, 32, her voice faltering, talked with reporters in the courtroom after the trial was ended.

''I do feel bitter,'' said the native of Argentina. ''I expected to be challenged. ... I did not expect the low-blows and the attempts to humiliate and embarrass me.''

The settlement was announced as the nine-week trial was nearing completion before a six-member jury in Brooklyn. Afterward, most of the jurors said they were leaning toward Prego.

State Supreme Court Justice Aaron Bernstein imposed a gag order on the money settlement, but did reveal that both sides had agreed to the discontinuation of the suit against one doctor, Sheldon Landesman, for revealing Prego had AIDS.

A few minutes later, defense attorney Stanley Friedman reported that the same agreement had been reached for Fogel.

Asked if he could approximate the size of the settlement, Justice Bernstein replied, ''All I can tell you is that it's between zero and $100 million.''

Prego gave some indication that the money settlement could be substantial.

Asked how she would spend the money, she replied, ''I would like to help my family and put aside some for my medical costs.''

Her chief adversary, city's attorney Stanley Friedman, who had relentlessly questioned the stricken woman during the nine-week trial, commented, ''To have it end this way, I couldn't be more pleased.''

Juror Estaban Quinones, 35, a telephone company employee, said, ''I would have voted for Dr. Prego.'' He explained that testimony by Health and Hospital authorities ''made me feel that there was negligence on the park of Kings County. - It was like the system versus the individual.''

Juror Jill Goldberg, 22, a sales clerk, said, ''I really think the hospital was negligent. My nephew was in a hospital and they left a needle on the bed, and I almost got stuck with it.''

Prego accused the hospital of creating a ''dangerous condition'' by not having needle disposal boxes inside patients' rooms, testifying that doctors had to walk down a corridor with used needles in their hands to dispose of them.

Asked if she felt vindicated, Prego answered, ''Well, yes. It's been extremely difficult for me. It's affected my health and well being. And now it is time to take care of myself.

Would she go through such a trial again?

''Yes,'' she answered. ''We learned more about AIDS.''

The grim highlight of the trial was Prego's seven days on the stand. During six of those days she was harshly questioned by Friedman. Once she collapsed in the witness chair and had to be helped from the courtroom.

Prego, however, repeatedly stymied Friedman's attempts to shake her version of events on and around the night of Jan. 12, 1983, when she claimed she was stuck with the contaminated needle.

The stunned courtroom also heard Friedman ask Prego's personal physician how long she had to live. He answered, as she watched, that she could expect to live no more than a year.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Republican National Committee Chairman Lee Atwater, diagnosed as having a non-malignant brain tumor, was released from the hospital Thursday, officials said.

Atwater, 39, fainted Monday while speaking at a fund-raising breakfast for Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and was rushed to George Washington University Medical Center.

After a battery of tests proved inconclusive, Atwater underwent a biopsy Tuesday, which discovered a brain tumor a quarter-inch in diameter. Dr. Edward Laws, chairman of the neurosurgery department at the hospital, said the tests revealed a ''small non-malignant growth in the right side of his head.''

Atwater was released from the hospital Thursday afternoon, said Leslie Goodman, spokeswoman for the Republican National Committee. She said Atwater is expected to return to work Friday and will begin radiation treatment on the tumor Monday.

''I anticipate a full day of work,'' Goodman said, ''but it will depend on him when he arrives.''

Goodman said Atwater's treatments will continue every day for six weeks, but they will not be time-consuming and he will be able to resume his duties as Republican Party chairman.

''He will have a reduced work schedule, but that is only at the request of the Republican National Committee chief of staff (Mary Matalin),'' Goodman said. She added that in addition to his medical treatments, Atwater and his wife are expecting their third child in April and he will need free time to be with her.

Goodman said the only restriction doctors have placed on the Atwater is a reduction in his exercise schedule from 90 minutes to 30 minutes daily. When doctors told Atwater he will live a normal life, Goodman said he responded, ''Who said I've ever lived a normal life?''

She said when asked how he felt, Atwater responded, ''I'm feeling fine.

I'm a little bit unsteady because I haven't been up and around for three days.''

Before he left the hospital Thursday, Atwater was visited by former President Richard Nixon, who was in town to meet with members of Congress.

In addition to his political duties, Goodman said she expects Atwater's much publicized music career to continue. A moonlighting blues guitarist, Atwater is planning to release an album in April. She said he may still attend an April engagement in South Carolina to promote the album.

Atwater, a hard-nosed politician often criticized by Democrats for what they term his dirty political tactics, helped engineer President Bush's 1988 campaign. He was elected GOP national chairman last year.

Born in Atlanta, Atwater grew up in South Carolina and began his political career as an aide to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., before going on to become a successful political consultant.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - President Bush's plan for upgrading American transportation ran into roadblocks nationwide Thursday at city halls and statehouses worried over its switch toward more local funding.

''Reading this policy, you would never know we have serious congestion and infrastructure decay problems that need to be boldly addressed. Like the national education and national drug policies, this is another case of all flash and no cash,'' said Robert Kiley, chairman of New York's Metropolitan Transportation Authority.

Kiley derided the plan written by Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner as ''gridlocked by the anti-transit philosphy that has brought us to the present state of near immobility on many roads and highways of the nation's cities and suburbs.''

The policy, which President Bush announced in a White House speech to legislators, seeks to fix the nation's transportation problems with high-speed trains, further deregulation of the trucking industry and new technology to assist urban commuters.

The administration wants to increase the share of city and states in paying for federal highway projects and end federal funding for Amtrak while encouraging private financing for the railroad system.

Washington state Transportation Secretary Duane Berentson complimented Bush and Skinner for focusing broadly on transportation, but complained that the federal government is using $20 billion in transportation user fees, including $10 billion in gas taxes, to make the federal deficit look smaller.

''Federal highway programs have been some of the best conceived programs in history and we ought to just let them work rather than playing games with them. The states are doing their part,'' Berentson said.

''We are spending more than twice as much on highways as a percentage of the budget than the federal government. We, therefore, think the federal share must be maintained, and the place to start is to free up the $10 billion,'' he said.

In New York, where 559 miles of toll road stretch along Interstate 90, the head of the Thruway system said the plan would affect the state's ability to maintain a sound transportation system.

''We can't build a competitve economy by pulling back on the federal commitment to fund basic transportation needs,'' said Peter Tufo, chairman of the New York State Thruway Authority. ''We will not have all the money needed to fix our roads and bridges if the federal government hoards all the money.''

Objections were raised also in Iowa.

''We feel we've already taken steps to improve the state's transportation system. We've done our part,'' said Richard Vohs, spokesman for Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad.

Branstad, whose state has many rural areas, is concerned about a proposal to spend more federal money on urban freeway expansions.

''States like Iowa have already taken steps to share the cost and should not be penalized by losing money to the urban projects,'' Vohs said.

Michigan transportation director James Pitz said, ''We don't need to carry water for the federal government. They should carry their own.''

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, who lost the presidential race to Bush in 1988, said, ''At a time when the Soviet system is collapsing and the Soviet threat in Eastern Europe is vanishing, there's going to be a peace dividend that's got to be invested in this nation's transportation system.''

The complaints from states were echoed in Congress, where members said the policy offered a promising start but fell short on specifics. Congressman also complained that the plan would put an unfair burden on states.

''As a former governor, I know the states are not in a position to assume (more costs),'' Sen. James Exon, D-Neb.

Rep. Norman Mineta, D-Calif., called the policy ''the shift and the shaft'' and said, ''The big question is that of funding and funding is not really addressed.''

The policy would focus federal spending on major highways and impose new responsiblities on states and cities for designing, building and maintaining their own roads.

Lester Lamm, president of the Highway Users Federation, praised the proposed policy: ''Overall, however, the report is favorable to highway users and we should not overlook its significance.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - District of Columbia officials said Thursday they were putting an office in Mayor Marion Barry's home so he can work from there when he returns from substance abuse treatment in South Carolina.

The mayor's spokeswoman, Lurma Rackley, said workmen from the D.C. Public Works Department were turning a storage room in the basement of Barry's Southeast Washington house into an office from which he is expected to do much of his work.

''With the mayor coming home soon, I think this is an extremely beneficial idea,'' Rackley said. ''This would allow him to accomplish the work he has to do at home, which involves a lot of time in his day. For example, the mayor starts early in the morning with radio talk shows.''

The move also would keep Barry from his office at the District Building and the intense media attention he is expected to attract as he awaits a scheduled June 4 trial on cocaine and perjury charges.

The public works department began working on the project Tuesday, painting the room, installing a carpet on the concrete floor and furnishing the office with a desk, telephone, and possibly a fax machine.

Maudine Cooper, the mayor's staff director who came up with the idea, said Thursday she has not discussed the plans with the mayor, but conferred with his wife, Effi.

When a city official is ill, an agency is required by law to make reasonable accommodations, said Cooper.

Agencies are not required to provide offices in the homes of city officials, but the mayor presents a special case, she said.

Barry is expected to return by the end of the month from the Fenwick Hall substance abuse clinic near Charleston, S.C.

The city previously installed security booths and other security measures in the mayor's house.

Barry is required by law to reimburse the city for the reasonable value of the improvements, but has the option of simply returning the equipment.

Rackley said the total cost of the renovation would amount to less than $1,000.

Furniture for the room will come from the prisoner's shops at the Lorton Correctional Complex, she said.

(MARCH 8) UPI - An American soldier, his wife and their two children were among 11 people killed in a fire and explosion in a Korean restaurant in Frankfurt, West Germany. Police and U-S officials ruled out a terrorist attack, but are still investigating last night's explosion in the packed restaurant. Several people escaped by jumping out of windows.

In Washington, opening statements in former national security adviser John Poindexter's Iran-Contra trial were delayed this morning without explanation. The federal judge hearing the case is apparently writing his decision on whether to grant a defense request to limit the testimony of Oliver North.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - Exxon Corp., the world's largest oil company, dismissed as unnecessary Thursday a Catholic missionary proposal to pledge a complete cleanup of last year's Alaska oil spill even though "some work" remains.

Exxon noted that it has already "acknowledged a clear responsibility to clean up the spill," and the board recommended that shareholders vote against the proposal of the Society of Catholic Medical Missionaries of West Hyde Park, Mass., at the company's April 25 annual meeting in Houston. "The board believes that this proposal is unnecessary," Exxon said.

The motion was one of six environmental measures Exxon's board recommended voting against in the company's formal meeting notification and proxy statement made public Thursday.

The March 24 spill of the Exxon Valdez tanker dumped 11 million gallons of crude oil into pristine Prince William Sound and fouled much of Alaska's shoreline.

Last summer's cleanup effort and the natural cleansing action of the winter months "have led to a remarkable improvement in the condition of the shoreline," Exxon said. "However, we have enough current information on the condition of the beaches to know that some work remains to be done this year," the statement said.

It said the extent of the remaining work will not be known until an April shoreline survey is completed. "We believe Exxon is morally bound to finish the cleanup and also to monitor the long-term environmental impact of the spill," the missionary society said. It said Exxon's reputation has suffered because of "what seems to us to be an inadequate cleanup response by Exxon."

The board also urged shareholders to vote against a proposal of shareholder Brion Blackwelder of Hollywood, Fla. It would oblige Exxon to develop a plan to reduce carbon dioxide emissions from the burning of petroleum, coal and natural gas because of the global-warming greenhouse effect.

"It does not seem prudent to adopt specific solutions to a problem which currently cannot be adequately defined by those most knowledgeable," Exxon replied.

A proposal by Anne Chapman of Denver that would require Exxon to prepare an environmental supplement to its annual report "would serve no practical purpose for either corporation or shareholders and would be costly and time-consuming to prepare," the board said.

It said existing laws and regulations cover another measure offered by Shirley Eaton of Alexandria, Va., requiring the company to reduce and where possible eliminate toxic chemicals emitted by Exxon facilities.

A ten-point program offered by the Franklin Research and Development Corp. in Boston would include an "annual self-evaluation" in complying with a list of ecological principles.

"The board believes that these principles do not recognize the need to balance the importance of environmental protection with the importance of adequate energy resources and stable, healthy economies," the Exxon statement said.

In response to another proposal on South Africa by the American Baptist Board of Education, Valley Forge, Pa., Exxon acknowledged that its chemical company has sold products to the company that succeeded it in South Africa in 1986 after Exxon sold its holdings there.

A proposal by the pension funds of New York City employees, police and teachers would compel Exxon to adopt the so-called MacBride principles to prevent discrimmination against Catholics in Northern Ireland.

The Exxon board said the combination of company policies and the Northern Ireland fair employment acts of 1976 and 1989 covered this area. "Therefore, the board believes that endorsement or implementation of the MacBride principles is not necessary," the company statement said.

LINDEN, NJ (MARCH 8) UPI - Cleanup crews began the painstaking work of unloading millions of gallons of heating oil Thursday from a barge that was almost cut in half by an explosion and fire.

''The difficulty here is that you've got a very heavily damaged barge that still contains a tremendous amount of oil,'' said Chris Gregory, regional vice president of Clean Harbors Inc..

Gregory estimated that at least 80 percent of the 4.4 million gallons loaded on the Cibro Savannah remains on board. ''If they don't do it right you risk having the barge break in half,'' he said.

Andrew Willner, the American Littoral Society's baykeeper, said that the effect on marine life if the barge broke up would be ''devastating,'' sending oil into creeks and marshes on the kill and down into Raritan Bay.

''You couldn't even begin to assess the damage,'' Willner said, adding that many species of ducks and other waterfowl are migrating now, using New Jersey wetlands as resting places.

The Arthur Kill, the waterway between New Jersey and Staten Island, was partly reopened to ship traffic late Wednesday. But the Coast Guard ordered boats to proceed at no-wake speeds - as little as 5 m.p.h. - and the kill remained closed in the vicinity of the Citgo Petroleum Corp.'s terminal in Linden.

An explosion hit the Cibro Savannah just after the barge left the Citgo terminal Tuesday bound for Boston with 4.4 million gallons of No. 2 home heating oil. The blast touched off a fire that burned for more than two hours, sending a thick column of smoke hundreds of feet into the air.

The Coast Guard, which is monitoring the cleanup, estimates that between 100,000 and 200,000 gallons of oil spilled into the waterway. About 42,000 gallons had been recovered Thursday, and most of the spill had been contained by booms, spokesman Howard Holmes said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Felix Bloch, a Foreign Service officer accused of unauthorized contact with Soviet intelligence agencies, has appealed his dismissal and will be given a hearing next week, the State Department said Thursday.

Bloch's attorney served notice Feb. 16, nine days after he was fired, that he would appeal. Bloch - who has not been charged with any crime - remains suspended without pay during the appeal process.

The decision about Bloch's future ultimately will be up to Secretary of State James Baker. There is no administrative appeal from Baker's decision but Bloch could pursue the matter in the courts.

If the case goes to court, the record would become public. The hearing before the three-member appeals board, set March 15, will be private.

Neither Bloch nor the State Department has been willing to discuss the exact nature of the charges against Bloch, who was earning about $80,000 annually when he was dismissed.

George Jones, a vice president of the American Foreign Service Association which represents State Department employees, said the department relied on a little-used law from the McCarthy era of the 1950s to fire Bloch.

That law, said Jones, puts the burden of proof on Bloch to prove his innocence but does not give him the right to present evidence, to call witnesses on his behalf, to cross-examine government witnesses or to see evidence given by the State Department to the panel.

The law had never before been used to remove a State Department employee, Jones said.

Jones described the system as ''a Star Chamber proceeding,'' a reference to a court used by English monarchs in the 16th and 17th centuries to convict opponents of the crown on criminal charges.

Ted Wilkinson, president of Foreign Service group, said the organization did not represent Bloch, who is not a member of the organization, ''because he didn't ask us to.''

Jones said the State Department, in briefing AFSA on the proceedings, used the word ''espionage'' to describe Bloch's activities.

Bloch, a senior diplomat in the European bureau of the State Department, had served in West Berlin and in Vienna, where he was the deputy chief of mission.

There have been news reports alleging he passed information to Soviet agents. Although he was suspended from his duties and the FBI shadowed his every movement in a highly publicize surveillance, no charges have been filed.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - Baseball Commissioner Fay Vincent made an aborted proposal Thursday to end the 22-day spring-training lockout. The owners agreed to the plan but the union rejected it.

In an effort to salvage Opening Day on April 2, Vincent asked the 26 club owners to open spring training camps in Florida and Arizona if the players would pledge not to strike during the season.

Moments after the commissioner's announcement at the offices of the Player Relations Committee, the owners said they would comply with the plan.

However, cable station ESPN said the Players Association rejected the overture, citing a source who called the compromise ''spin control.''

The ready acceptance by management was not surprising because Vincent is an employee of the owners.

''This is consistent with our desire to protect the integrity of the championship season,'' Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig, head of the Player Relations Committee, said in a statement. ''A disruption of the season such as the one we had in 1981, is destructive to the game.''

The union has traditionally refused to give the owners a no-strike pledge. Had they agreed to Vincent's plan they would be playing the season without a collective bargaining contract.

Vincent said an agreement must come within next few days or the start of the season would be jeopardized. Vincent called on players and owners to continue work on a settlement.

''For tens of millions of fans, risking the integrity of the season in the hope that the parties can resolve their dispute is not an acceptable alternative,'' Vincent said. ''However, it is equally unacceptable to substitute the current lockout for a mid-season strike.''

Vincent's suggestion came with Opening Day 25 days away. Had both sides abided by the proposal, the players would have about three weeks of spring training before the opener.

Vincent took the action one day after the sides exchanged proposals but remained estranged over the crucial matter of salary arbitration. Other issues on the table are minimum salary, roster size, pension, benefits and collusion protection.

The commissioner said in the past he preferred the parties settle the dispute themselves. But with start of the season in question, he attempted a similar step to the one made by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in 1976.

Then, owners closed the camps Feb. 23 and Kuhn ordered them opened March 17, allowing the season to start on time.

On Wednesday, the Players Association offered to compromise on salary arbitration, a proposal that Fehr said pushed the players as far as they could go to resolve negotiations that began in November.

The compromise calls for players in the disputed category to be ranked by total major league service, with the top half eligible for arbitration and the bottom half not.

Chuck O'Connor, the owners' chief spokesman, said the chances of it being accepted in that form were ''slim to none.''

Owners insist that only players with three years of service be eligible, while the union, until its latest proposal, wanted the requirement reduced to two years.

Both sides offered compromise solutions Wednesday, but the owners' was based on money and performance while the players submitted a plan based on service time.

MIAMI (MARCH 8) UPI - The Department of Labor has filed suit against Burger King Corp. for allegedly violating child labor laws, including overworking children under 16 years of age, federal officials said Thursday.

The suit, filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Miami, alleges the fast-food chain repeatedly violated the Fair Labor Standards Act by working the youngsters for more hours than allowed by law, and at jobs designated too hazardous for children to perform.

It seeks a judgment permanently enjoining the restaurant chain from future child labor violations.

''This action serves as a notice to employers that we will not hesitate to use available legal processes, in addition to investigative efforts, to protect America's children,'' said Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole.

Nigel Travis, a senior vice president for Burger King, said the company had not been served with a copy of the complaint by the Labor Department.

''Today's announcement by Secretary Dole comes as a complete surprise,'' said Travis. ''This is the first time we have received any indication of alleged violations in which we are not in compliance.''

Lorette Post, a spokeswoman for the Labor Department, said under federal guidelines children under age 16 may work no more than three hours on a school day and 18 hours in a school week.

Children also may work no more than eight hours on a non-school day with a limit of 40 hours in a non-school week. Underage employees may not work before 7 a.m. or after 7 p.m. except from June 1 to Labor Day when evening hours may be extended to 9 p.m.

''According to the complaint, kids 14 and 15 are also being asked to do hazardous jobs,'' said Post. ''I don't know the actual violations here, but for example, they may be tending power-driven machinery, such as a meat slicer.''

Burger King, which is based in Miami, has 6,000 restaurants and franchises. The alleged violations occurred only at Burger King operated restaurants and not at its franchised operations independently owned and operated, Post said.

''As one of the larger employers of youth in America, Burger King Corp. fully supports the letter and spirit of the law and works diligently to comply,'' Travis said.

All of the violations took place after Sept. 12, 1986 and were reported in Florida, Illinois, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New York and North Carolina.

If the court files an injunction against Burger King, the company could then be fined a maximum of $1,000 per violation in separate administrative proceedings, Post said.

Travis said Burger King employs 270,000 workers worldwide and has 5,400 restaurants in the United States, with 800 of those operated by the company.

Burger King was purchased by Grand Metropolitan, a British firm, in January 1989. Grand Metropolitan's other subsidiaries in the United States include Pillsbury Co., Alpo Pet Foods, Carillon Importers, Heublein Inc., the Paddington Corp. and Pearle Inc.

Analysis By: Brendan Murphy

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - An April meeting of the Group of Seven leading industrial democracies, hinted at Thursday in comments by U.S. Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady and French Finance Minister Pierre Beregovoy, would face one of the most sweeping agendas in the organization's history.

The issue very likely to be at the top of the discussions will be German reunification, now proceeding swiftly in talks between East and West Germany and in consultations among the victorious World War II allies - the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, and France - and their present day partners.

Finance ministers and central bank governors representing their countries in G-7 talks - by tradition never acknowledged explicitly until the release of a final communique, itself a paragon of understatement and nuance - will also swap views on the costly reconstruction of Eastern Europe.

They will probably grapple with foreign exchange and interest rate issues in a world whose financial markets have never been so closely linked and mutually sensitive. Political changes have produced deep uncertainties - anathema to investors - which G-7's brief is, in part, to reduce.

The Washington Post reported Thursday that Brady recently suggested a special G-7 meeting to his European partners. Remarks by Beregovoy appeared to back him.

Strictly political issues of German unification won't be on the agenda. But the G-7 nations - the United States, Japan, West Germany, France, Great Britain, Italy and Canada - will have plenty to do examining the global economic ramifications of German melding. Here a main focus will be German monetary union, already in advanced stages of planning and the bridgehead for political union.

By year end, West Germany's mark could be the only currency circulating in the two countries - assuming they stay divided that long. The arithmetical rate at which debased Ostmarks are converted into deutsche marks, and the speed at which this is done, could affect world currency markets.

Bonn reportedly is leaning towards a one-to-one conversion of the East German mass of savings and cash, estimated at 190 billion Ostmarks. This would preserve East German family nest eggs, but East-West productivity differences could lead to an employment shakeout in the East.

The Group of Seven probably won't get directly involved in this debate, which strictly speaking is a German internal affair. But the body's monetary role means it will examine the current strengthening of the U.S. dollar, reflecting doubts by investors as to Germany's monetary adventure.

When it met in September in Washington, the Group of Seven resolved to oppose any significant strengthening of the dollar, saying this was "inconsistent with longer-run economic fundamentals." Now it faces a dollar that is moving up against the mark and even more against the yen.

Even more complex is the question of where the vast sums required to modernize East European economies will come from. Monetary authorities and economists worry that global interest rates will be driven up by the huge demand on international capital from rebuilding Eastern Europe. Shearson Lehman Hutton's "International Economic Monitor" estimates East German renovation alone will cost $825 billion.

Anticipation of this and apprehension of inflation created by much-increased West German public spending have already pushed benchmark long-term West German government bond yields - market interest rates - over nine percent. In a parallel development, Japanese bond rates are at six-year highs.

Coordinating interest rate policies has always been the most delicate part of G-7 discussions. Raising or lowering central bank interest rates is rarely without political ramifications, as indicatedby the current feuding between the Bank of Japan and the Japanese Finance Ministry.

Most economists say Japan must raise its official discount rate, set by the Bank of Japan, to cap inflationary pressures and reinforce the yen. But there has been stiff opposition to this from the Finance Ministry, worried about the effect on Tokyo's sky-high financial markets.

If it is still vacillating over a rate hike by the time of the anticipated Paris G-7 meeting, the Bank of Japan could face pressure to act. Yen weakness has obliged the Federal Reserve and other central banks to support the currency by intervening in the market with dollar sales.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - ''China Beach'' will not to pulled from the ABC schedule after all - ''The Young Riders'' will hit the road instead, the network announced Thursday.

Last Friday, Mar. 2, ABC released a schedule shuffle that moved ''Riders'' to Monday nights and put ''China Beach'' on hiatus.

It is ''China Beach,'' however, that will air on Mondays, 9-10 p.m. Eastern time, starting Apr. 16, sandwiched between ''MacGyver'' and the network's new series, ''Capital News.''

Asked the reason for the change, a network spokesperson said only, ''For strategic reasons.''

''The Young Riders,'' which will have aired all its 22 original episodes with the Apr. 5 telecast, is to return to the schedule with an original two-hour movie special as the season finale sometime in late May.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Former presidential press secretary Jim Brady showed up at the White House Thursday to begin filming a movie based on his book ''Thumbs Up.''

Brady, whose life story will be told on the Home Box Office cable television, was wounded in the head during the attempt on President Ronald Reagan's life on March 30, 1981. He has made a remarkable recovery but has some paralysis in his left leg.

Brady, who was in a wheelchair, arrived at the White House press center with his television crew, and was being shown around by his successor White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater.

The movie is expected to take several months to complete.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The Pentagon said it would release Friday its long-awaited military anti-drug plans that are expected to include use of radar stations, satellites and naval task forces to detect drug smugglers.

However, missing from the Defense Department's plans will be the controversial proposal to station U.S. warships off the Colombian coast.

''That's dead,'' said one official.

The administration postponed plans in January to send a U.S. aircraft carrier and other ships to monitor drug traffic off the Colombian coast in response to widespread denunciation of the mission in Colombia, where it was portrayed as a ''naval blockade.''

The use of a carrier group was proposed to Defense Secretary Dick Cheney last October in response to his directive to military commanders to devise plans for inceasing the military's role in the drug war.

As envisioned by the Pentagon, naval task forces would be stationed in international waters off the Caribbean coast of Colombia, permitting E-2C radar planes and surveillance craft to monitor drug traffic.

The Pentagon last month announced it had decided to base some E-2 craft in Puerto Rico to help in anti-drug efforts.

The new plans are also to include establishing a Caribbean naval task force - but without the Colombian operation.

The Pentagon originally planned to announce Cheney's plans at a news conference in early Januiary, but that was postponed when the Colombian operation ran into opposition.

Other elements expected to be announced include establishing radar stations in Latin America to monitor drug planes, increased military training of Latin anti-drug units, and a Pacific naval task force for drugs from Asia.

ISLAMABAD, PAKISTAN (MARCH 8) UPI - Rebel troops battled forces loyal to Afghan President Najibullah at a key air base Thursday in a ''last-ditch'' attempt to topple the pro-Soviet regime, while government forces remained in control of Kabul, a Pakistani official said.

Pakistan Foreign Secretary Tanvir Ahmed Khan also told a news conference in Islamabad that Pakistan-based Moslem guerrilla commanders, who have been fighting the pro-Soviet regime in Kabul for 11 years, had mounted attacks on three Afghan cities in a ''pragmatic alliance'' with troops loyal to the alleged leader of Tuesday's attempted coup, Defense Minister Gen. Shah Nawaz Tanai.

Official Kabul Radio, meanwhile, said Afghanistan issued a protest to Islamabad that said it ''has undeniable documents to prove Pakistan's military intelligence and the Pakistan government had a hand in planning this conspiracy.''

The note charged Islamabad had made a deal with Gen. Tanai that he would flee to Pakistan if the attempt failed. There was no immediate reaction from Pakistan, but Islamabad had earlier denied any involvement in the plot.

The radio also said seven senior members of Najibullah's pro-Soviet People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan (PDPA) had been expelled from the ruling Politburo for involvement in the coup attempt.

They included Tanai and his predecessor as defense minister, Nazir Mohammad, and the ambassador to Moscow and former interior minister, Syed Mohammad Gulabzoi.

All seven belong to the ''Khalq'' faction of the PDPA, which has been embroiled in bitter disputes with Najibullah's ''Parcham'' wing. The radio did not indicate if any of them had been detained, but said a special tribunal had been set up to try those arrested for involvement in the coup bid.

Confusion continued over the whereabouts of Tanai, who official sources said arrived in Pakistan with his family and several rebel Afghan officers on Wednesday.

Khan said there was heavy fighting at the cities of Herat, Khost and Qalat between the U.S.-backed Moslem guerrillas and government forces. He said a ''bitter battle'' continued Thursday between rebel military troops and Najibullah's forces at Bagram air base, 30 miles north of Kabul. He said the situation there was ''fluctuating.''

The foreign secretary said the base, occupied by the 40th Division, which is supporting Tanai, had been virtually destroyed in air raids by government forces. He denied reports that Soviet aircraft had taken part in the bombings.

''This may well be a last-ditch stand by the Mujahideen (guerrillas) and the rebels at Bagram,'' he said.

At Khost, 15 miles from the Pakistan border, he said there ''apparently have been contacts between attacking Mujahideen forces and the garrison on the possibility and the terms under which the Khost garrison could surrender to the Mujahideen.''

He said there was ''virtually no fighting'' Thursday in the capital. Diplomatic sources in Islamabad said life had largely returned to normal in Kabul and that the airport had reopened for military aircraft.

''Najibullah has the upper hand in the capital as of now,'' Khan said. ''But areas close to the city are being hotly contested.''

Kabul Radio said Najibullah reiterated at a news conference in the capital Thursday that the government had crushed the coup. He said 25 civilians had been killed in fighting in Kabul.

Gulbuddin Hekmatyar, the head of a fundamentalist Moslem guerrilla group and who Najibullah says backed Tanai in the coup bid, told a news conference in the border city of Peshawar that fighting had died down around Kabul because coup leaders were unable to maintain communication links.

He reported heavy fighting in six other provinces between Moslem guerrillas and government forces.

Maulvi Nabi Mohammadi, the defense minister of a government-in-exile set up by Afghan guerrilla leaders in Pakistan last year, in a statement called on the Moslem resistance forces to ''take advantage of the opportunity and make all-out efforts to deal decisive blow to the regime.''

The fate of Tanai was unclear. Several separate official Pakistani sources said he arrived in Pakistan aboard a Soviet-built Mi-17 military helicopter near the border city of Peshawar on Wednesday with his family and senior military officers, including three generals.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The parents of a man whose cremated ashes were apparently lost during shipment to their house in California filed suit against the funeral home for failing to ensure the delivery of the remains.

John Vahradian, 22, was cremated at the Everly Funeral Home in suburban Washington last March, and his ashes were to be shipped to his family's home in Mission Viejo, Calif.

But the ashes never arrived, and Vahradian's parents filed suit this week in suburban Washington, seeking $100,050 from the funeral home.

''It's all been so painful, we can't believe how much we've suffered,'' the father of the man, Jack Vahradian, said Thursday. ''At the time we were in shock and put ourselves in the hands of the mortuary.''

Vahrdian said he had the U.S. Postal Service put a tracer on the package, which he said got as far as Orange County, Calif. But he said no one seems to know what happened to it from there.

An official at the funeral home who declined to be identified said the ashes were properly shipped.

Bernard Simbole, an attorney for the Vahradians, said the ashes were likely lost during delivery by the post office, but he claimed the funeral home was responsible for their safe delivery.

''We gave the body to the mortuary in good faith,'' said Simbole.

Vahradian died March 11, 1989, when he, his brother and some friends tried to climb a wall in an alley in Georgetown as a shortcut to a bar. He was crushed to death when a piece of the wall collapsed on top of him.

The owner of the wall is also being sued, and the Vahradians are considering a lawsuit against the Postal Service, Simbole said.

A scholarship fund has been established in Vahradian's name at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., where he attended college, his father said. The family hopes to add to the scholarship, already at

''Since there's nowhere to bury the boy I want his name to live on somewhere,'' said Jack Vahradian.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Former President Richard Nixon paid a nostalgic visit Thursday to the Capitol Hill office of his congressional descendant, Rep. David Dreier, R-Calif., who was born the year Nixon became Dwight Eisenhower's running mate.

Nixon, who moved onto the national stage in 1946 when he won election to the House seat now held by Dreier, said he believed it was the first time in four decades he had returned to the Cannon House Office Building across the street from the Capitol.

During their brief meeting, Dreier presented Nixon with a Bicentennial congressional coin, a small chunk of the Berlin Wall and a plaque from Whittier, Calif., the former president's boyhood home, which is in Dreier's district.

Nixon's courtesy call followed a session with House Republicans that dealt largely with the U.S. response to political changes overseas.

As the Cold War president who reopened relations with China in 1972, Nixon has increasingly been sought out by GOP lawmakers for his views on foreign policy.

In some ways, the visit brought Nixon's public life full circle - from freshman congressman and youthful vice president, to the White House and the disgrace of Watergate and back again to Capitol Hill as a Republican elder statesman.

Asked whether he was at peace with himself and whether his place in history was secure, Nixon - the only president ever to resign - at first responded, ''I don't think I'll comment upon that.''

He then added, ''I think my place in history has to be determined by other people. Nobody can really appraise his own place.''

Nixon, emerging from Dreier's office with a hand on Dreier's shoulder, told reporters the two men had discussed foreign policy issues and California politics.

Asked what advice he gave Dreier, Nixon, who now lives in New Jersey, replied, ''He doesn't need any.''

Dreier, 37, who has served in the House nine years, is chairman of the Republican Task Force on Foreign Policy.

He was born in July 1952, the year Nixon ran for vice president with Eisenhower and the GOP tickets victory that November was the first of Nixon's four elections to national office. Nixon had served two terms in the House and won a Senate seat in 1950, which he gave up to run for the vice presidency.

Technically, Nixon represented California's 12th Congressional District, which included virtually all of the present-day 33rd District represented by Dreier. Nixon's office in the Cannon Building was located one floor above Dreier's.

Of his visit to Capitol Hill, Nixon said, ''I really enjoyed being here. ... I think what impressed me the most was to see the members of the staff. I don't think they were that young when I was here.''

Asked about his wife Pat, who suffered a serious strokes and has been out of the public eye for years, Nixon said, ''She's totally recovered from her stroke. If you'd seen her, you'd never know she'd had one.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The State Department expressed regret Thursday over the confirmation by the New Zealand government of its decision to insist that U.S. warships declare the presence of nuclear weapons aboard them.

The United States has a steady policy of neither confirming nor denying the presence of nuclear weapons. The U.S.-New Zealand disagreement over that policy resulted in the expulsion of New Zealand from the ANZUS defense alliance.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said, ''We regret any decision that will prevent restoration of full confidence and cooperation between the United States and New Zealand. We remain committed to collective defense and would welcome New Zealand's participation in ANZUS on mutually agreeable terms.''

But she added that ''mutually acceptable terms'' in this case would mean New Zealand accepting the U.S. policy, and there would be no change in that policy to accommodate New Zealand or any other host country.

She said that last week's encounter between Secretary of State James Baker and New Zealand Foreign Secretary Mike Moore did not mean resumption of discussion of national security issues, and there would be no defense cooperation until New Zealand accepted the U.S. policy on nuclear weapons.

She said, ''It would be a mistake if anyone misinterpreted our willingness to discuss non-security matters of common concern as a softening in our position toward New Zealand's anti-nuclear stance.''

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - The dollar continued to strengthen Thursday in New York trading despite caution among currency dealers unwilling to buck central bank intervention and mindful of impending news on U.S. jobs.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York sold dollars for Japanese yen during the day, traders said, following heavy intervention by the Bank of Japan earlier in the Tokyo market. But the dollar, as on previous days, seemed to shrug off the central bank actions.

"It's done very little to damage the dollar and we've seen the dollar higher on the day," said Barclays Bank corporate trader David Jaques. He said players are "tempted to take the dollar a little higher, but they are extremely cautious about the central banks."

Near the end of the New York session the dollar was changing hands at 1.7020 German marks, up from 1.6995 marks Wednesday. The U.S. unit was trading at 151.10 Japanese yen, up from 150.25 the day before.

Hanging over the market was the scheduled morning release of Labor Department job data for February. Strong employment gains indicating economic vigor would argue against Fed interest rate easing, boosting the dollar.

The market was primed for a healthy figure. "Unless the number is a tragic number ... there's going to be an instant (dollar) buying spree," said Stephen Burnett, a dealer for the Bank fur Gemeinwirtshaft.

Chase Manhattan Bank economist Jan Neupauer agreed. Even a bad number might not hurt the dollar, whose present strength reflects world investors' negative perceptions of German and Japanese situations, she said.

"At this point the carrot that's out there being waved is Japanese interest rates," she said, alluding to official Japanese vacillation on interest rates. "Until that occurs it's going to be tough to stem the tide."

In New York the British pound declined to $1.6390 from $1.6450. Other dollar rates: 1.5075 Swiss francs, up from 1.4995; 5.7455 French francs, ahead from 5.7405; and 1,254.75 Italian lire, up from 1,253.

In European trading the dollar closed mostly lower. In Frankfurt it finished at 1.7020 German marks, off slightly from against 1.7070 at Wednesday's close, but advanced in Zurich to 1.5065 Swiss francs from 1.5035.

The dollar declined in Paris and Milan, to 5.7500 French francs against 5.7615, and 1,255.50 Italian lire against 1,256.85. But it strengthened in Brussels, to 35.36 Belgian francs against 35.35. In London, the pound moved up to $1.6435 from $1.6400.

In Tokyo trading earlier the dollar edged up on the Japanese yen, closing at 150.83 compared with 150.75 the previous day. Dealers estimated the Bank of Japan spent $1 billion on intervention during the session.

Hiroshi Yoshimoto, deputy governor of the Bank of Japan, ruled out an immediate hike in Japan's official discount rate during a session of the budget committee of the lower house of parliament. "There are no changes in economic fundamentals. It is not the situation to raise the official discount rate," Yoshimoto said.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold unchanged at $400.25 an ounce. The New York Commodity Exchange settled gold at $400 an once, slightly off from $400.20. In Zurich gold closed unchanged at $401 an ounce, but London gold rose to $401.25 compared with $400.

Republic closed cash silver at $5.13 an ounce, up from $5.125. Comex spot silver slipped to $5.112 an ounce from $5.122. Zurich silver was unchanged at $5.15 an ounce. London silver rose to $5.17 an ounce from $5.14.

(MARCH 8) UPI - West Germany's finance minister wants a rapid monetary unification of the two Germanys in order to prevent an economic and political collapse in East Germany. The Bonn official criticized East Germany for failing to introduce economic reforms that would ease the proposed introduction of West German currency. Speaking to the West German parliament, he accused East German Prime Minister Hans Modrow of conducting ''irresponsible financial experiments.''

A three-week standoff centered on an overcrowded prison in a Massachusetts county has apparently been resolved. A Hampden Superior Court judge today approved a pact that allows a sheriff to transfer prisoners housed in a Springfield National Guard armory to an armory in Holyoke. The sheriff and 30 deputies seized the Springfield armory three weeks ago to ease over-crowding at his century-old jail. Guard officials say the armory in Holyoke is used less than the one in Springfield.

British officials promise more tax relief after a second night of violent protests linked to a new tax to be levied next month in England and Wales. Police say there were dozens of arrests last night in a new round of violent rallies against the poll tax- a flat amount individuals must pay regardless of income. The government says it will spend another 82-Million dollars to ease the burden of the tax on one-point-five-Million more people.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - The narrow definition of the nation's basic money supply known as M1 rose $4.5 billion in the latest reporting week, while the broader aggregates M2 and M3 also grew, the Federal Reserve Board said Thursday. M2 gained $8.3 billion and M3 rose $3.8 billion.

M1, which is made up of cash, checking accounts and NOW accounts - money that is available for immediate spending - rose to a seasonally adjusted average of $804.9 billion in the week ended Feb. 26 from a revised $800.4 billion the week before. For the latest 13 weeks, M1 averaged $796.4 billion, a 5.0 percent rate of increase from the previous 13 weeks, the Fed reported.

The broader measure of money, M2, averaged an estimated $3,264.8 billion in the latest week, up from a revised $3,256.5 billion. M2 includes M1, plus passbook savings, small time deposits, including money market deposit accounts, consumer money market mutual funds and certain other short-term assets.

M3, which includes M2 plus large time deposits, repurchase agreements longer than one day at banks and thrifts, and institutional money market funds, averaged $4,072.9 billion in the latest week, up from a revised $4,069.1 billion, the Fed said.

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA (MARCH 8) UPI - The leftist rebel group whose 1985 assault on the Palace of Justice in Bogota left 100 people dead handed over its arms Thursday, formally ending 16 years of guerrilla war and returning to civilian life, the rebels announced.

The 1,200-strong April 19 Movement, known by its Spanish initials M-19, turned over its weapons Thursday afternoon to a technical team of the Socialist International, a worldwide coalition of leftist parties, in a mountain hide-out in Santo Domingo, Cauca state, 250 miles southwest of Bogota.

The government recently pardoned M-19 commanders Carlos Pizarro Leongomez and Antonio Navarro Wolf, who five years ago planned the bloody Palace of Justice takeover in the center of the capital, two blocks from the Presidential Palace.

On Friday, Pizarro Leongomez was to supervise a complete demobilization, and M-19 leaders will come to Bogota on Saturday to sign the final peace pact with President Virgilio Barco.

The M-19 is the only rebel group in the country to have agreed to hand over its weapons and turn to politics. Three other guerrilla bands, especially the fast-growing National Liberation Army, have stepped up attacks in recent weeks to disrupt elections scheduled for next Sunday.

The dramatic ceremony Thursday, accompanied by the detonations of rebel grenades and bombs, followed a long peace process begun in September 1988.

The M-19, unique as the country's only non-marxist rebel group and the only band to have established a foothold in Colombia's cities and middle-class, agreed to give e government in return for a pardon and a shot at the ballot box this Sunday in congressional and mayoral elections.

Pizarro Leongomez, the 40-year-old commander-in-chief who has become something of a heartthrob among Colombia's young women, reneged on his previously announced presidential run and recently put his name on the ballot for the mayor of Bogota.

The much-heralded ''surrender'' had been postponed for three months since a special scheme that would have given the rebels an edge in congressional elections next Sunday floundered when the legislature failed to vote on the issue before a Dec. 15 deadline.

Earlier this year, Pizarro Leongomez and Navarro Wolf made a highly publicized visit to the capital, complete with police escorts guarding against right-wing death squads, for talks with government and political figures to salvage the peace plan.

The rebels, who refused to hand over their weapons to their former enemies in the army, arranged for a special team from the Socialist International to come to Colombia to receive the guns, uniforms, combat boots, and finally, Pizarro Leongomez's 9mm pistol.

The weapons, which include shotguns, machine guns, pistols and grenades, will be eventually melted down and sculpted into a ''peace monument,'' the rebels said in a communique Wednesday.

The M-19 made headlines in the 1970s and 80s with spectacular actions such as the robbery of South American liberator Simon Bolivar's sword in 1974, the theft of an army arsenal by tunnelling under a military base, and the 1980 take-over of the Dominican Embassy in the capital.

Despite the overwhelmingly rural emphasis among Colombian rebel groups, the M-19 established important footholds in the cities, especially Cali, 200 miles southwest of Bogota.

The beginning of the end for the M-19 came in 1985, when a rebel band took over the Palace of Justice, which housed the Supreme Court, and called for face-to-face negotiations with President Belisario Betancur.

The government refused to talk and the army attacked. At least 100 people, including all the guerrillas and 12 Supreme Court judges, were killed in the ensuing battle and fire inside the palace.

Some observers say military defeat, along with the deaths of its top leaders, prompted the M-19 to sign a peace pact with the government, while others say the rebels simply realized they could never take over the country through violence.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - A former top E.F. Hutton & Co. executive has won $2.9 million in compensation through a New York Stock Exchange arbitration ruling, his attorney said Thursday.

Andrew Selden claimed the brokerage broke promises to pay him for work between 1985 and 1987, according to his attorney, Andrew O'Connor.

The $2.9 million award is one of the largest won through arbitration by the exchange, an NYSE spokeswoman said. The record amount, more than $5 million, was awarded several years ago, she said.

Selden, who headed the mortgage and thrift department at E.F. Hutton, left the firm in 1987 after E.F. Hutton became part of Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc.

Shearson Lehman Hutton must pay the award, O'Connor said.

The new management would not honor the compensation promised to Selden under the old E.F. Hutton management, he said.

The exchange did not set a deadline for payment but instructed Shearson Lehman Hutton to pay the award promptly, O'Connor said.

''We are disappointed with the decision, but we are not appealing because we have confidence in the arbitration process,'' Shearson Lehman Hutton spokesman Steve Faigen said.

O'Connor said Selden had sought $7 million in the suit, filed in January 1989.

Selden now works at a major commercial bank, O'Connor said.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Oil prices continued downward Thursday without any fresh news to add to the momentum of the last several days. Crude oil, however, is giving ground grudgingly.

''It seemed to be a continuation of technical influences - another day without any fresh fundamental inputs,'' said Peter Beutel of Elders Futures Inc. in New York.

''There was no market-moving news,'' said Bill Hinton of New York's Stotler & Co.

Prices have been under pressure since Tuesday when the American Petroleum Institute reported gasoline stocks rose for the eighth straight week to 246.4 million barrels, an amount one analyst says is a pricing ''danger zone.''

The benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude for April delivery slipped 15 cents to $20.78 a barrel after opening at $20.73 and hitting a low of $20.65 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

''Crude found an awful lot of support at the lows,'' Hinton said.

''One of the more hopeful signs,'' he said, was the stabilizing and slight narrowing of the spread between the price of the April and the May and other driving-season contracts, which have been moving higher than April.

May delivery fell 16 cents to $21.01 a barrel.

''When the spread increases, it means there is weakness in demand for the near-term contract,'' Hinton said.

On the U.S. Gulf Coast cash market, WTI for prompt delivery dropped 15 cents to $20.80 a barrel.

Unleaded gasoline for April delivery slipped 0.59 cent to 56.14 cents a gallon on the Merc. It opened at 56.25 cents and traded as low as 55.60 cents a gallon.

''Gasoline opened down and stayed down. There was no interest by big traders,'' Hinton said.

On the New York Harbor cash market, unleaded gasoline dropped 0.85 cent to 54.15 cents a gallon.

Home heating oil fell 0.85 cent to 55.34 cents a gallon on the New York

Mercantile Exchange after hitting a low on the day of 54.90 cents. It dived 1.25 cents on the harbor market to 57.35 cents a gallon.

There was a lot of heating-oil buying by big traders toward the end of the Merc day, Hinton said.

Crude prices weren't helped any by a report that a meeting next week of OPEC oil ministers, whose countries control more than a third of the world's crude oil, will let existing production quotas stand as they are.

Issam Abdulrahim Chalabi, Iraq's oil minister, was quoted by the Manama-based Gulf News Agency as saying, ''The quota system adopted last November will remain as it is now, without any change for the remaining first half of the year.''

The 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in November set a ceiling of 22 million barrels a day for the first six months of 1990.

Because nations such as Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates have largely ignored their assigned quotas, OPEC output has been totaling more than 23 million barrels daily.

Hinton said European traders believe that because of the overproduction the average price of seven OPEC crudes may now be running below the $18-a-barrel target price. It was over $20 a barrel several weeks ago.

On the European spot market, the United Arab Emirates' Dubai light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - lost 55 cents to $15.53 a barrel.

Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent gained 4 cents to $18.92 a barrel.

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - Stocks closed sharply higher in active trading Thursday, riding the momentum from their recent rally and getting a late spark from computerized program buying.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 7.21 Wednesday, jumped 26.58 to close at 2696.17.

Among broader market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 1.58 to 187.35 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 3.32 to close at 340.27. The price of an average share gained 29 cents.

Advances pounded declines 987-494 among the 1,958 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Big Board volume totaled 170,900,000 shares, compared with 163,580,000 shares traded Wednesday.

Analysts said the momentum from the rally of the past week and a half was strong enough to send prices sharply higher despite heavy selling in Hilton Hotels, which said late Wednesday it had decided to take itself off the auction block after takeover bids it attracted fell short of expectations.

"Hilton could have been a disaster," said Michael Metz, analyst at Oppenheimer and Co. "But the market shook it off, ignored it completely," he said.

A wave of computerized program buying, used to profit on price differences between stocks and stock-index futures, gave the market some added fuel in late trading, but analysts were quick to point out that this buying was sparked by the same forces which have given the market its recent luster.

"The forces in play - moderate growth in the economy and stable rates - make for a good environment for equities," said Jerry Hinkle, a trader at Sanford C. Bernstein and Co. "There was program buying, but that was fueled by the positive psychology," he said.

Metz also said investors who are sitting on the sidelines with cash to spend, waiting for prices to fall, are afraid to let prices rally too far before stepping back in to buy. "We have a bull market, but no one believes it," he said.

Gains in the dollar and a firm bond market bolstered prices throughout the day. The dollar was higher in late trading in New York, at 151.06 yen compared with 150.40 yen late Wednesday, after Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady indicated that he would be going to Paris next month to meet with representatives of the Group of Seven major industrial nations.

And Treasury bond prices were firm as traders awaited the February employment report due out Friday. The data is expected to show an increase of 268,000 in non-farm payrolls and an unchanged jobless rate of 5.3 percent, analysts said.

On the trading floor, Hilton Hotels, the most active issue, plunged 10 3/8 to 50 5/8. British Petroleum followed, up 7/8 to 67 1/2. Philip Morris was third, off 1/4 to 38 1/2.

Among the other blue chips, AT&T added 3/4 to 41 3/4. The Federal Communications Commission, citing improved long-distance competition, voted to examine the gradual easing of government regulation of the company.

IBM jumped 1 1/2 to 107, Procter & Gamble climbed 1 5/8 to 65 and USX gained one to 36 5/8 even as it downplayed the possibility of a takeover battle after Carl Icahn, its largest shareholder, engineered a deal to have shareholders consider his proposal to spin off the company's steel division.

In the retail sector, The Gap gained 1 3/4 to 59 1/4 and The Limited jumped 1 3/4 to 39 3/4 as specialty retailers posted the best sales gains in February.

Analysts said spring apparel captivated shoppers during an unseasonably warm month. General merchandisers were mixed due to consumers' continuing disinterest in hard goods. Sears tacked on 1/8 to 41 1/4 and K mart lost 1/4 to 33 7/8.

Elsewhere, Compaq Computer, which Wednesday unexpectedly reauthorized Businessland to sell and service its products, extended its rally, up 3 5/8 to 95 7/8. And AAR advanced 1 1/4 to 28 3/4 after tumbling Wednesday on its report of unchanged earnings despite an increase in sales.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 204,350,930 shares, compared with 194,776,200 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices closed sharply higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex Market Value index climbed 2.48 to close at 361.51. The price of an average share was up nine cents. Advances led declines 308-234 among the 807 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 19,478,900 shares, compared with 21,860,640 traded Wednesday. Bolar Pharmaceutical led the Amex issues, up 1 1/8 to 9 5/8.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The State Department criticized the Sandinista government in Nicaragua Thursday for failing to live up to their post-election promise to aid in the smooth transition of power to the victorious opposition.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler criticized the Sandinistas in response to reports from Nicaragua that some of the Sandinista military forces have been giving their weapons to civilian supporters and that some Sandinista supporters have engaged in street violence against members of the UNO opposition coalition.

The UNO coalition won the February 25 elections, and its presidential candidate, Violeta Chamorro, is scheduled to take office April 25.

Tutwiler said, ''After the election, President (Daniel) Ortega promised to respect the will of the Nicaraguan people, and to transfer power in an orderly and peaceful manner to President-elect Chamorro.

''However, despite these conciliatory statements, there are disturbing signs that the Sandinistas are not keeping faith with promises to honor a peaceful transfer of power,'' Tutwiler said. ''There are reports that the Sandinistas are delivering weapons to their supporters and that Sandinista supporters have engaged instreet violence against UNO members.

''There are also reports that government offices are being emptied of resources and that the Sandinistas are threatening to enact economic measures that would make it exceedingly difficult to bring about the economic recovery of that country.''

Chamorro's top advisers are now in the United States, discussing future economic assistance, but her chief economic adviser, Francisco Mayorgo, told reporters Monday that it is impossible to find out how much money or food is available because the Sandinistas have kept such economic information secret.

''The Sandinistas cannot have it both ways,'' Tutwiler said. ''They cannot pledge themselves to peaceful democratic transfer of government while throwing up obstacles to such a transfer. We encourage all parties to recommit themselves to national reconciliation and a full, peaceful transfer of power consistent with the will of the Nicaraguan people.''

NEW YORK (MARCH 8) UPI - The head of Bankers Trust New York Corp.'s private banking unit, named in congressional testimony earlier this year for interceding on behalf of a major figure in the U.S. thrifts debacle, resigned this week, a spokesman for the money center bank said Thursday.

Barbara S. Thomas resigned for health reasons, said Bankers Trust spokesman George Fasel, who declined any further comment.

''On the advice of her physician, who is treating her for a precancerous condition, Mrs. Thomas has resigned as senior vice president and head of international private banking at Bankers Trust Co.,'' Fasel said, reading from a terse prepared statement.

''For the present, her responsibilities have been assumed by Neal F. Finnegan, executive vice president and head of the private bank, to whom Mrs. Thomas reported,'' he concluded.

The name of Thomas, who from 1980 to 1983 served as a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission, arose in congressional hearings last year on the failure of the Lincoln Savings & Loan Association, one of the largest of the thrifts taken over by the government.

According to the congressional testimony, Thomas interceded with an official of the Federal Home Loan Bank board on behalf of Charles Keating, chairman of American Continental Corp. of Arizona, parent company of the failed savings and loan association.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - Senators withdrew a controversial plan Thursday to require big increases in automobile fuel economy, a move engineered by Senate leaders struggling to preserve their fragile clean air compromise with the Bush administration.

The gas mileage legislation, which called for automakers to achieve a fleetwide average of 40 miles per gallon by the year 2000, was pulled from the Senate floor after Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell promised the measure would be considered on the Senate floor later this year.

The proposal, which would represent a huge leap up from the current federal fuel economy standard of 27.5 mpg, was strongly backed by environmentalists as a way to reduce tailpipe emissions of carbon dioxide, the main pollutant blamed for global warming.

Mitchell said he personally supported stricter fuel efficiency requirements but that the Bush administration vehemently opposed them and would not accept their addition to the compromise clean air bill now under consideration by the Senate.

The Maine senator said White House officials made it clear during private negotiations during the past few weeks that adoption of fuel efficiency standards would be a deal-breaker for any compromise.

The gas mileage requirements had been part of the clean air bill passed by the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee last November. At that time, Mitchell voted for the tougher gas mileage requirements.

However, he said, ''as part of the compromise (with the administration), that provision was deleted. It was opposed vigorously by the administration.''

Mitchell said he had to oppose any effort to restore the fuel efficiency standards in order to preserve the compromise with the administration, which he maintains is essential to ensure Senate passage of the clean air bill.

The fuel efficiency proposal was introduced by Sens. Richard Bryan, D-Nev. and Slade Gorton, R-Wash. They said it would fight global warming and reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil, which is reaching record levels.

Bryan and Gorton said they agreed to withdraw their legislation because they wanted Mitchell on their side for a difficult fight to overcome administration opposition to higher fuel economy standards.

''It will be controversial and we want every vote we can get, so we are willing to accede to their (Senate leaders') request to have it considered at a later time,'' Gorton said.

Mitchell promised he would have the Senate consider the fuel economy issue as part of a comprehensive global warming bill now pending in the Senate Commerce Committee. However, Mitchell said that bill would not be taken up any earlier than June 21.

Environmentalists contend stricter fuel efficiency standards are the most practicable and cost-effective step the government can take to address the global warming threat and they lobbied hard for their inclusion in the clean air bill.

Dan Becker, a lobbyist for the Sierra Club, said environmentalists were disappointed by the withdrawal of the fuel efficiency proposal. But he said the move enhanced overall prospects for Senate passage because it made it more likely that Mitchell would support such legislation down the road.

''This gives us an opportunity for leadership support,'' Becker said. ''It means we are going to have a far better chance of getting this through.''

Automakers maintain the 40 mpg standard envisioned by Bryan and Gorton would force them to make many more small, fuel-efficient cars, despite widespread consumer preferences for mid-sized and larger cars.

They also charge that, in order to meet the standards, they would have to make cars out of much lighter materials, greatly reducing safety in car crashes.

Administration officials echoed those arguments and said fuel efficiency standards did not belong in clean air debate and would unnecessarily complicate the already difficult efforts to achieve consensus on the bill.

CHULA VISTA, CA. (MARCH 8) UPI - Fourteen prisoners, including three accused killers, escaped from a San Diego County jail by cutting through bars with a smuggled hacksaw and lowering themselves on knotted bedsheets, authorities said Thursday.

Two of the inmates were captured shortly after the escape Wednesday night, the largest in San Diego history. It involved inmates housed in an overcrowded module at the South Bay Detention Facility.

''A hacksaw was apparently lowered in from a public access area above the jail area,'' Deputy Larry Van Dusen said. ''They lowered it down and the inmates in the module were able to stick a broom handle out of the window and pull it in.''

Some of the 12 deputies guarding the jail Wednesday night were about to make a security check on the 90 inmates in the module when the escape was reported by an area resident who saw one of the fleeing inmates.

Wire screens had been ordered last spring for the windows in order both to increase security and keep pigeons from roosting on the window sills, but they had not been installed, Van Dusen said.

''The feeling is it was a planned escape and there was probably a small group that planned it,'' Van Dusen said. ''For the majority ... it was a moment of opportunity and they took it.''

Three of the fugitives, Christopher E. Bell, 31, of San Diego, Sergio Martinez, 22, a Mexican national, and Audias Gomez, 36, of La Mesa, were awaiting trial on murder charges.

Bell was arrested by a SWAT team in San Diego Feb. 14 on a warrant charging him with the October robbery and execution-style slaying of a man who was kidnapped from an automated teller machine in La Mesa.

Gomez was charged with the Feb. 3 stabbing death of a bartender who had ejected the suspect from a Chula Vista tavern. Martinez was arrested in Anaheim Sept. 20 for the July 3, 1989, shooting death of an unidentified man in San Diego.

Deputies assisted by the Border Patrol and police from Chula Vista and San Diego searched the area around the jail through the night. The formal search was called off Thursday morning.

The two recaptured inmates were identified as Ignacio Ruvalcaba and Raymundo Figuora. Both were jailed on drug charges. They were arrested separately shortly after the escape.

It was suspected that at least some of the inmates would try to reach the Mexican border, less than 10 miles away.

(MARCH 8) UPI - John Poindexter was accused today of destroying documents and co-ordinating a White House ''cover-up.'' The accusations came as prosecutors began presenting their case against the former national security adviser at his trial in Washington. Poindexter is standing trial on five felony charges in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Georgia Representative Newt Gingrich says he has been vindicated. The House ethics committee dismissed most charges against the Republican lawmaker today, but chided him for abusing franking privileges and for failing to report a real estate deal. WASHINGTON (MARCH 8) UPI - The Soviet Union promised Thursday to give the Raiz family exit visas to emigrate to Israel, a dream that has been on hold since 1972 when Vladimir Raiz was denied emigration because of access to state secrets.

The Raiz family - Vladimir, his wife Carmela, and their two young sons - are among 350-400 so-called Soviet Jewish refuseniks - people who have been denied emigration.

''This is more than just a promise,'' said Zeesy Schnur, executive director of the Coalition for Soviet Jewry, a New York group that has campaigned for refuseniks' release. ''Vladimir was told to come and pick up his papers on Tuesday.''

Schnur said she spoke with Vladimir, who took the news with a ''bit of a sense of humor. He said, 'This has happened to me once before,' and said he won't really believe it until he's holding the papers.''

Vladimir, an unemployed molecular biologist, has been refused permission to emigrate to Israel since 1972. The state claims he has ''access to state secrets,'' but Carmela, a violinist with the Lithuanian Symphony Orchestra in Vilnius, said that has not been the case since 1965.

Carmela, in the United States since December on a four-month tourist visa, was in Washington Tuesday making an impassioned plea for freedom outside the Soviet Embassy. She was joined by New York Mayor David Dinkins.

Schnur said the Soviet Union's decision can be credited to an ''intensification of intervention on their behalf,'' including the work of the coalition, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., President Bush and other administration officials.

''I know that this exciting news will delight Americans who cherish human rights. It provides one more dramatic example of how the Soviet Union of Mikhail Gorbachev is undergoing a profound transformation,'' Moynihan said.

Schnur said Gorbachev is a ''very pragmatic leader ... and he will benefit by the ultimate release of the Raiz family.''

She said she expects other refuseniks' cases ''probably will need personal attention on a case-by-case basis. They won't be easy but hopefully they will be resolved, too.''

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (MARCH 8) UPI - The elder son of a top entertainment executive and his wife, found shot to death last August in their mansion, was arrested Thursday as a suspect in the killings, and his brother is being sought, officials said.

Both stood to inherit an estate estimated to be worth $14 million.

Lyle Menendez, 21, was arrested by Beverly Hills police, and his younger brother, Eric, 18, who is in Israel apparently playing in a tennis tournament, was being sought for arrest in the case, said Sandi Gibbons, a spokeswoman for the Los Angeles County District Attorney's office.

The bodies of Jose Enrique Menendez, the 45-year-old Cuban-born chairman and chief executive of Live Entertainment Inc. of Van Nuys, and his wife, Kitty, 44, were found Aug. 20, 1989, in their Beverly Hills mansion. They had died of shotgun wounds.

The arrest of Lyle Menendez was based on new evidence that surfaced in the case ''involving conversations with a psychologist in Beverly Hills,'' Gibbons said. She declined to elaborate until formal charges were filed against the brothers.

Police detectives who investigated the case were not immediately available for comment. It was not immediately known whether authorities suspect that the brothers actually fired the weapons that killed their parents or hired others to carry out the slayings.

According to a 1980 will filed in Superior Court on behalf of Menendez and his wife, their sons are the sole beneficiaries of an estate worth an estimated $14 million.

Their two sons reported finding their parents' bodies when they returned from a night out.

Law enforcement officials initially believed the slayings may have been an organized crime hit due to their brutality and because no apparent clues were left at the scene. Shortly after the slayings, unnamed investigators told the Los Angeles Times that they believed that at least two hit men were involved.

Menendez apparently was shot eight times with a 12-gauge shotgun from a distance of about 3 feet. His wife caught five shotgun blasts.

Both brothers were questioned about their whereabouts the night of the slayings.

''At one point, I expect that we were suspects, absolutely for a while,''

Lyle Menendez told the Times late last year.

Live Entertainment is a major video and music distributor.

RIVERSIDE, CA. (MARCH 8) UPI - Actor Ralph Waite, best known for his role as the gentle patriarch on the television series ''The Waltons,'' announced Thursday he is seeking the Democratic nomination for a congressional seat in Southern California.

Waite, 61, a former minister and social worker, said he intends to focus on issues important to the conservative voting majority of the 37th Congressional District that covers most of Riverside County.

''I'm going to run a middle-of-the-road campaign because that's where ... I feel comfortable and that's what I think people respond to,'' Waite told a news conference. ''I need a lot of Republican votes. I don't want a heavily partisan, conflicted campaign.''

Waite will face formidable opposition from Republican incumbent Rep. Al McCandless in November's general election if he succeeds in beating two other Democratic candidates. McCandless is in his fourth term in a district that even some Democratic officials believe is a no-win situation for their party.

Waite said he expects his television fame to be an asset because, with his recognized name and face, he can concentrate on talking about campaign issues.

Now a resident of Rancho Mirage, Waite has been a town councilmember in Fishers Island, N.Y., and has served on the board of a Coachella Valley coalition that finds housing for low-income families.

He helped to establish a downtown Los Angeles women's center and was the founder and first director of the Los Angeles Actor's Theater, now known as the Los Angeles Theater Center.

Waite was a social worker and Presbyterian minister before he chose an acting career and won the role of the wise, gentle John Walton in the 1970s series, set on a Depression-era Virginia farm.

ROCHESTER, NY (MARCH 8) UPI - Eastman Kodak Co. said Thursday about 48,600 Rochester-area employees will share in a record ''wage dividend'' of $174 million.

In all, the company will pay out almost $275 million to some 78,000 eligible U.S. employees Friday under a program Kodak founder George Eastman started in 1912.

For most employees, the bonus will equal 9 to 10 percent of their annual salary. Most will receive a larger dividend than they did last year, an Eastman Kodak spokesman said.

In recent years, the bonus was linked to cash dividends declared on the company's common stock. But a new formula announced in January bases the size of the total dividend payout to Kodak's return on assets.

Most Kodak employees will take their bonuses in cash, the company said. But about 31,000 will have them put directly into a company savings and investment plan.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 8) UPI - The presiding judge of the Superior Court authorized Thursday the impanelment of a special grand jury to hear evidence in the criminal investigation of the Lincoln Savings & Loan scandal.

Presiding Judge Richard Byrne was asked last week by District Attorney Ira Reiner to impanel the grand jury because the term of the current grand jury will expire before the Lincoln investigation is completed.

The investigation centers on thousands of customers of the failed Irvine, Calif., savings and loan who were persuaded to buy millions of dollars of now-worthless junk bonds.

Deputy District Attorney Lynn Miller, who is heading the investigation, said it will take about 30 days to impanel the special grand jury.

BOSTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The struggling Bank of New Eng- land Corp. appeared to cut its borrowing from the Federal Reserve by more than $100 million last week, the first such reduction in more than two months.

However, the company still may have held as much as $1.5 billion in borrowings from the Fed's so-called discount window as of Wednesday, according to a weekly report the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston issued Thursday.

The troubled banking company lost $1.23 billion last year and has undergone an enormous outflow of deposits since December, when the extent of its losses in the region's slumping real estate market started becoming apparent.

The Boston Fed's report said it had lent $1.512 billion to member banks as of Wednesday. Although the figures the Fed discloses include lending to all New England institutions, it is believed the overwhelming majority of current lending is extended borrowing to Bank of New England.

The regional figure was down from $1.618 billion in borrowing from the week before.

The company, which launched a $6 billion asset sale, has said it expects borrowing levels to rise and fall as cash from those sales is paid to the bank.

A bank spokesman could not be reached to comment.

SPRINGFIELD, MA. (MARCH 8) UPI - A sheriff who commandeered a National Guard armory to house inmates from his overcrowded county jail will transfer the prisoners to a second armory in a residential neighborhood in nearby Holyoke, a judge ruled Thursday.

The ruling by Hampden County Superior Court Judge George Keady, ending a 3-week-old standoff between the National Guard in Springfield and Sheriff Michael Ashe, allows inmates to be housed at the Holyoke armory until a new 1,000-bed permanent jail is built in nearby Ludlow in 1992.

Under the ruling, all the inmates will be transferred ''within a month'' from the Springfield armory to a National Guard armory in Holyoke. Ashe and 30 deputies seized the Springfield armory on Feb. 16 to ease overcrowding at the 102-year-old county jail.

''From the beginning, our game plan was to come up with a long-term temporary building that could be used as a jail. We now have that building '' Ashe said. ''For anyone who is a convicted felon, there is now room for him.''

Holyoke Mayor Martin Dunne, however, vowed to go to court Friday to keep prisoners out of the armory because they would be housed too close to a day care center.

The Holyoke armory is used less frequently by the National Guard than the Springfield armory, which is a brigade headquarters, Guard officials said. Ashe estimated about 25 percent of the inmates at the county jail are from Holyoke.

It will cost about $450,000 to house inmates at the Holyoke armory through June 30, the end of the state's fiscal year, Ashe said.

The Holyoke armory will have room for up to 80 minimum-security inmates who are near the end of their sentences, Ashe said. There were 26 inmates being held at the Springfield armory Thursday, the largest number since the building was seized, Ashe said.

The 84-year-old Holyoke armory will need up to $75,000 in maintenance and repairs before inmates can be moved in, said John Bradshaw, deputy commissioner of the state Division of Capital Planning and Operations.

A fire alarm system and some lights will have to be installed, some painting is needed and repairs must be made in the kitchen, toilet and shower areas, Bradshaw said.

Dunn, the Holyoke mayor, said he is ''adamantly opposed'' to the deal and would seek a court order to stop the transfer because the armory and the daycare center are virtually next door to each other.

''We have halfway houses, we have methadone clinics and we have subsidized housing in Holyoke,'' Dunne said. ''I believe we've taken on our responsibilities and I believe we're not a community that says 'not in my back yard.'''

Kenneth J. Cote Jr., a Holyoke city attorney, had asked the judge to delay his ruling until Holyoke officials met with Ashe, but Keady refused.

''We're not opposed to siting a temporary jail in Holyoke. We're concerned about siting it in this particular building,'' Cote said.

The armory in Holyoke was closed for full-time duty March 1 because of state-ordered budget cuts and now is only open once a month for regularly scheduled weekend drills, said 1st Lt. Jayme Guido, a National Guard spokeswoman. The Holyoke armory is home to ''one or two units,'' but the Springfield armory is a statewide brigade headquarters, Guido said.

Ashe took over the Springfield armory because his overcrowded lockup in downtown Springfield had reached a court-ordered inmate cap of 450 prisoners on several occasions, most recently in January. Some prisoners were being released early or having jail sentences delayed because of the overcrowding.

BALTIMORE (MARCH 8) UPI - A federal judge Thursday evening imposed a 14-year prison sentence on the heiress of the Mrs. Filbert's margarine fortune for her convictions on drug possession and drug distribution charges.

The 14-year sentence was the minimum possible under the federal sentencing guidelines. Filbert-Amos could have received a term of more than 17 years for helping to finance her boyfriend's drug operation.

''I think she had been pretty well prepared for that (the stiff sentence) '' U.S. Attorney Breckinridge Willcox said.

During her trial, the margarine heiress testified that she was a cocaine addict who was unaware that her live-in boyfriend was involved in a large-scale drug distribution effort.

Willcox said it is always sad when there is a human tragedy such as the Filbert-Amos case, but noted that users and dealers must be held responsible for their role in allowing drugs to harm the country.

''Every cocaine addict, every cocaine user plays his or her own role in the violence that is tearing this country apart,'' Willcox said.

The U.S. attorney said the conviction sent a message to users of all social classes that ''if caught and convicted, they will face some heavy-duty time.''

Filbert-Amos's boyfriend, Dennis Case, also has been sentenced to 14 years in federal prison.

When agents arrested Filbert-Amos last year, they seized her mansion just outside of Easton. Willcox said the home is expected to be forfeited sometime next week.

ANCHORAGE, AK (MARCH 8) UPI - Defense witnesses in the Joseph Hazelwood trial told jurors Thursday that the Exxon Valdez would have missed Bligh Reef by a mile if crewmen left in charge of the vessle had been more alert.

But the defense's day in court was marred by two interruptions. First a process server showed up to dump 66 civil suit summonses on Hazelwood. Later prosecutors revealed that the Coast Guard was interested in the upcoming testimony of tanker captains who are expected to say that they routinely did some of things Hazelwood is on trial for.

In defense testimony, marine consultant Peter Shizume said the Exxon Valdez would have missed Bligh Reef by 1.3 miles if Hazelwood's turning orders had been executed by the crew left on the bridge.

''I think the problem was that the rudder was initiated late and there was not enough rudder used,'' Shizume said, noting that the crew had sufficient time to make an easy right turn and miss the reef.

Marine surveyor Joseph Winer said course recorder data showed that the Exxon Valdez did not turn right when third mate Greg Cousins issued his first order to turn the ship to helmsman Robert Kagan at 11:55 p.m. When Cousins issued a second order at 12:01 a.m., Kagan began to turn the ship, but not sharply enough to miss the reef Winer said.

Kagan did not carry out the first order, perhaps because he was hard of hearing. Cousin's later order was not fully executed, apparently because Kagan was afraid of hard turns. Cousins, with his head buried in charts and studying radar, was apparently oblivious to Kagan's failures to carry out the steering orders.

Winer said the ship struck the rocks at 8 1/2 minutes after midnight, later than the prosecution estimate, and that the crew had ample time to make various degree turns to still avoid the reef.

Prosecutor Cole's response to all the defense explanation of the grounding was simply that this apparent crew negligence never would have occurred if Hazelwood had been on the bridge like he should have been.

A third defense expert, naval architect and marine engineer Edward Hoffman said all the damage was done at the time of the grounding or by tidal action and not by any maneuvers Hazelwood took after the grounding.

Moments before the proceedings got underway Thursday, a process server walked into court and tried to serve 66 civil suit complaints on Hazelwood but the man, with a shopping bag full of legal papers, was ejected by state Superior Court Judge Karl Johnstone.

Hazelwood, on trial for recklessness and negligence in the March 24 spill of 11 million gallons of oil from the Exxon Valdez, also is named as a defendant in many of the 150 civil suits against Exxon.

''This is outrageous conduct,'' declared Thomas Russo, one of Hazelwood's lawyers, who said it was inappropriate to serve the skipper with the civil suit complaints and summonses during the criminal trial.

But process server Tom Zawodny returned after court and left the suits and summonses with Hazelwood and his lawyers. He said the suits were filed by Prince William Sound fishermen.

Hazelwood, 43, of Huntington, N.Y., is charged with reckless endangerment, operating the tanker while intoxicated, negligent discharge of oil and criminal mischief. He faces up to seven years, three months in jail and a $61,000 fine.

In another unexpected incident, state prosecutor Brent Cole told the judge with the jury out of the room, that the Coast Guard had expressed an interest in other tanker captains whose typical behavior may be similar to Hazelwood's alleged reckless actions.

Defense lawyers expect other skippers to testify that they regularly sailed their tankers out of Prince William Sound without a licensed ship pilot. Charges of recklessness against Hazelwood include leaving the bridge to unqualified crewmen while he went to his cabin even though he was the only person on board licensed to command the ship through the sound.

''The Coast Guard said they might look into it'' if tanker captains testify for the defense that they routinely circumvented Prince William Sound sailing standards, Cole said.

Defense lawyer Dick Madson said he feared witnesses may be intimidated and decline to testify if they think their testimony will be used against them by the Coast Guard.

The prosecution finished its case Wednesday after calling 44 witnesses. The defense opened late Wednesday and expected to call about a dozen witnesses by the end of next week.

RICHMOND, VA (MARCH 8) UPI - The Virginia legislature enacted historic legislation Thursday to restrict smoking in public, rejecting arguments that the state was turning away from its agricultural tradition of growing tobacco.

The Senate adopted the measure 33-7 and the House followed suit just hours later on a 77-22 vote. The bill now goes to Gov. L. Douglas Wilder for his signature.

Wilder said during the gubernatorial campaign he would support reasonable restrictions, although Wilder spokeswoman Laura Dillard said the governor wants to take a look at the proposal before signing it.

The legislation bans smoking in elevators, public school buses, hospital emergency rooms, common areas of public schools, indoor service lines and cashier lines, local health departments and polling rooms.

In addition, restaurants with seating for 50 or more people would have to designate non-smoking areas to meet customer demand, and large retail establishments would have to set aside non-smoking areas.

The legislation represented a compromise between Sen. Thomas Michie, D-Albemarle, and Del. Richard Cranwell, D-Roanoke County.

If signed into law, Virginia would become the 43rd state to adopt some smoking restrictions.

But opponents did not give up without impassioned speeches against any restrictions on smoking in a state where tobacco remains the No. 1 cash crop.

''We're talking about an industry that has built this commonwealth,'' said Del. Charles Hawkins, R-Pittsylvania, who questioned whether supporters would put the same zeal toward ridding the streets of drugs. ''We're leaving our tradition behind and this vote is the first step toward that end.''

The bill also contains language Cranwell proposed to let localities regulate smoking in the private work place under certain conditions. A total ban could be imposed in a business if it was agreed to by a majority of the employees.

Cohen said the plan has the support of a coalition of three statewide health organizations and the Group to Alleviate Smoking in Public.

Anthony Troy, a lobbyist for the state's powerful tobacco industry, also appeared satisfied with the legislation. ''I think we can live with it,'' said Troy, although he suggested more extremist groups in the smoking debate will not be happy.

(MARCH 8) UPI - John Poindexter's trial opens in Washington, D-C... President Bush announces his new transportation policy... and a doctor who's dying of AIDS reaches a settlement in her lawsuit. Those and other stories, next, from U-P-I.

Federal prosecutors opened the last major Iran-Contra trial today, presenting opening statements in which they accused John Poindexter of trying to ''rewrite and change history.''

In a two and one-half hour opening statement in federal court in Washington, lead prosecutor Dan Webb accused the former national security adviser of lying to Congress.

The jury that will decide whether Poindexter is guilty of five criminal counts of misleading Congress and obstructing justice listened attentively for the most part... although one juror briefly dozed off.

Webb says Oliver North will testify that a document ripped up by Poindexter was a ''terrible political embarrassment'' to former President Reagan.

Poindexter has said he shredded a 1985 order authorizing a shipment of arms to Iran because it showed an explicit deal for U-S hostages.

After the defense gives its opening statements... North will take the witness stand. The former National Security Council aide was at the center of the worst scandal of the Reagan presidency.

(MARCH 8) UPI - President Bush has announced what he calls a comprehensive transportation policy to revitalize the nation's road, rail and air systems into the 21st century.

But critics say the plan passes the buck from the federal government to the states and localities. One congressman calls it- quote- ''the shift and the shaft.''

The policy calls for action on all fronts... including improvement in roads and trains, and opening cities to more foreign airlines. It also calls for further deregulation of trucking to allow greater loads... and for an end to funding of Amtrak.

State and local governments want a comprehensive policy to ease mounting congestion on roads and in the air. But they say they can't afford to increase their share of the bill.

The federal government would like to reduce its average share of highway project funding from about 82 percent to about 75 percent.

The Soviet-backed government of Afghanistan is accusing Pakistan of helping to plan this week's coup attempt against President Najibullah's administration.

Afghan government radio also says seven Afghan government officials found to be involved with the coup have been dismissed from the government. The radio did NOT say if they had been detained.

Those dismissed include the alleged coup leader, Defense Minister General Shah Nawaz Tanai, Tanai's predecessor at the defense ministry and the ambassador to Moscow.

There are conflicting reports of Tanai's whereabouts. He was at one point reported to have defected to Pakistan with his family. But a Pakistani official says he is with rebels in rural Afghanistan.

The official says government troops have regained control of most of the Afghan capital of Kabul. But adds Tanai loyalists still hold an airport and are fighting at several sites near Kabul.

ANAHEIM, CA (MARCH 8) UPI - About 2 1/2 tons of cocaine has been seized and three suspects arrested in the latest in a series of drug busts that have turned the spotlight on Southern California as a major drug trafficking center, officials announced Thursday.

The seizure culminated a six-month investigation by 25 local and federal law enforcement agencies that focused on a sophisticated ring of traffickers whose operation reached into the New York-New Jersey area.

The bust, netting more than 4,500 pounds of cocaine worth an estimated $153 million on the street, was the fourth seizure of 900 or more pounds of the drug since November in the Orange County area.

''This underscores the description by President Bush to designate Los Angeles-Orange County as a high-intensity (drug) area and is supported by the facts seen here,'' said Orange County Sheriff Brad Gates, standing near 1,300 bundles of neatly wrapped packages of cocaine on display at Anaheim Stadium Thursday.

Last week, during a visit to Orange County, Bush commended local officials for their anti-drug efforts in an area considered among the nation's leading drug trafficking centers.

Gates said the seized cocaine was smuggled into the United States from Cali, Colombia, headquarters of one of that nation's two drug cartels.

The investigation by officials of the Regional Narcotics Suppression Program culminated Wednesday, after months of surveillance work, when drug agents spotted a man arrive at a warehouse in the Los Angeles County city of Bellflower. They followed the suspect to a location a few blocks away, where the vehicle was abandoned, officials said.

The officers then saw two other men arrive to pick up the van and followed them to Costa Mesa in Orange County. The van was stopped and officers found about 1,450 pounds cocaine loaded in the back of the vehicle, which had been outfitted with homemade partitions to block the view inside.

Arrested were John Boresoff, 28, of Perris, a Riverside County community, and his cousin, Elias Figueroa Boresoff, 47, of Cali. The third suspect, Juan Carlos Marteloto, 34, of Anaheim, the original driver of the van, was arrested at the warehouse, where another 1,430 pounds of cocaine was confiscated.

Another 140 pounds of the drug was seized in a house in the Los Angeles community of Lynwood.

The first break in the investigation came on Nov. 25, when, after days of around-the-clock surveillance, officers saw three men arrive at a warehouse in Glendale. They waited and watched as two of the men left the location driving off in motorhome bearing New York license plates.

They followed the motorhome to the desert in Riverside County, stopping the vehicle near the Arizona border. Inside they found more than 1,500 pounds of cocaine stashed in a false roof in the motorhome.

They also arrested the two occupants, identified as Jorge Bustamente, 38, and Adolfo Gallego, 26, both of New York City. The men were released at the time ''to maintain the integrity'' of the ongoing investigation and were being sought Thursday.

The three men arrested this week were being held in Orange County Jail on suspicion of possession of cocaine for sale, conspiracy to transport cocaine and selling cocaine. Each was held in lieu of $10 million bail.

(MARCH 8) UPI - An case involving a doctor who is dying of AIDS ended in a settlement today in New York City.

State Supreme Court Justice Aaron Bernstein declined to reveal most of the terms of the agreement that came as the trial was nearing an end. But he said the figure is between ''zero and 100-Million dollars.''

Dr. Veronica Prego had sued the city and two doctors for 175-Million dollars, blaming them for her contracting the disease from a discarded needle.

Prego says she's happy the trial is over and wants to put it behind her. But she said she feels ''bitter'' and said she did NOT expect- quote- ''the low-blows.''

Prego was harshly questioned by city attorney Stanley Friedman during the nine-week trial. At one point, he asked Prego's doctor how long she had to live. The doctor said NO more than one year.

Prego says she pricked her finger on a needle filled with blood from an AIDS patient in 1983. She accused the hospital of negligence in NOT setting up a safe way of disposing of used needles.

City and state officials reacted to the Bush administration's new transportation plan as if they'd just been given a gift for which they have to pay.

New York Metropolitan Transportation Authority Robert Kiley called the plan ''all flash and NO cash,'' and compared it to the president's education and drug policies.

President Bush announced the policy today. It seeks to fix the nation's transportation problems with high-speed trains, further deregulation of the trucking industry and new technology to help urban commuters.

The administration wants to end federal funding for Amtrak and increase the share cities and states pay for federal highway projects.

Washington state Transportation Secretary Duane Berentson called for the president to use 10-BILLION dollars in gas taxes for highways, rather than using it to make the federal deficit look smaller.

Berentson complained that states are spending more than twice as much on highways as a percentage of the budget than the federal government.

Some states will look at new ways of paying for roads. Indiana is considering using lottery proceeds.

In the first day of the Iran-Contra trial of former national security adviser John Poindexter in Washington... Special Prosecutor Dan Webb pointed to Poindexter and accused him of tearing up documents.

Webb said Poindexter led the ''cover-up'' of the secret sale of weapons to Iran to raise funds for the Nicaraguan Contras. He said Poindexter shredded documents in an effort to ''re-write history.''

Webb says Poindexter lied to Congress and ordered his aid Oliver North to do the same. But Webb says Poindexter ''got caught'' trying to ''brainwash'' Congress.

Poindexter's attorney, Richard Beckler, countered that the retired Navy rear admiral always told lawmakers what he thought was the truth. Beckler said North was simply following orders from his boss, President Reagan and his job was to protect the president.

Beckler said Poindexter shredded some documents because they would have proved ''embarrassing'' to Reagan.

The Soviet news agency Tass reports that the Soviet leader says the Baltic republic will have to pay BILLIONS of dollars to Moscow if it secedes from the Soviet Union.

Lithuanian leader Algirdas Brazauskas said in an broadcast interview that he had met Gorbachev at the Kremlin Monday, and that Gorbachev demanded reparations in hard currency from an independent Lithuania.

The Lithuanian media has said the figure owed would be about 33-BILLION dollars. Sources say that amount includes the 27-BILLION dollars worth of Soviet capital investment in Lithuanian factories.

The head of Lithuania's independence movement charges that the Soviet Union committed aggression against Lithuania and, now that it's leaving, Moscow is asking for money.

The West German parliament today promised never to question its border with Poland.

The move helps defuse what had become a controversial obstacle to the reunification of Gemany.

Chancellor Kohl denied he wanted to link the border issue to a Polish pledge NOT to seek further war reparations from Germany. Kohl provoked international outrage last week by coupling the two issues but later agreed to drop the condition.

The parliament rejected an effort by the Social Democrats to condemn Kohl for the matter. The dispute involves former German lands ceded to Poland after Germany lost World War Two.

The Bundestag agreed that the East and West German parliaments should simultaneously adopt a similar resolution after March 18th elections in East Germany. At a later stage, a united Germany would negotiate a border treaty with Poland.

(MARCH 8) UPI - 14 prisoners... including three accused killers... have escaped from a San Diego County jail at Chula Vista.

Jail officials say someone apparently lowered a hacksaw to a window of the jail and the prisoners used it to cut through the bars. They slid to the ground on knotted bedsheets.

Two of the inmates were captured shortly after the escape last night. Authorities suspect many of the rest are headed for the Mexican border 10 miles away.

Officials suspect a small group of prisoners planned the escape and the others just took advantage of the opportunity.

Three of the fugitives... including a Mexican national... were awaiting trial on murder charges. One man was arrested after an execution-style slaying.

The trial of Exxon Valdez Captain Joseph Hazelwood in Anchorage, Alaska, was interrupted today when a process server tried to give Hazelwood a bag of civil suit summonses.

Moments before the trial was to resume this morning, the process server tried to present Hazelwood with the 66 summonses... which he said were from fishermen. The judge had the man thrown out but the process server vowed to track Hazelwood down to serve him with the notices.

Also today, prosecutors told the judge that the Coast Guard would be listening when the defense called up other skippers to testify that they followed the same procedure as Hazelwood did navigating Prince William Sound.

Defense lawyer Dick Madson said he feared witnesses may decline to testify if they think their testimony will be used against them by the Coast Guard.

Hazelwood is charged with reckless conduct for leaving the bridge and going to his cabin before the biggest oil spill in the nation's history nearly a year ago.

Experts warned of the dangers of lead poisoning today at a Senate panel hearing. Doctors said lead in paint, soil, and dust can cause brain damage low I-Q levels and behavioral problems in children.

(MARCH 8) UPI - The chairman of the Senate Budget Committee says he wants to knock out 12-BILLION dollars from the Bush administration's proposal for military spending next year. Democratic Senator James Sasser of Tennessee also says he will seek a cut almost twice that size for the 1991 defense budget. James Exon... another Democratic senator who sits on both the budget panel and the Armed Services Committee... says less severe cuts are likely.

The West German Parliament has adopted a resolution pledging NOT to alter the border between East Germany and Poland after Germany re-unifies. The parliament said Germany would NOT question the border ''now or in the future'' and said parliaments of East and West Germany should repeat the pledge after East Germany's March 18th elections. Polish leaders want to be included in any re-unification talks.

An Italian study released today says the much-praised heart attack drug T-P-A doesn't work any better than a much cheaper alternative. T-P-A was the first ''blockbuster'' product of the biotechnology industry. The Italian study finds patients on a cheaper drug had a slighlty lower mortality rate. The maker of T-P-A says the study is ''imconclusive'' because it did NOT evaluate T-P-A as commonly used with another drug, halperin.

(MARCH 8) UPI - The U-S State Department is criticizing Nicaragua's Sandinista government for allegedly failing to live up to its post-election promise to smoothly transfer power. The House ethics committee today cleared Representative Newt Gingrich of most of the charges against him. But the committee admonished the Georgia Republican for failing to report his interest in buying a house, and for using his office stationary for vacation tours. Gingrich... the second-ranking House Republican... said the charges were ''politically inspired nonsense.'' Gingrich saw the charges as revenge for his role in ousting House Speaker Jim Wright last year.

LOS ANGELES (FEB. 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Carolco Pictures Inc. (NYSE:CRC) Friday announced that Lynwood Spinks has been named executive vice president of business and production affairs.

Spinks has also been elected to the board of directors. Spinks will continue to oversee all business affairs and legal matters for the company in addition to assuming increased operational and administrative activities in production and other areas. Spinks joined Carolco in 1986 as vice president of business affairs.

Prior to joining Carolco, Spinks was vice president of business affairs at PSO and executive assistant to Tri-Star Pictures President Gary Hendler. Spinks was associate producer of the Paul Bartel film ''Not for Publication'' and is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

Commenting on the announcement, Carolco Chairman Mario Kassar said: ''Lynwood has been with Carolco since the company's inception and has been an outstanding contributor to many aspects of the company's operations. Lynwood will play an important role in Carolco's growth over the coming years in all areas including production.''

In addition to Spinks, Roger Smith and Louis Weiss have been elected to the board of Carolco. Smith, president of the newly formed LIVE Enterprises Inc., has joined the board as the representative of LIVE Entertainment Inc., Carolco's home video/music retail subsidiary. Smith is also an executive vice president of LIVE and a member of the board of directors of LIVE.

Weiss, executive vice president and chief financial officer of Carolco, has also been elected to the board. Weiss has been with the company since 1987.

Carolco owns a 48 percent voting interest in LIVE Entertainment. LIVE Entertainment has three primary operating subsidiaries, International Video Entertainment Inc. (IVE), Lieberman Enterprises Inc. and Strawberries Inc. LIVE's catalog currently contains more than 1,300 titles including an extensive library of children's programming.

Lieberman, a Minneapolis-based distributor of pre-recorded music, videocassettes and computer software, provides specialized merchandising services to mass merchants throughout the United States. Strawberries is a specialty retailer of audio and video product. LIVE's corporate offices are in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - The California State Court of Appeals on March 6 affirmed the judgment of Superior Court Judge Rufus L. Yent in the matter of the determination of fair value of property taken in condemnation from Southern California Water Co. by the city of Big Bear Lake.

In validating the lower court's decision, the Court of Appeals denied the city's motion that a new trial be granted on the basis that the trial had improperly allowed certain evidence to be heard. By denying the city's appeal for a new trial, the higher court let stand the $22.1 million judgment of fair value of the property as of May 1986. It also did not overturn the award to the company of $721,000 in litigation expenses.

W.V. Caveney, president and chief executive officer of the company, was pleased with the decision: ''We felt we had a good case and the jury and trial court agreed. Although we never like to lose our operating properties, we expect to be fairly compensated for our loss if that should occur. In this case, the court set a fair level of compensation and we accept its judgment. Now that the appeals court's decision has been made we hope this matter can be made final.''

LINCOLN, NE (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Isco Inc. (NASDAQ:ISKO) Friday reported earnings of $742,000, or 18 cents per share, on revenues of $7,550,000 for the fiscal second quarter ended Jan. 26, 1990.

This compares with earnings of $1,030,000, or 25 cents per share, on revenues of $7,973,000 for the same period one year ago.

For the six months just ended, earnings were $1,446,000, or 35 cents per share, on revenues of $15,048,000. This compares with earnings of $2,240,000, or 54 cents per share, on revenues of $16,168,000 for the same period last year. While earnings declined, cash flow from operations increased from $1,220,000 to $1,243,000.

Net earnings for the recent quarter were nearly 6 percent higher than the first quarter of fiscal 1990 and 25 percent higher than the fourth quarter of fiscal 1989.

Robert Allington, president of Isco, said ''We are optimistic that the recent downward trend in earnings has been reversed. We are also encouraged by the progressive improvement of the gross margins over this same period.''

Operating expenses for the first six months of fiscal 1990 were 5.8 percent higher than the first six months of fiscal 1989. When compared with the last six months of fiscal 1989, however, expenditures are at essentially the same level.

This reflects the strategic commitment begun in mid-1989 to increase funding for engineering and marketing related to product development.

The net sales decline of 6.9 percent for the first six months of fiscal 1990 compared to the same period of fiscal 1989 includes decreases of 3.1 percent for the Environmental Division and 11.2 percent for the Instrument Division. However, incoming orders were only down 1.5 percent. For the fiscal year 1990, Allington expects lower earnings on flat to slightly lower sales.

Isco manufactures water pollution monitoring equipment including flow measuring devices, and is the leading manufacturer of wastewater samplers. Isco also manufactures chemical separation instruments for use in biochemistry and biotechnology research.

SANTA CLARA, CA (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Dr. Dan Maydan, who has played a major role in the development of Applied Materials' product line since joining the company in 1980, is named executive vice president.

This is a new position at the company, in which Maydan is responsible for all product activities as well as new product development. Prior to this post, he had served as group vice president of Applied Materials and president of its Applied Deposition Technology Division.

Reporting d)sctly to Maydan are: Howard Neff, vice president of Corporate Operations; John Stewart, vice pregikent oN _pplied Implant Technology (AIT); Dr. Sasson Somekh, vice president of Applied Conductor Technologies (ACT), which now includes CVD tungsten and silicon deposition; and Dr. David Wang, whose role expands to serve as vice president of CVD and Etch Technologies.

James Bagley, Applied Materials' president and chief operating officer, said: ''The restructuring is designed to increase Applied Materials' planning for future products and to improve the effectiveness of our present product groupings.

''Unifying the management of our dielectric CVD and etch technologies, especially among the Precision 5000 family of products, should greatly enhance the synergy between the CVD and Etch product lines. Grouping our CVD tungsten, silicon deposition, and new deposition technologies also will contribute to greater technical and business effectiveness.''

Dr. Peter Hanley will assume the role of group vice president of the Customer Business Group, including sales and customer service. As Applied Materials' growing product lines become more broad-based, Hanley's extensive industry experience will add value and increase the technical emphasis of Applied Materials' selling and service activities. Reporting to Hanley are Dana Ditmore, vice president of Customer Service, and Steve Lindsay, vice president of Sales.

Applied Materials Inc., a global growth company based in Santa Clara, is the leading independent supplier of wafer fabrication systems to the DALLAS (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - A temporary restraining order against unlawful activity by striking members of the Amalgamated Transit Union was issued late Thursday by St. Louis Circuit Judge Robert J. Dierker Jr.

At about the same time in Chicago, Circuit Court Judge Thomas J. O'Brien extended a similar order indefinately.

Judge O'Brien concluded, based on the evidence presented, that defendants ''have wrongfully been engaged in violent and unlawful conduct in connection with the operation of Greyhound's business.''

The court order in St. Louis prohibits mass picketing, the use of violence and force, and obstruction of Greyhound's transportation services.

Courts in 13 cities have issued temporary restraining orders against ATU local unions, their officers and members since the strike against Greyhound Lines began on March 2.

Locations with court orders are Phildelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Des Moines, Jacksonville, Fla., Mount Laurel, N.J., Chicago, Portland. Ore., and St. Louis.

FRESNO, CA. (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Guarantee Savings will be known as Glendale Federal Bank, starting Monday, March 12.

The official name change was announced last evening at a meeting of all employees in Fresno.

Guarantee Savings, founded in 1919, has been operating as a division of Glendale Federal Bank since October 1987. Effective March 12, the company will officially operate under the name of Glendale Federal Bank. The regional headquarters for operations will remain in Fresno to manage the 38 banking offices located throughout the Central Valley.

The Fresno headquarters will, in addition, assume management responsibility for the three existing Glendale Federal Bank offices in the Sacramento area, and planned future expansion in that market.

Signs and printed materials, including customer checks and statements, will be gradually changed over the next several months.

''Our ability to efficiently and consistently offer great products and services under a single statewide name is essential now, with the increasing competition in the financial services industry,'' said Norman M. Coulson, chairman and chief executive officer of Glendale Federal Bank.

''We were particularly pleased when Guarantee Savings became part of the Glendale Federal family, and we welcome this final step in our partnership '' said Coulson.

''The joining of Guarantee and Glendale Federal Bank is an excellent match '' said O. James Woodward III, Guarantee Savings executive vice president. ''The combined companies are stronger than ever and both have a long history of service to the communities in which they do business.

''Our customers will continue to receive the same high quality, personal service that they have come to expect from Guarantee. However, now they will have the added strength and convenience of banking with one of the nation's largest savings institutions.''

Glendale Federal Bank is the nation's fifth-largest savings institution and operates in the states of California, Florida and Washington.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Avon Rent-A-Car and Truck Corp. (NASDAQ:AVON) announced Friday that it has filed its 10K report with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

In filing its 10K report, Avon also announced that company assets for the year ended Sept. 30, 1989, grew over 150 percent, from $4.9 million to $12.4 million, during its first full year as a public company.

Stuart Silver, Avon president, attributed the significant improvements in growth to its expanded rental fleet, which now totals about 4,000 vehicles in 38 locations in four states. The growth was also impacted by the acquisition of Southwest Car Rental Co.'s locations, certain assets and locations of Executrans Inc. and the expansion of its franchise operations.

MADISON, WI (BUSINESS WIRE)--Oscar Mayer Foods Corp. Friday announced that it will close its Los Angeles area meat processing plant, located in the city of Vernon, on or about Sept. 30, 1990.

In making the announcement, Vice President and Plant Manager Robert L. Pech said that high costs to operate the plant forced the decision.

''Our decision to close is not due to any dissatisfaction with our employees,'' Pech said. ''We have good employees here and the Los Angeles plant has been a valuable asset since we purchased it in 1951. However, the cost of doing business at this plant has steadily increased in recent years and it has become increasingly difficult to remain competitive. We examined all of our options and I regret to say that this decision is irreversible.''

The company also said lower cost production capacity exists at other Oscar Mayer plants throughout the country. Oscar Mayer, which is the nation's leading manufacturer of brand identified processed meats in the United States, operates a total of 21 manufacturing plants nationwide.

The closing will affect a total of 537 employees -- 443 union plant employees and 94 office workers. Production employees are represented by Local 770 of the United Food & Commercial Workers, AFL-CIO and the company also has contracts with Local 63 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Local 501 of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Companies are required by law to give at least 60 days written notice of a plant closing but Oscar Mayer said it was making the announcement six months in advance to give employees, suppliers and others more time to adjust to the situation.

The company said that discussions with employees and union leadership regarding the effects of the closing would start immediately. The discussions between the company and representatives of the three unions will include the possible use of job placement services and extended medical coverage. For the salaried workforce, some employees will be interviewed with the possibility of transferring to other Oscar Mayer operations. For those salaried employees not transferring to other locations the company has a severance pay program based on length of service with the company. State and local job placement services have been contacted to assist employees in finding jobs elsewhere.

Pech also said that the closing of the Oscar Mayer Los Angeles plant would have no effect on the firm's three other plants in Fullerton, Modesto and Tulare, Calif. Oscar Mayer's parent firm, Philip Morris Companies Inc., through its Kraft General Foods and Miller Brewing subsidiaries, has 30 plants in California employing 8,900 people and those plants pay over $370 million in wages annually. Philip Morris' total operations also contribute and generate more than a half billion dollars in taxes annually in California and account for more than $1 billion in purchases.

SAUSALITO, CA. (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Autodesk (NASDAQ/NMS:ACAD) announced Friday the appointment of Volker Kleinn to the position of vice president for European operations.

Kleinn, 50, will work with Autodesk subsidiaries in Switzerland, Sweden and the United Kingdom to optimize the company's structure in the increasingly integrated European community.

''In view of the growing contribution to total revenues from Europe, the approaching integration of the European market and the changes in Eastern Europe, we decided now was the appropriate time to make this a full-time position,'' said Alvar Green, president, chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Autodesk.

Kleinn will take over the position of Richard Handyside, a company founder who has combined the vice president position, since 1985, with his other duties as managing director of Autodesk Ltd., a U.K. subsidiary of the company. Handyside remains managing director of Autodesk Ltd. and will continue the company's pioneering development of the Eastern European and Soviet markets.

Volker Kleinn, who will be based in Geneva, Switzerland, brings to Autodesk a broad knowledge of the European computer industry. Kleinn has worked with Apollo Computer Inc. (six years) and Digital Equipment Corp. (8-1/2 year).

At Apollo Klein served, from July 1986 to October 1989, as vice president of international operations and, from December 1983 until July 1986, as director of finance and administration.

Kleinn is a German national. He studied business administration at the Universities of Saarbrucken and Berlin and obtained his degree in Saarbrucken in 1964.

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - DI Industries Inc. (ASE:DRL) announced Friday that it has determined not to proceed with a contemplated one-for-four reverse split of the outstanding shares of its common stock and that it has amended its registration statement previously filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission with respect to a proposed public offering of shares of its common stock to reflect the fact that the reverse stock split will not occur.

Accordingly, 8,200,000 shares of common stock will be included in the public offering, of which eight million shares will be sold by the company and 200,000 will be sold by a selling shareholder. The company anticipates that the common stock offering will be made next week.

Oppenheimer and Co. Inc. will manage the proposed offering. The net proceeds to the company from the sale of the shares will be added to working capital to be used for general corporate purposes, expected to include unstacking and refurbishing of inactive rigs, possible future acquisitions, and, to a lesser extent, expenditures for retirement of a portion of long-term debt and the purchase of an equipment yard.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - The Software Publishers Association (SPA) announced Friday the completion of several successful corporate audits.

SPA corporate software audits, which often occur in lieu of litigation, involve an analysis of a company's hard-disk directories and a review of their software purchase records.

When unauthorized copying has occurred, the audited company must destroy any pirated software, purchase legitimate copies and make a contribution to the SPA Copyright Protection Fund.

Among the companies that have become ''software legal'' through the SPA audit process are three defense contractors, a financial corporation, two insurance firms, a transportation company, two hospitals, an architecture firm, two components manufacturers, an advertsising agency, a marketing company and a food distributor.

R. Duff Thompson, vice president and general counsel of WordPerfect Corporation, who serves as chairman of the SPA Copyright Protection Fund reports that in addition to the cases mentioned above, ''fifteen new audits are in progress and the SPA is optimistic that each will be completed to our satisfaction within the next two months.''

The SPA expects to conduct many more audits during 1990, and has hired another full-time investigator to strengthen its audit and software protection activities.

In addition to the corporate software audit program, the SPA has released a Self-Audit Kit designed for use by corporate managers interested in conducting periodic inventories of PC applications in use within their company.

The Self-Audit Kit is available free of charge by sending a written request on company letterhead to: SPA Self-Audit Kit, 1101 Connecticut Ave., NW Suite 901, Washington D.C. 20036

The SPA is the worldwide trade association of the PC software industry. Its 600 members include the leading business, consumer and education software companies. The SPA, which is headquartered in Washington D.C., recently opened an office in Paris, France, to serve both its North American and its growing European constituencies.

TALLAHASSEE, FL (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - MHI Group Inc. (NYSE:MH) Friday announced results for the third quarter and nine month period ended Jan. 31, 1990.

Revenues for the third quarter were $2,579,000 compared with $2,123,000 for the comparable period last year. The third quarter of fiscal 1990 included three months of operations of McLaughlin Mortuary and McLaughlin Twin Cities Funeral Home located in Ft. Walton Beach and Niceville, Fla., respectively, both acquired in the third quarter of fiscal 1989, whereas last year's comparable period only included one month of these operations.

The company reported net income of $178,000, or 1 cent per share, for the third quarter of fiscal 1990 compared to net income of $254,000, or 2 cents per share, for the same period of fiscal 1989.

For the nine months ended Jan. 31, 1990, the company reported revenues of $7,754,000, a 22.8 percent increase from $6,311,000 reported for the same period of fiscal 1989. For the fiscal 1990 period, MHI reported a net loss of $82,000, or 1 cent per share, compared to a profit of $625,000, or 5 cents per share, in the corresponding period year.

The loss for the nine month period ended Jan. 31, 1990 was attributable to a one-time charge of $763,000 resulting from the company's suspended efforts to complete the acquisition of six funeral homes and two cemeteries in Pasco County, Fla.

A delay in obtaining funding for these acquisitions allowed one seller to terminate his contract with the company, leading the company to reassess the proposed Pasco County acquisitions as a group. The acquisitions were valued at approximately $7 million. The company's continuing operations earned approximately $845,000 before the one-time charge of $763,000.

Per share amounts are based on 14,529,000 and 13,597,000 weighted average common shares and equivalents outstanding during the third quarter of 1990 and 1989, respectively. For the nine month periods ended Jan. 31, 1990 and 1989, per share amounts were based on 14,500,000 and 13,658,000 weighted average common shares and equivalents outstanding, respectively.

MHI Group Inc. markets and sells pre-need and at-need funeral and cemetery services, including pre-arranged insurance.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - The Software Publishers Association (SPA) announced Friday that it has donated $25,000 to the United Kingdom-based Federation Against Software Theft (FAST) for the establishment of a software piracy hotline and corporate audit program similar to those being conducted by SPA in North America.

In September 1989, the SPA implemented a toll-free hotline (800/388-PIR8) to receive reports about software piracy. The SPA Hotline averages about 20 calls each day. Some of these calls have resulted in lawsuits by the SPA Copyright Production Fund against software pirates.

Other calls have caused SPA to perform a corporate audit. An SPA corporate audit, which is in lieu of litigation, involves an analysis of applications in use within a company. Where unauthorized software is found, it must be destroyed and replaced with an authorized copy. Companies who are audited also make a contribution to the SPA Copyright Protection Fund.

Bob Hay, FAST chief executive, believes that the SPA's experience with corporate audits will be invaluable in working with companies in the United Kingdom. FAST is the leading anti-piracy organization at work in the United Kingdom, and has been sucessful in convincing law enforcement officials to prosecute a number of software thieves. Hay believes that a FAST-run audit program will offer another, perhaps more dignified way to deal with corporate copyright infringement.

In announcing the grant, SPA Executive Director Ken Wasch said, ''We are optimistic that this modest investment in FAST will pay large dividends in terms of a significant reduction in software piracy within the U.K.'' Wasch continued, ''If the FAST corporate audit effort is successful, the SPA will work with other established anti-piracy groups to initiate similar programs throughout the world.''

The SPA is the principal trade group of the PC software industry. Its 600 members include the leading business, consumer and education software companies. The SPA, which is headquartered in Washington, D.C., recently

ANAHEIM, CA (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - General Automation Inc. (ASE:GA) has expanded the line of computer systems acquired in its recent acquisition of the CIE systems product line with the introduction of the PL-Series.

The PL-Series includes a modular set of computer platforms that provide expansion capability from an 8-user system with disk storage capacities from 95 megabytes to over 9 gigabytes.

Three platforms are provided in the PL-Series -- the PL-400, a four-slot platform, the PL-900, a nine-slot platform, and the PL-1500, a 15-slot base platform. A combination of processor, memory and controller boards together with disk storage and tape backup devices can be combined with the selected platform to satisfy a broad spectrum of application requirements.

SCSI controllers are used by the PL-Series to interface to both the disk and tape subsystems. Disk drives of 95-, 170-, 380- and 760-MB capacities are offered. Dual density 1/2-inch, triple density GCR and 1/4-inch streaming cartridge drives are among the tape backup options available. In addition, a 4mm DAT tape drive is available that can provide up to 1.3 gigabytes of storage on one cassette.

The PL-400 and PL-900 systems are packaged in table-top enclosures. The PL-1500 is packaged in an attractive floor-stand cabinet. The PL-Series uses GA's new 7.0 release of the PICK operating system. Some of the major features of Release 7 include unlimited item size capability, a B-Tree file structure, transaction logging and incremental file save.

The PL-Series end-user pricing ranges from $16,250 for a minimum 8-user system to over $150,000 with 128 users, intelligent communication I/O processors, 1.5 gigabytes of disk storage and a GCR tape backup.

The new PL-Series models are complemented by the previously announced high-end models, the 680/550 and 680/750, to offer a wide capability of compatible products.

MENLO PARK, CA (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Zycad Corp. (NASDAQ:ZCAD) Friday reported fourth quarter revenues of $10,207,000 for the period ended Dec. 31, 1989, compared to $11,877,000 for the fourth quarter of 1988, a decrease of 14.1 percent.

For the quarter, the net loss was $1,247,000, or 8 cents per share, compared to net income of $2,101,000, or 14 cents per share, in the fourth quarter of 1988.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, the company reported revenues of $33,920,000, compared to $37,897,000 for 1988, a decrease of 10.5 percent.

Net loss for 1989 was $234,000, or 2 cents per share, compared to a net loss of $61,000, or 0 cents per share, for 1988. Included in the 1988 results was a $6.2 million relocation charge for the company's consolidation of all operations into its Menlo Park facility. The relocation was completed during 1989.

Commenting on the year, Mark Parsinen, Zycad's president and chief executive officer, said: ''We are obviously disappointed with our financial results, particularly those we are announcing for the fourth quarter.

''Although the revenues were reasonably strong in the fourth quarter compared to our prior periods in 1989, our profitability was disrupted by certain inventory adjustments and various other costs that had accummulated throughout the year, some of which related to prior quarter's activities. The consolidation of operations during the year was the obvious major factor in our disappointing results.''

Parsinen continued, ''Looking forward, it's important to note that the company still enjoys a solid financial foundation and a significantly larger than normal backlog due to long-awaited new products, and expects to return to profitability during 1990.''

LITTLETON, MA (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Alliant Computer Systems Corp. (NASDAQ:ALNT) Friday announced that Robert Lentz will resign his position as Alliant's chief financial officer (CFO), effective April 1, 1990.

Lentz will leave Alliant to join a Massachusetts-based company that services the cellular telephone industry. As executive vice president of operations there, he will assume a broad operational role.

Lentz joined Alliant in June 1988 when the company acquired Raster Technologies, a 3-D graphics terminals and systems manufacturer, where he was CFO. Raster's 3-D graphics technology was later integrated into Alliant products, resulting in a family of visual supercomputers.

Alliant is actively seeking a replacement for Lentz. In the interim, his responsibilities will be handled by Ronald Gruner, Alliant president and chief executive officer.

''Bob was a valuable member of the team that effectively managed the Raster acquisition and Alliant's return to profitability in 1989. We all wish him the very best of luck in his new venture,'' Gruner said.

Mobile Exhibition and Marketing will be incorporated into Heritage's existing Houston operations, expanding the company's product offering and broadening its market coverage to include major exhibition centers worldwide. As a result of the merger, Mobile's International Exhibition Freight Division will also become part of the services to be offered through Heritage International.

With the completion of this transaction, Mobile Exhibition and Marketing Services will become part of the Houston office of Heritage Display Group. Heritage-Houston already offers a full range of services including strategic planning, exhibit design and production capabilities, physical construction and field service management.

The integration of Mobile will enhance the company's client base by providing additional expertise with regard to the specialized exhibit needs of the energy and medical industries.

Clients of Mobile Exhibition and Marketing Services have included Baker Hughes, Camco, Daniel Industries, Reed, Baroid-Shaffer, TGS Geophysical, IMSL, Antek Instruments, Amtec Diagnostics and British Telecom.

In addition, the Freight Division specializes in international freight forwarding. This includes managing customs documentation and clearance, collection from port of arrival to exhibition sites, total on-site handling, unpacking and positioning of exhibits, and re-forwarding cargo at the close of a show to destinations worldwide.

The Freight Division has provided services to companies around the world, a few of which include Boeing, British Petroleum, British Telecom, Halliburton, Lockheed, Motorola, Rolls Royce and Toshiba.

Joining Heritage Display Group from Mobile Exhibition and Marketing Services are Richard Bartram and Madolyn Murdock. Bartram, a citizen of the U.K., served as chairman of Mobile and has built an international reputation for excellence in the exhibit services industry.

Bartram will serve as the president of Heritage International in the United Kingdom. Murdock will serve as vice president of Heritage International - U.S.A.

EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Motorola, the world's leading designer and manufacturer of cellular telephones, Friday announced that its European Cellular Subscriber Division will build a $160 million manufacturing facility in Easter Inch, West Lothian, Scotland.

The investment has the potential of creating 2,000 new jobs in Scotland.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, MP joined Motorola's European Cellular Subscriber Division in making today's announcement.

''Today's announcement by Motorola is of considerable significance to Central Scotland, and provides a strong endorsement of the area's attractions as a center for telecommunications and electronics manufacture '' said Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

''The company's plans for the creation of up to 2,000 new jobs, will have a significant impact on the local economy,'' the Prime Minister added.

The factory will produce digital subscriber equipment for the new Groupe Speciale Mobile (GSM) Pan-European cellular telephone system, scheduled to begin in 1991, and world leading personal communication telephones for the recently announced Personal Communication Network (PCN) services.

Motorola will build its third European cellular telephone manufacturing facility on a 90 acre greenfield site, conveniently situated for easy access via Edinburgh and Glasgow airports to all locations in the expanding European marketplace.

Motorola currently has European cellular subscriber manufacturing facilities at Stotfold, Hertfordshire, U.K. and Flensburg, West Germany. These facilities manufacture cellular telephones for the existing analogue markets in Europe and export products to over 23 countries worldwide including Japan, where Motorola is the only non-Japanese company in this marketplace.

In Europe today, Motorola employs over 10,000 people, across its seven divisions, 4000 of the staff working for Motorola Limited in the U.K. In Scotland, Motorola's semiconductor facility which employs more than 1800 people has just celebrated 20 years in East Kilbride.

AUSTIN, TX (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Frank W. McBee Jr., chairman of Electrosource Inc. (NASDAQ: ELSI), Friday announced that the Electrosource board of directors has elected Charles Mathews as a director of the corporation.

Electrosource, headquartered in Austin, Texas, is the exclusive licensee for a patented coextruded lead wire and is involved in the development and transfer of this and ancillary technologies to the international battery manufacturing industry.

Mathews, 55, is one of the co-inventors of the patented coextrusion technology which forms coextruded lead wire. He currently is a consultant to Electrosource, assisting the company in the research and development of its Horizon (TM) batteries which use the coextruded lead wire in its battery grids.

In addition, he is a director and co-founder of Blanyer-Mathews Associates Inc., Austin, which pursued the technology for coextrusion and owns the patents relating to this technology. Mathews also is a co-founder and director of Capital Cold Storage Inc., San Antonio, and owner of AAA Mill Inc., Austin, which he serves both as a director and officer.

In the 1960s, Mathews was associated with the University of Texas Defense Research Laboratory (now Applied Research Laboratories) and was a co-founder and former officer and director of Austin-based Accelerators, Inc. (now owned by Veeco Instruments, Inc., and operating in Dallas).

Before helping to found Blanyer-Mathews Associates in 1981, Mathews was employed from 1974 to 1980 by Tracor Inc., as a program manager for electronic countermeasures systems.

Mathews' election expands the membership of the Electrosource board of directors to nine directors. Other directors are Norman Hackerman, Ph.D., president emeritus, Rice University, Houston; McBee, chairman of Electrosource, Austin; Chris Morris, president of Electrosource, Austin; Russell E. Painton, vice president and general counsel of Tracor Inc., Austin; Jim A. Smith, private investor, Austin; Sam K. Smith, president of Merit Technology, Inc., Dallas; Jack T. CAMBRIDGE, MA (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Lotus Magellan has won Infoworld's ''1989 Best New Software Idea'' award in Infoworld's annual ''Product of the Year'' award competition.

Published in the March 5th issue of Infoworld, the survey polled 170,000 readers last December. Magellan has already won top 1989 honors from several other industry publications including PC/Computing (Most Valuable Product), PC Magazine (Technical Excellence Award), and Byte (Award of Distinction).

''Magellan is an outstanding entree that smacks of quality throughout,'' wrote Infoworld's John Walkenbach, in an earlier review. ''Practically any MS-DOS user will quickly realize the benefits of Magellan, since it conveniently addresses most of the problems people have with DOS.''

Magellan also received the top rating 1/8--3/8 a 9.0 1/8--3/8 from Infoworld in a product comparison on text databases in October. It was one of only two products last year to receive such a high rating.

''We're proud to receive this outstanding award from Infoworld's readers '' said Will Reynolds, Magellan's general manager, on behalf of Lotus and the Magellan team. ''We're particularly excited about this award because it comes directly from users themselves.''

Shipped in April 1989, Magellan is a utility software program for IBM, Compaq, and compatible personal computers that lets users find, view and use information stored on the hard disk of their DOS-based computers.

The product includes the ability to instantly search and view the contents of files from 30 of the most popular software applications, including Lotus 1-2-3, Lotus Symphony, Ashton-Tate's dBase, and WordPerfect, and quickly load the files into their native applications for processing.

Lotus Development Corp. is the leading developer of application software for personal computers and the leading provider of information services delivered on compact disk.

EAST HARTFORD, CT (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - TRC Companies Inc. (AMEX:TRR) announced Friday that metaTRACE Inc., the company's analytical laboratory subsidiary, has been temporarily suspended, effective immediately, from participation in Federal procurement pursuant to a notice from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (''EPA'').

The suspension notice follows a previously announced investigation by the Inspectors General of EPA and the Department of Defense of certain laboratory procedures at metaTRACE. The suspension is temporary pending completion of the investigation and ensuing proceedings.

Although the company has cooperated and intends to continue to cooperate with the investigation, metaTRACE intends to vigorously contest the suspension pursuant to procedures provided by Federal regulations.

The EPA action is surprising in view of the fact that the company has implemented extensive measures to ensure the integrity of the laboratory's analytical processes, including the replacement of certain management personnel and the institution of exacting quality controls.

It is the company's belief that these changes in personnel and operating controls will satisfy the standards of present responsibility required of government contractors.

The action of the agency is inconsistent with the efforts that TRC and metaTRACE have undertaken during the investigative process to ensure its present responsibility as a government contractor. EPA has not fully demonstrated to the company's satisfaction the basis for the suspsension action.

The laboratory is not presently receiving any sample testing work under its contracts with EPA, and metaTRACE has experienced a slowdown in overall business during the last two quarters, particularly in the government contracts portion of its business. Despite the slowdown, TRC anticipates the return to profitability in the September fiscal quarter.

TRC Companies Inc. and its engineering, laboratory and instrument subsidiaries service clients from 14 offices throughout the United States.

DALLAS (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Uranium Resources Inc. announced Friday that it is beginning development of its Rosita uranium project in South Texas.

As previously announced, Uranium Resources Inc. this week completed a public offering in the United States of common equity which resulted in total net proceeds of $4.1 million. Approximately $3.5 million of the proceeds is being used to complete plant construction and wellfield development at the Rosita project.

Initial production is projected to commence in the third quarter 1990 at an annual production level of approximately 1 million pounds. The company expects that the total per pound operating costs at Rosita will be significantly lower than its Kingsville Dome project, where actual costs have been between $11.00 - $12.00 per pound.

More significantly, it expects its marginal operating costs (production costs plus future wellfield development costs) to be approximately $5.00 - $6.00 per pound.

Additionally, the company announced that its Kingsville Dome facility would be put on temporary standby status while the company's technical personnel concentrate on the construction and development activities at Rosita. Subject to market conditions, this project can be brought back up to full production within about three months of initiating the decision to do so.

Raymond G. Larson, president, commenting on the above announcements, said, ''We believe that the utilization of lower cost Rosita production in comparison to Kingsville Dome, plus the ability to purchase at low costs in the spot market, will allow the company to report continued strong financial results in 1990 and subsequent years.

''We project that Rosita's production costs will rank it as one of the lowest cost uranium mines in the world. These low costs, plus the already demonstrated low cost production capacity at Kingsville Dome, will put us in a unique position to be extremely competitive in bidding for new long-term sales contracts.''

The company sells its uranium production to electric utilities, almost exlusively under long-term contracts. During 1988 and 1987, the company signed five uranium-supply contracts of five-to-eight year duration for approximately 7 million pounds of uranium.

At Dec. 31, 1989, the company had in excess of $97 million of contracted delieveries through 1995 under its six long-term contracts, at average selling prices of over $20.00 per pounds.

In a separate action, the company announced that it had granted stock options to 13 employees for 280,000 shares, and reset the exercise price on one option for 200,000 shares, all at an exercise price of $1.50 U.S. per share.

Uranium Resources Inc. produces uranium in South Texas using low cost in situ solution mining techniques. The Dallas-based company's common shares trade on the Toronto Stock Exchange under the symbol URI and on NASDAQ under the symbol URIX. Its units trade on NASDAQ under the symbol URIXU and its warrants trade on NASDAQ under the symbol URIXW.

BIRMINGHAM, AL (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - SouthTrust Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS: SOTR) and Jefferson Federal Savings and Loan have signed a letter of intent for Jefferson Federal to be purchased by SouthTrust Corp., announced Wallace D. Malone Jr., chairman of the board and chief executive officer of SouthTrust.

Malone said SouthTrust was especially pleased to have entered into an agreement with Jefferson Federal because of that institution's record of service and stability. All Jefferson Federal locations will be merged into SouthTrust's Alabama banking network, Malone said.

"Jefferson Federal is a well-run company, and we are looking forward to working with the customers and employees of one of Alabama's most respected financial institutions," Malone said.

Robert S. Weatherly Jr., chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Jefferson Federal, said: "Given the current environment for savings and loan associations, we felt it would be in the best interest of our customers and employees to change our operation from a savings and loan to a commcercial banking business.

"Additionally, it appears that present stringent capital requirements relating to the savings and loan industry may significantly inhibit growth and our ability to serve the community, a major concern that the merger will erase. Therefore, the merger will provide additional opportunity to Jefferson Federal and its employees.

"We wanted to be in position to structure the right agreement for Jefferson Federal, and we think that now is the ideal time for us to make this agreement because of our present strength and profitabiltiy," Weatherly said.

Malone said the purchase is expected to be completed by the end of the year. Jefferson Federal, a 97-year-old savings and loan association, reported assets of $750 million on Dec. 31, 1989.

Jefferson Federal operates 28 offices in 10 Alabama counties. Thirteen offices are located in the Birmingham area; other offices are located in Huntsville, Montgomery, Mobile, Arab, Demopolis, Jackson, Monroeville, Greenville and Thomasville.

SouthTrust Corp. operates 41 banks with more than 220 offices in Alabama, Flordia, Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee. SouthTrust's Alabama banking network consists of 28 banks with 178 offices.

TOLEDO, OH (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Healthe Care REIT Inc. (HCRI) announced closing on $6 million of first mortgage financing for a 105-bed nursing and rehabilitation facility located in Alexandria, Va., and $5 million of construction and mini-perm financing for a 47-bed psychiatric hospital and residential treatment facility to be located in St. Clairsville, Ohio.

Two additional financing commitments are scheduled to close within the next few months. Construction financing will convert into permanent loans upon completion of a 110-unit retirement center to be located in Indiana and a 50-bed nursing home with 40 assisted living rooms to be located in Ohio. These two financings represent commitments by HCRI totaling approximately $8,400,000.

HCRI also announced that its board of directors recently approved three additional financings totaling approximately $17,700,000, which commitments should be issued in the near future.

According to Bruce Thompson, chairman and chief executive officer,''There is reason for cautious optimism. The quality and quantity of new applications has increased noticeably in the last few months. We welcome these opportunities and intend to pursue them aggressively.''

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Howell Corp. (NYSE: HWL) announced Friday that its audited net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, were $8,243,000, or $1.72 per share, on revenues of $284,138,000.

The earnings for 1989 represent the company's best performance since 1981. The composition of the 1989 net earnings was: (A) earnings from continuing operations of $4,763,000, or $1 per share; (B) loss from discontinued operations of $312,000, or seven cents per share; and (C) earnings from the cumulative effect of the change in accounting for income taxes of $3,792,000, or 79 cents per share.

For the year ending Dec. 31, 1988, the company suffered a net loss of $28,634,000 or $5.97 per share, on revenues of $235,644,000. The 1988 net loss was composed of: (A) a loss from continuing operations of $5,760,000 or $1.20 per share; (B) a loss from discontinued operations of $10,087,000 or $2.10 per share; and (C) an extraordinary loss of $12,787,000 or $2.67 per share.

The financial results for the fourth quarter of 1989 were net earnings of $2,049,000, or 43 cents per share, on revenues of $78,945,000. The 1989 fourth quarter earnings of 43 cents per share consisted of net earnings of $2,361,000 or 50 cents per share from continuing operations (of which $936,000, or 20 cents per share, is attributable to the recognition of a gain in the sale of the company's Canadian oil and gas assets) and a loss of $312,000, or seven cents per share from discontinued operations.

These results compare favorably with the financial results for the fourth quarter of 1988, when the net loss was $14,141,000, or $2.95 per share, on revenues of $57,575,000. The 1988 fourth quarter loss consisted of net earnings of $326,000, or seven cents per share from continuing operations, a loss of $1,680,000, or 35 cents per share from discontinued operations and an extraordinary loss of $12,787,000, or $2.67 per share.

ELMSFORD, NY (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - V Band Corp. (NASDAQ/NML:VBAN), reported Friday that sales for the first quarter ended Jan. 31 were $5.1 million, a decrease of $906,000 or 15 percent below the first quarter of fiscal 1989.

The decrease was due in part to a $592,000 or 36 percent decrease in sales of overseas voice related products. Additionally, V Band reported a decrease of $675,000 or 16 percent drop in sales of voice related products in North America, due primarily to the continuing instability expressed in the domestic financial services industry.

Contel IPC Inc. and V Band Corp. announced Friday the settlement of all disputes between them arising out of the lawsuit commenced in 1980 by Contel IPC, Inc. against V Band and its founder, Thomas E. Feil.
In connection with the settlement, V Band has paid Contel $2.3 million, the patent at issue has been dedicated to the public, and the parties have released one another from all claims.

V Band plans to introduce its new digital technology in 1990 which will enable users to benefit from the vastly increased speed, capacity and feature set of public network digital services such as T1 and ISDN.

The net loss for the first quarter ended Jan. 31, was $565,000 or (9 cents) per share, compared to a net loss of $611,000 or (9 cents) per share for the same fiscal quarter in 1989. The weighted average shares of common stock outstanding for the three months ended Jan. 31, 1990 and 1989 were 6,594,000 and 6,746,000, respectively.

V Band Corp. designs and manufactures electronic key telephone and data distribution systems used by the world's financial industries in the trading and dealing of stocks, bonds, commodities and currencies; and, by airlines, utilities, railroads, emergency services and the military in communications control centers.

SPARTANBURG, SC (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Synalloy Corp. (ASE:SYO), producer of specialty chemicals, dyestuffs, stainless steel pipe, vessels and process equipment announced Friday that it has cancelled its previously announced authorization to repurchase up to 500,000 shares of its common stock and will commence a self-tender offer for up to 525,000 shares (approximately 14 percent) of its outstanding common stock at a price of $9.50 per share.

It is anticipated that the tender will commence within three weeks and will be open to all shareholders for 20 business days after commencement.

The tender offer was authorized after consideration of the Company's record earnings in 1989 and future prospects which make a repurchase program a good investment for the company and its shareholders.

The Chariot Group Inc., the beneficial owner of 782,600 shares of the Common Stock of Synalloy, has agreed with the Company that Chariot will tender for proration all of the Synalloy shares which it owns; however, the company expects that Chariot will remain Synalloy's largest shareholder after completion of the tender offer with not less than approximately 8 percent of Synalloy's outstanding shares.

Synalloy also announced that it has entered into a standstill agreement with Chariot Group Inc. pursuant to which Chariot, among other things, has agreed that if the self-tender closes, it will not for certain predetermined time periods solicit proxies or seek a change of control of the company.

Synalloy agreed that it will include two representatives designated by Chariot on management's slate of nominees for election to Synalloy's Board of Directors at the 1990 Annual Meeting of Shareholders.

Because of the self-tender, the company has determined to hold its 1990 Annual Meeting of Shareholders on June 22, 1990, which is after the self-tender has been completed.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - BioTechnica International Inc. (NASDAQ:BIOT) Friday reported a net loss of $13.6 million, or $1.61 per share, on revenues of $30 million for the year ended December 31, 1989. This is compared with a net loss of $10.8 million, or $1.47 per shares on revenues of $12.5 million in 1988. The increased revenues in 1989 resulted primarily from the acquisition of the Schultz and Donley Seed Companies in January 1989.

For the fourth quarter ended December 31, 1989, the company reported a net loss of $5 million, or 60 cents per share on revenues of $4.2 million. Included in this fourth quarter loss and the net loss for the year is a charge of approximately $600,000 associated with a reorganization of the company's research and management structure.

The 1989 net loss includes non-cash expenses totaling approximately $4.2 million, resulting in a cash loss from operations of $9.4 million. Included in this amount are the proprietary research and development costs expended in the plant science area which were funded by an infusion of equity totaling $6.25 million from a major U.S. institutional investor under a four-year funding arrangement through 1991.

BioTechnica ended the year with cash and short-term investments totaling $32 million, including the $23 million recent financing.

LONG BEACH, CA. (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - McDonnell Douglas Finance Corp.'s (NYSE:MD) East Region office has provided a $4.4 million take-out loan for The Shoppes at Bayport shopping center on Long Island, N.Y.

Gary Q. Kokalari of KMK Realty Capital represented the borrower, KLM Realty Associates of New York. The five-year, non-recourse loan was structured with a fixed interest rate and stepped pay rates.

The CVS Drug-anchored center contains 32,000 square feet and is located in Bayport, within Suffolk County, N.Y. The project was completed in late 1988 and is occupied by twelve tenants.

According to Jeff Monahan, McDonnell Douglas East Region loan representative, ''Shoppes at Bayport is another example of providing our borrower with maximum loan dollars on an attractive, well-located and efficiently designed center.

''I am looking forward to opening our Washington, D.C., office in June. I expect our presence on the East Coast will only enhance the popularity of MDFC's fixed rate program as an alternative to floating rate debt.''

JASPER, AL. (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - First Federal of Alabama (NASDAQ/NMS:FFAL), F.S.B., Jasper, Alabama, announced Friday that the United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit has affirmed the decision of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama to enjoin Donaldson B. Lee and First Federal Acquisition Corp. from proceeding with a tender offer to purchase additional shares in the bank.

The bank's charter, as approved by the Office of Thrift Supervision and the Bank's members, prohibits any person from offering to acquire or acquiring in excess of 10 percent of its stock during the first five years following its conversion to a federal stock savings bank in December 1986.

On Jan. 3, 1990, the United States District Court enjoined the tender offer. As a result of the decision by the Court of Appeals, Lee and First Federal Acquisition Corp. continue to be permanently enjoined from proceeding with the tender offer at any time during the first five years following the Bank's stock conversion or prior to such time as the Bank's charter is amended to remove the limitation on greater than 10 percent acquisitions, whichever occurs sooner.

Commenting on the decision, Al H. Simmons, chairman of the board and president of the bank, stated: ''The bank regarded the tender offer as illegal under its charter. The board of directors authorized the lawsuit against Mr. Lee and First Federal Acquisition Corp. because it believed that it had a duty to protect and enforce the Bank's charter as approved by the bank's members. We are pleased that the federal court decisions support our determination in this matter.''

With assets of $193 million, the bank's common stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol ''FFAL.''

DANIA, FL (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - Alco International Group Inc. (NASDAQ:ALIG) Friday announced that the Asset Purchase Agreement between Alco and JMI Enterprises Inc. (''JMI'') has been terminated.

In 1989 Alco entered into an Agreement to purchase the business and certain assets of JMI and its subsidiaries. In January 1990, the Asset Purchase Agreement terminated through passage of time before Alco could finalize financing to complete the acquisition.

According to Russell P. McCain, chairman and chief executive officer of Alco, although formal agreements between Alco and JMI have lapsed, JMI has indicated that it would reopen the transaction if Alco was able to obtain certain financing.

McCain noted, ''We are now reviewing all of our options and may not, in fact, attempt to proceed with the acquisition of JMI. We believe significant opportunities for Alco's future growth are offered in the transportation industry and we are currently examining other potential acquisitions.''

As of Dec. 31, 1989, Alco had capitalized $459,524 related to the proposed acquisition of JMI. If Alco does not intend to complete the acquisition, the company will take a charge to earnings in the second quarter of 1990 of all, or a substantial portion, of the capitalized costs.

In a separate matter, Alco announced that the plaintiff in Douglas Sinclair v. Universal Alco Limited, Alco Marine Agents Inc. and International Group Inc., a suit arising out of a road accident in Freeport, Bahamas on Oct. 24, 1988, has voluntarily dismissed the action without prejudice in Florida. As previously disclosed, Alco had been informed by its insurance carrier that the company's liability policy does not cover damages in respect to judgments obtained outside of the Bahamas, which the company had intended to contest.

Subsequently, Alco has been informed by the plaintiff that he will refile the action in Freeport, Bahamas. Upon such filing in the Bahamas, where the company believes it is fully insured, Alco will tender the case to its insurance carrier.

Alco International Group Inc., through its subsidiaries and affiliates, is engaged in the transportation of trailerized, containerized and on-deck cargos from a leased port terminal facility at Dania, Florida to the Bahamas Islands, islands of the Caribbean (excluding Puerto Rico) and countries on the north coast of South America and on the east coast of Central America.

NEW HARTFORD, NY (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - PAR Technology Corp. (NYSE: PTC) Friday reported financial results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989.

Revenues for 1989 totaled $92.4 million, an increase of 17 percent compared to $78.7 million in 1988. Net income for the year, including a favorable change in accounting for income taxes of $ .25 million, increased to $2.4 million, vs. $1.1 million for 1988, an increase of 122 percent. Earnings per share were 31 cents in 1989, greater by 121 percent compared to 14 cents per share in the previous year.

PAR's commercial business grew from $53 million in 1988 to $65 million in 1989, representing a 23 percent increase. Dr. John Sammon, CEO, said, ''That in spite of increased competition among point of sale suppliers, PAR was able to improve both revenues and profits over 1988. This growth is due to the Norand acquisition in July 1988 and the direct result of our R&D investments for both the System 2000, the new point-of-sale system, and PAR's new Data Collection System for the industrial marketplace.''

PAR's government business revenues increased to $27.3 million from $25.6 million in 1988, a 6 percent increase. The government operations margins decreased from $2.2 million to $1.2 million. Sammon said, ''The decline was attributed to two reasons: unexpected cost overruns on a few fixed-price contracts, and a change in allocation of certain costs between the company's business segments.''

Sammon also stated, ''That our most significant achievement in 1989 was the establishment of PAR as a development business partner of IBM. This new association was the culmination of intensive efforts over several years with the objective of developing a whole new business area for PAR.''

He also said, ''PAR's overall outlook for 1990 is for modest growth in its established businesses of commercial fast foods and government defense and that looking beyond 1990, the company anticipates success in the new, higher-growth opportunity fields marketing Data Collection Systems to the Computer Integrated Manufacturing (CIM) market and Q-Scan Systems to baby food and other food processors.''

PAR also announced that it has repurchased a large block of common stock from one institutional shareholder at $4 per share. The company believes that the present stock price is an excellent value.

PAR is a supplier of transaction, processing information systems to the food service and convenience store industries, and to the CIM market; and a contractor providing computer-based system design and development services to the federal government.

BRENTWOOD, TN (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - George L. McTavish, president and chief executive officer of Comdata Holdings Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS: CMDT), Friday announced that the company has completed a private placement of 8.1 million shares of unregistered common stock at $4.50 per share.

This private equity placement with certain institutional investors raised $36.5 million in new capital for the company. Proceeds will be used to support Comdata's existing businesses, finance its future growth, including acquisitions, and provide for general corporate purposes.

New investors in the company include Prudential Venture Capital, the Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement Board, Morgan Capital Corp. (a subsidiary of J.P. Morgan & Co. Inc.), and Sears Pension Trust. Two institutional investors, Welsh Carson Anderson & Stowe and Chancellor Capital Management, increased their existing investments in Comdata through this private placement.

McTavish noted that, because Comdata managed this private placement itself, all of the proceeds were retained by the company. "We are pleased with the confidence shown by these investors in Comdata and its future," he said. "This private offering more than doubles the company's equity base and will help take advantage of opportunities to expand existing businesses and develop a presence in new, complementary areas."

Following the private placement, Comdata will have a total equity of approximately $68 million.

Comdata is a leading supplier of funds transfer, cash advance, permits, check guarantee, and telecommunications services to the transportation, retail, and leisure industries. The company's shares are traded in the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol CMDT.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 9) BUSINESS WIRE - American Magnetics Corp. (OTC: AMMG) announced Friday the results of its first quarter, ended Dec. 31, 1989, which incorporates the first quarter ended Nov. 30, 1989, of its Damon Corp. unit.

For the quarter, total revenues were $55.3 million, as compared to $4.2 million in the same period in 1988, and operating profits were $5.9 million, compared to $28,000 in the first quarter of the prior year.

American Magnetics said its increased sales and operating profits were principally generated by Damon's medical services business. For the quarter this year, the company reported a net loss of $815,000, or 16 cents per share, compared to a loss of $160,000, or 3 cents per share, in the year ago period.

The net loss for the quarter partially reflects substantial amortization of goodwill associated with the acquisition of Damon.

As previously reported, American Magnetics has changed its year end to Sept. 30 to more closely coincide with the Aug. 31 year end of Damon Corp.

As a results of the acquisition of Damon Corp. by a subsidiary of a limited partnership of which American Magnetics is the sole general partner, the financial statements of American Magnetics include the results of operations of Damon since May 30, 1989.

Robert L. Rosen, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of American Magnetics, noted that the acquisition of Damon resulted in a significant change in the composition of American Magnetics' businesses, with Damon's medical services business becoming the principal business segment of American Magnetics.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 9) COMTEX - The Office of Thrift Supervision has rejected a capital restoration plan aimed at attaining minimum capital requirements for NCF Financial Corp. of Charlotte, NC.

NCF and its subsidiary, North Carolina Federal Savings and Loan Association, submitted the plan in January because they did not meet new regulatory capital requirements, according to a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The OTS ruling increases the likelihood of North Carolina Federal eventually being taken over by the Resolution Trust Corporation.

The OTS said it rejected the plan because it did not believe North Carolina Federal would be able to comply with the capital standards by Dec. 31, 1994.

As a result of the OTS's ruling, North Carolina Federal is prohibited from increasing its asset size and remains subject to a number of special operating guidelines under a Dec. 1, 1989, consent agreement with the OTS.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) COMTEX - Twin Star Productions Inc. filed a Form 8-K with the SEC stating on Feb. 27, 1990 the company was named along with four other defendants in a complaint filed by Media Arts International Ltd.

Media Arts allegations against the company include copyright infringement, trademark infringement, violations of the Trademark Act and unfair competition and, with respect to certain defendants other than Twin Star, breach of contract relating to the "Incredible Breakthroughs" program featuring "Liquid Lustre" car polish. Although the program airs in television time slots purchased by Twin Star, the program was created and produced by other defendants in the litigation unrelated to Twin Star.

Twin Star reports if Media Arts receives a significant award, or if Media Arts obtains injunctive relief and any necessary alterations to the program cannot be made or Twin Star is unable to replace the Liquid Lustre product with other successful products, it could have a material adverse affect on Twin Star's results of operations and financial condition. However, Twin Star says it believes it has substantial defenses to Media Arts' claims and intends to vigorously defend the actions.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

On Feb. 28, 1990, Ronald C. Nowling and Gail P. Nowling filed suit against Aero and Pacific for declaratory judgment and injunctive relief.

The Nowlings petitioned the District Court for the Parish of Orleans for the court to declare that the Louisiana Control Share Acquisition Act applies to shares of Aero's voting securities and the number of shares of Aero's voting securities to which it applies and that the act applies to Triton's acquisition.

On March 2, 1990 the defendants removed the Nowling suit from the Louisiana state court to the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana.

The defendants also filed with the court a notice of collateral proceeding, notifying the court of related suits which had been adjudicated by Judge Martin L.C. Feldman.

The Nowling Suit was subsequently transferred to Judge Feldman's court.

On March 6, 1990, the defendants filed an application for a temporary restraining order to restrain the Nowlings and Robert L. Starer, a director and former CEO of Aero, from seeking to apply the terms of the act to the voting of shares at any shareholder meeting of Aero.

On March 6, 1990, the defendants filed an original answer and counterclaim against the Nowlings.

TAIPEI (MARCH 9) - Taiwan's ruling Kuomintang (KMT) has set conditions for lifting a four-decade ban on direct trade and investment in China for two Chinese provinces, a local newspaper reported Friday.

The Independence Evening Post quoted unnamed sources as saying that the KMT would lift the trade and investment ban on the southeastern provinces of Fujian and Guangdong if Beijing declared them a "non-combat zone."

Taiwan would also demand that China not attempt to block its attempts to gain membership in international organizations as a precondition for starting direct trade and investment ties, the newspaper reported.

It said the decision was made under pressure from an alliance of rebel KMT leaders who planned to challenge Lee Teng-hui's re-election as president later this month.

The alliance would soon release a platform which included direct trade with China, the paper added.

Indirect trade between Taiwan and China totalled 3.48 billion U.S. dollars in 1989, 28.02 percent up from the previous year, according to Taiwan's Board of Foreign Trade.

The 1989 figure accounted for 2.94 percent of Taiwan's total foreign trade and showed a 2.21 billion dollar surplus in the island's favor, the board has said.

Taiwan businessmen, in defiance of the ban, have already invested more than one billion U.S. dollars in China, according to the Chunghwa Institution for Economic Research. About two-thirds of the investment was in Fujian, which has a similar language dialect and is just across the Taiwan Strait.

Of the total, about 400 million dollars was invested in 1989 alone, the quasi-official institute said.

Taiwan has been technically at war with the communists in Beijing since the KMT fled to Taiwan in 1949 after losing a civil war on the Chinese mainland.

In November 1987, Taiwan lifted a ban on travel to China for family reunions, but the ban on direct trade and investment remains.

Taipei has been seeking entry to a number of international bodies, including the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), to break a diplomatic isolation after its withdrawal from the United Nations in October 1971.

PORT MORESBY (MARCH 9) - Papua New Guinea's cabinet has approved a fishing agreement with the Soviet Union and the accord will be signed soon, Prime Minister Rabbie Namaliu said Friday.

He did not give a date but said that Foreign Minister Michael Somare was authorised to sign the pact, which allows Soviet fishermen to operate in Papua New Guinea waters.

In return, the Soviet Union pledged to provide financing for fisheries projects in this country, Mr. Namaliu said. Further details were not immediately available.

The deal is the second major advance in relations between the two countries, following agreement on establishment of a Soviet diplomatic mission that is to open here soon.

The fishing accord capped negotiations that were begun last year. Talks here in August ended with agreement in principle to allow Soviet trawlers into Papua New Guinea waters.

Mr. Namaliu said the agreement, which still had to be ratified by the Papua New Guinea parliament, was in line with his government's policy of broadening the nation's economic base.

"It is anticipated that apart from the usual licence fees, the PNG Government will generate additional revenue through services ancillary to fishing activities of Soviet vessels, such as refuelling," he said.

Papua New Guinea is already a party to the Pacific island nations' multilateral fisheries agreement with the United States.

The Soviet Union has had only mixed success in increasing its ties with South Pacific states. Previous fishing agreements with Kiribati and Vanuatu both lapsed and were not renewed.

Moscow signed a major deal with Australia last month that will grant Soviet fishing ships access to selected ports in return for moves to boost exports of Australian commodities to the Soviet Union.

KUALA LUMPUR (MARCH 9) - The government will impose levies and quotas on selected species of sawn timber and veneer exported from peninsular Malaysia on a staggered basis beginning on June 1, a top official said Friday.

Primary Industries Minister Lim Keng Yaik told a news conference that the move would ensure adequate supply of raw materials to local timber-based industries.

"We are not creating a cartel. This is not an exercise to raise prices though prices will go up," Dr. Lim said.

The Malaysian levy rates are lower than rates imposed by Indonesia, and except for rubberwood where the quota comes into effect on June 1, export curbs on other species would only be enforced if the levies proved ineffective.

The government will start collecting export levy on rubberwood sawn timber and dressed timber on June 1 because they are the most popular with local furniture manufacturers.

Nineteen other species would be subjected to levy on September 1.

Mr. Lim said the money collected would go to a fund to expedite the development of the wood-based industries and to fight an anti-tropical timber campaign mounted by Western environmentalists.

The environmentalists say that uncontrolled logging in Sarawak state is destroying ancient rainforests and contributing to a global environmental crisis but Malaysia says the campaign is influenced by trade protectionism.

"The government is determined to keep raw materials for dowstream processing," Mr. Lim said, adding that raw material supply was the main concern of investors from Sweden, Denmark, South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore who wanted to set up furniture factories here.

Malaysia earned 160 million dollars (59.3 million U.S.) from furniture exports last year and was expected to easily reach a 1995 target of 400 million dollars (148 million U.S.).

KUALA LUMPUR (MARCH 9) - Malaysia on Friday slammed criticism of its unwillingness to join an international cocoa pact and told consumers, traders and buyers in France to stop taking producers in the Ivory Coast for a ride.

"They have been taking the Ivory Coast for a ride for so long. It is about time they give better prices for cocoa," Minister of Primary Industries Lim Keng Yaik told reporters.

French Cooperation Minister Jacques Pelletier had said in Paris on Wednesday that cocoa prices had started to fall the day Malaysia started producing the commodity on a large scale, disorganising the market.

He said that cocoa prices had now reached a ridiculously low level.

Newcomer Malaysia produced 200,000 tonnes of cocoa or 10 per cent of world production last year and is the world's fourth largest producer after the Ivory Coast, Brazil and Ghana.

Although traders and International Cocoa Organisation (ICCO) member countries have repeatedly urged Malaysia to join them to stabilise prices, Malaysia has stayed out, saying the pact is inherently weak.

"If they (the traders) want to help they should hold an 'Abidjan Cocoa Party' just like the Boston Tea Party," Dr. Lim said in reference to the 18th century incident in which American colonists dumped tea into Boston Harbor to protest unfair British duties on the commodity.

Dr. Lim said he would be leaving for Abidjan at the end of the month for talks with Ivory Coast leaders.

"I am going there to show that Malaysia is just as concerned about the cocoa situation and market situation even though we are not a member of the ICCO," he said.

Cocoa prices fell to their lowest levels in 14 years in early February in oversupplied markets, with world stocks up to 1.3 million tonnes. Annual global supply is 200,000 tonnes in excess of demand.

The cocoa market is without a support system after the ICCO stoped support buying in February 1988.

Hong Kong (MARCH 9) - Figures released by the Hong Kong government Friday show that were it not for a 19 percent rise in re-exports of goods from China last year, the colony would have faced a faster pace of import growth than export growth.

The volume of domestic exports rose by only 3 percent in 1989, while imports rose by 9 percent. The prices of domestic exports and re-exports rose by 3 percent and 6 percent respectively, while import prices rose by 4 per cent.

This pushed up the terms of trade index by 1 percent. The index measures the ratio of export, compared with import prices.

The biggest declines in exports were marked by a 41 percent fall in the value of radio exports and a 22 percent decrease in the value of domestic appliance exports.

On the plus side, electronic component exports rose by 18 percent and textile fabrics export sales were up by 10 percent.

A 42 percent increase in the value of fuel imports was the biggest increase item on the import bill which was also boosted by a 23 percent rise in the value of imported consumer goods.

The figures released on Friday are intended to show changes in Hong Kong's terms of trade. The actual trade figures for 1989 were released earlier in the year.

MUNICH, West Germany (MARCH 9) - West Germany's leading insurance group Allianz said Friday that it would increase capital and issue a bonus to shareholders to mark its centenary this year.

Allianz is to increase its capital by 75 million Deutsche marks (44.6

PARIS (MARCH 9) - French bank Banque Indosuez said Friday it had acquired British pension fund and unit trust concern Gartmore Investment Management Ltd. for 140 million pounds (233 million dollars).

Gartmore's parent company, British finance group British and Commonwealth (B and C), had said in November that it was putting Gartmore up for sale.

Banque Indosuez had said on Monday that it was hoping to acquire Gartmore, but that Japanese and West German firms were also interested.

Indosuez is also to acquire slightly less than a third of London and Strathclyde, an investment company managed by Gartmore, for 14.8 million pounds (24.6 million dollars), but said it planned to pass this on "to friendly hands."

The bank, part of the Suez group, said Friday that the Gartmore acquisition would double the amount of investment capital it handled.

As of the end of December, Indosuez was managing a little more than seven billion pounds (11.6 million dollars) and Gartmore 6.7 billion pounds (11.1 million dollars).

Indosuez said it had bought Gartmore as part of the bank's moves to develop its European activities and its investment management sector.

The bank said that it would group Gartmore's activities with Indosuez' asset management activities in France, Asia and the United States, within a holding company, Gartmore Indosuez Asset Management.

NAIROBI (MARCH 9) - Nearly 70 per cent of the 445,000 Ethiopian refugees in central and southern Somalia want to settle there, and only 101,000 are asking to be repatriated, a spokesman for the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees said here Friday.

About 3,000 wanted to retain refugee status, he said in a report on the results of a three-month registration exercise in four camps.

The 336,000 choosing to stay in Somalia would be given seven months' supply of food, and those returning to Ethiopia would get a year's rations, the UNHCR said.

Most of the refugees arrived during the 1977-78 Ogaden war between Ethiopia and Somalia, and the reasons for their exile no longer pertain.

The two countries signed a peace agreement in 1988, and 10,000 Ethiopians went home.

The UNHCR has spent on average 40 million dollars a year to feed and shelter the refugees.

Excluded from the census because of regional insecurity were the 140,000 Ethiopians in camps in the north, where the army is fighting rebels. The UNHCR last month launched a six-month emergency feeding program for them at the request of the Somali Government. It had the previous September told Mogadishu it could no longer supply the camps because it was unable to supervise distribution of the food.

BRUSSELS (MARCH 9) - The EEC should contribute up to 2.4 billion dollars a year to a united Germany, to help East Germany's lagging regions and agriculture catch up with the rest of the EEC, European Commission President Jacques Delors has suggested.

Mr. Delors, meeting on Monday with European Economic Community foreign ministers, estimated that "between 1.5 billion and two billion ECU's" (European Currency Units), equal to 1.8 billion to 2.4 billion dollars, would need to be added to the EEC's annual budget to cope with German unification, a diplomat said Friday.

The money would be allocated to the EEC's structural funds, which help economically backward areas or regions of high unemployment, and to the Community's agriculture budget, to provide investment support and production subsidies for farmers, Mr. Delors was quoted as saying.

Mr. Delors did not say how long the suggested assistance should continue, the diplomat added.

It was the first time that Mr. Delors, head of the EEC's executive, had put forward an estimate of the impact of German unification on the Community's budget.

The question is likely to prove tricky for the Community, as only two years ago it ended an annual squabble about its budget by agreeing progressive spending increases until the end of 1993.

By the end of 1992, the budget should account for a maximum of 1.3 percent of total gross national product (GNP), representing the total value of goods and services.

Vienna (MARCH 9) - The secretary-general of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries painted Friday a rosy future for oil producers but warned that a probable dwindling of reserves in the mid-1990s required steps now to avert a crisis.

Opec secretary-General Subroto, speaking at the cartel's Vienna headquarters, said Third-World industrialisaton, economic changes in Eastern Europe and the achievement of a European Community common market would all contribute to higher oil consumption this decade.

Simultaneous factors serving to brake consumer demand would likely include environmental measures and government tax policy in various countries, Subroto said.

Predicting a drop in exploitable crude oil reserves at some point in the mid-1990s, Subroto proposed a dialogue between producing and consuming nations to keep shocks to the international oil market from developing into full-scale crises.

It was vital, he said, that consumers know whether their needs can continue to be met and that producers receive assurances about demand for their products. The first step needed was more two-way communication, he said, adding that Opec was reluctant to take the initiative on the issue for fear of adverse consumer reaction. dpa jc 091406 mrz 90

PARIS (MARCH 9) - French insurance company Cardif SA, a Paribas subsidiary, said Friday its net consolidated profit totalled 152.1 million French francs (27.16 million dollars) last year, 62 percent up on 1988.

Cardif, a member of the Paribas banking and financial services group, showed an operating profit of 130.4 million francs, up 40 percent from the previous year.

Consolidated turnover was up 16.5 percent at 6.2 billion French francs (1.1 billion dollars).

The jump in net profit was attributed partly to the October sale by Cardif of a 10 percent stake in the Fructivie insurance company.

The board, which is to propose payment of an unchanged dividend, has decided to boost Cadif's capital to 305.4 million francs from the current 254.5 million francs, offering shareholders one new share for five old ones.

TOKYO (MARCH 9) - Japan's Fuji Heavy Industries Ltd. said Friday its operating losses were expected to swell to 23 billion yen (153 million dollars) in the year to March, more than seven times its initial estimate.

The company, which makes Subaru cars, heavy machinery and aircraft, said the revised estimate reflected lower-than-expected car exports to the United States, a downward revision in domestic car sales and increased spending.

Fuji suffered a loss of four billion yen (27 million dollars) in the six months to September. But it estimated late last year that its losses for the full year would be only three billion yen (19.9 million dollars) due to an improved performance in the second half.

The revised estimates would mark the company's first full-year loss since the company was listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange 30 years ago.

The company, which ranks third among Japanese manufactureres of small cars and also produces popular four-wheel drives, said in a statement that sales were revised from 700 billion yen (4.7 billion dollars) to 660 billion yen (4.4 billion dollars).

Estimates for car exports to the United States were revised downwards from 130,000 units to 95,000 units, causing losses of some 12 billion yen (80 million dollars). Additional losses of four billion yen (27 million dollars) were anticipated from a downward revision in domestic car sales, it said.

The budget for spending on new models would meanwhile be four billion yen (27 million dollars) higher than initially expected.

Fuji, an affiliate of Nissan Motor Co. and Industrial Bank of Japan Ltd., did not comment on its joint venture in the United States with leading truck maker Isuzu Motors Ltd. which in turn has close links to General Motors.

Industry sources said the troubled company had already started talks with Nissan, Japan's biggest carmaker after Toyota, and the Industrial Bank about possible financial reconstruction. Nissan holds around 4.2 percent of Fuji while the bank's stake is around four percent.

BONN (MARCH 9) - The prices of robusta coffees, produced mainly in West Africa and Asia, may edge up soon, according to the latest outlook report published Friday by West German trader Bernhard Rothfos.

The report said the outlook was good for robustas because of the growing price gap with arabicas, whose prices have shot up in recent weeks.

But the surge has so far had little effect on robustas, which in any case will remain "in crisis", according to Rothfos.

LONDON (MARCH 9) - Customs officers seized 50 kilograms (110 lbs) of heroin aboard a lorry from Turkey in the biggest haul of the drug ever made in Britain, it was announced Friday.

The drug was found Thursday when the lorry left the cross-Channel ferry at Ramsgate. The driver, said to be of Turkish nationality, was still being questioned Friday.

The drug was found hidden in the fuel tank during a routine check of the vehicle, which was carrying a consignment of carpets. Officials said the drug was worth some four million pounds (about 6.6 million dollars).

LONDON (MARCH 9) - Major creditors of U.S. brokers Drexel Burnham Lambert whose London stockbroking and commodities businesses are being wound up, should recover most of their money, the administrators said Friday.

Tim Hayward and Phil Wallace of the accountancy firm KPMG Marwick McLintock said repayment of other debts would depend on the U.S. parent firm's ability to pay 100 million dollars owed to the group's London branch.

In London, Drexel Burnham Lambert Holdings, Drexel Burnham Lambert Securities and Drexel Burnham Lambert Ltd are being wound up following a move by Drexel Burnham Lambert of the United States to file for bankruptcy protection.

The failure of one of the leading promoters of so-called junk bonds has led to massive layoffs in the firm. A further 40 employees are to be axed next week in London, where the group's staff has already been cut to 100 people from 300.

In Britain, gross assets of the group's commodity trading businesses are estimated at 140 million dollars, as many current positions have been transfered to other brokerages.

Negotiations are under way to sell the group's metals futures assets, but could last several weeks, the administrators said.

PARIS (MARCH 9) - France's biggest car insurer, Mutuelle Assurance des Commercants et Industriels de France (MACIF), said Friday it planned to launch a European holding company with a Belgian, a Swedish and an Italian partner.

MACIF and its three partners - Prevoyance Sociale of Belgium, Folksam of Sweden and Italy's Unipol - agreed the move at a meeting in Luxembourg last month as a response to the European Economic Community's plan to form a single market by 1993, MACIF president Jacques Vandier said.

Another reason was to gear up for new oportunities in eastern Europe. "We have enormous capital available, and we wish to intervene in the European social economy," Mr. Vandier said. "That could mean forming an insurance company in Hungary, or helping a cooperaive in Spain."

MACIF posted sales of 8.7 billion francs (1.5 billion dollars) last year.

Prevoyance Sociale is a Belgian insurance cooperative with sales equivalent to about five billion French francs (892 million dollars), Mr. Vandier said.

Unipol is Italy's sixth biggest insurer, and Folksam ranks third among Swedish insurers with sales roughly equivalent to MACIF's.

BRUSSELS (MARCH 9) - Unemployment in the European Economic Community is continuing to decline, the agency Eurostat said Friday, reporting that joblessness in January affected 8.6 percent of the EEC's working population, a 0.1 percent fall over December.

"We now have the possibility over a few years to eliminate mass unemployment as we have known it since the end of the 70s," said the commissioner in charge of economic affairs, Henning Christophersen.

This could be achieved through economic policy coordination between EEC members and the "opening markets" of central and eastern Europe, he said.

In the past six months, the unemployment rate in the EEC fell from 8.9 to 8.6 percent, the official statistics agency reported. The rate for people younger than 25 has declined from 17.2 to 16.3 percent.

The figure represents a weighted average of national workforces. The statistics for Greece were not available, Eurostat said.

TOKYO (MARCH 9) - Japan is to ease controls on exports to communist countries next month with a simplified licencing system for more than half the products now subject to screening, a government official said Friday.

The official, from the International Trade and Industry Ministry, said the new system would apply to 118 items ranging from personal computers and semiconductors to telecommunications equipment and various alloys.

But a further 99 items would be excluded from the new list including machine tools, supercomputers, aircraft equipment, and machinery to manufacture integrated circuits and glass fibres, the official said.

Under the new system, effective April 1, Japanese exporters will be able to apply for a so-called general bulk licence valid for up to three years, the official said. Exports are currently screened on a case-by-case basis.

The industrial products affected are among those controlled by the Paris-based Coordinating Committee for Export Control (Cocom), which includes members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation and Japan.

Cocom regulations also affect exports of arms and nuclear technology to communist countries, although these controls do not affect Japan as its post-war constitution already outlaws such exports.

The strict regulations governing exports to communist countries were a major issue when Japan's Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu visited Hungary and Poland in January. Officials from these and other countries argue that such restrictions go against the spirit of free trade and hamper economic development.

Japan relaxed some controls on exports to China in 1987, arguing that the neighbouring communist giant was important to Western security and should therefore be viewed as an exception to other communist countries.

In November, Japan's foreign ministry said the relaxation would continue, despite a freeze on aid and government contacts in the wake of the Tiananmen massacre, but refused to ease curbs on Eastern Europe.

PARIS (MARCH 9) - French hospital interns voted Friday to end a two-month-old partial strike to press demands for the right to set up in private practice and better working conditions.

The doctors said in a statement that they had decided to end the strike although they opposed an agreement to be signed later Friday by French social security authorities and a doctors' union, the Federation des Medecins de France (FMF).

They argued that the agreement excluded most hospital doctors from private practice, but said they would regroup and try to press their demands by other means in the next few months.

PARIS (MARCH 9) - South Korea and four other countries are to join a multi-billion-dollar European bank to promote the private sector in eastern European countries moving towards democracy, French sources said Friday.

The other four are Egypt, Israel, Liechtenstein and Morocco.

All five are to join treasury and finance ministry officials of the 34 founding countries of the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD), including the United States, Japan and leading west European states, for a two-day negotiating session in Paris on Saturday and Sunday.

The talks, which will also include two European institutions, were expected to make substantial headway towards a deal on the statutes of the new institution, the size of its capital, its lending criteria and operational framework, according to officials who have been negotiating here since mid-January.

The countries already involved include the 24 industrialized countries of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) plus Cyprus and Malta, and eight east European countries, including the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia.

The two European institutions are the European Economic Community's executive Commission and the European Investment Bank (EIB).

The United States and Japan were reported earlier this week to have agreed a compromise proposal giving the Soviet Union access to EBRD loans in proportion to its shareholding in the bank, likely to be set at six per cent.

They had earlier opposed moves to make the Soviet Union eligible for EBRD loans on the grounds that Moscow had made insufficient progress towards democratization.

KABUL (MARCH 9) - Less than 100 feet (30 metres) may have separated victory from defeat in the abortive coup d'etat mounted here against the Soviet-backed government of Afghan President Najibullah this week.

That is how far away General Najibullah was when a MiG-21 jet piloted by a rebel dropped the first bomb on the grounds of the presidential palace.

The bomb hit the nearest security tower outside the Gulkhana palace office of Mr. Najibullah, who was at that time in radio contact with coup leaders trying to persuade them to give up the attempt, officers said Friday.

He was immediately whisked away from his office, which faces the 10-foot (three-metre) high security wall housing the tower, to a safer place, they said.

The tower was reduced to rubble by the bomb hit, which destroyed a stretch of the security wall.

MiG 21's and SU-22's piloted by rebel officers flew several sorties over the palace during the day and night of heavy fighting which followed the first air raid at 1.30 in the afternoon Tuesday.

But they failed to score a direct hit, officers said.

On Friday, journalists who were given a tour of the palace grounds saw cranes and bulldozers at work clearing the rubble and levelling the earth.

Trucks were carrying away debris as workers repaired damaged electricity cables and water pipes.

"We used special anti-aircraft tactics," a military official said. "We did not allow the planes to come near the president's office. Our anti-aircraft guns were very active."

The vice president's offices, also located on the grounds of the presidential palace cpmplex, suffered some of the worst damage.

The building's glass roof was totally destroyed and at least 17 bombs dropped in the vicinity of the vice president's office building.

Reporters were not allowed to go inside any of the buildings in the palace grounds, most of whose windows were boarded over to cover shattered glass.

Manama (MARCH 9) - Saudi Arabia and Iraq have been expanding their crude oil output capacities in order to impose their ''moderate'' policies during a meeting of Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (Opec) ministers in Vienna on March 16.

A western diplomat told the German Press Agency dpa that Riyadh and Baghdad wanted the production quota accord, which was agreed upon last November among the 13 Opec member states, to remain untouched.

The grouping agreed then to limit its output to 22 million barrels per day in the first half of 1990, and it targetted the price of 18 dollars per barrel.

But countries such as Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates (Uae) overproduced, thus leading to an estimated overall Opec output of about 24 million bd. Nevertheless, the average spot price of seven crudes rose from 18.84 dollars per barrel in December to about 20 dollars per barrel in February.

''If some Opec states unilaterally overproduce after the Vienna meeting in order to make more money, then the Saudis and Iraqis will hit back and do the same, a policy which would force oil prices down,'' the diplomat said.

''Only a few other states may succeed in keeping their income steady, but most Opec members who do not have large output capacities in reserve will be badly hurt,'' he added.

Gulf-based economic experts pointed out that the oil price rise this winter was exceptional due to normal seasonal factors, regional shortages in the United States and refinery breakdowns. There has been neither any real lack of crude supplies nor a sharp increase in world oil consumption, they added.

The oil market ''could turn around quite rapidly once the product refining and distribution problems are resolved'', the authoritative weekly Middle East Economic Survey recently warned.

ABIDJAN (MARCH 9) - The Ivory Coast government has announced several price reductions in efforts to convince the public that upcoming salary cuts will not slash purchasing power.

Hundreds of Ivorians took to the streets last week in protest against planned civil service salary cuts of 10 per cent and more, but they did not turn out in force here Friday as urged by opposition leaders Thursday.

The price reductions for public services and staple items, publicized widely in the official media Friday, are to take effect from March 31.

They include cuts ranging between four and 20 percent on rent, rice, sugar, cooking oil, local meat, frozen fish, electricity, water, medicines and soap.

Fuel prices were reduced by between 4.6 and 12.5 percent, customs duties on vehicles were dropped from 103 to 83 percent, cement by seven per cent and school supplies, 6.5 to 17 percent.

The ministers of finance, industry and transport announced the cuts on state radio and television, adding that the government was still negotiating with the professions on further cuts for medical consultations fabric and private school fees.

Analysts say the price cuts were meant to soften the blow of contested wage "sacrifices" of at least 10 per cent for civil service salaries over 100,000 CFA francs (350 dollars) a month.

The government has also talked of a 10 percent "solidarity tax" to be levied on private sector income.

ANGERS, France (MARCH 9) - Saab-Scania AB will pump 1.7 billion francs (300 million dollars) into its planned truck plant here, Life Stling, managing director of the Scania group, said Friday.

Saab-Scania representatives announced the plan Thursday, saying it would create some 4,000 jobs.

Mr. Stling said Saab-Scania, the world's fifth biggest truck maker, aims to boost its production capacity to 40,000 trucks a year. The group currently produces 35,600 vehicles a year worldwide.

The new plant, with an initial capacity of about 7,900 trucks a day, would double the group's European production capacity, Mr. Stling said.

The first step will be to invest four million francs (715,000 dollars) in an assembly plant on the site of an existing International Harvester farm machinery factory.

Some 500 people will be employed assembling 30 vehicles a day.

Two years later, two more factories will be built, one for truck cabs and another for diesel engines, creating a further 700 to 1,000 jobs. "But for these units there are still some unforeseen factors," Mr. Stling said.

Saab-Scania had been seeking a site for a new plant in the European Economic Community to avoid high production costs in Sweden. Angers, in central France, suffers high unemployment.

BERLIN (MARCH 9) - The politburo of the Mongolian Communist Party will resign at its next plenary session, which opens Monday, the East German ADN news agency said Friday.

The Mongolian party has been rocked over the last few days by a series of demonstrations which have brought thousands of protestors out onto the streets of the Mongolian capital Ulan Bator. One of the main demands has been for the ruling politburo to stand down.

Opposition hunger-strikers called off their action after the announcement was made, ADN said in its report from Ulan Bator. The announcement was made in a television address by the secretary-general of the Communist Party, Jambyn Batmonh, it said.

RASHAYA, LEBANON (MARCH 9) - Israeli troops in southern Lebanon shelled the stronghold of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah movement near here Friday, wounding three villagers, regional security sources said.

Twenty shells struck Ain Tine, on the northern outskirts of Israel's "security zone" in southern Lebanon, they said, adding that five houses were destroyed in the attack.

The shelling came one day after a 12-hour battle between Moslem fundamentalist combatants and Israeli troops backed by their allies in the South Lebanon Army militia in which five anti-Israeli guerrillas were killed.

Hezbollah's paramilitary branch, the Islamic Resistance, meanwhile claimed an attack against an Israeli tank inside the "security zone" in which five people were killed.

There was no immediate confirmation from either Israel or the SLA.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) - The United States Friday chided Syrian leader Hafez Assad for a speech in which he called for continuation of the "Holy War" against Israel and denouced changes in the Soviet bloc as beneficial to the Jewish state.

"President Assad's criticism is out of step with the enormously promising changes unfolding around the world, as well as with the serious efforts to move toward peace in the Middle East," said State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler.

"What the people of the Middle East -- including Syria -- need is not more bellicose rhetoric, but real statesmanship and commitment to the practical steps needed to bring about a Palestinian-Israeli dialogue," she said.

Declaring that "movement toward peace will serve Syria's interests," Miss Tutwiler in a prepared statement said, "President Assad ought to be committing himself to peace, not war."

In his speech marking the 27th anniversary of the coup that brouht his Baath Party to power, Mr. Assad vowed Thursday to pursue the war against Israel.

"Bearing in mind that the time is long ... our Holy War should be as long as time is," he said.

Referring to the political upheaval in the Eastern bloc and moves toward recognition of Israel by Syria's traditional allies in the Soviet camp, the president said, "Let us now perceive that Israel was the first beneficiary, among all nations of the world, of the international changes that have taken place."

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) - The United States Friday accused Nicaragua's defeated Sandinista leaders of changing the country's laws to sanction their past abuses of power before handing over the reins of government to President-elect Violetta Chamorro.

The State Department was responding to moves by the current Sandinista dominated legislature to transfer ownership of some 10,000 state-held homes to their Sandinista occupants and to grant an amnesty against future prosecution for crimes committed during the Sandinista's 10 year's in power.

"These actions contradict the promises made by Sandinsta leaders about a smooth transition of power" to the Chamorro forces who won last month's national elections, said department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler.

"Throughout their 10-year rule and the election campaign, the Sandinistas made no distinction between state and party resources. Now they are trying to provide legal sanction for their abuse of government property," she said.

She also reiterated accusations that the Sandinista's were emptying government offices of equipment, furniture and other resources prior to the scheduled handover of power to Mrs. Chamorro on April 25.

"If the Sandinistas are serious about respecting the popular mandate as President (Daniel) Ortega has said, they will cease these actions immediately and cooperate with the incoming government to ensure a smooth transition," said the spokeswoman.

COPENHAGEN (MARCH 9) - Thai Prime Minister Chatichai Choonhavan appealed to foreign investors, particularly Europeans, to show more interest in Southeast Asia at the start of a three-day official visit to Denmark on Friday.

The region's economy was booming, Mr. Chatichai said, and his own country's private sector was investing in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

He cited joint ventures with the Vietnamese in the hotel trade, fishing and tinned foods industries.

Southeast Asia's relations with Europe's future single market of 1993 were a major focus of talks between Mr. Chatichai and Danish Prime Minister Poul Schleuter, officials said.

Mr. Schleuter said recent turbulent events in Eastern Europe and plans to scrap trade barriers between the 12 EEC states would not end West Europe's desire to invest in Asia, a region seen as "dynamic and in full expansion."

Mr. Schleuter also welcomed Mr. Chatichai's proposal for their countries to set up a joint economic commission to advise companies doing business on both sides.

The Thai leader, who arrived here Thursday night, urged Danish firms to participate in infrastructure projects on the eastern and southern coasts of Thailand.

Earlier, Mr. Chatichai reiterated that he wanted to close down eight refugee camps housing some 350,000 Cambodians in his country and set up "neutral" camps in their place, with European and United Nations aid.

He made a similar statement after arriving here Thursday night.

At a news conference, he appealed "to all countries to stop shipping arms" to the warring parties in Cambodia. The call, which named no specific country, was apparently aimed at China, the main supplier of weapons to the Khmer Rouge.

TOKYO (MARCH 9) KYODO - MAJOR CHANGES RAPIDLY TAKING PLACE IN ASIAN COUNTRIES' ECONOMIC STRUCTURES WILL REQUIRE PERSISTENT EFFORTS BY MONETARY AUTHORITIES IN THE REGION TO MODERNIZE FINANCIAL SYSTEMS FURTHER, THE BANK OF JAPAN SAID IN A REPORT FRIDAY.

IN THE REPORT, THE BANK URGED ASIAN COUNTRIES TO CONTINUE EFFORTS TO BRING THEIR FINANCIAL SYSTEMS MORE INTO LINE WITH THE ACTUAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS OF EACH NATION.

THE REPORT, THE LATEST IN A SERIES OF MONTHLY ANALYSES BY THE BANK ON VARIOUS ECONOMIC THEMES, IS TITLED ''RECENT FINANCIAL SYSTEM REFORMS IN ASIAN COUNTRIES.'' IT COVERS THE NEWLY INDUSTRIALIZING ECONOMIES (NIES) OF SOUTH KOREA, HONG KONG, TAIWAN, AND SINGAPORE, AS WELL AS THE SIX-MEMBER ASSOCIATION OF SOUTHEAST ASIAN NATIONS (ASEAN).

SINGAPORE IS ALSO A MEMBER OF ASEAN, ALONG WITH INDONESIA, MALAYSIA, THAILAND, BRUNEI, AND THE PHILIPPINE.

THE REPORT GAVE A POSITIVE ASSESSMENT OF REFORMS SO FAR MADE BY THESE ASIAN NATIONS, BUT ADDED THAT MORE REMAINS TO BE DONE.

THE BANK HIGHLIGHTED SEVERAL MAJOR POINTS TO BE TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT IN CARRYING OUT FURTHER FINANCIAL REFORMS BY THESE ASIAN COUNTRIES.

THE REPORT SAID APPROPRIATE MANAGEMENT OF MACROECONOMIC POLICY UNDER CONDITIONS OF SOCIAL AND POLITICAL STABILITY IS A PRECONDITION FOR BRINGING ABOUT FAVORABLE RESULTS IN THE REFORMS OF FINANCIAL SYSTEMS IN THE REGION.

THE REPORT ALSO SAID FINANCIAL REFORMS IN EACH COUNTRY SHOULD BE COMPATIBLE WITH THOSE ELSEWHERE, IN VIEW OF GROWING FINANCIAL LIBERALIZATION MOVES WORLDWIDE.

CALLING FOR IMPROVEMENTS IN THE FINANCIAL INFRASTRUCTURE, PARTICULARLY IN THE FINANCIAL SETTLEMENT SYSTEM, AS WELL AS AN ENHANCED ABILITY TO MONITOR FINANCIAL TRANSACTIONS, THE BANK PROPOSED REFORMS INCLUDING LIBERALIZATION OF INTEREST RATE, PROMOTION OF COMPETITION AMONG FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND GREATER CAPITAL MARKET EFFICIENCY.

OTHER AREAS CITED BY THE REPORT AS REQUIRING ACTION INCLUDE DEREGULATION IN FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL, RESHAPING OF THE SO-CALLED ''INFORMAL FINANCE'' HANDLED BY BODIES OTHER THAN BANKS AND AUTHORIZED FINANCIAL CONCERNS, AND REVAMPING OF FINANCIAL REGULATIONS.

TOKYO (MARCH 9) KYODO - JAPAN AND THE SOVIET UNION WILL HOLD THREE DAYS OF TALKS IN TOKYO FROM NEXT TUESDAY OVER THE PROPOSED REVISION OF THEIR BILATERAL CIVIL AIR TRANSPORT AGREEMENT, GOVERNMENT SOURCES SAID FRIDAY.

THE SOURCES SAID JAPAN WOULD SEEK EXPANSION OF THE RIGHT TO FLY OVER THE SOVIET UNION AND INCREASED ''BEYOND RIGHTS'' -- THE RIGHT TO SERVE MORE EUROPEAN CITIES BEYOND MOSCOW. AN INCREASE IN THE SERVICE FREQUENCY IS ALSO BELIEVED LIKELY TO BE HIGH ON THE AGENDA OF THE COMING MEETING.

THE SOURCES SAID JAPAN AIRLINES CO. (JAL), NOW OPERATING A TOKYO-ANCHORAGE-MADRID SERVICE WITH IBERIA AIRLINES OF SPAIN, WISHES TO REROUTE THE SERVICE VIA MOSCOW. JAL IS SEEKING THE RIGHT TO SERVE MADRID BEYOND MOSCOW.

ALL NIPPON AIRWAYS CO. (ANA), CURRENTLY OPERATING A TOKYO-STOCKHOLM SERVICE THROUGH ANCHORAGE JOINTLY WITH SCANDINAVIAN AIRLINES, WISHES TO CHANGE OVER TO A NEW ROUTE VIA MOSCOW OR SOVIET SKIES. REROUTING WOULD MAKE IT NECESSARY FOR JAPAN TO OBTAIN ''BEYOND RIGHTS'' TO SERVE STOCKHOLM VIA MOSCOW.

ANA ALSO WISHES TO START A DIRECT SERVICE TO WEST GERMANY IN 1992, AND TO INCREASE THE NUMBER OF FLIGHTS ON THE TOKYO-PARIS ROUTE WHICH IT IS DUE TO INAUGURATE THIS FALL. THIS IS ALSO BELIEVED LIKELY TO COME UP FOR DISCUSSION IN THE TOKYO MEETING.

THE SOURCES SAID THE SOVIETS MAY SEEK THE RIGHT TO SERVE NEW POINTS IN JAPAN OR TO INCREASE THE PRESENT SERVICE FREQUENCY IN RETURN FOR GRANTING JAPAN THE DESIRED ''BEYOND RIGHTS.''

CHARLOTTE, NC (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Holly Farms, a long-time supporter of Atlantic Coast Conference basketball, will present a check totalling $42,000 to the ACC general scholarship fund for its sponsorship of "The Holly Farms Player of The Game Award." John W. Bartelme, vice president of marketing for Holly Farms, will present the check to the conference commissioner on Sunday, March 11 during the half time of the ACC Tournament finals in Charlotte, NC.

"The Holly Farms Player of The Game Award" is presented at all 35 televised regular season games and at the seven tournament games.

A winner from each competing team is chosen by the game telecasters to receive "The Holly Farms Player of the Game Award." A $500 scholarship is then given to the general scholarship fund in the winning players' names. Past winners of "The Holly Farms Player of the Game Award" include Michael Jordan, Ralph Sampson and Spud Webb.

Holly Farms first began supporting ACC basketball in 1976. The company has contributed nearly a half million dollars to the ACC scholarship funds over the years.

"We are proud to be a supporter of The Atlantic Coast Conference, and feel that our continued association serves to promote and reward excellence both on and off the court," says Bartelme.

The Atlantic Coast Conference includes Clemson University, Duke University Georgia Tech, the University of Maryland, the University of North Carolina, North Carolina State University, the University of Virginia and Wake Forest University.

CENTURY CITY, CA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - First Regional Bancorp (NASDAQ: FRGB) posted an increase in its net income for 1989, as well as substantially higher earnings for the fourth quarter, Jack A. Sweeney, chairman and chief executive officer, announced today.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, net income climbed to $1,078,000, equal to 49 cents per share, from $650,000, or 30 cents per share, for 1988.

Fourth quarter net income increased to $307,000, or 13 cents per share, from $236,000, or 12 cents per share, in the like period a year ago. The number of common shares and share equivalents was 2,217,408 at Dec. 31, 1989, compared to 2,154,800 a year ago.

Sweeney commented: "A major factor in our improved earnings for the year was the growth in our loans, which increased to over $54.3 million from $36.9 million at the end of 1988. This expansion of the loan portfolio, coupled with our ongoing efforts to contain expenses, enabled the company to make its strong showing. We also bolstered the bank's financial base in the fourth quarter to insure that we can move forward in 1990 with our growth plans while maintaining the underlying strength of the company."

Sweeney also announced that First Regional Bank had entered into an agreement with Transcorp Pension Services Inc. of Laguna Hills, Calif., to provide custodial services to pension and profit- sharing plans administered by Transcorp. The bank estimated that its deposit base would increase significantly over the next few years from funds placed with it by the plans. Sweeney also stated that the bank has committed to forming a trust company subsidiary with Transcorp once the volume of business from the plans reaches a level that would support a profitable trust operation.

James R. Wagner, founder and president of Transcorp Pension Services, has been elected to the board of First Regional Bancorp and First Regional Bank, increasing the number of members of each to seven.

First Regional Bancorp is a bank holding company headquartered in Century City. First Regional Bank, its subsidiary, specializes in providing businesses and professionals with the management expertise of a major bank and the personalized service of an indepedent.

INDIANA, PA and GLASGOW, SCOTLAND (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Anderson Group PLC and National Mine Service Co. (NMS) (NYSE: NMS) last night agreed that Anderson will purchase for $8.875 per share the approximately 48.8 percent of NMS stock it does not own.

The transaction is valued at about $21 million. Anderson on Feb. 8 proposed to the special committee of non-management, non-Anderson directors of NMS that Anderson purchase the minority interests for $8.50 per share. The higher price was agreed to by Anderson after negotiations with the special committee, which unanimously approved the transaction.

The transaction will be effected by a tender offer for NMS shares followed by a merger. Any shares not purchased in the tender offer will be exchanged for $8.875 in a merger between an Anderson subsidiary and NMS. Parker/Hunter Inc. has rendered an opinion to the special committee that the consideration to be received pursuant to the transaction is fair, from a financial point of view, to the minority stockholders of NMS.

HANCOCK, MI (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - D&N Financial Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: DNFC) today announced a restatement of its previously reported results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989. The restatement is the result of an addition to reserves related to a commercial real estate loan with a book value of $13.3 million that became delinquent on March 1, 1990. The delinquency, and other recently obtained financial data regarding the borrower, indicated that a deterioration in the asset's quality had occurred prior to year end, and, therefore, the resulting charge is reflected in 1989 earnings.

Based upon the best information currently available to the company, management believes the loan will be substantially collected, but that it will be non-performing for a period of time. Thus, loan loss reserves were increased $1.5 million as of Dec. 31, 1989.

After the restatement, D&N Financial recorded a net loss of $10.4 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989. The company previously reported a net loss for 1989 of $9.4 million.

D&N Financial Corporation, through its subsidiary, D&N Savings Bank, FSB, has 40 financial services branches and agency offices throughout Michigan's Upper Peninsula and mid-Michigan, as well as 11 mortgage banking offices in Michigan and four other states. D&N is the fourth largest savings institution in Michigan based on asset size.

ST. LOUIS (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - CPC-Rexcel Inc. (NASDAQ: CPST) today reported financial results for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1989, which included the establishment of a significant restructuring reserve that resulted in a one-time charge to earnings. The company also reported a renewed emphasis on its manufacturing strategy, product lines and customer service orientation.

Net sales for the fourth quarter were $14,471,195, up 16 percent compared with $12,452,435 in 1988. A net loss of $1,818,266 was reported, which included a $782,600 pre-tax provision for restructuring. This was down from the $63,682 earned in the comparable period last year. Net loss per share was 41 cents compared with earnings of 1 cent per share in the fourth quarter of 1988.

Net sales for the fiscal year were $58,629,892, down 4 percent compared with $61,111,395 in 1988. A net loss of $1,801,990 was reported, down from the $2,274,563 earned in the previous year. Net loss per share was 41 cents compared with earnings of 52 cents per share in 1988.

Gerald G. Burnett, the company's president, commented on the reported results. "The company's loss in 1989 is primarily attributable to the restructuring charge and volatility in the pricing level of polystyrene resin. The absence of price stability in the polystyrene resin market has alternatively impeded our ability to expand our revenue base and increase gross profit margins, and required adjustment to inventory carrying values."

With respect to the restructuring charge, Burnett stated, "A comprehensive analysis of our business has been conducted, particularly our progress in integrating our predecessor companies (Consumer Plastics Corp. and Rexcel Inc.). We have determined that the company's ongoing manufacturing and strategic objectives have not been satisfied and that certain production realignment, changes in information systems and conformity of product lines are necessary. A reserve has been established in recognition of anticipated liabilities and selected asset realization reserves required to address our objectives; such actions will enhance the productivity of our three manufacturing facilities and further improve our level of customer service."

Burnett further stated that he expects the company will return to profitability in the first quarter of 1990 based on the strength of our existing customer base, cost reductions implemented in December 1989, and anticipated declines in resin prices, which should facilitate revenue growth.

CPC-Rexcel designs, produces and markets plastic containers for cultured dairy, yogurt and other food products. The company's stock is traded over-the-counter under NASDAQ symbol CPST.

WORCESTER, MA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Cambridge BioScience Corporation (NASDAQ: CBCX) today announced the beginning of direct marketing efforts on its Recombigen(R) HIV-1 LA five-minute AIDS test. The announcement means that Baxter Healthcare Corporation will no longer continue to sell the test on an exclusive basis.

Senior Vice President Donald G. Reed said that the company will sell the rapid test directly through its own sales force and various regional distributor networks, as well as international distributors. Baxter will continue to service customers during a brief transition period.

Reed said the decision was made because "the company has grown to a size where we need specialized product distribution which takes into account the issues unique to the rapid AIDS testing market. We believe that a specialized, targeted sales force can meet these needs and effectively increase market penetration." He added, "In addition, by recapturing the distribution margin we would expect to have a positive effect on our bottom line."

Cambridge BioScience has six people dedicated to marketing Recombigen with a significant expansion planned during 1990.

The Recombigen HIV-1 LA rapid AIDS test has been on the market since January 1989 under the Baxter label. Sales have been primarily to hospitals, although many clinics and specialized laboratories are using the test. It is intended for use by properly trained personnel as a screening test in hospital laboratories, medical clinics, physician offices and emergency care situations, where the more lengthy EIA format may not be practical or available.

Additionally, Reed announced that Diagnostics Pasteur and its U.S.- based subsidiary, Kallestad Diagnostics, will market two new Cambridge BioScience diagnostics in the EIA format: the company's FDA-licensed Human Lyme Disease Detection Kit and the HTLV-1 Diagnostic Kit, currently sold for research use only. The marketing agreements are among several with large marketing partners which, in selected product areas, will market in parallel with CBC's direct sales force to bring the company's products into a wide distribution network more quickly.

In further development, Dr. Patrick J. Leonard, president of Cambridge BioScience, announced the formation of an international marketing group to be headed by Kenneth G. Klein. Prior to joining Cambridge BioScience in January, Klein had been affiliated with Greiner Instruments AG, based in Switzerland, and Corning Medical Ltd., based in the U.K.

Cambridge BioScience Corporation is a biotechnology company utilizing recombinant technology in the development and production of antigens, adjuvants and monoclonal antibodies, as the basis for its product lines of diagnostics, vaccines and therapeutics for humans and animals.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Acting Administrator Richard G. Austin of the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA) said GSA has received an unqualified opinion on its consolidated financial statements as of Sept. 30, 1989 from Arthur Andersen & Co.

Austin said the Andersen audit report states that GSA financial statements presented fairly -- in all material respects -- the financial position, the results of operations and the changes in the agency's financial position. This is the second consecutive year GSA has received a clean opinion on its financial statements.

GSA manages federal buildings, oversees procurement of real estate, telecommunications and data processing services and acts as the purchasing agent for supplies and equipment for the federal community. It is responsible for six business-type government funds and 16 general funds with sales totaling in excess of $6 billion and assets of more than $9 billion.

Austin said, "As all financial managers in the federal sector strive to improve existing systems of accounting and internal control, annual audited financial statements provide a focus for financial management initiatives and, at the same time, can be helpful in measuring the success of the agency's improvement efforts."

The audit was performed to form an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. It was conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and the standards for financial audits contained in the General Accounting Office's "Government Auditing Standards."

The audit examined evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements and included assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by GSA management. It also evaluated the overall financial statement presentation.

CINCINNATI (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - William R. Burleigh, on Thursday, was elected executive vice president of The E.W. Scripps Company (NASDAQ: EWSC) and nominated to serve on the company's board of directors. He was previously senior vice president for newspapers and publishing.

"Bill Burleigh has proved himself to be one of the newspaper industry's top managers. In his new role he will work closely with me on all facets of corporate affairs as well as continue to supervise our publishing operations," said Lawrence A. Leser, president and chief executive officer of The E.W. Scripps Company.

Shareholders will elect directors at their May 14 annual meeting in Cincinnati.

Burleigh, 54, has been an employee of The E.W. Scripps Company for more than 38 years. He began his career with the company while still in high school as a part-time sports reporter at The Evansville (Indiana) Press. He returned to The Press as a reporter following a tour of duty with the U.S. Infantry and graduation from Marquette University.

Burleigh was named editor and president of The Evansville Press in 1975 and was editor of The Cincinnati Post from 1977 to 1983.

He joined the corporate staff in 1984 as vice president and general editorial manager, and in 1986 was promoted to senior vice president.

Burleigh is a member of the Associated Press board of directors, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors Foundation and on the advisory board of Marquette's College of Communications.

He is active in numerous organizations in the Cincinnati community, including chairmanship of the board of trustees of Good Samaritan Hospital.

He and his wife, Anne, have three children, David, Catherine and Margaret.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - College Retirement Equities Fund (CREF) announced today that it has withdrawn the proxy resolution it had filed with Waste Management, Inc. (NYSE: WMX), on the issue of share placement, following that company's adoption of a policy substantially addressing the thrust of CREF's resolution.

The CREF resolution asked that Waste Management's board of directors adopt a policy of seeking shareholder approval prior to placing 10 percent or more of its voting stock with any one shareholder or group of shareholders.

Following discussion between representatives of Waste Management and CREF, Waste Management's board of directors voted unanimously to establish a policy of obtaining shareholder approval of certain stock issuances for cash, when such issuance would involve placement of 10 percent or more of the company's voting stock with any one party.

CREF and its companion organization, Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association, comprise the $83 billion TIAA-CREF portable pension system for educators, the nation's largest pension system.

The CREF resolution filed with Waste Management, Inc. addressed CREF's concern that -- combined with Delaware's anti-takeover statute -- certain placements of 10 percent or more of a company's voting stock for cash could have the effect of frustrating a tender offer that is supported by a substantial majority of shares outstanding.

By taking such steps without shareholder approval, CREF contended, a company "could prevent shifts in control that may be favorable to shareholders, thereby potentially diminishing the value of the shareholders' investment and decreasing the market price of company shares."

The initiation of CREF shareholder resolutions is the responsibility of TIAA-CREF's Joint Committee on Corporate Governance and Social Responsibility, a standing committee of the full TIAA-CREF board of trustees and made up entirely of outside trustees. This committee recommended that CREF withdraw its shareholder resolution in light of Waste Management's agreement to adopt a new policy responsive to CREF's concern, and CREF's executive committee concurred in the recommendation.

TIAA and CREF provide a nationwide portable pension system for employees of some 4,300 U.S. colleges, universities, independent schools and related non-profit education organizations. More than 1.2 million individuals participate in the TIAA-CREF pension system.

ROCHESTER, NY (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - J.A.M., Inc. (NASDAQ: JAMY), a Rochester based training and information systems company, has announced its operating results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989. Audited net loss was $577,852 or $.05 per share on net sales of $1,764,264, compared to 1988 net earnings of $82,065 or $.02 per share on net sales of $2,355,475.

John A. Marszalek, JAM president and chief executive officer, stated that, "1989 appears to have been a difficult year for the entire training industry. It was a period of uncertainties riddled with mergers, consolidations, acquisitions, and business closings. It was also a difficult year for JAM. Expected orders failed to materialize and the company posted a disappointing operating performance for 1989. The company substantially increased its marketing efforts to improve sales, but because of the generally long lead-times required to obtain training contracts, many of the orders were not received until the end of the fourth quarter. The company ended 1989 with an order backlog of $1,321,000, a three-fold increase over order backlogs of $417,271 at the end of 1988. This increased order backlog, combined with recent reductions in general operating expenses, should position the company for a return to profitability in 1990."

JAM common stock is traded over-the-counter and is listed nationally with the National Association of Security Dealers under the NASDAQ trading symbol of JAMY.

The annual meeting of shareholders will be held at 2 p.m. on May 17, 1990 at Shadow Pines Golf Club in the Clark House Banquet Room, 600 Whalen Rd., Penfield, New York. Shareholders of record as of March 29, 1990 will be entitled to vote for election of directors, approval of KPMG Peat Marwick as auditors, and such other business as may come before the meeting.

JAM designs and produces a diverse range of training and information system services for both commercial and government clients. These services meet specific client requirements in instructional design and training program development, software design and programming for computer based training and interactive simulations, and video production and post production. The company also integrates and markets hardware systems for turnkey interactive computer based training (CBT) and videodisc instructional delivery.

Corporate offices and video production facilities are located at 300 Main St., East Rochester, New York.

PITTSBURGH (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The University of Pittsburgh Alzheimer's Disease Research Center (ADRC) has begun testing an investigational drug that may improve memory in people with memory loss and Alzheimer's disease, it was announced today.

The drug, SQ 29,852, is one of a class of drugs called ACE (angiotensin converting enzyme) inhibitors, developed by E.R. Squibb and Sons. These drugs have been studied extensively and are now used worldwide in the treatment of hypertension. Captopril, which is chemically related to SQ 29,852, is one of the best known drugs of this type.

According to Donald Rezek, M.D., Ph.D., principal investigator of the study, and assistant professor of psychiatry and neurology, "The drug may enhance the quality of life in people with memory loss. If their memories improve, then they may begin to feel more hopeful about the future."

SQ 29,852 affects chemical systems in the brain that are thought to be involved in learning and memory. Early studies in animals indicate that administration of the drug may improve certain types of learning and memory.

Men and women aged 50 to 75 who are suffering from relatively serious memory disturbances and who meet certain medical criteria may be eligible to participate in the seven-month study.

Anyone needing more information on the project or how to participate should call 412-647-2160.

MIAMI (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Noven Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (NASDAQ: NOVN) announced today that Donald A. Johnson, Ph.D. has been named to the newly established position of Manager of Solid Dosage Drug Delivery. Dr. Johnson will direct the effort of developing controlled release solid dosage drug delivery systems for Noven.

Dr. Johnson brings years of acedemic and commercial experience to Noven in the areas of advanced drug delivery systems. Dr. Johnson has spent the last four years with Schering-Plough Corporation where he attained the position of Senior Scientist of Formulation Research.

Steven Sablotsky, chairman of the board and president of Noven said, "The appointment of Dr. Johnson is another important milestone in the effort to transform Noven into a fully integrated pharmaceutical company." Noven's current area of concentration is the development and commercialization of transdermal drug delivery systems. Noven has two products in its patented transdermal systems; an estrogen product for relieving the symptoms of menopause (now under regulatory review in the U.S.) and a nitroglycerin product for cardiovascular therapy.

Sablotsky stated, "Noven's strategy of reformulating existing drug entities into improved dosage forms will not change. The addition of Dr. Johnson to our experienced team of management and staff will enhance the achievement of our goal to become the leaders in advanced drug delivery. It is important to note that Noven will remain focused on select products which have market potentials of huge proportions."

Noven Pharmaceuticals is engaged in the development and manufacturing of advanced drug delivery systems. The company specializes in transdermal and controlled release solid dosage drug delivery systems as well as dermatological formulations.

SOUTHFIELD, MI (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Dennis J. Gormley, president and chief executive officer of Federal-Mogul Corporation (NYSE: FMO), today reported completion of the previously announced purchase of selected assets of the vehicular lighting business of R.E. Dietz Co. of Syracuse, N.Y.

Dietz is a 150-year-old family-owned business which has long served NAPA and other aftermarket customers with quality lighting products for automotive and truck applications. Federal-Mogul manufactures and distributes similar products under the Signal-Stat brand name from two Indiana facilities. The Dietz lighting business is very complementary to Signal-Stat in both products and customers.

Terms of the agreement were not disclosed, but Gormley said Federal-Mogul acquired certain of Dietz's inventories, equipment, tooling, product drawings and customer lists relating to its vehicular lighting product line. Dietz will supply selected vehicular lighting products to Federal-Mogul and Federal-Mogul will use the Dietz product name for a period of time.

Headquartered in Southfield, Federal-Mogul operates 37 plants, more than 70 distribution centers and four major research centers throughout the world. Its products range from a variety of precision parts for the transportation, farm equipment, construction and manufacturing industries to aerospace components.

EAST HANOVER, NJ (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Sandoz Pharmaceuticals announced today that it would provide a grant to Project Inform, a West Coast Aids patients advocacy group, to defray the administrative costs of re-treating with GLQ223(TM) those patients who had previously received an experimental AIDS drug known as Compound Q. Only those who had been treated last year in a program conducted by Project Inform will be eligible.

Sandoz's partner in this project, Genelabs Incorporated, a California biotechnology company, has agreed to supply its product, GLQ223, the authorized form of the drug, free to the re-treatment program as a contribution separate from Sandoz's monetary gift. The Sandoz grant totals $250,000.

This marks the first time a major pharmaceutical company, a biotechnology company and a community-based activist organization have cooperated in such a program.

The grant was announced today jointly by Jacques Rejeange, chief executive officer of Sandoz Pharmaceuticals Corporation, East Hanover, N.J., and Frank Kung, Ph.D., president and chief executive officer of Genelabs Incorporated, Redwood City, Calif., which holds the U.S. patent on the use of GLQ223 as a possible AIDS treatment.

Project Inform, based in San Francisco, had been coordinating a program to administer the unauthorized Compound Q, a plant-derived protein imported from China, to HIV-infected patients. Last August, Project Inform was asked to cease these activities after the FDA notified the group that the agency could not sanction its study.

The FDA approved a protocol for Project Inform's re-treatment program which they submitted under a separate Investigational New Drug Application (IND).

The Sandoz-Genelabs grant, a humanitarian project to ensure that those Aids patients in Project Inform's program are able to continue treatment with the authorized drug, was made with the knowledge of the FDA. The funds will go directly to Project Inform.

It is not yet known how many patients remain alive or their current state of health.

In the re-treatment plan, patients who participated in the original Project Inform study will enroll in a regular plan of blood monitoring and evaluation under Project Inform's supervision in order to receive GLQ223.

Under its own IND, Genelabs is conducting separate clinical trials of GLQ223 in programs at University of California San Francisco- affiliated San Francisco General Hospital and elsewhere. It is anticipated that preliminary findings from the authorized testing program will be submitted for FDA review in mid-1990.

BOSTON (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Bank of New England Corporation (NYSE: NEB) has announced the election of Lawrence K. Fish as chairman and chief executive officer. Fish has also been named chairman and CEO of Bank of New England, N.A., the company's Massachusetts subsidiary.

BNEC director Peter L. Scott, who headed the executive search committee, commented, "Our extensive search for the most qualified banking executive to head the company is concluded, and it could not have been more successful. While there has been considerable speculation about candidates, Fish was our first choice, and the only one to receive an offer from us. We are extremely pleased that he has accepted."

Lawrence Fish returned to Boston to assume his new responsibilities today. Since March 1988, he has resided in California, where he was president and chief operating officer of Columbia Savings and Loan Association in Beverly Hills until September 1989. Fish was previously an executive vice president at the First National Bank of Boston. From 1984 to 1988, he was responsible for all New England banking, building a major regional retail and commercial presence for the company. His 15-year career at Bank of Boston also included responsibility for banking operations in Brazil, later for the Asia-Pacific region, and then for the bank's worldwide trust operations.

Fish holds a B.A. from Drake University and an M.B.A. from Harvard

Graduate School of Business Administration. He has served as a trustee of the New England Conservatory of Music, the Children's Museum, and was chairman of the Boston-Kyoto Sister City Association. He and his wife Atsuko were trustees of the Japan America Society.

Bank of New England Corporation is a regional bank holding company with banking affiliates in four New England states and assets of $26 billion. The company's common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange and traded under the symbol NEB.

FORT WORTH, TX (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Texas-New Mexico Power Company, the Fort Worth based, wholly owned subsidiary of TNP Enterprises, Inc., today announced that the Austin Court of Appeals has issued an opinion affirming a District Court finding that the Texas Public Utility Commission order granting a Certificate of Convenience and Necessity (CCN) for the company's Robertson County, Texas generating facility is not final.

The Court of Appeals found that the Aug. 17, 1987, Commission order granting the CCN was conditioned by language in Paragraph 2 of the order which required (1) the company's execution of a change order to the construction contract to allow western coal to be used as a fuel in the facility and (2) the obtaining by the company of all state and federal permits necessary for the construction and operation of the facility. The Court of Appeals held that the Commission's CCN order was not final until all such necessary permits and the required change order had been obtained. The company's position is that it has complied with all conditions of Paragraph 2 for the granting of the CCN. The company will continue to seek confirmation from the courts and the Commission that the CCN granted to the company in 1987 is final.

The company's construction contract and the construction credit facilities for the two 150 megawatt generation units of the Robertson County facility currently under construction require the company to assume the construction indebtedness when the units are satisfactorily completed, in accordance with the applicable contractual terms.

Fair, equitable and timely regulatory treatment of the generating facility is essential to the company. To the extent that any proceedings are not expeditiously concluded in a favorable manner, the company may experience a negative financial impact.

AUSTIN, TX (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Frank W. McBee Jr., chairman of Electrosource, Inc. (NASDAQ: ELSI), today announced that the Electrosource board of directors has elected Charles Mathews as a director of the corporation.

Electrosource, headquartered in Austin, is the exclusive licensee for a patented coextruded lead wire and is involved in the development and transfer of this and ancillary technologies to the international battery manufacturing industry.

Mathews, 55, is one of the co-inventors of the patented coextrusion technology which forms coextruded lead wire. He currently is a consultant to Electrosource, assisting the company in the research and development of its Horizon(TM) batteries which use the coextruded lead wire in its battery grids. In addition, he is a director and co-founder of Blanyer-Mathews Associates, Inc., Austin, which pursued the technology for coextrusion and owns the patents relating to this technology. Mathews also is a co-founder and director of Capital Cold Storage, Inc., San Antonio, Texas, and owner of AAA Mill, Inc., Austin, which he serves both as a director and officer.

In the 1960s, Mathews was associated with the University of Texas Defense Research Laboratory (now Applied Research Laboratories) and was a co-founder and former officer and director of Austin-based Accelerators, Inc. (now owned by Veeco Instruments, Inc., and operating in Dallas). Before helping to found Blanyer-Mathews Associates in 1981, Mathews was employed from 1974 to 1980 by Tracor, Inc., as a program manager for electronic countermeasures systems.

Mathews' election expands the membership of the Electrosource board of directors to nine directors. Other directors are Norman Hackerman, Ph.D. president emeritus, Rice University, Houston; McBee, chairman of Electrosource, Austin; Chris Morris, president of Electrosource, Austin; Russell E. Painton, vice president and general counsel of Tracor, Inc., Austin; Jim A. Smith, private investor, Austin; Sam K. Smith, president of Merit Technology, Inc., Dallas; Jack T. Trotter, private investor, Houston; and John D. McClung, consultant and private investor, St. Paul, Minn.

Electrosource, Inc., is a publicly traded company headquartered in Austin. The company's principal business is developing the use of coextruded wire in electrodes for lead-acid batteries.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - John R. Stafford, chairman, president and chief executive officer of American Home Products Corporation (NYSE: AHP), and Sir Michael Colman, chairman of Reckitt & Colman plc, announced today that their companies have reached agreement in principle for the purchase by Reckitt & Colman of American Home Products' worldwide household products business and certain related products. The purchase price is $1.25 billion.

American Home Products will retain all rights to the Pam and Butter Buds products which are presently manufactured and distributed by its Boyle-Midway Household Products division. In 1989, the businesses to be sold contributed approximately $650 million to American Home Products' consolidated net sales of $6.75 billion.

The acquisition is conditioned, among other things, upon execution of a definitive agreement, final approval of the transaction by the board of directors of American Home Products, authorization by the shareholders of Reckitt & Colman and required governmental filings and approvals.

American Home Products Corporation is one of the world's leading manufacturers and marketers of prescription drugs, packaged medicines and health care, food and household products.

Reckitt & Colman is a leading international consumer products company with headquarters in London. For the year ended Dec. 31, 1988, Reckitt & Colman had sales of 1.4 billion pounds sterling (U.S. $2.5 billion) and after-tax earnings of 120 million pounds sterling (U.S. $214 million).

ATLANTA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Telecom USA (NYSE: TTT) today released its comments and initial reaction to the FCC's decision to initiate a study of the current long distance market and the appropriate level of regulation of AT&T.

O. Gene Gabbard, chairman and chief executive officer of Telecom USA, commented, "We welcome this proceeding, which long distance competitors have been advocating for some time. In the year since the divestiture of AT&T, consumers have realized tremendous benefits brought about by competition in the marketplace."

He continued, "Over the past five or six years, long distance prices have dropped approximately 40 percent; technical innovations such as wide-spread fiber optic deployment have been rapidly introduced to the market; and, consumers have benefitted from having numerous choices in communications services. In addition, the many companies entering the market have created new jobs and opportunities throughout the country."

Gabbard concluded, "Competition has made progress; however, please realize that as fourth-largest in the long distance industry, Telecom USA still has only one and one-half percent of the total market. We are confident that after the commission completes a thorough, in-depth evaluation of the industry, it will find that AT&T is still dominant in the marketplace, and should not be deregulated at this time."

Telecom USA, headquartered in Atlanta, is publicly traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "TTT."

SAN ANTONIO, TX (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Robert A. Buschman, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Rio Grande, Inc., today announced that an affiliate of Rio Grande agreed to sell the offshore jack-up workover/drilling rig, Rio Grande Uno, to a Liberian purchaser for a cash sales price of $2,830,000. The sale is subject to certain approvals by the U.S. Maritime Administration and the Norwegian government.

Effective upon the sale of the rig, Rio Grande Southwest Drilling Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Rio Grande, Inc., will commence operating the rig under a bareboat charter with the new owner which will provide for a one year charter period with an option to renew for an additional one year period. Under a bareboat charter, the charterer pays the owner a daily fee for the use of the rig. Rio Grande Southwest would be responsible for all operating expenses.

Buschman said he expected no change in the operation of the Rio Grande Uno and that the name of the rig would remain the same while operated by Rio Grande Southwest.

The general manager for the Rio Grande Uno is Martin J. (Sonny) Heinen whose office is located at 1901 West Laurel, Eunice, Louisiana, 318-457-8281.

CHARLOTTE (N.C. MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE -- In a meeting with securities analysts in Charlotte this week, management of First Union Corporation (NYSE:FTU) said First Union's acquisition of Florida National Banks of Florida, Inc., completed on January 29, 1990, was progressing well. With the acquisition of Florida National, First Union Corporation has assets of approximately $40 billion.

First Union released its 1989 annual report today, which includes detailed financial information on First Union Corporation and Florida National. The annual report also provides information about the potential benefits of the Florida National acquisition.

The merger, which benefited from the cooperation of Florida National before the actual consummation date, is well under way, is on schedule and is in many ways going better than expected. For example, the combined employment level of the Florida banks has already been reduced by about 1000. Approximately six months prior to the completion of the merger, First Union began a training program for Florida National employees, including instruction in the implementation of First Union credit policies. With a great deal of upfront work on systems conversions already completed, all conversions related to the acquisition should be completed by August of this year.

Overall expense savings are projected to be better than originally anticipated. Annual operating savings of $40 million are expected in 1990. In 1991, the company anticipates an additional $40 million of annual savings, bringing the expected level of total annual savings to approximately $80 million per year going forward.

Commenting to analysts, the company said First Union National Bank of Florida has analyzed its loan portfolio in the course of a recent Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC) examination. The exam included a review of commercial real estate loans of First Union National Bank of Florida and those of Florida National.

First Union took an extensive look at the loan portfolio of its Florida bank as well as that of the recently-acquired Florida National. Although First Union has not yet received the final results of the OCC examination, the company expressed renewed confidence that its reserves are adequate. A special provision is not anticipated for Florida real estate problems or reserves either for the current quarter or for the remainder of 1990.

TAMPA, FL (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Kimmins Environmental Service Corp. (NASDAQ: KEVN) announced today that it has applied for listing of its common stock on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE).

The company's securities are currently traded in the NASDAQ system.

Francis M. Williams, president of Kimmins Environmental Service Corp., stated: "We have grown dramatically since we went public in 1987 and we feel the NYSE will provide our shareholders a broader and more liquid market. In addition, we feel NYSE membership will provide greater visibility and increase access to international capital markets." PARSIPPANY, NJ (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - BASF Corporation sales totaled $5.4 billion in 1989, an advance of 8.4 percent compared to the preceding year. Net earnings declined by 40 percent to $90 million.

According to Dr. J. Dieter Stein, chairman and CEO of BASF Corporation, earnings were impacted by a slowing of the economy in the second half, particularly in the automotive and construction sectors, as well as by increased competition in certain markets and higher raw materials costs. Additionally, costs related to plant consolidations and the establishment of reserves for employee health care benefits and environmental improvements contributed to reduced earnings.

Capital expenditures in 1989 were $460 million, 12 percent higher than in the previous year. A significant increase in spending to about $600 million has been planned for 1990.

BASF Corporation, the North American member of the BASF Group, manufactures basic, intermediate and specialty chemicals, colorants, dispersions, fiber raw materials, fibers, automotive coatings, printing inks, urethane specialties and chemicals, plastics, advanced composite materials, antifreeze, crop protection products, pharmaceuticals, vitamins flavors, fragrances, and audio, video and computer recording media.

ATLANTA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Siemens Energy & Automation Inc. of Atlanta, has announced that it is expanding its U.S. line of automation products to include controls for machine tools, robots and special machines.

The company will add computerized numerical controls, robot controllers, servo and mainspindle drives to its already broad spectrum of automation equipment.

This move is in conjunction with Siemens AG's decision to terminate its 50/50 U.S. joint venture with Fanuc Ltd. of Japan. The joint venture, General Numeric Corp., had represented Siemens' U.S. sales and service efforts in the field since 1976. Details of the joint venture's termination are now being worked out in mutual discussions with Fanuc.

Headquarters to support this new business have been established in Siemens Energy & Automation's Chicago regional sales offices, telephone 708-330-4310. The company is in the process of expanding its automation organization to provide additional sales and service capability. "This move is consistent with Siemens' commitment to grow its presence in the North American automation market," stated Harry S. Burker Jr., CEO of Siemens Energy & Automation, "and will enable us to more effectively serve our customers in this hemisphere, including U.S. users of imported machinery using Siemens equipment."

The Siemens Automation Group in West Germany is a global leader in its field with expected worldwide sales of approximately $3 billion this year. Siemens Energy & Automation has been expanding its programmable controls and drives market position in the U.S. at a rapid rate in recent years, largely through the development of its automation distribution network.

Headquartered in Atlanta, Siemens Energy & Automation Inc. is a manufacturer of electrical and electronic equipment and systems for electric utilities, commercial and residential construction, and general industry. A member of the Siemens Group, the company's products are marketed worldwide.

AMARILLO, TX (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Miramar Resources, Inc. (NASDAQ: MIRA) announced the consummation of the merger between Rockwell Drilling Company, Holdenville, Okla., and RDC, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Miramar Resources, Inc., a fully operational oil and gas company headquartered in Amarillo. The companies had signed an agreement to merge in September 1989. A special Rockwell shareholders' meeting was held to approve the merger on Feb. 28. With the addition of Rockwell's properties, Miramar Resources now owns in excess of 50 producing oil and gas wells in Colorado and Oklahoma.

Jeb S. Shultz, president of Miramar Resources, Inc., expressed his pleasure at the consummation of the merger, noting: "With the addition of Rockwell, our stockholder base has expanded by over 2,000 shareholders. We believe this will have a favorable impact on both the marketability of Miramar stock, and on our overall plans for future growth into assorted business activities."

WOODLAND HILLS, CA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Perceptronics Inc. (NASDAQ: PERC) announced today that it has been awarded a $1.7 million contract from the Taiwanese Army for a command training system. The one-year contract -- Perceptronics' first with Taiwan -- calls for delivery and installation of a Perceptronics COMBAT-SIM system, which is used by military forces throughout the world to train commanders in simulated battlefield situations.

Perceptronics also said that the company was not selected to provide continued contractor logistic support of SIMNET training sites in the United States and West Germany. The company helped develop the SIMNET warfighting system for the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency and has been providing operational support of the training sites since the mid 1980s. The loss of the contract will require staff reductions of aprroximately 50 people over the next few months.

"While the revenue picture for fiscal 1991 is anticipated to be flat or slightly down, we believe the prospects are good for a small, innovative defense company to be successful in today's very restrictive environment," said Dr. Gershon Weltman, Perceptronics' chairman and chief executive officer. "We are on several first rate teams competing for major military contracts and have the systems in place for growth both in and out of the defense sector." He noted, in particular, the company's ongoing work for the German Army on a tank simulator system, for the Israeli government on tank gunnery trainers, and for the U.S. on TOW and DRAGON missile trainers and Life Fire Evaluation Manikens.

Weltman also said encouraging growth in sales was being seen for Perceptronics' PERCNET software used by the aerospace industry to evaluate the man-machine systems component of crew station design, and that the company's new Digital Sound Generation System would have wide applicability for training simulators and entertainment devices.

Perceptronics is engaged in research and system development -- primarily for the Department of Defense -- and in the manufacture and marketing of low-cost, intelligent computer-based systems for training, simulation and decision support.

CHARLOTTE, NC (MARCH 8) PR NEWSWIRE - B.D. "Bob" Allen, 55, vice chairman of First Union Corporation (NYSE: FTU), has announced that he is retiring today, March 8.

Since the 1985 merger between First Union and Northwestern Financial Corporation, Allen has coordinated First Union's major mergers while the Charlotte-based bank holding company has increased its asset size five times to approximately $40 billion and expanded banking operations from one state into five.

"Bob Allen's leadership in making our mergers work has been invaluable to First Union. He deserves tremendous credit for our success in weaving more than 20 separate banking organizations into a single, unified company " said Edward E. Crutchfield Jr., First Union Corporation chairman and CEO. "I will miss him as a colleague, but I am pleased he will continue as part of the First Union family in his role as a director of our Florida bank."

Allen had been president of Northwestern, and with the merger became executive vice president of First Union. He was named vice chairman of First Union in 1986. Prior to joining Northwestern in 1979, Allen was

First Union's chief financial officer. He originally joined First Union in 1971. Allen is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy and earned a master's degree in business administration from Harvard University.

"It has been extremely rewarding for me to help manage our major mergers over the last five years," Allen said. "With the recent completion of our biggest acquisition -- Florida National -- now is an ideal time for me to make a change. I am excited about the challenges ahead of me and feel very fortunate to have had the opportunity to serve First Union as an employee for nearly two decades. I am extremely pleased that I will continue to serve First Union as a director of First Union Corporation of Florida and First Union National Bank of Florida."

First Union Corporation, based in Charlotte, N.C., completed its acquisition of Florida National Banks of Florida, Inc. on January 29, 1990 and now has assets of approximately $40 billion.

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Howell Corp. (NYSE: HWL) announced today that its audited net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, were $8,243,000, or $1.72 per share, on revenues of $284,138,000.

The earnings for 1989 represent the company's best performance since 1981.

The composition of the 1989 net earnings was: (A) earnings from continuing operations of $4,763,000 or $1.00 per share; (B) loss from discontinued operations of $312,000 or 7 cents per share; and (C) earnings from the cumulative effect of the change in accounting for income taxes of $3,792,000 or $.79 per share.

For the year ending Dec. 31, 1988, the company suffered a net loss of $28,634,000 or $5.97 per share, on revenues of $235,644,000. The 1988 net loss was composed of: (A) a loss from continuing operations of $5,760,000 or $1.20 per share; (B) a loss from discontinued operations of $10,087,000 or $2.10 per share; and (C) an extraordinary loss of $12,787,000 or $2.67 per share.

The financial results for the fourth quarter of 1989 were net earnings of $2,049,000 or 43 cents per share, on revenues of $78,945,000.

The 1989 fourth quarter earnings of 43 cents per share consisted of net earnings of $2,361,000 or 50 cents per share from continuing operations (of which $936,000, or 20 cents per share, is attributable to the recognition of a gain in the sale of the company's Canadian oil and gas assets) and a loss of $312,000 or 7 cents per share from discontinued operations.

These results compare favorably with the financial results for the fourth quarter of 1988, when the net loss was $14,141,000, or $2.95 per share, on revenues of $57,575,000.

The 1988 fourth quarter loss consisted of net earnings of $326,000 or 7 cents per share from continuing operations, a loss of $1,680,000 or 35 cents per share from discontinued operations and an extraordinary loss of $12,787,000 or $2.67 per share.

Howell Corp. is an energy industry holding company. Through wholly-owned operating units, it is engaged in oil and gas exploration and production, crude oil marketing, technical fuels refining and marketing, custom chemical processing, product terminalling and common carrier bulk liquids transportation of hydrocarbons and chemicals.

WESTWOOD, MA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - LTX Corporation (NASDAQ: LTXX), today announced its financial results for the second quarter ended Jan. 31 1990. Second quarter sales were $33,850,000 compared to sales of $40,032,000 in the same quarter of the prior year. The company reported a net loss of $(5,134,000) or (52 cents) per share compared to a net loss of $(4,079,000) or (42 cents) per share in the same quarter of the prior year.

Graham Miller, LTX president, stated: "The company made steady progress during the quarter in revenue improvement and reduced operating expenses. Multiple orders were booked in the U.S. and Japan for our Synchromaster product and order backlog for both linear and digital products increased during the quarter. In fact, we booked more orders than in any previous first half of a fiscal year. Although all of this is very encouraging, we will continue to operate the company with the limited visibility we have right now, one quarter at a time."

LTX Corporation is a leader in the design, manufacture and marketing of computer-controlled equipment for testing linear, digital and mixed-signal devices. The company offers multi-platform networking and information products for integrating the total production environment, from engineering through final test. LA JOLLA, CA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Bruce Hancox, chairman of Brierley Investments Ltd. and a director of Industrial Equity (Pacific) Limited (IEP) has advised that it will shortly have a formal reply to Chairman Dingell's inquiry regarding IEP's status as an investment company subject to reporting requirements pursuant to the Investment Company Act of 1940.

IEP states that its legal counsel is of the firm opinion that it is not an investment company subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940, because it is not making and has never made a public offering of shares or other securities in the United States. Rather, like thousands of foreign investment companies or mutual funds, it merely invests in U.S. securities. Investing in U.S. securities does not give rise to reporting requirements as an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940.

IEP is confident that the House Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations inquiry will result in the Subcommittee and the Securities and Exchange Commission finding that IEP is not an investment company subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940. IEP intends to cooperate fully and expeditiously with any regulatory inquiries that may be made in order to ensure that the Subcommittee and SEC are able quickly to conclude that it is not subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940.

EL PASO, TX (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - El Paso Electric Co. today reported preliminary unaudited consolidated results of operations for the three and 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1989.

For the three-month period, net loss applicable to common stock (after preferred stock dividend requirements of $2,847,000) was $51,047,000, composed of a provision for loss of $31,313,000 from discontinued operations and a loss of $16,887,000 from continuing operations.

The loss from continuing operations for the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, was adversely impacted by an adjustment to previously recorded income taxes of approximately $13,200,000; and the write-off of approximately $2,300,000 of deferred expenses.

For the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1989, the net loss applicable to common stock (after preferred stock dividend requirements of $11,812,000) was $117,645,000, composed of a loss from discontinued operations of $94,551,000 and loss from continuing operations of $11,282,000.

The loss from continuing operations for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1989, of $11,282,000 compares to income from continuing operations for the comparable period in 1988 of $63,877,000.

The substantial decrease constists of a decrease in utility operating income which reflects the rates ordered in May 1989 and continuing increases in utility operating costs throughout 1989.

Additionally, 1989 continuing operations were adversely impacted by a previously reported regulatory disallowance recorded in the first quarter of fiscal 1989 of $15,044,000, net of tax; a reduction in net investment income of approximately $16,100,000, net of tax; and those adustments made in the fourth quarter as discussed above.

The losses from discontinued operations for the three and 12 month periods reflect the company's divestiture during the year and in early January 1990 of its non-utility operations and investments.

The company reported that hearings began March 7 on its request for the third-step increase under the company's Texas rate moderation plan. The company requested an increase in its non-fuel base rates of approximately $33,900,000, of which $13,100,000 is requested in cash, with the balance of the increase to be deferred for recovery later under the plan.

The testimony filed in the case by the staff of the Public Utilities Commission of Texas, (PUCT) would, if adopted, result in a non-fuel base rate increase of approximately $20 million of which approximately $7 million is in cash. A final order from the PUCT is expected in late May 1990, with rates resulting from the filing to be in effect by July 1990.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Pearl of the East Inc., a furnishing and antique importer, said today it is voluntarily recalling hand-painted porcelain bowls in 10-inch, 12-inch and 14-inch sizes because the Food and Drug Administration found that they contained harmful levels of lead that could leach into food.

Even though these pieces are sold exclusively for decorations and collections, Pearl of the East said it is incumbent on the company to point out that prolonged use of these bowls for serving or storing food would be hazardous. In children, irreversible damage to the central nervous system could result from such long-term use.

The items being recalled were manufactured by To Ngai Earthware Co. in Hong Kong. Approximately 25 bowls were distributed through Pearl of the East's retail stores in Philadelphia and King of Prussia, Pa.

The following six designs are involved in this recall: Black Floral (588 F-BK), Chinese Famile Rose (575 NGF), Japenese Imari (627 WT), Blue Famile Rose (575 E-BE), Kutani Fan (625WT) and Kutani Gold (TKJ-WT). These can be identified by their designs.

These results compare with net income of $570,000, or 50 cents per share, in the year ago fourth quarter and $539,000, or 47 cents per share, for the fiscal year ended Dec. 30, 1988.

The fourth quarter ended a string of three quarterly losses, and Continental's heating and cooling equipment companies achieved significant sales gains for the year.

Cash flow from operations increased to $6,058,000 in 1989, compared with $1,098,000 the previous year. The fourth quarter cash flow increased to $5,245,000, compared with $1,682,000 in the fourth quarter of 1988. Much of the increase was at Continental's Williams Furnace Co. subsidiary in Colton, Calif., where acquisition of another manufacturer's inventory and a seasonal shift to heavy December sales increased inventory and receivables in the year-ago fourth quarter. Williams' 1989 seasonal pattern, inventory and reduced working capital requirements were more normal.

Net sales increased to $84.1 million in 1989, from $69.9 million in 1988, strengthened by the acquisition of Imeco, Inc. of Polo and Dixon, Illinois in the fourth quarter of 1988. Net sales declined to $20.3 million in the recent period, from $21.5 million in the year-ago fourth quarter.

Lower fourth quarter volume and operating income at Williams Furnace and Transit Mix Concrete Co. of Colorado Springs, Colo., together with inventory adjustments at Williams and operating losses at Continental's other Colorado Springs subsidiary, Castle Concrete Co., reduced fourth-quarter results from the year-ago level.

Combined results of Continental's two building materials subsidiaries declined further, as construction industry conditions continued to deteriorate in Colorado Springs. Transit Mix managed to increase income despite narrow margins in 1989, and generated significant cash flow with the sale of excess rolling stock. Castle Concrete was unable to offset weak market conditions and reported a significant loss for the year. Three of Castle's operations which had proved unprofitable were closed at year end.

ENGLEWOOD, CO (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Equitex Inc. (NASDAQ: EQTX) said that Roadmaster Industires Inc. (NASDAQ: WHEL), an Equitex 30 percent investee company, made the following announcement on March 7, 1990:

Roadmaster Industries Inc. ("RMI") (NASDAQ: WHEL) announced today that it had signed an agreement to acquire 100 percent of the outstanding stock of Columbia Manufacturing Co. ("Columbia"). The purchase price is for cash. Closing is expected within the next 30 days.

Columbia, founded in 1877, is the oldest manufacturer of bicycles in the United States. The company operates out of 462,000 square feet of manufacturing and storage space on 39.7 acres of land, located in Westfield, Mass.

In addition to producing a full line of bicycles, the company manufactures a school furniture line that is approximately 30 percent of its annual revenues.

Fiscal Dec. 31, 1989 revenues were in the $40 million range. "We are pleased to effect this combination of two of America's oldest and most highly respected bicycle manufacturers," said Henry Fong, Roadmaster Industries' president. "It gives Roadmaster an enlarged presence in the important Eastern corridor! The addition of the school furniture business gives Roadmaster a better balance of seasonal sales and access for a new customer base in an industry anticipating growth through replacements and new construction."

Columbia enjoys a premium position in this school furniture business," Fong said.

ENGLEWOOD, COL (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Equitex Inc. (NASDAQ: EQTX) said today that CompuSonics Video Corp. (OTC), an Equitex investee company, made the following announcement on Mar. 3, 1990:

West Bloomfield, Mich., -- Compusonics Video Corp. (CVC) (OTC) said today that it had signed a Joint Venture Agreement with Qualex Inc. (Qualex).

The pact calls for CVC and Qualex to refine, develop, operate and market a digital audio-visual multiple listing system for use in selling commerical and residential real estate. CVC says it will contribute its technology, know-how and patents to the project and Qualex will provide the appropriate and necessary funding. Qualex will also have the option to provide certain photofinishing and digitizing services. This agreement also provides for additional joint ventures based upon further applications that may result from this particular project.

The digital audio-visual system for marketing real estate, known as the "Digilist System 1300" was prototyped in early 1988 and first shown to the Real Estate Brokerage Industry later that year at the San Francisco National Association of Realtor's Show.

Qualex is one of the largest photographic processors in the world, processing film for over 50,000 retail outlets. Qualex is jointly owned by Fuqua Industries Inc. and Eastman Kodak Co.

Compusonics Video is involved in the research and development of a digital audio/visual recording and playback system. Its wholly-owned subsidiary, the Tyler-Shaw Corp., produces product offerings for the Direct Mail Merchandising Industry.

Equitex is a business development company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended.

PITTSBURGH (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Copperweld Corp. (NYSE: COS) has announced the completion of a $50 million facility for the production of drawn-over-mandrel (DOM) welded tubing at its Ohio Steel Tube Division (OST) in Shelby, Ohio.

The DOM expansion is the first phase of Copperweld's "Vision 100" manufacturing excellence plan targeted for Ohio Steel Tube, which was announced in July 1988. OST, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, manufactures both DOM welded and seamless mechanical tubing.

"Our Vision 100 manufacturing initiative grew from our mission of leadership and excellence in product quality, customer service and marketing," John Turner, president and CEO, said. "Because we are a customer-driven company, we initiated the Vision 100 plan to meet our mechanical tubing customers' needs for a committed supplier who will provide defect-free product, 100 percent on-time delivery and superior customer service."

The new facilities include two building additions totaling 145,000 square feet; a new weld mill with a super coiler; a normalize anneal furnace; a stress relief anneal furnace; a 650,000-pound draw bench; a push pointer; and expanded shipping facilities. A finishing line from OST's Plant One has also been upgraded and refurbished. Final check-out and break-in is expected to be completed by March 31, 1990, with production mode beginning in April 1990.

The size range of the new mill, 8-5/8-inch maximum outside diameter and one-half-inch wall thickness, with an 8/1 d/t ratio, complements the sizes of OST's other weld mills, giving scheduling and production flexibility. This will result in overall shorter lead times on all customers' orders and the ability to produce tubing on extremely short notice for customers' emergency requirements.

"Our customers told us what they wanted -- tubing of the highest quality at the lowest possible cost, with on-time deliveries so that they can better control their inventories. They also asked for shorter lead times and a supplier who is flexible enough to provide quick deliveries in case of an emergency," Basil Davies, vice president of marketing and sales, said. "We responded to our customers' needs with Vision 100."

The DOM expansion is just one part of Vision 100, Ohio Steel Tube's five-year, $94 million investment program. In addition to the DOM facility Copperweld will be investing in extensive information systems integration including process and shop floor controls and data acquisition systems. A broad-band Local Area Network has been installed and second stage tie-ins are now under way. Significant funds will be spent for organization development, training, employee involvement, and skills upgrading. In addition, seamless tubing facilities will be upgraded.

The company is entering the 1990s with an arsenal of advantages for better quality, productivity and service to its customers. The DOM expansion is an integral part of its strategic plan for gaining market share both domestically and worldwide.

Turner concluded, "Our $94 million investment into the facilities where mechanical tubing is manufactured and in the people who work in those plants to produce it will insure Copperweld's leadership position as the premier manufacturer of DOM tubing in the world. No one can match Copperweld's commitment to tubing and to our customers."

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Pool Energy Services Co. has filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to sell 10.5 million shares of common stock in an initial public offering plus up to an additional 1.0 million shares if the underwriters' overallotment option is exercised. It will also sell 2.0 million shares to ENSERCH Corp. (NYSE: ENS) in a private placement at the initial public offering price, which is anticipated to be between $10 and $12 per share. Pool Energy Services is a company formed for the purpose of purchasing the companies that comprise the oil field services business operated by Pool Co., a wholly owned subsidiary of Dallas-based ENSERCH.

Proceeds from the sale of the 12.5 million shares and the first $4 million of net proceeds from any exercise of the overallotment option will be used to purchase the oil field services business from ENSERCH.

ENSERCH has stated that the 2.0 million Pool shares purchased by ENSERCH will be set aside and distributed pro rata as a special dividend to ENSERCH common stock shareholders approximately 180 days from the date of the closing of the transaction or earlier if Pool Energy Services stock trades at least 30 percent above the initial offering price for 20 consecutive trading days. The record date for the ENSERCH special dividend will be determined at a later date.

Of the 10.5 million shares to be sold to the public, 8.0 million will be offered in the United States through underwriters represented by Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc., Merrill Lynch Capital Markets and Howard, Weil, Labouisse, Friedrichs, Inc., and 2.5 million will be offered outside the United States through managers represented by Shearson Lehman Hutton International, Inc. and Merrill Lynch International Limited.

ENSERCH announced in September 1988 its intention to sell Pool Co. and to account for its oil field services segment as a discontinued operation.

FORT WORTH, TX, (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Snyder Oil Partners L.P. (NYSE: SOI) today announced its results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989. Revenues for the year totalled $58.7 million, virtually level with 1988 results. Production volumes declined 5.1 pecrent, due primarily to the lack of acquisitions in 1989 and limited drilling activity.

This decrease was offset by increases in average oil and gas prices. Operating expenses were lower than in the prior year primarily due to the reduced cost of gas and transportation. General and administrative expenses were cut by 16 percent during the year but the decrease was offset by increased interest expense resulting from higher average debt levels. consequently, operating cash flow totalled $23.5 million, only a slight increase over the prior year.

Net income reached $2.9 million for the year versus a loss of $15.0 million in 1988. The 1988 loss resulted from a $16.5 million writedown in the carrying value of SOI's oil and gas properties. Net income per equivalent Unit in 1989 was 11 cents per equivalent Unit compared to a loss of 60 cents in the prior year.

SOI reported proved reserves of 30.0 million barrels of oil equivalents at Dec. 31, 1989, having a pre-tax present value (using unescalated prices) of $144.6 million, up three percent from Dec. 31, 1988. Only 161,000 barrels of oil equivalents ($831,000 of present value) were added in 1989 through acquisitions.

Consequently, the rise in reserve value was due primarily to increased oil and gas prices offset by production, an increase in projected capital costs and delays in the timing of production from future drilling.

SOI's unitholders are currently being asked to approve a proposal to consolidate SOI with the parent of its general partner, SOCO Holdings Inc. ("SOCO"). The proposal will be voted on at a Special Meeting to be held on March 23, 1990. SOCO's revenues for the year totalled $27.7 million, an increase of 78 percent over 1988 levels. Net income reached $6.9 million, a gain of 37 percent from the prior year. Net income per share rose to 82 cents per share versus 60 cents in 1988. At year-end 1989, SOCO reported proved reserves having a pre-tax present value (using unescalated prices) of $51.8 million ($43.9 million after-tax).

Proved reserve volumes and their pre-tax present value rose 53 percent and 62 percent, respectively from year-end 1988. The substantial increases in net income and proved reserves resulted primarily from acquisitions. During 1989, SOCO acquired 5.5 million barrels of oil equivalents having a pre-tax present value of approximately $26.1 million.

On a pro forma basis, as if SOI and SOCO had been combined on Jan. 1, 1989 revenues and net income of the consolidated company for the year would have totalled $83.6 million and $8.0 million, respectively. Proved reserves at December 31, 1989 would have totalled 40.1 million barrels having a pre-tax present value (using unescalated prices) of $182.1 million (an after-tax value of $160.6 million). These figures are calculated after elimination of SOCO's approximately 10 percent interest in SOI.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The Dress Barn, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: DBRN), announced today that earnings for the 26-week period ended Jan. 27, 1990, were $6,188,000, a decrease of 38 percent from the $9,942,000 earned in the prior year's comparable period. Sales in the 26-week reporting period were $137,686,000 compared with $123,799,000 last year, an increase of 11 percent.

For the 13-week period ended Jan. 27, 1990, net income decreased to $1,792,000 from $4,821,000 in the prior year's comparable quarter, a decrease of 63 percent. Sales in the 13-week period were $68,371,000 vs. $63,054,000, an increase of 8 percent.

The company indicated that results during these periods were adversely affected by the unusual and extraordinarily heavy promotional efforts by department stores, unseasonable weather, the closing of its 19-store leased department operation, and a chainwide conversion to POS cash registers.

At Jan. 27, 1990, the company had 436 stores in operation, a net addition of 58 from a year earlier. This year's total reflects the opening of 17 Dress Barn Woman stores, a new division, catering to the larger size customer and the closing of all of the 19 leased departments. With scheduled openings for the spring, the company said it plans to have more than 470 stores by fiscal year end. The company noted that February sales, although certainly not indicative for the full upcoming season, increased 30 percent from last year.

The Dress Barn, Inc. operates a chain of off-price women's apparel stores, offering in-season, moderate-to-better quality fashion apparel, primarily with nationally recognized brand names, at substantial discounts from department store prices.

RALEIGH, NC (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Attorney General Lacy Thornburg said today that Southern Bell is refunding over $120,000 which it owes to North Carolina businesses and government agencies for underpayment of pay telephone commissions.

"Some of the commission payments have been in arrears for several years," Thornburg said, "and I'm please that Bell's customers are finally getting the payment due."

While Bell has agreed to make the payments, Thornburg said that his examination of the matter was not complete.

Thornburg's office had been looking into the non-payment of commission since receiving information last December from the state attorney general's office in Florida, where similar underpayments had been discovered.

"The amounts being repaid are still subject to verification, and questions remain concerning how and why these deficiencies occurred," Thornburg said. "However, my office and Bell have agreed that reimbursements as currently calculated should not be delayed any longer."

Thornburg said that Bell's underpayment of commissions apparently began in August, 1986 when Bell transferred its operator functions from one system to another. Underpayments persisted from that point in 1986 until now.

"One of the main questions is why such a substantial period of time elapsed between the deficient payments and the repayments to customers, and Bell is cooperating with us in trying to resolve the issue," Thornburg said.

Among those North Carolina institutions which Bell indicates are owed money are airport authorities, the North Carolina Department of Corrections, hospitals and sheriffs' departments. The institutions are supposed to receive commissions from pay telephones installed on their premises.

HOWELL, NJ (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Union Valley Corporation (AMEX: UVC) today announced a sizable workforce reduction and other cost-cutting measures that are expected to result in annualized savings of about $4.3 million, after taking into account severance pay and other benefits paid to terminated employees. The layoff affects 60 employees, or about 35 percent of the company's New Jersey staff.

Union Valley said the cost cutting is a result of depressed economic conditions in its key New Jersey home-building markets. The company's lenders requested that Union Valley reduce its costs in light of lower backlogs and housing deliveries.

As reported earlier, Union Valley has been notified that First Fidelity Bank, N.A., New Jersey, will not renew its $100 million revolving credit agreement with the company. First Fidelity and Union Valley are negotiating terms of a new financing arrangement that will accommodate current business conditions and provide adequate financing for the company's residential construction activities.

First Fidelity takes the position that all outstanding sums under the $100 million revolving credit agreement will be due and payable on Aug. 1, 1990. No assurances can be given regarding the outcome of these negotiations.

Union Valley Corporation designs, builds, and markets retirement and pre-retirement communities, non-age restricted housing and commercial real estate, in New Jersey, Delaware, and Pennsylvania.

BEAVERTON, OR. (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - FPS Computing (NYSE, PSE: FLP) reported today first quarter revenue of $11.7 million compared to $13.5 million for the fourth quarter 1989. The company reported a loss of $2.5 million compared to a fourth quarter loss of $2.6 million. The fourth quarter loss included an extraordinary charge of $1.5 million.

"Products introduced and brought into production over the past year contributed almost 80 percent of product revenue this quarter," said Howard A. Thrailkill, FPS Computing's president and chief executive officer. "While we are encouraged by the acceptance of our new Model 500 product family, we were disappointed with the softness in demand for more mature products which contributed to our operating loss."

During the quarter the company made first production shipments of its new Model 500EA UNIX(TM) supercomputers to customers in Japan, Canada, and Europe as well as the United States. Other highlights include the signing of ITA, a major geophysical software developer for state of the art 3D seismic software, to a Value Added Reseller Agreement. FPS Computing also broadened the availability of key third party applications software with the announcement of the INGRES(TM) Database software. This software adds to the depth of applications codes available in the company's target markets: petroleum, computational chemistry, design engineering and signal processing markets.

In February, Donald McDougall was elected as senior vice president. McDougall joined the company in January 1988, as vice president, marketing sales and service. The worldwide sales organization was further strengthened with the addition of Malcolm Padina, previously a senior executive with Prime Computer Inc., as vice president for European Operations.

"The Model 500EA continues to gain strength particularly in perfomance benchmarking against the competition," said McDougall. "Our customers and prospects are beginning to understand the value of our third generation modular supercomputer architecture as a real differentiator in the marketplace. The unique architecture of the Model 500EA is the foundation for FPS Computing's supercomputer product strategy. Over the next few months we will continue to announce and bring to market unique supercomputing solutions that build upon this foundation."

Founded in 1970, FPS Computing is headquartered in Beaverton and is listed on the New York and Pacific Stock Exchanges with the symbol FLP. The company's product offerings include the Model 500EA UNIX Supercomputer, the Model 350 Visualization Supercomputer, the Model 5800 Series High-Performance array processor, and the M64 Matrix Supercomputer.

DALLAS, (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Holly Corp. (AMEX: HOC), today reported results for the company's second quarter and first six months ended Jan. 31, 1990.

Holly's net income was $4.3 million for the second quarter of fiscal 1990, compared to a record $6.2 million for the second quarter of the prior year. For the six months ended Jan. 31, 1990, net income was $9.4 million compared to the record $18.2 million for the like period of the prior year. Per share net income for the second quarter of fiscal 1990 was 51 cents, compared to 76 cents per share in the prior year. For the six months net income per share was $1.14, compared to $2.21.

Income from refining operations for the quarter ended Jan. 31, 1990, was essentially the same as that in the prior year's quarter. While refining margins were lower in the current period, due to increases in crude oil prices without corresponding adjustments in refined product prices, product sales volumes were 15 percent greater, offsetting the decrease in margins. Last year's sales volumes were impacted by a scheduled shutdown of the company's Navajo refinery in Artesia, New Mexico for major maintenance (turnaround), while production for the current quarter was at a record level.

Non-operating items impacted earnings in the current quarter. As a consequence of the $10 special dividend paid in July 1989, interest income from investments of surplus cash decreased and interest expense increased for a net decrease of $1.1 million in earnings. Last year's record quarter also included receipt of a pipeline tariff rollback of $1.8 million, whereas the current quarter reflects $500,000 in other income as a final settlement of the same matter. Further contributing to the earnings decrease were exploration expenses of $500,000 for costs associated with the oil and gas program.

The significant decrease in comparative earnings for the six month periods is primarily attributable to very strong refining margins in the first quarter of the prior year.

The increase in comparative revenues for both the three month and six month periods is principally due to higher volumes sold and higher product prices, with the effect of each factor being approximately the same.

Holly Corp., through its affiliates, Navajo Refining Co. and Montana Refining Co., is engaged in the refining of petroleum products.

NEW YORK, (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Pan Am Corporation (NYSE: PN) today reported a 1989 net loss of $336.6 million, compared with a net loss of $72.7 million in 1988 ($2.31 loss per share compared with $.51 loss per share).

The 1989 results include a gain of $110.5 million from the sale of Pan Am World Services, a contract services subsidiary, while the 1988 results included an $89.1 million gain from the sale of A320 aircraft delivery positions. The corporation's 1989 operating loss was $306.5 million, compared with an operating loss the year before of $63.5 million.

Operating revenues in 1989 were $3.561 billion, down slightly from $3.569 billion the year before. Operating expenses were up 6.5 percent, from $3.633 billion to $3.868 billion.

The principal subsidiary of the corporation, Pan American World Airways, reported a net loss of $437.1 million in 1989, compared with a net loss of $118.3 million in 1988. Operating revenues were down 2.2 percent, from $3.359 billion to $3.284 billion. Operating expenses were up 4.9 percent, from $3.443 billion to $3.612 billion.

The corporation said Pan Am's revenues were severely impacted by declines in traffic and yield in its Atlantic Division.

"Despite the severe setback in our 1989 financial performance, we continued implementing our plans to provide high quality customer service " said Thomas G. Plaskett, chairman and chief executive officer of Pan Am.

"The positive traffic results in recent months are most encouraging, and serve to support our belief that consumers are recognizing the improvements we have made in our service product," he said.

The company noted that passenger traffic in January this year was up 23 percent over the same month a year ago, followed by a 26 percent year-over-year increase in February.

Fourth Quarter In the fourth quarter of 1989, Pan Am Corporation reported a loss of $178.3 million, compared with a loss of $51.7 million in the fourth quarter of 1988 ($1.21 loss per share compared with $0.36 loss per share.)

Operating revenues were up 6.9 percent, from $839.9 million to $897.9 million. Operating expenses were up 10.3 percent, from $950.4 million to $1.048 billion, driven in large part by a 35 percent increase in fuel expense, from $129.4 million in the fourth quarter of 1988 to $174.7 million in the fourth quarter of 1989. The operating loss was $150.1 million compared with an operating loss of $110.5 million in 1988.

Pan American World Airways reported a net loss of $162.5 million in the fourth quarter of 1989, compared with a loss of $63.6 million in the same quarter the year before. Operating revenues for the airline were up 6.4 percent, from $782.2 million to $832.6 million, while operating expenses increased 9 percent, from $900.0 million to $981.4 million.

Operating loss for the fourth quarter of 1989 was $148.8 million, compared with $117.8 million in the fourth quarter of 1988.

BROOKLYN, NY (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Supreme Equipment & Systems Corp. (NASDAQ: SEQP) today reported a loss in operating results for the second quarter and first half ended Jan. 31, 1990. Martin Frederick, president and chief executive officer said: "While sales for the second quarter declined eight percent from the same period last year, it represented the second consecutive increase in quarterly revenues for the company after six consecutive quarters of decline. We made substantial reductions in selling and manufacturing overhead; however, these savings could not totally offset higher raw material costs and increased interest expense."

Frederick said that "Supreme would continue its successful cost containment efforts to further reduce selling and administrative expense in the coming months to close the gap and attain profitability for the company. With new marketing strategies and continued improvement in production and information systems, we feel we will be able to achieve profits with volume increases."

For the quarter ended Jan. 31, 1990 net sales amounted to $8,017,000 compared to $8,687,000 for the same period last year. The company had a loss of $239,000, or 22 cents per share, against a second quarter loss last year of $190,000, or 17 cents per share.

For the six months ended Jan. 31, 1990, net sales amounted to $15,720,000, as against $17,377,000 in last year's first half. A first half loss of $828,000 or 77 cents per share, was recorded against a loss of $561,000, or 52 cents per share, a year ago.

LANSDALE, PA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - George King, chief financial officer of AEL Industries Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: AELNA) reported today that the company will probably not record the gain on the redemption of the company's redeemable shares in Tadiran Ltd. on AEL's fourth quarter which ended Feb. 23, 1990.

AEL tendered the shares to Tadiran on Jan. 1, 1990, and Tadiran is required to settle the transaction by payment to AEL of approximately $25 million by Apr. 1, 1990. Under the terms of the redemption agreement, if Tadiran fails to pay the redemption price, Koor Industries Ltd. (Tadiran's parent) must purchase the shares at the redemption price within 30 days after AEL gives notice to Koor. Both Tadiran and Koor have experienced adverse operating conditions and have requested an extension of the payment obligation. The company is seeking to negotiate with Tadiran and Koor a mutually satisfactory arrangement for payment of the redemption price. However, in accordance with accounting standards, due to the state of uncertainty, recognition of the redemption gain in fiscal year 1990 is not probable.

King also stated that, if the redemption gain is not recognized in fiscal year 1990, approximately $3 million of income tax benefits recorded by AEL in the nine months ended Nov. 24, 1989, in anticipation of offsetting the current year operating loss against that gain, will be reversed in AEL's fourth quarter.

It was previously reported that a review of the pricing of a contract modification awarded in 1985 was being conducted by the Defense Contract Audit Agency. The company is now responding to a subpoena issued by the inspector general of the Department of Defense for documents relating to this matter. Neither the company nor the inspector general has completed its inquiry and the company is therefore unable to determine at this time whether any civil, criminal or administrative liability is likely to result.

AEL is a leading supplier of electronic defense systems and subsystems. The company designs and manufactures sophisticated countermeasures, simulation and radar warning receiver systems; installs and integrates electronic and avionic equipment in military aircraft, and provides state-of-the-art antenna, microwave and integrated circuit components.

The Class A common stock of AEL Industries Inc. is traded in the Over-the-Counter market on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol AELNA.

NEW HAVEN, CT (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - First Constitution Financial Corporation (NASDAQ: FCON) and GHKM Corporation announced they have mutually agreed to terminate an agreement under which GHKM was to purchase all outstanding common shares of First Constitution. The announcement was made jointly by Walter R. Miller Jr., president and chief executive officer of First Constitution, and W. Grant Gregory, chairman of GHKM.

The merger agreement, signed by both parties in early October, provides for termination in the event of a material adverse change. The company's Feb. 5 announcement of a significant increase in its provision for losses and the deterioration of the New England real estate market in general are construed to be such a development.

"GHKM has informed us that it continues to be interested in acquiring First Constitution," Miller said, "and negotiations toward that end are continuing. At the same time, we have an obligation to act in the best interests of our own shareholders and have instructed our investment bankers -- Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated -- to review all alternatives in order to maximize shareholder value."

KINSTON, N.C. (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Hampton Industries, Inc. (AMEX: HAI) reported that sales for the quarter ended December 30, 1989 were $47,857,000 as compared to $55,045,000 in 1988. The Company reported a loss for the period of $866,000, or $.21 per share versus earnings of $1,921,000, or $.48 per share last year.

For the year ended December 30, 1989, Hampton reported sales of $181,809,000, as compared to sales of $173,064,000 last year. Earnings for the year totaled $3,557,000, or $.91 per share, as compared to $4,136,000 in 1988, or $1.04 per share.

The 1988 per share amounts have been restated to reflect the 10 percent common stock dividend issued in July 1989.

Mr. David Fuchs, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Hampton, stated that product costs increased during the period because of a reduction in plant production utilization. In addition, the LIFO inventory provision during the current quarter was approximately $500,000 higher than a year ago.

Late deliveries of raw material caused the Company to incur a significant amount of excess freight charges in order to meet delivery schedules. In addition, the quarter included startup costs related to several newly formed divisions.

He stated that lower production levels will prevail at least throughout the first quarter. Mr. Fuchs noted that the Company's advance order position was approximately the same as last year.

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Goldbelt Mines Inc. (Vancouver: GOT) and Continental Gold Corp. (Vancouver: CNT) announced today agreement in principle of the acquisition by Goldbelt of Continental's interest in the approximate 47,000-acre Trophy project in the Galore Creek area of Northwestern British Columbia's ''Golden Triangle''.

Under the terms of the proposed agreement, Goldbelt will acquire virtually all Continental's interest in the project in return for the issue of 750,000 common shares of Goldbelt to Continental and a 10 percent net profits interest. The transaction is subject to preparation and execution of a formal agreement, approval by the boards of directors of both companies, and regulatory and other necessary approvals.

In 1987 Continental secured a strategic land position in the Galore Creek area covering over 74 square miles of geologically attractive ground. In early 1989, Continental signed an option and joint venture agreement with Gigi Resources Inc. on the Trophy project, whereby Gigi can earn up to a 55 percent interest in the project by spending $5,500,000 on the property and by issuing Continental 200,000 Gigi shares by 1994. Gigi completed a $500,000 exploration program during 1988 and 1989 and has a project exploration budget of $1,000,000 for 1990.

During 1988 numerous syenite stocks, mineralized shear zones, veins, skarns and gold showings were discovered. Drill intercepts from only one of the many excellent precious metal targets on the property include 0.12 oz. Au/ton, 6.24 oz Ag/ton and 2.87 percent Zn over 33 feet, and 0.16 Au/ton, 0.88 oz Ag/ton and 1.11 percent Zn over 36 feet.

''This proposed acquisition will further strengthen Goldbelt's important land position in the Galore Creek area'', said Mike Muzylowski, chairman of the board of Goldbelt. The company has acquired approximately 90,000 acres by staking and has become the largest shareholder in Pass Lake Resources (Vancouver: PLJ) which has interests, directly and indirectly, in a further 147,000 acres.

DALLAS (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - MCorp (PSE: M.P) today announced it has executed a definitive agreement that will result in the acquisition of MBank Corpus Christi by a private investor group. MBank Corpus Christi is a wholly owned banking subsidiary of MCorp with assets of $582 million and deposits of $502 million at Dec. 31, 1989.

Terms of the agreement call for MCorp to receive an undisclosed amount of assets, principally loans and real estate, in redemption of all issued and outstanding stock of MBank Corpus Christi. Simultaneously, MBank Corpus Christi will issue approximately $20 million in new stock in a private offering. Other terms of the agreement provide for the bank's name to be changed to Corpus Christi National Bank, the name under which it was originally chartered in 1890.

The transaction, which is subject to applicable regulatory and bankruptcy court approvals, is expected to be completed by July 31, 1990. MCorp has been in Chapter 11 proceedings since March 31, 1989.

The proposed sale of MBank Corpus Christi reflects MCorp's ongoing efforts to maximize the company's value for the benefit of its creditors and shareholders. On Feb. 26, 1990, MCorp announced it had executed a definitive agreement to sell its interest in MBank El Paso to a private investor group led by the bank's management. This transaction, which is subject to applicable regulatory and bankruptcy court approvals, calls for MCorp to receive an undisclosed amount of cash in exchange for all issued and outstanding stock of MBank El Paso.

RESTON, VA. (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The board of directors of Freddie Mac (NYSE: FRE) today declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents per share on the corporation's voting common stock.

The board also elected David W. Glenn, chief operating officer and executive vice president, as the new president of the Freddie Mac.

Dividends will be payable on March 30, 1990 to stockholders of record as of March 19, 1990.

The board also stated its current intent to pay holders of the voting common stock a quarterly dividend of 40 cents per share for each of the remaining three quarters of 1990. The recommended dividend is equal to the amount voting common shareholders received in 1989. The board voted to retain the 1989 payout rate in order to continue to strengthen the corporation's capital base.

Glenn assumes the presidency from Leland Brendsel, who is currently Freddie Mac's chairman and chief executive officer. Glenn has been chief operating officer since November 1989. He first joined Freddie Mac as chief financial officer in November 1987.

The board also named four other Freddie Mac officers to senior management positions: Michael K. Stamper becomes executive vice president -- risk management; Henry Cassidy becomes senior vice president -- credit policy; Mark Latimer becomes senior vice president -- capital markets; and Debra Vick becomes senior vice president -- credit compliance and reporting.

Freddie Mac is a stockholder-owned corporation chartered by Congress in 1970 to create a continuous flow of funds to mortgage lenders in support of homeownership and rental housing. By linking the capital markets with the mortgage markets, Freddie Mac brings the efficiencies and lower costs of the secondary mortgage market to the lender, the investor and the homebuyer. Over the years, Freddie Mac has helped finance one in every eight American homes, including more than half a million apartment units.

DEARBORN, MI (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) announced it will strengthen its commitment to van converters whose products meet the company's high standards for quality and customer satisfaction.

"We are now launching plans to distribute virtually all E-150 Econolines and Aerostars equipped for van conversions purposes through Ford-authorized converters -- compared with about half our volume today," said James M. Ludlow, Ford Division truck sales promotion manager. "By doing this, we gain a much closer working relationship with the companies building Ford-brand van conversions. Thus, we are better able to exercise quality assurance measures that result in higher product quality and greater customer satisfaction."

"A three-year phase-in period is planned to allow for an orderly transition for those businesses presently involved in the sales and distribution of non-Ford-pool conversion vans," Ludlow said, adding that the change should be completed by late 1992.

WORCESTER, MA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Cambridge BioScience Corporation (NASDAQ: CBCX) reported today the audited results for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, were revenues of $8,572,049 vs. $4,092,896 recorded in 1988. Net loss for 1989 was $8,478,094, or $0.80 per share, compared with the net loss of $7,623,659, or $0.82 per share, for 1988.

Senior vice president-treasurer Donald G. Reed attributed the company's growth in revenues to three factors: first, product sales were three times those of 1988; second, research and development income that was double that of 1988; and a full of year interest on proceeds of the company's 1988 public offering.

Reed also said that the company's losses were primarily attributable to expenses associated with expanded manufacturing facilities and continued investment in research and development for new products.

In addition, the losses in the fourth quarter were in part attributable to one-time expenses in connection with management changes, information systems development and inventory adjustments taken in the fourth quarter of 1989 to more appropriately reflect the company's transition from an R&D emphasis into the marketing and distribution orientation of the 1990s.

The financial position of Cambridge BioScience remains strong with cash and investments at Dec. 31, 1989, of about $21 million, and no long-term debt. The company's net worth decreased from $36,689,539 at year-end 1988 to $29,213,506 as of Dec. 31, 1989.

MIAMI (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Capital Bancorp today revised its fourth quarter and calendar year 1989 earnings. For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989 consolidated net income was $8.0 million, or $1.78 per share, up 14 percent from net income of $7.0 million, or $1.58 per share, during 1988. For the fourth quarter of 1989, Capital Bancorp posted consolidated net income of $1.4 million, or $3.2 per share, compared with $1.8 million, or $.40 per share, for the final quarter of 1988.

Original figures reported were consolidated net income of $8.5 million, or $1.89 per share, for the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, and $1.9 million, or $.43 per share, for the fourth quarter of 1989.

Consolidated figures include the results of Capital Bank, Capital Factors, Inc., and Capital Trading Group, Inc.

"Recently, a routine internal audit identified some inaccuracies in the accounting for purchases and cost of sales recorded by Capital Trading Group, a wholly owned export trade subsidiary of Capital Bancorp," explained Abel Holtz, chairman and president of Capital Bancorp. "As a result of this new information, we deemed it necessary to adjust the trading subsidiary records and revise reported earnings. The results of the trading subsidiary have no effect on Capital Bancorp's wholly owned major subsidiary, Capital Bank, which reported 1989 earnings of $10.4 million."

MANCHESTER, NH (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Shareholders of Public Service of New Hampshire have solidly approved Northeast Utilities' (NYSE: NU) Chapter 11 reorganization plan for PSNH.

According to John C. Duffett, PSNH's chairman, president and chief executive officer, PSNH's preferred and common stockholders voted to accept the proposal, which calls for Connecticut-based NU to acquire PSNH. Holders of warrants to purchase PSNH common stock, the most junior class of claimants under the Plan of Reorganization, rejected the plan.

All classes of secured creditors also voted overwhelmingly to accept the Plan of Reorganization.

Except for the votes of a group of independent power producers, PSNH's unsecured creditors also voted to accept the Plan. These independent power producers allege claims of approximately $450 million, based on their own projections of the results of contract disaffirmance under the Plan. However, these contracts will be affirmed by the Plan as part of the bankruptcy process. Consequently, PSNH and NU believe that nearly all of the claims are invalid.

PSNH and NU have been aware of these claims and both companies have expected that during the confirmation process these claims will be disallowed. Among the remaining unsecured claims, 87 percent voted in favor of the Plan, which would represent acceptance of this voting class.

BLOOMFIELD, NJ (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Peerless Tube Company (AMEX: PLS) today reported a loss for the fourth quarter of 1989 and the year.

For the three months ended Dec. 31, 1989, sales of $8,335,155 decreased from $11,644,968 producing a loss of $1,604,199, or $.65 per share, compared to a loss of $365,398, or $.15 per share.

For the year, sales dropped to $44,515,207 resulting in a loss of $2,695,809, or $1.09 per share, compared to sales of $52,753,554 and earnings of $207,156, or $.09 per share (before the cumulative effect of an accounting change). Shares outstanding during the periods were 2,462,973 compared to 2,429,551.

Peerless' 1989 losses were primarily due to declining revenues and, more specifically, to a lower volume in aerosol business, said Frederic Remington Jr., chairman. He noted that sales during the first two months of 1990 improved significantly in all three major product lines and predicted a return to profitability during the first half of the year.

The board of directors on Jan. 25 voted to omit payment of the regular quarterly cash dividend to make more cash available for working capital purposes.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Lord & Taylor will strengthen its presence in the Washington market when it opens its Tysons Corner Center store in McLean, Va., on Monday, April 16, 1990.

Part of a nationwide expansion plan, the new store will be the third Lord & Taylor in Fairfax County and the fifth in the Washington area. Other area stores are located in Chevy Chase and White Flint, Md., and in Falls Church and Fairfax, Va.

Marshall Hilsberg, chairman and chief executive officer of Lord & Taylor, said, "Tysons Corner is at the heart of one of the most prosperous and fast-growing areas of the country. The newly expanded center will have a profound impact on the development cycle of this community. We are pleased to be joining one of the nation's premier retail complexes.

"In the 30 years since it first opened a store in Chevy Chase and established a presence in the market, Lord & Taylor has developed a strong base among the residents of the area as the American store dedicated to leadership and fine service. We look forward to strengthening our existing relationships and to making new friends," Hilsberg said.

In addition to the Tysons Corner store, Lord & Taylor has embarked on an aggressive expansion plan for store openings during the next five years. New stores will include Denver; Natick, Mass.; St. Louis, and two sites in Connecticut.

Lord & Taylor currently operates 48 stores in the District of Columbia and the following 14 states: Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

DAYTONA BEACH, FL (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Consolidated-Tomoka Land Co. (NASDAQ: CTLC), reports earnings for the year 1989 of $1,780,041 or $.57 a share, compared to $2,096,824, equivalent to $.67 a share, for the same period in 1988.

Citrus and resort operations were unfavorably negative to 1988, but more than offset by improved real estate development and income properties results. As in prior years, the most significant variable was profit derived from sale of undeveloped real estate. Because of the low cost-basis of most of this acreage, sales have a major profit impact. "We make such sales only when consistent with our land-use plans and at an equitable price, without regard to short-term earnings consequences. In 1989, a substantial decline in these sales was experienced," said David D. Peterson, chairman of the board.

The company also has a regional office in Lake Placid, Fla. operates Lake Placid Groves at Lake Placid, the Indigo Lakes Resort and Conference Center at Daytona Beach, a forestry operations, and residential and commercial land developments through its limited partnership with The Charles Wayne Group Ltd.

TRENTON, NJ (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The New Jersey Department of Banking announced today that it has approved the appointment of the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) as receiver of Nassau Savings and Loan Association a state-chartered, mutual association located in Princeton, N.J., effective immediately.

The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) has determined that Nassau is operating with substantially insufficient capital and does not show a reasonable prospect for raising new capital, and that operating losses will likely continue.

The RTC will first be appointed receiver of Nassau, whereupon the institution will be converted to a federally chartered, mutual association with the RTC acting as conservator of the newly chartered institution.

Nassau's capital deficiency is primarily due to the default of several large, out-of-state real estate projects and construction loans in which it had invested during the mid-'80s.

Nassau is the 37th-largest savings and loan association in New Jersey (out of a total of 129 institutions) and the 25th-largest state- chartered institution. It was formed in 1924 and currently operates five branch offices and five service corporations in New Jersey. It reported total assets of approximately $313 million, deposits of nearly $275 million, and negative tangible capital of $10.4 million as of Dec. 31, 1989.

The association is federally insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation through the Savings Association Insurance Fund (SAIF). Prior to the passage of the federal Financial Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act of 1989 (FIRREA), Nassau was insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - DI Industries Inc. (AMEX: DRL) announced today that it has determined not to proceed with a contemplated 1-for-4 reverse split of the outstanding shares of its common stock and that it has amended its registration statement previously filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission with respect to a proposed public offering of shares of its common stock to reflect the fact that the reverse stock split will not occur. Accordingly, 8,200,000 shares of common stock will be included in the public offering, of which 8 million shares will be sold by the company and 200,000 will be sold by a selling shareholder. The company anticipates that the common stock offering will be made next week. Oppenheimer and Co. Inc. will manage the proposed offering. The net proceeds to the company from the sale of the shares will be added to working capital to be used for general corporate purposes expected to include unstacking and refurbishing of inactive rigs, possible future acquisitions, and, to a lesser extent, expenditures for retirement of a portion of long-term debt and the purchase of an equipment yard.

DI Industries Inc., headquartered in Houston provides contract drilling and well workover services to firms in the oil and gas industry. The company also engages in commercial drilling activities and in oil and gas exploration, development and production. The common stock of the company trades on the American Stock Exchange under the symbol DRL.

Copies of the offering prospectus relating to the above-mentioned offering may be obtained from Opppenheimer & Co. Inc., Oppenheimer Tower, World Financial Center, New York, N.Y. 10281; or other offices of Oppenheimer & Co.; members of the underwriting and selling groups; or from the company, 450 Gears Road, Suite 625, Houston, Texas 77067.

The registration statement with respect to the above-mentioned securities has been filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission but has not yet become effective. Such securities may not be sold nor may offers to buy be accepted prior to the time the registration statement becomes effective. This announcement shall not constitute an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy, nor shall there be any sale of such securities in any state in which such offer, solicitation or sale would be unlawful prior to registration or qualification under the securities laws of any such state.

MIAMI (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - General Development Corporation (NYSE: GDV) announced today that its board of directors had reconstituted its Executive Committee to consist of Charles J. Simons, Eben W. Pyne and Peter R. Brinckerhoff with responsibility for developing a financing plan to bridge the severe liquidity problem currently being experienced by the company and to implement restructuring steps intended to restore General Development's financial condition. Simons, formerly vice-chairman, executive vice president and a director of Eastern Airlines, was designated by the board as chairman of the Executive Committee and chief executive officer of General Development.

The Executive Committee will also devote its attention to a prompt resolution of the investigation currently being conducted by the U.S. Attorney's office in Miami. David F. Brown, chairman of General Development, who, together with the company's president, Robert F. Ehrling relinquished their operating duties in order to deal with the pending Grand Jury investigation, stated: "The company is fortunate to have a director of Mr. Simons' experience and stature during this critical period."

General Development also announced today that Geo. T. Scharffenberger and Marshall Manley had resigned as directors of the company. Effective with their resignations, General Development reduced the size of its board of directors to eight persons.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - General Signal Corporation (NYSE: GSX) intends to divest three units that supply telecommunications test equipment, transmission and network products, and data network diagnostic and control equipment. The proceeds will be used to repay debt, according to an announcement made today by Edmund M. Carpenter, chairman and chief executive officer. The company has retained Salomon Brothers as financial advisor for the transaction.

In commenting on the proposed sale, Carpenter stated that, "These operations, which are part of our Technology Industries sector, recorded sales of nearly $120 million in 1989 and were nicely profitable. As the telecommunications equipment market is very large, our telecommunications businesses would be better suited to an owner who either already has significant critical mass in this area or whose strategic focus is to build such a presence."

The three General Signal units involved in the sale are Tau-tron, of Westford, Mass.; Telecommunications Technology Inc., based in Milpitas, Calif.; and Telenex, located in Mt. Laurel, N.J.

General Signal Corporation, with 1989 sales of $1.92 billion, is a leading manufacturer of equipment and systems for the process control, electrical, semiconductor, and transportation industries.

EATONTOWN, NJ (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Syntrex (NASDAQ: STRX) today reported revenues during the first quarter were $8,608,006, compared to $10,034,750 for the same period in 1989. Syntrex posted a net loss for the quarter of $2,133,669, or $.28 per share, compared to a net loss of $3,307,778, or $.45 per share, for the same period last year. Following the close of the quarter, the company, on Jan. 29, 1990, completed the acquisition of the operations and substantially all of the assets and liabilities of Lanier Business Systems, a unit of Harris Corporation's Lanier Worldwide, Inc. subsidiary.

Daniel Sinnott, chairman of the company, stated, "While we are clearly disappointed with our results in the first quarter, we are looking forward to improvements from the consolidation of our acquisition of Lanier Business Systems. In addition, substantial amounts of management time and resources required to complete the acquisition can now be directed toward the management and operation of the combined organization. The combined organization has over 550 networking sales, service and support professionals based in more than 40 cities nationwide. We believe that the consolidation of the two organizations will result in significant economies that are expected to reduce operating losses sustained by the two organizations while operating independently." Sinnott added, "The combination of Syntrex and the Lanier Business division will afford Syntrex the opportunity to strengthen its position in the network system integration marketplace." Toward that goal, the company reported that the March 1990 edition of LAN magazine listed Syntrex as the fifth largest Network VAR in the United States based on 1989 network product and service revenues.

In addition to the assumption of liabilities, the purchase price of the Lanier acquisition was $5 million plus 150,000 shares of the company's common stock that had a market value of $168,750 on the date of closing. The company paid $1 million in cash plus the 150,000 shares of stock at the closing on Jan. 29, 1990. The remaining cash portion of the purchase price is represented by a $4 million subordinated secured note, payable in four equal quarterly installments of $1 million each, plus accrued interest commencing in April 1990 and ending in January 1991. Following the closing, management has engaged in an evaluation of acquired assets and assumed liabilities and a pro-forma balance sheet for the combined organization as of Jan. 26, 1990, is included as part of this release. Some of the values assigned to assets and liabilities acquired are subject to revision at a later date. The pro-forma balance sheet reflects that the company's assets after the acquisition increased by $27.5 million, from $26.6 million to $54.1 million, while the liabilities increased by $19.7 million from $14.2 million to $33.9 million. Also, because the fair value of assets acquired are in excess of consideration paid and liabilities assumed, the acquisition has generated negative good will of $7.8 million after writing off fixed assets of approximately $2 million as required by generally accepted accounting principles.

TRENTON, NJ (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The New Jersey Department of Banking has approved the appointment of the Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC) as receiver of Yorkwood Savings and Loan Association, a state- chartered, mutual institution located in Maplewood, N.J., effective immediately.

The Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) has determined that Yorkwood is operating with substantially insufficient capital and does not show a reasonable prospect of raising additional capital, and that operating losses will likely continue. The RTC will first be appointed receiver of Yorkwood, whereupon the institution will be converted to a federally chartered, mutual association with the RTC acting as conservator of the newly chartered federal association.

In response to the addition of Yorkwood to the RTC's conservatorship program, Acting Bank Commissioner Robert M. Jaworski stated that, "The association's depositors and creditors will be fully protected as a result of this action. I would emphasize that there will be little or no disruption in service to customers and that all deposit accounts of up to $100,000 will continue to be fully insured by the federal government."

Yorkwood's capital deficiency is primarily due to the change in accounting rules from regulatory accounting principles (RAP) to generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) which were enacted as part of the federal Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act (FIRREA) of 1989. The new rules no longer allow institutions to give special consideration to deferred loan losses.

Yorkwood is the 59th-largest savings and loan association in New Jersey (out of a total of 129 institutions) and the 44th-largest state- chartered association. It was formed in 1966 as a result of a merger between Maplewood Savings and Loan Association and Yorke Savings and Loan Association. It currently operates five branch offices and two mini-branch offices.

The association reported assets of approximately $205 million, deposits of approximately $191 million, and negative tangible capital of $10.7 million as of Dec. 31, 1989. The association is federally insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation through the Savings Association Insurance Fund (SAIF). Prior to the passage of FIRREA, Yorkwood was insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC).

Yorkwood will be open for business as usual on Saturday.

DFW AIRPORT, TX (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - The nation's air transportation system is a vital component of the U.S. economy. It underpins the country's economic vigor and is essential to U.S. competitive capabilities in the emerging global marketplace. American Airlines congratulates Secretary of Transportation Samuel Skinner for having the foresight and vision to produce a comprehensive package of transportation-related initiatives.

We are particularly enthusiastic about the policy's stated goal of "removing the barriers the impede efficiency and restrict the free flow of interstate and international commerce," and of its recognition of the importance of devoting the resources necessary to devlop a fully capable transportation infrastructure.

While welcoming this initiative, we are concerned about the wisdom of focusing responsiblity for financing the transportation infrastructure so heavily on system users. It is possible that such a policy may lessen the vigor of the transportation system and, ultimately, weaken the national company.

However, we enthusiastically support Secretary Skinner's determination to find ways, within the constraints of a user-funding policy, to overcome the shortages of capacity, facilities and technology which have hampered the system's growth in recent years. We hope that in the months ahead, the new statement, and Secretary Skinner's vigor, will lay the groundwork for an even more healthy and competitve air transportation system.

San Antonio Savings customers will have no interuption of service. All branches will reopen as usual as branches of First Gibraltar Bank, a Federal Savings Bank San Antonio, which will assume all deposit liabilities, with no losses to any depositor.

"San Antonio is a great city and a great market," said Gerald J. Ford, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of First Gibraltar Bank, FSB. Ford assumes the same positions with the new institution. "Over the years, under the McAllister family's leadership, San Antonio Savings has won customer respect and loyalty for excellent banking service. The family has also fostered the best in good corporate citizenship of which Bo McAllister is a perfect example.

"We are committed to continuing these traditions and are delighted to welcome the customers and employees of San Antonio Savings to the First Gibraltar family. We hope they will view First Gibraltar Bank-San Antonio as their bank for years to come.

"First Gibraltar Bank, FSB achieved impressive results during 1989, its first year in business," continued Ford. "The bank recorded strong earnings, gathered new private capital, received investment grade ratings from both Moody's and Standard & Poor's, and maintained its deposit franchise. We look forward to similar progress in San Antonio. The acquisition will strengthen competition in the Texas financial services industry and promote improved banking services."

First Gibraltar Bank, FSB has assets of $9.7 billion, deposits of $7.6 billion, and operates 97 branches throughout Texas, including three branches in San Antonio. One out of every 14 Texas households does some banking business with the institution, which was formed as a federal savings bank in December 1988. In addition to a wide range of investment products, the bank provides service to consumers through the largest off premise electronic funds transfer network in the nation.

The bank also maintains a national presence in mortgage banking production and servicing through its subsidiary, Unified Mortgage Company, which is headquartered in Houston.

DENVER (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - Western Capital Investment Corp. (WCIC) (NASDAQ: WECA), parent company of Colorado's Bank Western, reported a net loss of $28.3 million or $3.03 per share for the fourth quarter. Much of the loss was attributable to additions made to provisions for losses. A year earlier the company reported net income of $.2 million or 2 cents per share. The loss provisions for the 1989 fourth quarter of $15.9 million, compare with $10.1 million for 1988's comparable period. For the year, loss provisions were $92 million in 1989 vs. $25.1 million a year earlier. For the year, WCIC had a loss of $93.3 million or $9.98 per share, compared to a loss of $2.8 million or 30 cents per share in the year ended Dec. 31, 1988.

Net interest income at WCIC was $13.4 million for the quarter, down from $17.2 million in the year-ago period. For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, the net interest income was $58.3 million, down from $73.9 million in the 12 months a year ago.

General and administrative (G&A) expenses for the 1989 fourth quarter were $26.8 million vs. $22.8 million for the previous year. For the year, G&A expenditures were $90.1 million vs. $89.6 million in the prior year.

Bank Western reported that following its recent examination by the Office of Thrift Supervision no disputed items remain open, and all known required reserving has been included in Bank Western's fourth quarter results. Bank Western's tangible net worth ratio of 5.58 percent of assets exceeds all regulatory requirements and Bank Western is in full compliance with the capital standards mandated by FIRREA.

Western Capital's assets totaled $3.3 billion at Dec. 31, compared with $3.7 billion a year ago. The company's net worth at the end of the year was $191.2 million.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - LJ Hooker Corp. Inc. said today that it has reached agreement to sell certain assets of its Bonwit Teller specialty retail unit to an affiliate of The Pyramid Companies, the Syracuse-based real estate development and investment company.

Terms of the agreement were not disclosed. The agreement is subject to approval by the United States Bankruptcy Court. In August 1989, Hooker, along with some of its subsidiaries including Bonwit Teller, filed for Chapter 11 protection under the federal bankruptcy laws.

Under the agreement, Pyramid would purchase five of the 16 Bonwit Teller stores, along with rights to the Bonwit Teller name. The five stores to be sold are located in Trump Tower in New York City; Boston; Buffalo, N.Y.; Manhasset, N.Y.; and Short Hills, N.J.

Under Chapter 11 procedures, the Bankruptcy Court allows a period of 20 days during which higher, and potentially better bids, may be submitted.

If other bids are received during that time, the court will evaluate them and render a decision. A final court ruling is expected by the end of March.

Bonwit Teller history can be traced back nearly a century to the fine women's apparel stores operated by Paul J. Bonwit in New York City. In 1898, Bonwit entered into a partnership with Edmund D. Teller and opened the first Bonwit Teller store on 23rd Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues in Manhattan. In 1930, the popular store was relocated to its present location at Fifth Avenue and 57th Street.

When Paul Bonwit retired in 1934, Bonwit Teller was sold and, in the succeeding decades, was owned by some of the retail industry's largest corporations. In 1987, Bonwit Teller was acquired by Australia-based Hooker Corp.

SALT LAKE CITY, (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - GCI Industries Inc. (OTC: GCI) announced today that it had received an offer from PG Acquisition Inc. ("PG") matching the previously announced merger offer of $2.65 per share received from Fairways Acquisitions Inc. ("FAI"). Under the terms of GCI's bidding agreement with PG, PG was able to match FAI's offer by deducting certain transaction costs to be paid by GCI to FAI amounting to $.113 per share. Thereby under PG's matching offer, public shareholders would net $2.547 per share.

FAI will now have had five days to make a new offer to GCI, and then PG will have another opportunity to match that offer. FAI will then have an additional bid opportunity, which may again be matched by PG. GCI will provide further information regarding the offer and bidding process as it becomes available.

GCI's Golf Card subsidiary provides its membership, for an annual fee, the opportunity to play two 18-hole rounds of golf, without payment of green fees, at each of over 1,600 golf courses in the United States and abroad and to stay at over 360 country club golf resorts throughout the United States at special rates discounted from the resorts' regular golf packages.

#90068p0421 03/09/1990 ~PR Newswire
BEVERLY HILLS, CA (MARCH 9) PR NEWSWIRE - De Laurentiis Entertainment Group Inc. (DEG) and certain units of its wholly owned subsidiaries announced that they filed today with the United States Bankruptcy Court, Central District of California, their Second Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization and their First Amended Joint Disclosure Statement. A hearing by the Bankruptcy Court to consider approval of the Disclosure Statement is scheduled for Mar. 14, 1990. After the Disclosure Statement has been approved, the Plan will be submitted to the creditors of DEG for their approval. Confirmation of the Plan of Reorganization by the Bankruptcy Court is anticipated in late April.

The Plan of Reorganization provides for the merger of DEG and certain of its subsidiaries and a wholly owned subsidiary of Carolco Pictures Inc. (Carolco). Thereafter, Carolco will own no more than 49.9 percent of the outstanding common stock of the company resulting from the merger. The remaining common stock will be distributed to the creditors of DEG. Because of certain preferred stock to be issued to Carolco by Reorganized DEG, it is estimated that Carolco will own approximately 60 to 70 percent of the total shareholders' equity in the reorganized company. Under the Plan, as proposed, current shareholders of DEG will receive no distribution.

The name of the reorganized company has not yet been announced. It is estimated that unsecured creditors of DEG will receive, for each $100 of allowed claims, approximately $20.10 in cash in addition to approximately 8.34 shares of the common stock of Reorganized DEG. Each share of common stock will be accompanied by a "right" which will entitle the holder to require Carolco to purchase such share for approximately $.60, or Carolco common stock of equivalent value, upon the earlier of a call of the right by Carolco or 30 months following the merger. Each share of common stock will also be accompanied by a "warrant" which will entitle the holder to purchase an additional share of common stock for $1.80. The warrants will expire five years after the issuance date.

The Plan also provides for tentative agreements between DEG and various parties, including ELP Communications, certain Guilds and Dino De Laurentiis and his related entities.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Artillery and rifle fire is echoing across the Salvadoran capital as government troops battle an incursion by leftist rebels. One resident says the situation is ''very, very serious.'' There are NO reports of any casualties. Thursday, the Salvadoran Legislative Assembly extended a state of siege in effect since November.

The Senate defeated legislation Thursday that would have imposed strict limits on toxic auto emissions. Lawmakers voted 65-33 to reject the proposal. Environmentalists say the plan was one of the most important amendments of the compromise clean air bill worked out by Senate leaders and the Bush administration.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says President Bush was the victim of a hostage hoax. Fitzwater says the president received word last month that Iran's president wanted to talk. When Bush made the call to Iran, hopeful he could gain the release of the Western hostages being held in Lebanon, he found out it was a hoax.

At least three people are dead after Thursday's violence in Haiti. Radio reports say government troops opened fire on demonstrators demanding the ouster of dictator General Prosper Avril. Protesters gathered near the presidential palace, many chanting- ''The time has come for him to go.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Molecular ''scissors'' that can snip out the genetic heart of the AIDS virus in the test tube promise to revolutionize treatment of AIDS, herpes, cancer and many other diseases, scientists reported.

Researchers from the National Institutes of Health and City of Hope Medical Center in Duarte, Calif., said Thursday they have produced molecules, called ribozymes, with the ability to cut out a gene that codes for a protein at the core of the AIDS virus. Without that protein, the AIDS virus loses its infective power.

Ribozymes consist of a recently discovered type of ribonucleic acid that is able to ''edit'' itself by turning on itself and splicing out certain gene segments. RNA carries genetic data from a cell's nucleus to other regions, where it builds vital proteins.

In a test tube study, human cells engineered to produce ribozymes with power to cut out a gene coding for a key AIDS viral protein appeared to be protected against infection by the AIDS virus.

Levels of the protein, called p24, were 20 to 40 times lower in ribozyme-bearing cells than in control cells also exposed to the AIDS virus, said Nava Sarver, co-author of the study published in the journal Science.

If a similar drop in viral activity could be achieved in AIDS-infected humans, Sarver said it should have a ''very significant'' impact on a patient's condition. Tests of ribozymes in humans are at least two to three years away, she said.

Initially, patients may receive injections of ribozymes sheltered inside tiny ''bubbles'' made of artificial membrane or hooked up to crippled viruses.

Although the latest study looked only at the action of ribozymes against the AIDS virus, Sarver said the strategy could have ''universal applications.''

''It could be used for practically any disease where the pathogen (infectious agent) goes through an RNA stage - viruses, bacteria, parasites,'' she said, adding it may also help clip out damaging genetic information underlying some types of cancer.

City of Hope's John Rossi said other research teams are working on developing ribozymes targeting herpes and a type of leukemia.

Olke Uhlenbeck, a biochemistry professor at the University of Colorado in Boulder, said the new study is important because it is the first to demonstrate ribozymes can combat an infectious agent in human tissue culture.

''There has been a lot of talk about how these could be used, but what works on paper doesn't necessarily work in tissue culture,'' said Uhlenbeck, who emphasized research into uses of the promising ''gene scissors'' is still in its infancy.

''Treatment is the ultimate objective. In my mind, I see ribozyme therapy tied in with gene therapy - inserting genetic material into (a patient's) cells so they express (make) ribozymes from within,'' said Sarver, a senior scientist at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases.

One beauty of using ribozymes to combat acquired immune deficiency syndrome is that the molecules can be easily designed to attack the virus at different points in its life cycle, splicing out genes crucial to various stages, Sarver said. Another advantage is that ribozymes, made of natural genetic material that should not trigger immune reactions, should produce fewer side effects than the chemical drugs such as AZT currently used to attack the virus.

The catalytic nature of ribozymes enables just one tiny molecule to single-handedly knock out genes from an onslaught of multiple viral particles. ''It's like one single soldier can proceed to take out 10 of the enemy,'' Rossi said.

Potential drawbacks of ribozymes include the tendency of RNA to break down in the body unless adequately protected, and questions about how well it will home in on gene targets within the body.

To answer such questions, researchers soon plan to start testing ribozymes targeted at the AIDS virus in a special strain of mice designed to have human immune systems.

(MARCH 9) UPI - A federal investigator in Philadelphia says a loose bolt that failed to support an electric motor led to Wednesday's subway derailment. John Lauber say the support bolt failed and caused the motor to swing down and drag along the tracks. Three people died in the accident and scores of others were injured.

BAABDA, Lebanon (MARCH 9) UPI - Maverick Christian leader Gen. Michel Aoun called for internationally backed peace negotiations to end his country's 15-year-old civil war and said he was ready to negotiate for control of east Beirut.

The general, in an interview Thursday at his bunker in the battered presidential palace, struck a conciliatory tone toward his enemies in the Moslem and Christian sectors and stressed that fighting among the various groups ''will never resume again.''

''Experience does not encourage more violence, it only encourages dialogue '' Aoun said.

The general's remarks suggested that he was turning away from force in an effort to resolve the country's stalemate. Aoun's 15,000-member army last year began a six-month ''war of liberation'' to drive some 35,000 Syrian troops out of Lebanon. At least 750 people were killed before the fighting ended.

On Jan. 31, fighting erupted in Beirut between Aoun's troops and the Christian Lebanese Forces militia. The struggle for control of the Christian enclave killed more than 800 people and wounded 3,000 others.

At the heart of the nation's conflict is Aoun's rejection of a peace accord hammered out in Taif, Saudi Arabia, Oct. 21. The Lebanese Parliament approved the agreement, which was backed by the Arab League, but Aoun rejected the pact because it failed to ensure a speedy withdrawal of Syrian troops from Lebanon.

In his remarks Thursday, Aoun indicated that he was softening his stance on the Taif agreements. He called for internationally backed peace talks without conditions, saying a solution that would ease his concerns ''could mean adding only a comma'' to the Taif pact.

''It's not necessary to scrap the Taif accord before sitting at the table, but this agreement should not be treated like a holy book,'' Aoun said.

''For sure we are ready to negotiate amendments to the Taif accord,'' the general added. ''I'll support any positive idea. All these trivial wars are the result of the inability to find a solution.''

Despite his opposition to the Syrian presence in Lebanon, Aoun extended ''a brotherly hand'' to Damascus and said he was always ready to talk ''with my Syrian brothers, taking the Lebanese sovereignty into consideration.''

In the past, the general has accused Syria of violating its police role in the country and becoming an occupying power.

Speaking about the latest fighting between his troops and the Lebanese Forces militia, Aoun said the ''absurdity'' of the battles taught ''a positive lesson ... that violence could never solve any conflict in Lebanon. Only through dialogue we can settle our differences.''

Aoun said French Ambassador Rene Ala has been playing a key role in trying to establish negotiations between him and Syrian-backed President Elias Hrawi, who was elected by the Parliament under the terms of the Taif accord.

''The French ambassador is exerting efforts to seek a solution not only at the level of disputes inside east Beirut, but also at the national level

'' he said. But Aoun declined to say clearly whether he had behind-the-scenes contacts with Hrawi.

Earlier Thursday, political sources reported that the United States and France were working together to trying to end the conflict between Aoun and Lebanese Forces leader Samir Geagea.

The sources said Washington was urging Geagea to remove his men from east Beirut while Paris was trying to persuade Aoun to accept the Taif agreements.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The Detroit Red Wings, fighting for a Norris Division playoff spot, shut down the NHL's leading scorer and relied on a defensive specialist for offensive punch Thursday night to defeat the division-leading St. Louis Blues.

John Chabot set aside his preventative duties long enough to set up power-play goals by teammates Gerard Gallant and Jimmy Carson in a 3-2 Detroit victory.

''When I'm on with the scorers I'm thinking offense all the way,'' Chabot said. ''But when my line's out there, we're usually playing against the other team's top line and I'm thinking defense.''

Chabot said he feels comfortable since Coach Jacques Demers placed him on the power-play unit.

''I felt some pressure at first because I thought it was on a trial basis, but I'm more comfortable now,'' Chabot said.

The Red Wings' performance on the power play was vital to the victory that helped Detroit regain fourth place in the Norris Division by one point over idle Minnesota.

''St. Louis is one of the few teams in the league that can send two good quality checking lines, so you have to get your offense from somewhere else,'' Demers said. ''That's why the special teams were important tonight.''

St. Louis, which stayed two points ahead of second-place Chicago, took a 1-0 lead on Hull's 65th goal at 9:04 of the first period.

Detroit tied the game at 1-1 on Steve Yzerman's short-handed goal at 9:28 of the second period. It was Yzerman's sixth short-handed tally of the season, tying him with Edmonton's Craig MacTavish for the NHL lead.

Gallant broke the tie with a high slap shot from the faceoff circle to the left of goalie Vincent Riendeau at 16:50 of the second period and Carson gave the Red Wings a 3-1 lead at 2:59 of the final period when he deflected Chabot's pass to the slot area past Riendeau.

Paul MacLean scored an unassisted goal for St. Louis at 14:28 of the third period, but rookie goalie Tim Cheveldae kept the Blues from getting the equalizer.

''If it wasn't for Cheveldae we'd have lost this game,'' Demers said. ''We complained most of the season about the stability of that position because of injuries, but now we've got it. That kid never beats himself.''

Hull didn't sound overly impressed.

''He played all right, but we're not going to beat anybody if we only score two goals,'' Hull said.

The game left St. Louis coach Brian Sutter mumbling to himself.

''To lose like this, gosh it's a tough one,'' he said. ''Playing in our division makes this a four-point hockey game. That makes it that much tougher to swallow.''

-- AROUND THE NHL --

Elsewhere in the NHL, Buffalo clobbered Boston 10-4, Toronto edged Hartford 7-6, the New York Rangers overwhelmed Philadelphia 7-5 and New Jersey topped the New York Islanders 4-2.

SABRES 10, BRUINS 4

At Boston, Alexander Mogilny and Dave Snuggerud each scored a pair of goals to snap the Bruins' four-game winning streak. Buffalo, which closed within five points of the first-place Bruins in the Adams Division, led 4-0 after one period and 9-2 after two. Boston suffered its worst loss of the season.

RANGERS 7, FLYERS 5

At Philadelphia, the Rangers scored four goals within a 6:05 span in the second period to erase a 3-1 deficit. Mike Gartner, making his Ranger debut after being traded from Minnesota, broke a 3-3 tie with 3:09 to go in the second period, then added a goal 27 seconds into the third period. The second goal came against Ken Wregget, forced into emergency service when Ron Hextall injured his left groin.

TORONTO 7, HARTFORD 6

At Hartford, Conn., Gary Leeman scored three goals and set up another to power Toronto. Leeman's performance gave him a career-high 46 goals. Dave Reid, Vincent Damphousse, Daniel Marois and Ed Olczyk also scored for Toronto. Scott Young had two goals for Hartford.

DEVILS 4, ISLANDERS 2

At East Rutherford, N.J., John MacLean and Patrik Sundstrom scored goals 31 seconds apart late in the first period to extend the Islanders' winless streak to 11 games (0-9-2). Peter Stastny played his first game for New Jersey, while Pat LaFontaine returned to the Islanders lineup after missing six games with a hand injury.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The automatic berths to the NCAA Tournament were half-filled with the addition of three teams Thursday night, while No. 8 Michigan State moved within one game of nailing down the Big Ten berth.

Temple, Arkansas-Little Rock and Murray State brought the number of teams in the NCAA Tournament to 15 with the championships of their respective conference tournaments.

Meanwhile, Michigan State claimed at least a share of its first Big Ten title since 1979 with an 84-68 rout of Northwestern.

The victory set up a chance for the Spartans to win the championship outright in its regular-season finale against Purdue. The Big Ten does not hold a conference tournament, with the NCAA berth going to the regular-season champion.

''It's a great accomplishment for this club to be Big Ten champions,'' Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote said. ''We'll decide on Sunday whether we're co-champions or champions just by ourselves. But we are Big Ten champions.''

Steve Smith scored 23 points, including 5 of his team's 9 three-pointers, and the Spartans mounted an 18-point halftime advantage in posting their ninth straight victory.

''This is the first time we've played with emotion,'' Smith said. ''But we also had a bit of fun.''

Northwestern, 9-19 and 2-16, had anything but fun. Leading scorer Rex Walters finished with 18 points after missing all five shots in the first half, while Walker Lambiotte had 13 points.

''I thought (Michigan State) played with a lot of poise for the situation they were under - a must win,'' said Northwestern Coach Bill Foster, wrapping up his fourth season with the Wildcats.

ATLANTIC 10

At Philadelphia, Mark Macon scored 20 points to lead Temple to their third NCAA Tournament appearance in the last four years with a 53-51 victory over Massachusetts.

Macon hit a jumper to give Temple a 50-43 lead with 3:36 to play and the Owls hit 3 of 5 free throws in the last 30 seconds to clinch the victory and give Coach John Chaney his sixth NCAA appearance in eight seasons at Temple.

''I never had any doubts about us being in the NCAA,'' Macon said. ''That's our first and main goal every season and what we attack every game.''

Mark Strickland scored 13 points and Mik Kilgore added 11 for Temple, 20-10, which committed only seven turnovers on the night. The Owls became only the fifth regular-season champion to win the conference tournament in 14 years.

''We did cause seven turnovers and that had to be a record for Temple,'' Massachusetts Coach John Calipari said sarcastically. ''They usually have only one or two.''

Massachusetts, 17-13, got 13 points from William Herndon, 11 from Jim McCoy and 10 from Rafer Giles.

TRANS AMERICA

At Little Rock, Ark., Derrick Owens scored 33 points to lift Arkansas-Little Rock to 105-95 victory over Centenary in the conference title game.

Arkansas-Little Rock, which has won the conference tournament title three times, became the first league school to repeat as champion.

Owens, the tournament's most valuable player, connected on 14 of 15 shots from the floor to set a tournament record. He scored 73 points during the three-game tournament to pace all scorers.

James Scott added 20 points for the Trojans, 20-7, while James Womack added 18 points and Rod Wade chipped in 14.

Centenary, 22-8, was paced by Morrow Hawkins' 19 points. Patrick Greer and Larry Robinson scored 17 points apiece, while Byron Steward had 16 and Tyrone Coleman scored 10.

OHIO VALLEY

At Murray, Ky., Popeye Jones scored 25 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to help Murray State to a 64-57 victory over Eastern Kentucky to earn the tournament championship.

Jones, the tournament MVP, got scoring help from Paul King with 11 points and Frank Allen and Greg Coble with 10 apiece. The Racers, 21-8, qualified for the NCAA tournament for the second time in three years.

Eastern Kentucky, 13-17, was led by Aric Sinclair with 23 points.

Murray State trailed the entire second half before tying the score 57-57 on a three-point goal by King with 1:34 remaining. The Racers scored the final seven points, holding Eastern Kentucky scoreless for the last 1:56.

METRO CONFERENCE

At Biloxi, Miss., Jerome Harmon scored 16 points and No. 18 Louisville advanced to the conference semifinals for the 15th straight year with a sluggish 79-66 triumph over Tulane.

Also, Memphis State blasted South Carolina 71-56, Cincinnati outlasted Florida State 65-64 in overtime and Southern Mississippi hammered Virginia Tech 81-67.

BIG TEN

At Ann Arbor, Mich., Terry Mills scored 18 points and sparked a 16-2 second-half run to boost No. 14 Michigan to a 94-64 victory over Wisconsin. Defending NCAA champion Michigan, 21-7 and 11-7 in the Big Ten, tied Minnesota for third place in the conference with one regular-season game remaining.

These arms cannot be surrendered because they belong to the people.''

Renewed fighting broke out in El Salvador's capital Thursday night, but the situation appears to be quieting down. Government troops battled an incursion by leftist rebels hours after Salvadoran lawmakers extended the state of siege that has been in effect since November, when rebels launched a major military offensive in the city. There are NO reports of any casualties from this latest outbreak of violence in San Salvador.

Pentagon documents reveal the Defense Department is investigating an Ohio contractor for allegedly supplying the U-S military with defective key missile parts. Investigators say the faulty devices could render U-S missiles useless. The Washington-based Project on Government Procurement obtained and released the documents detailing the allegations leveled against Piqua Engineering Incorporated of Piqua, Ohio.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Larry Smith exemplified Thursday night what his coach has tabbed the key to the Houston Rockets' success - a different player taking control in each game.

Smith came off the bench to score 7 points and grab 16 rebounds, leading the Rockets to their fifth straight victory with a 111-97 triumph over the Seattle SuperSonics.

''We continue to get key turnovers or steals, whatever it takes,'' Houston Coach Don Chaney said. ''That's what it's going to take - someone new coming through every night. I think we can have a great win streak if we keep executing this way.''

Akeem Olajuwon scored 30 points and Buck Johnson finished with 20 Thursday to help the Rockets move within 1 1/2 games of the eighth and final playoff spot in the Western Conference. That position currently is held by Seattle.

''We played as good tonight as a team,'' Smith said. ''We knew if we wanted the streak to continue, we'd have to play great defense. We have to play well the rest of the way or we're going to be out of it. It's as simple as that.''

Mitchell Wiggins added 16 points for Houston. Michael Cage scored 20 points and Dana Barros added 19 for the SuperSonics, who entered the game having won seven of their last 10 outings.

Seattle had trouble holding onto the ball against Houston, committing 26 turnovers.

''Houston got the fast break from the 26 turnovers,'' Seattle Coach Bernie Bickerstaff said. ''The game was very out of character for us. I'm concerned about Seattle and I'm disappointed with the things we did offensively.''

Seattle pulled to within three points in the third quarter after putting together a 9-2 run, but Houston expanded its advantage to 93-84 entering the final period.

Seattle drew within seven points in the fourth quarter, but a tip-in by Smith and jumper by Johnson with 4:45 remaining put the Rockets ahead by 13 points.

-- AROUND THE NBA --

In other NBA action Thursday night, Minneosta defeated the LA Clippers 111-94, Utah topped Chicago 98-94, Golden State crushed Cleveland 145-105 and Sacramento slipped by Charlotte 111-102.

TIMBERWOLVES 101, CLIPPERS 94

At Minneapolis, Tony Campbell scored 21 of his 30 points in the second half to lead Minnesota. Rookie Pooh Richardson added a season-high 27 points and tied his best of 14 assists. The Clippers were led by Charles Smith with 25 points.

JAZZ 98, BULLS 94

At Chicago, Karl Malone scored 27 points and grabbed 19 rebounds and Thurl Bailey added 22 points to help Utah fight off a late Chicago rally and snap the Bulls' nine-game winning streak. Utah survived a 43-point performance by Michael Jordan.

WARRIORS 145, CAVALIERS 105

At Oakland, Calif., Mitch Richmond scored 25 points and six teammates scored in double figures to help Golden State hand Cleveland its sixth straight loss. The Warriors, the NBA's top-ranked offense, equaled a season high with 44 points in the third quarter. Tim Hardaway added 18 assists for Golden State.

KINGS 111, HORNETS 102

At Sacramento, Calif., Wayman Tisdale scored 20 of his 33 points in the third quarter to pace Sacramento. Tisdale, who hit his last 15 shots in the Kings' loss to Detroit on Tuesday night, made 14 of 20 shots against Charlotte. Rex Chapman tied his season high with 38 points for Charlotte, which lost its 11th straight road game and dropped to 1-27 on the road.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The trial of fired Exxon Valdez skipper Joseph Hazelwood

continued in Anchorage Thursday. Defense witnesses testified the oil-laden tanker would've missed Alaska's Bligh Reef if crewmembers would've been more alert. But, the proceedings were marred by two surprises. First, a process server showed up to dump 66 civil suit summonses on Hazelwood. Later, prosecutors said the Coast Guard was interested in the testimony of tanker captains who are expected to say they routinely did some of the things Hazelwood did.

Federal mediators invited Greyhound union leaders to Washington Thursday to try to end a bitter contract dispute involving some nine-thousand employees of the nationwide busline. A union spokesman says its negotiating team- quote- ''will certainly meet with them, and we urge the company to also meet with the mediator.'' Five days of intensive talks in Phoenix have failed to produce an agreement.

In Oslo, Norway, the owners of the city's newest hotel have devised a way to deal with unruly tourists desperate for a high-rise view of the city. They're going to charge non-guests three dollars to get a glimpse of the city from the top of the building. Since the Oslo Plaza opened its doors last week, visitors have flocked to sample the panoramic view from the 37th floor. The hotel, located in the center of the Norwegian capital, is the city's tallest building. It also boasts Oslo's first high-speed elevator that travels up the building's exterior.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - The late Malcolm Forbes, in a parting good-will gesture, gave Forbes magazine staff members an extra week's pay and forgave all personal debts to the company of up to $10,000, his son said.

''As Pop put it, 'Like a lottery, it's pure chance as to who benefits,''' Malcolm Forbes Jr., the new president and chief executive of Forbes Inc., told the magazine's employees in a memo Thursday.

''In accordance with my father's wishes, you are receiving one extra week's pay.... His advice should be no surprise: 'Enjoy it!','' the memo said.

Forbes employees of more than a year have in the past been permitted to borrow money at low interest rates. Three dozen staffers have such loans.

Forbes said his father gave him the instructions a few years ago in a sealed envelope and said it should not be opened until after his death. The elder Forbes died Feb. 24.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - A robbery suspect who was shot during a Brooklyn holdup 17 years ago has died of those wounds and his death has been labeled a homicide, police said Friday.

The bizarre case involves Willie Jones, 35, who died last Saturday in St. Mary's Hospital, said Sgt. Mary Wrensen, a police spokeswoman.

The medical examiner's office said the death was caused by the three gunshot wounds Jones received during the Sept. 11, 1973, robbery in theBedford-Stuyvesant section, said Wrensen.

Jones was left a paraplegic after he was shot by Caclethus Gibbs, the shopkeeper in the grocery store where the robbery took place, Wrensen said.

Jones's death has been ruled a homicide, but police do not know if Gibbs or Jones ever were charged in the 1973 shooting and robbery, Wrensen said.

Police have a 17-year-old Queens address for Gibbs, but doubt he still lives there.

Wrensen said the Brooklyn district attorney's office would decide if charges would be filed in the case.

BOSTON (MARCH 9) UPI - General Accounting Office investigators and a prominent House Democrat say the Defense Department maintains $42.5 billion in little known ''slush fund'' accounts that can be used to keep alive weapons programs after they lose congressional funding, a published report said Friday.

Military officials have misled Congress about the size of the accounts, which figures show are far larger than previously known, said Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., chairman or the House Energy and Commerce Committe, in a letter to Rep. Leon E. Panetta, D-Calif., the House Budget Committee chairman.

Most primers on federal bureaucracy say that unspent funds revert to the Treasury for other uses. But, according to Dingell and a recent report by the GAO, the surplus money actually goes into special accounts that agencies can draw on in many cases for wider purposes than those for which the funds were originally appropriated.

''With the existence of these slush funds, the Congress could virtually kill a weapons program and find out years later that it was still being funded from these accounts,'' Dingell said in the letter. He called for legislation to outlaw the accounts, The Boston Globe reported.

The surplus accounts first attracted substantial congressional attention last year when legislators opposed to the B-1 bomber began probing how the Air Force was paying for parts of the aircraft system.

A GAO report in September concluded the service's use of more than $1 billion from one of the accounts to pay for work on the B-1 was legal, but reduced Congress's ability to control spending.

After expanding the September investigation, GAO officials recently concluded the Navy accounts totaled $17 billion; Army accounts totaled $14.3 billion and Air Force accounts totaled $11.2 billion.

The investigation found the three services have signed contracts and are committed to spending about $17.2 billion of the total. But, according to Dingell and the GAO, the only restrictions on the remaining $25.3 billion is that it be spent for the same general purpose for which it was originally granted.

Defense Department officials acknowleged the existence and size of the accounts, but asserted the military does not have a free hand in their spending.

''These are not slush funds,'' said Susan Hansen, a Pentagon spokeswoman. ''We can't take these funds and order up some new (weapons) systems.''

Other federal agencies also have surplus accounts, but nowhere near as large as the Pentagon's. The equivalent accounts in the Energy Department, for example, contain $332 million, Dingell said.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - Jurors were leaning towards a verdict favoring a doctor who contracted AIDS from a discarded needle and sued the city for $175 million when an out-of-court settlement sent the nine-week trial to a screeching halt.

The amount of money the city Health and Hospitals Corp. agreed to pay Dr. Veronica Prego in the settlement reached Thursday was not disclosed, but suits against two other doctors were dropped as part of the agreement.

The settlement was announced as the nine-week trial was nearing completion before a six-member jury in Brooklyn. Afterward, most of the jurors said they were leaning toward Prego.

Juror Estaban Quinones, 35, a telephone company employee, said, ''I would have voted for Dr. Prego.'' He said testimony by Health and Hospital authorities ''made me feel that there was negligence on the part of Kings County. It was like the system versus the individual.''

Jill Goldberg, 22, a sales clerk, said, ''I really think the hospital was negligent. My nephew was in a hospital and they left a needle on the bed, and I almost got stuck with it.''

Prego's lawyer accused city lawyers of putting ''a gun to our head'' because they said they would appeal a verdict in Prego's favor and she was not expected to survive the appeals.

Lawyer Diane Wilner said an appeal could take two or three years - longer than Prego is expected to live.

''In essence, I believe they put a gun to our head,'' she said. ''Dr. Prego must live the rest of her life with some peace.''

"I'm happy, I want to put it behind me,'' Prego said after the settlement was announced.

In her suit against the city's Health and Hospital Corp., which operates Kings County Hospital in Brooklyn, Prego claimed that in 1983 she pricked her finger on a needle filled with blood from an AIDS patient.

She accused her supervising intern, Dr. Joyce Fogel, of leaving the needle with other medical trash in the patient's room.

Prego, 32, her voice faltering, talked with reporters in the courtroom after the trial was ended.

''I do feel bitter,'' said the native of Argentina. ''I expected to be challenged. ...I did not expect the low-blows and the attempts to humiliate and embarrass me.''

State Supreme Court Justice Aaron Bernstein imposed a gag order on the money settlement, but did reveal that both sides had agreed to the discontinuation of the suit against one doctor, Sheldon Landesman, for revealing Prego had AIDS.

A few minutes later, defense lawyer Stanley Friedman reported that the same agreement had been reached for Fogel.

Asked if he could approximate the size of the settlement, Justice Bernstein replied, ''All I can tell you is that it's between zero and $100 million.''

The Daily News quoting court sources said the settlement was in the millions of dollars.

Prego gave some indication that the money settlement could be substantial.

Asked how she would spend the money, she replied, ''I would like to help my family and put aside some for my medical costs.''

Her chief adversary, city's attorney Stanley Friedman, who had relentlessly questioned the stricken woman during the nine-week trial, commented, ''To have it end this way, I couldn't be more pleased.''

Prego accused the hospital of creating a ''dangerous condition'' by not having needle disposal boxes inside patients' rooms, testifying that doctors had to walk down a corridor with used needles in their hands to dispose of them.

Asked if she felt vindicated, Prego answered, ''Well, yes. It's been extremely difficult for me. It's affected my health and wellbeing. And now it is time to take care of myself.

Would she go through such a trial again?

''Yes,'' she answered. ''We learned more about AIDS.''

The grim highlight of the trial was Prego's seven days on the stand. During six of those days she was harshly questioned by Friedman. Once she collapsed in the witness chair and had to be helped from the courtroom.

SPRINGFIELD, MA (MARCH 9) UPI - A judge appeared to end a 3-week-old standoff by ruling a sheriff who commandeered a National Guard armory to house inmates from his overcrowded jail may transfer them to an armory in nearby Holyoke.

But Holyoke Mayor Martin Dunn vowed he would go to court Friday to fight the move, saying the armory is located too close to a day care center located 25 yards away.

Hampden County Judge George Keady ruled that county Sheriff Michael Ashe may house his inmates at the Holyoke armory until a new 1,000-bed permanent jail is built in nearby Ludlow in 1992.

Dunn has said he is ''adamantly opposed'' to the deal and would seek a court order to stop the transfer. The Holyoke armory on Sergeant Street is virtually next door to the center that holds 500 children, Dunn said.

Dunn, who is an attorney, said he would file a motion Friday with Keady to block the move to Holyoke. Dunn met with Ashe behind closed doors Thursday after Keady issued the ruling.

''We have halfway houses, we have methadone clinics and we have subsidized housing in Holyoke. I believe we've taken on our responsibilities and I believe we're not a community that says 'not in my back yard,''' Dunn said.

Under the ruling, the inmates will all be transferred ''within a month'' from the Springfield armory to a National Guard armory in Holyoke. Ashe and 30 deputies seized the Springfield armory on Feb. 16 to ease overcrowding at the 102-year-old county jail.

''From the beginning, our game plan was to come up with a long-term temporary building that could be used as a jail. We now have that building '' Ashe said. ''For anyone who is a convicted felon, there is now room for him.''

The Holyoke armory is used less frequently by the National Guard than the Springfield armory, which is a brigade headquarters, Guard officials said. Ashe estimated about 25 percent of the inmates at the county jail are from Holyoke.

Kenneth J. Cote Jr., a Holyoke city attorney, had asked the judge to delay his ruling until Holyoke officials met with Ashe, but Keady refused.

''We're not opposed to siting a temporary jail in Holyoke. We're concerned about siting it in this particular building,'' Cote said.

It will cost about $450,000 to house inmates at the Holyoke armory through June 30, the end of the state's fiscal year, Ashe said.

The Holyoke armory will have room for up to 80 minimum-security inmates who are near the end of their sentences, Ashe said. There were 26 inmates being held at the Springfield armory Thursday, the largest number since the building was seized, Ashe said.

The 84-year-old Holyoke armory will need as much as $75,000 in maintenance and repairs before inmates can be moved in, said John Bradshaw, deputy commissioner of the state Division of Capital Planning and Operations.

A fire alarm system and some lights will have to be installed, some painting is needed and repairs must be made in the kitchen, toilet and shower areas, Bradshaw said.

Gov. Michael Dukakis said a temporary lockup in Holyoke ''could be a plus for Holyoke.''

''I've said very clearly to the sheriff, and I think he agrees, that these men who are in the facility ought to be out working eight hours a day, doing community projects, ought to be making their contribution to that community as many, many inmates are doing in other minimum-security institutions,'' Dukakis said.

The armory in Holyoke was closed for full-time duty March 1 because of state-ordered budget cuts and now is only open once a month for regularly scheduled weekend drills, said Lt. Jayme Guido, a National Guard spokeswoman. The Holyoke armory is home to ''one or two units,'' but the Springfield armory is a statewide brigade headquarters, Guido said.

Ashe took over the Springfield armory because his overcrowded lockup in downtown Springfield had reached a court-ordered inmate cap of 450 prisoners on several occasions, the latest coming in January. Some prisoners were being released early or having jail sentences delayed because of the overcrowding.

BOGOTA, Colombia (MARCH 9) UPI - With thousands of soldiers standing guard to prevent threatened violence from left-wing guerrillas, more than 14 million Colombians are expected to vote Sunday to fill national and local legislatures and numerous municipal offices.

''Never before has there been such a systematic and orchestrated campaign to frighten the people,'' the governor of Santander state, Alfonso Reyes Duarte, told reporters.

Pre-election violence from leftist guerrillas already has claimed 885 lives this year in a country known for its democratic tradition in an area plagued by military coups.

The National Registry Office, which coordinates the country's elections, said about 14.4 million voters were expected to choose 343 senators and representatives, 421 state legislators, 10,500 local council members, 1,009 municipal mayors, as well as 89 commissioners for Colombia's far-flung territories.

Voters also will choose among six Liberal Party presidential contenders to nominate a candidate to run in the May 27 president election against Social-Conservative Rodrigo Lloreda and Bernardo Jaramillo of the Patriotic Union, a leftist party formed by communists and ex-guerrillas in the mid-1980s.

Colombian law prohibits President Virgilio Barco, elected in a landslide victory over Conservative Alvaro Gomez in 1986, from serving two consecutive terms in office. Barco's Liberal Party has held the presidency for 12 of the last 16 years.

Of the 885 people killed so far in 1990, 17 were members of the leftist Patriotic Union, seven from the Liberal Party and five Social-Conservatives. In addition, right-wing extremists, leftist rebels and common criminals have kidnapped 245 people in just two months.

To stem the violence, the Defense Ministry said an extra 25,000 armed soldiers were being deployed, especially to troubled regions, to supervise the balloting.

The Defense Ministry said the army has beefed up security to more than 31,000 men in northeastern Colombia, a traditional guerrilla stronghold, to thwart the 1,400-strong leftist National Liberation Army, which launched an anti-election offensive in January, the Defense Ministry said.

Some 16,000 soldiers will directly supervise balloting security, while another 15,000 will stand in reserve in case of an emergency at any of the 1,500 voting locations in the area. After elections, at least 15 army helicopters will transport the filled ballot boxes to regional capitals for counting.

Most of the violence has been attributed to the National Liberation Army, known as ELN by its Spanish initials. The Marxist guerrilla force has tried to intimidate voters with a wave of armed attacks and kidnappings. Press reports estimate the ELN will attempt to block about 5,000 votes in northeast Colombia.

However, another guerrilla group, the April 19 Movement, ended its 16-year-old war against the government in order to participate in Sunday's elections. The 1,000-strong M-19 group successfully negotiated an amnesty agreement with the government in December and surrendered its arms Thursday.

The government pardoned M-19 commanders Carlos Pizarro Leongomez and Antonio Navarro Wolf, who five years ago planned the bloody Palace of Justice takeover in the center of the capital. At least 100 people, including all the guerrillas and 12 Supreme Court judges, were killed.

Of the four major rebel groups, the M-19 is the only non-Marxist organization and the only one to agree to hand over its weapons and turn to civilian political life.

Leongomez had announced he would run for president but changed his mind and is on Sunday's ballot as a candidate for mayor of Bogota.

Although in recent months the drug issue has taken a back seat to mounting guerrilla violence surrounding the elections, it appears the Barco anti-cartel policy will continue into the next administration.

The leading Liberal Party candidate, Cesar Gaviria, declared himself the political heir to Sen. Luis Carlos Galan, the presidential front-runner slain by drug cartel gunmen last August, and has held firm to his commitment to continue the government crackdown on the kingpins.

In Colombia's political system, which heavily favors the executive branch over the legislature, it is unlikely a new congress could force the president to strike down extradition, which was re-established by direct presidential decree last August without recourse to either the Supreme Court or the legislature.

Extradition of wanted traffickers to the United States forms the backbone of the government offensive against the cartels. Fourteen Colombians have been sent to face drug charges in the United States, while 14 more are in a Bogota jail awaiting extradition.

CRIPPLE, AK (MARCH 9) UPI - Lavon Barve led 67 other mushers at the halfway point of the 1,161-mile Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race, and former frontrunner Rick Swenson faded to 10th place after a moose stomped his dog team.

Barve, a resident of Wasilla, Alaska, arrived in Cripple at 10:57 p.m. AST and was awarded $3,000 in specially minted silver coins for leading at the 536-mile mark.

Veteran racers, however, pointed out that there has been a halfway silver jinx, since no one who has ever collected the money for leading at the halfway point has ever won the Iditarod race.

The remaining mushers were expected to reach the abandoned mining town on Friday. Seventy mushers left Anchorage Saturday, March 3, and two dropped out of the race.

Race judge Bobby Lee said Swenson, a four-time Iditarod winner, tried to leave the leaders behind and ''sneak out'' of the checkpoint at the village of McGrath, 415 miles from the starting line in Anchorage.

Swenson left at 12:24 a.m. Thursday and returned in 41 minutes after a moose attacked his team.

Swenson, who advised others not to go out on the trail alone, said he knew the moose was running near the trail in front of him, but thought the huge animal would keeping running forward.

''I didn't realize he (the moose) was coming back at me until the dogs started coming back at me,'' Swenson said.''

Swenson's moose encounter was the second of the race. On Monday, mushers shot and killed a moose that tried to stomp the team run by Lorren Weaver.

Tim Osmar's team was stopped Wednesday by a wild buffalo, part of a herd that turned feral after being imported into the state decades ago. Osmar fired shots from a pistol to scare the animal off.

One of Swenson's dogs had to be dropped from the race after it sustained a minor puncture wound and a broken tooth in the moose attack.

Swenson was down to 16 dogs after starting with 20 highly trained huskies in harness when the race began March 3. Many top dog drivers started with 19 or 20 dogs, and some, such as three-time champion Susan Butcher, were down to as few as 13 dogs.

Sick, injured or exhausted dogs can be dropped at designated checkpoints along the trail across Alaska.

Swenson's moose encounter spooked the rest of the leaders in the 1,161-mile wilderness race across Alaska to Nome.

After some hesitation, three women led the way out of McGrath early Thursday on the trail that turned back Swenson. The trio included Butcher of Manley, Alaska; Dee Dee Jonroe of Willow, Alaska; and Robin Jacobson of Squaw Lake, Minn.

A second group of sled dog drivers waited in McGrath, struggling with the uncertainty of encountering a moose on the trail and waiting for first light. They left at dawn, and there were no more encounters with moose along the way.

By Thusday afternoon, a pack of six frontrunners led by Barve left the ghost town checkpoint of Ophir, 476 miles from Anchorage. Meanwhile, Swenson dropped to 10th place.

Mushers pay $1,249 to enter the event, which has an overall purse of $250,000. The first dog driver to Nome takes home $50,000.

TOKYO (MARCH 9) UPI - Former Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita, who still calls many of the political shots in Japan, travels to Washington Saturday for talks with President Bush on the deepening economic rift between the two nations.

Takeshita's trip, which comes one week after Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu and Bush met in Palm Springs, Calif., could prove to be more important than the Kaifu-Bush summit because of the strong influence Takeshita wields, analysts said.

''It is quite possible when Takeshita comes to Washington he will cut a deal - the deal we did not get when Kaifu visited,'' said David Hale, chief economist for Kemper Financial Services.

Kaifu promised Bush he will give top priority to reducing the nearly $50 billion annual U.S. trade deficit with Japan, but critics in Congress said nothing is likely to change because Kaifu made no specific promises.

An atmosphere of secrecy surrounds the Takeshita visit.

Takeshita, who often prefers to operate behind the scenes, has been silent on his intentions and has no plans to announce the results of his meetings Monday with Bush and Secretary of State James Baker.

''If you look at Japanese politics with a cool eye, you will see the person running the country is not Prime Minister Kaifu,'' said Rei Shiratori, dean of the political science department at Tokai University. ''Kaifu is a puppet manned from behind the curtain, and the person operating the puppet is Takeshita.''

Takeshita's meeting with Bush could add to Kaifu's image as a weak leader if Takeshita is seen as accomplishing more than the prime minister did at his summit with Bush.

''Takeshita is still very important and influential,'' said Seizaburo Sato a professor of politics at Tokyo University. ''This meeting could be very important.''

Takeshita, Japan's prime minister from November 1987 to June 1989, resigned from office because of his links to a bribery scandal.

Takeshita played a key role in elevating Kaifu from obscurity to prime minister last August, and many analysts believe Kaifu owes his position to Takeshita.

Takeshita also leads the largest faction in the ruling Liberal Democratic Party and comfortably won re-election to his seat in Parliament in nationwide elections Feb. 18.

High-level officials from the Foreign Ministry, Finance Ministry and Ministry of International Trade and Industry will accompany Takeshita, according to a report in the Yomiuri Shimbun, Japan's leading daily newspaper.

As prime minister, Takeshita was viewed as a powerful back-room leader who had little charisma but could get the job done.

Takeshita was able to accomplish several major changes in Japan's trade policy that had eluded his predecessors. Takeshita opened the beef and orange markets to imports and the construction market to foreign contractors.

Takeshita's trip poses a threat to Kaifu, who is struggling to establish himself as a strong, independent leader.

''If Takeshita holds substantive talks with U.S. officials on the structural trade issues, it will spotlight Kaifu's weak leadership, possibly sparking an intra-party drive to unseat him,'' said the Asahi Evening News in an editorial.

BUDAPEST, Hungary (MARCH 9) UPI -A Hungarian delegation that includes leaders of political opposition groups headed to Moscow Friday for talks on withdrawing nearly 50,000 Soviet troops from Hungary, the official news agency MTI said.

The delegation was expected to press for completion of the pullout by June 30, 1991, the same deadline negotiated in an agreement with fellow Warsaw Pact member Czechoslovakia last month.

It was the third set of talks on the Hungarian withdrawal, but it was believed to be the first time opposition members will have participated in discussions with the Soviet Union. The arrangement apparently has the agreement of Moscow.

A similar troop withdrawal agreement was concluded by Czechoslovakia and was signed by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and Czechoslovak President Vaclav Havel in Moscow Feb. 26. It set a June 30, 1991, deadline for the withdrawal of an estimated 73,500 troops from that country.

Officials from three major opposition parties joining Foreign Minister Gyula Horn and Deputy Foreign Minister Ferenc Somogi have the status of observers at the talks, which were expected to lead to the signing of a pullout accord Saturday, Defense Minister Ferenc Karpati said. Karpati said the withdrawal of Soviet troops could begin next week.

The opposition representatives are Gabor Demszky of the Alliance of Free Democrats, Lajos Kosa of the League of Young Democrats and Erno Raffay of the Hungarian Democratic Forum.

The withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary was a crucial issue at a national summit meeting last week between the government and 12 opposition parties that set up a list of candidates for the March 25 national elections, the first freely contested balloting in Hungary in more than 40 years.

The League of Young Democrats and the Hungarian Democratic Forum had demanded a speedup of the Soviet troops pullout from Hungary, with the bulk to leave 90 days following the signing of the accords.

But the government noted it would take 2,000 trains to transport material back to the Soviet Union, putting an added burden on the already overtaxed railways.

The official Hungarian position is that the complete withdrawal of the Soviet troops cannot be accomplished before June 30, 1991, but it was also said that combat troops will leave the country by the end of February 1991.

On Wednesday, authorities for the first time released the exact number of Soviet troops and weaponry stationed in Hungary since 1956, the year when the Soviet army crushed the Hungarian revolution.

Maj. Gen. Jozsef Biro, first deputy of the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the Hungarian Defense Forces, said the number of troops stationed in Hungary is 49,700, but the total number of military personnel including family members is 100,000, including 14,000 children.

The military material, including ammunition, amounts to 560,000 tons, including 230,000 tons of explosives and ammunition.

The Soviets have 60 garrisons in the country and six military airports.

There are 860 tanks, 1,500 armored personnel carriers, 6,600 mobile cannons and 600 self-propelled rockets. The general said there are no missiles with nuclear warheads.

The Hungarian government said the full withdrawal of troops will take 415 days. Somogi called on the opposition parties not to set up ultimatums for the talks.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - The Internal Revenue Service has no records of a tax-free $1 million trust set up by the Rev. Bruce Ritter, the former president of Covenant House, to aid runaway youths, a published report said Friday.

Required reports for the trust were not filed in 1987 and 1988 - actions that could incur criminal penalties - and investigators were searching for earlier filings, IRS spokesman Robert Kobel told The New York Times.

Covenant House officials admitted this week that the fund spent no money to help runaways but instead made loans to Ritter's sister, two board members and a truck driver.

It also paid Ritter $140,000, some of which the priest said he returned.

The trust fund, called the Franciscan Charitable Trust, also was never registered with the state attorney general's charities bureau, the office said.

On Tuesday, Covenant House sent reports covering six years to the attorney general's office, but the forms had been filled out only two days earlier. The organization filled out IRS Form 990 so quickly it misspelled its name throughout as ''Fransiscan,'' the Times said.

Ritter, the founder and longtime president of Covenant House, resigned last week following accusations of sexual misconduct.

The two board members who received loans, James Maguire and Dr. James Kennedy, resigned this week.

The trust fund was under investigation by the attorney general's office and the Franciscan Order, which also is investigating allegations Ritter lured runaways into sexual relationships.

GENEVA (MARCH 9) UPI - The United States said Friday it agrees with the Soviets that prospects are good for completing a chemical arms reduction agreement for signing at the Washington summit in June.

The two major powers ended a 14th round of talks on Thursday when Soviet negotiator Sergei Batsanov reported ''good progress'' and his aides said it was ''pretty well certain'' that a final text would be ready in time.

Batsanov presented a summary of the bilateral talks to the larger 40-nation Disarmament Conference, which has been discussing a global chemical arms ban for the past 20 years.

He said Washington and Moscow wanted to conclude a bilateral agreement to help promote an early international treaty - something negotiators believe possible before the end of 1991.

U.S. and Soviet experts, Batsanov said, will now make reciprocal visits to facilities for producing, storing and destroying chemical weapons, and another round of talks will be held in April.

''The United States is in full accord with the Soviet statement,'' an American delegation spokesman said. ''We reaffirmed our objective of completing an agreement in time for the summit.''

''Sure, it's pretty well certain,'' a Soviet spokesman said Thursday when asked if the text would be ready for presidents George Bush and Mikhail Gorbachev when they meet at the end of June.

''There are still some problems, such as the Americans wanting to be producing some modern chemical weapons while destroying old ones, but we believe these things can be settled in time,'' he said.

Washington and Moscow are aiming at immediate chemical arms cuts of about 80 percent, down to equal levels, with Moscow making the biggest reductions because it has the bigger stockpile.

As soon as an international convention is completed on eliminating all existing chemical arms and banning all future production, the two big powers would gradually go down to just 2 percent of their original arsenals.

They would totally eliminate their remaining stocks when the global treaty is signed and ratified by all countries with the ability to make the so-called ''poor man's nuclear bomb.'' U.S. officials named Libya as one such country.

Bush and Gorbachev also want other negotiators at parallel START talks to prepare at least a ''preliminary'' agreement for the summit on an eventual treaty on 50 percent cuts in long-range strategic nuclear weapons.

A full, though less significant, agreement is expected to be readied at yet other talks on nuclear testing in time for the summit.

That agreement would set verification methods to finally permit raitification of a 1974 accord on limiting the force of underground tests to 150 kilotons - about eight to 10 times bigger than current explosions.

Bush and Gorbachev are expected to agree also on new negotiations to lower that ceiling and to limit the number of permitted tests.

MIAMI (MARCH 9) UPI - A survivor of a helicopter crash was rescued Friday from the Atlantic Ocean and the bodies of two passengers were recovered after an all night search for the aircraft's wreckage, Coast Guard officials said.

The charter helicopter, which was bound for the Bahamas, was found floating upside down in the ocean about 4 miles off North Miami Beach about 4 a.m. Someone walking on the beach spotted aircraft parts and notified officials.

''One body was found right next to the wreckage and the pilot was found about a half-mile away,'' said Petty Officer Carl Vitevitch. ''The second body was found farther north.''

The survivor, Rick Guthery, a pilot for U.S. International Chartered Helicopter Services, was found in the ocean wearing an inflatable life jacket, said Lt. David Newton. There was no immediate word on Guthery's condition. The ocean temperature was about 75 degrees, officials said.

The identities of the two passengers, a Miami couple, have not been released pending notification of next of kin.

Coast Guard officials said it was not yet known what caused the helicopter to crash after it left Tamiami Airport in Miami about 11:15 a.m. Thursday.

After it failed to arrive in the Bahamas, the Coast Guard was contacted and a jet, helicopter and boat were dispatched to search for the missing aircraft.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Around the world... around the clock... the latest news from U-P-I.

Environmentalists say a provision in the clean air bill that was voted out of the package by the Senate last night was one of the most important parts of the compromise legislation. Senators rejected limits on toxic emissions from cars. They voted to kill the proposal, despite studies showing that toxic emissions cause more than half of all cancers attributable to air pollution.

Three Northwest Airlines pilots have been arrested on charges of flying under the influence of alcohol. They were arrested yesterday for allegedly flying a Boeing 727 with 91 passengers into Minneapolis-St. Paul while drunk. Airport Police Chief Jim Welna says a Federal Aviation Administration inspector made a citizen's arrest.

The Pentagon says it will release its long-awaited military anti-drug plans today. The plans are expected to include the use of radar stations, satellites and naval task forces to detect drug smugglers. But one official says the Defense Department has canceled plans to station warships off the Colombian coast.

At least one soldier and two civilians died in Haiti during a day of anti-government demonstrations. Troops opened fire on a crowd of protesters near the presidential palace in Port-au-Prince, killing at least two people. An independent radio station says young protesters stoned and then burned a soldier.

A report today says the United States plans to sell Israel a new weapons system designed to shoot down ballistic missiles. The proposed sale calls for the transfer of Patriot air-defense missiles and the use of information from U-S early-warning satellites needed to activate the new Israeli missile defense system.

PROVIDENCE, RI (MARCH 9) UPI - Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., and Rep. Claudine Schneider, R-R.I., are playing down a Brown University poll that shows Pell leading Schneider in what is expected to be one of the hottest Senate races this year.

Of the Rhode Island voters surveyed, 47 percent said they would vote for Pell if the election were held now. Forty percent said they would vote for Schneider, a five-term congresswoman, and 13 percent were undecided.

The poll, released Thursday, was conducted between Feb. 25 and March 1 by faculty at the Ivy League school's Taubman Center for Public Policy and American Institutions. It surveyed 357 likely voters and had an error margin of 5 percent.

''A poll is a snapshot of how the voters feel at a particular time. I've been behind in polls and I've been ahead,'' Pell said. ''The poll that really counts is on Election Day.''

Schneider agreed but added she was pleasantly surprised by the results.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (MARCH 9) UPI - Israeli jets blasted Palestinian positions in northern Lebanon Friday in a rare air strike into the Syrian-patrolled region, military sources said. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

An Israeli army spokesman said Israeli warplanes attacked bases for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command (PFLP-GC) of Ahmed Jibril near the camp of Nahr Al Bared, north of Tripoli, 42 miles north of Beirut.

''IDF Air Force planes attacked around noon terrorist bases in the area of Kahn Hayat north of Tripoli,'' the Israeli spokesman said. ''The bases attacked were used as staging bases for launching attacks by Ahmed Jibril's group.

''All targets were hit and planes returned safely to their base.''

The Israeli raid, the first targeting bases in northern Lebanon, was the eighth into Lebanon this year.

Last month, Israeli warplanes bombed a base for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine headed by George Habash in the area of Labaa, east of Sidon, 24 miles south of Beirut. Three people were wounded in that raid and a two-story building used a base by the PFLP was destroyed.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Pentagon drug plan to be released... UNrest in Haiti and El Salvador... reports of a U-S plan to sell defense missiles to Israel... and three pilots arrested for drunk flying. Those stories and more, next from U-P-I.

The Pentagon says it will release its military anti-drug plans today.

The Pentagon plans are expected to include the use of radar stations, satellites and naval task forces to detect drug smugglers. However, the Defense Department's plans WON'T include the proposal to station U-S warships off the coast of Colombia. One official says ''That's dead.''

In response to protests from Colombia, the administration postponed plans in January to send a U-S aircraft carrier and other ships to monitor drug traffic off the Colombian coast. Colombian officials portrayed the idea as a ''naval blockade.''

The Pentagon last month announced that it had decided to base some Edrug efforts.

The new plans are also to include establishing a Caribbean naval task force- but without the Colombian operation.

Other elements expected to be announced include establishing radar stations in Latin America to monitor drug planes... increased military training of Latin anti-drug units... and a Pacific naval task force for drugs from Asia.

Haiti's military dictator is facing the largest protests against his rule since he seized more than two years ago.

Thousands of protesters demanding the ouster of General Prosper Avril staged demonstrations across Haiti yesterday. At least three people died.

Troops opened fire on a crowd near the presidential palace in Port-au-Prince, killing at least two people. Angry protesters knocked out a soldier with stones, and then burned his body.

The protests came a day after Avril indicated that he was willing to hand over power to a civilian transition government.

There are UNconfirmed reports that Avril's wife and sons have left Haiti for the United States.

Some Haitian political observers predict that Avril will soon leave power. But a spokeswoman for the U-S Embassy says the military ruler apparently is still in the palace, in control of the country.

A U-S administration official in Washington called the situation in Haiti ''difficult and confused.'' As he put it... ''stay tuned.''

(MARCH 9) UPI - Fierce battles flared briefly last night in the capital of El Salvador.

Reports say leftist rebels and government troops clashed in northern working-class suburbs of San Salvador, which were hard hit by a massive rebel offensive in November. There was NO immediate report of casualties.

After the shooting started, helicopters began patrolling the skies and dropped flares over the city. The sound of fighting quickly subsided.

A Salvadoran military spokesman says the situation was under control about an hour after the rebel F-M-L-N attack began.

The latest outbreak of combat in the capital came just hours after El Salvador's Legislative Assembly extended a state of siege that has been in effect since November. The order initially curbed almost all constitutionally guaranteed rights, but it has decreased in scope during the past five months.

The decade-long Salvadoran civil war has cost more than 72-thousand lives, most of them civilians.

The Bush administration is reported planning to sell Israel a new weapons system designed to down ballistic missiles.

A report says military and congressional sources say the planned sale is NOT likely to face major opposition in Congress.

The proposed sale calls for the transfer of Patriot air-defense missiles and the use of information from U-S early-warning satellites needed to activate the new Israeli missile defense system. Defense sources say the 200-Million dollar sale would mark the first time a superpower has introduced a missile-defense shield into the Middle East.

The missiles could be deployed by late 1991... a full decade before Israel expects to complete work on its own Arrow, an anti-tactical ballistic missile system.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The Hungarian news agency M-T-I says Hungarian government and opposition officials are joining forces for talks today in Moscow on the withdrawal of about 50-thousand Soviet troops from Hungary.

Officials from three major opposition parties are joining Hungary's foreign minister and deputy foreign minister and have the status of observers at the talks, which are expected to lead to the signing of a pullout accord tomorrow.

By all accounts, it would be the first time that opposition figures of a Warsaw Pact nation attended inter-governmental talks in the Soviet Union. The arrangement apparently has Moscow's consent.

Hungary's defense minister says the Soviet troop withdrawal could begin next week.

A similar troop withdrawal agreement was concluded by Czechoslovakia and signed by Soviet President Gorbachev and Czechoslovak President Havel last month in Moscow. It set a June 30th, 1991, deadline for the withdrawal of an estimated 73-thousand-500 troops from Czechoslovakia.

Three Northwest Airlines pilots are under arrest for allegedly flying from Fargo, North Dakota, to the Twin Cities while under the influence of alcohol.

The three men were taken into custody yesterday morning by airport police after the plane landed at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport.

Airport Police Chief Jim Welna says the pilots were detained under orders from a Federal Aviation Administration inspector who made a citizen's arrest because he suspected they were under the influence.

Welna says the three consented to blood-alcohol tests.

Northwest spokesman Kevin Whalen says the pilots have been taken out of service pending the outcome of the investigation. Whalen says the Boeing 727 carried 91 passengers and landed in the Twin Cities without incident.

Whalen emphasized that the flight crew has NOT been found guilty of any charges... and in his words... ''That's why we are doing an investigation.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The nation's civilian jobless rate held steady at 5.3 percent in February for the ninth consecutive month and the number of jobs increased by a dramatic 372,000, the Labor Department said Friday.

The increase in jobs was the largest since a gain of 470,000 in June 1988, the department said.

The government attributed the unusually large increase in jobs to the number of automotive workers called back to their factories after temporary layoffs, and said the construction industry benefitted from warm weather.

There was also more hiring in the service industries.

''The unemployment rate for autoworkers, which had soared to 20 percent in January because of temporary plant shutdowns, fell back to 8 percent in February,'' the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said in its monthly report.

There was also a rebound in the related fabricated metals industry, but otherwise factory employment was weak, espacially in the textile, apparel, rubber and plastics industries, the government said.

The number of unemployed people remained at 6.6 million, adjusted for seasonal factors, in February and the jobless rate for blacks dipped to 10.5 percent, ''reflecting improvement among adult black men,'' the report said.

The February increase in construction employment was estimated at about 60,000, and the February increase in the services industry was estimated at about 145,000, the same as in January, the government said.

The jobless rate for men 20 years and older dipped to 4.6 percent in February from 4.7 percent in January, while the jobless rate for women 20 years and older increased to 4.8 percent from 4.6 percent, the Labor Department said.

For teenagers, the February jobless rate increased to 14.8 percent from 14.5 percent in January, the department said.

These statistics were also adjusted to reflect seasonal factors.

The estimated number of discouraged workers, or jobless people who stopped looking for work, was not available for February. In January, the Labor Department reported 827,000 people fell into that category in the fourth quarter of last year.

CAIRO, EGYPT (MARCH 9) UPI - Japanese archaeologists have discovered a major port in Egypt's Southern Sinai desert dating from the Ottoman and Mameluke periods, but the inhabitants of 20 homes will have to be relocated before excavation work can continue, a Cairo newspaper reported Friday.

''The Japanese expedition found a number of important archaeological buildings constituting the ancient Tor City harbor, which overlooked the present day Suez Harbor,'' the semi-official daily al Ahram reported Friday.

Tor harbor, one of the most important Red Sea ports in the early Ottoman era, was a major outpost for East-West trade. Moslem pilgrims also used the harbor for their journeys to Islam's holy shrines in Mecca and Medina between the l4th and l7th centuries, archaeologists said.

The Japanese mission will have to pay $75,000 to relocate the inhabitants of 20 homes built above the new find, the newspaper said. Southern Sinai local authorities have already started construction of new houses in preparation for relocation.

The Japanese team also discovered ancient Islamic pots and porcelain utensils with Islamic designs and engravings, and bronze coins, including one dating to 1299 - more than two centuries before the Ottomans captured the Byzantine capital of Constantinople. The rooms also contained manuscripts from the city of Tor.

ST. PAUL, MN (MARCH 9) UPI - Dr. Charles Mayo, grandson of the Mayo Clinic co-founder, has been ordered to pay a $4,000 civil penalty to the Board of Medical Examiners for several cases of poor patient care going back to 1972.

The cases cited in board documents occurred during Mayo's tenure as a family practitioner from 1972 to 1987 with Group Health Inc. in St. Paul. Mayo, 57, has worked for the past two years at a walk-in clinic at St. John-St. Ansgar Hospital in Moorhead.

The board's order, released Thursday, lists missed or delayed diagnoses of lung cancer, malignant melanoma, arm fracture, leukemia and skin cancer. It also said he inappropriately treated an ankle fracture, a finger fracture, a cervical cancer case and a patient with seizures.

The medical board did not revoke or suspend his license, instead ordering him to submit to quarterly review and to clear his work in advance with the board.

''The blatant fact of so many diagnoses missed and so forth doesn't really tell the story,'' said Dr. George Martin of Minneapolis, chairman of the complaint review committee in Mayo's case.

''This case was reviewed volumininously ... Basically, for him as a well as anybody else, what would appear like gross incompetence to a lay person frequently is not. It's a difficulty in judgment calls, the process and rationale you go through to arrive at a diagnosis and treatment.

''The problems that surfaced, in our consultant's opinion as well as our own, were not sufficient to warrant suspension or revocation of the license. And that's not because his last name is Mayo, either.''

Dr. John Thomas, chief of Staff at St. John's-St. Ansgar's, expressed strong support for Mayo.

''We've had no problems with Dr. Mayo's medical care and continue to feel comfortable with his work,'' Thomas said.

Mayo expressed regrets about his handling of some cases. He also said he had been sued ''seven or eight'' times in his career.

''There are a couple I really felt badly about,'' he said. ''If I'd been more astute, or more bold, perhaps ... But there are other times when I think people just got the idea I might have deep pockets.''

Mayo has never practiced at the famous clinic in Rochester that bears his family's name.

(MARCH 8) UPI - Stock prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange rallied further in moderate trading Friday but worries about the faltering Japanese yen whittled away hefty morning gains.

The blue-chip Nikkei Average of 225 selected issues, which advanced 328.55 points Thursday, gained 302.23 points to 33,993.12, but tumbled 514.44 points for the week.

The broader-based Tokyo Stock Exchange Index of all major listed shares added 3.35 points to 2,539.89 following a 20.27-point gain Thursday.

Trading was moderate, with an estimated 650 million shares changing hands, up from 604 million shares Thursday.

Advances outnumbered declines 548 to 427, while 160 issues remained unchanged.

Speculators sent the key Nikkei Average streaking ahead more than 600 points early in the session, but the indicator drifted down late in the day and closed at the day's low.

Analysts said bargain hunting by institutional and foreign investors propelled the early advance.

''It was an automatic adjustment in the market,'' said Yoshi Shimoyama, general manager of the stock trading division at Nikko Securities. He said prices had fallen so low that they eventually had to rebound.

Analysts said market players initially ignored the dollar's rise above the 151-yen level on the Tokyo Foreign Exchange.

But later in the day, renewed worries about the Japanese yen and fears of higher interest rates triggered profit taking.

On the trading floor, nonferrous metals ended sharply higher on expectations that gold prices will rebound.

Other big winners included railway stocks, shipping, warhousing and some financial issues.

Profit takers sent construction issues lower along with high-priced, high-techstocks such as Fanuc and Pioneer Electric.

Steels also eased but most other sectors ended mixed to slightly higher.

Elsewhere in Asia, prices closed slightly lower in light trading on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

The Hang Seng Index, which fell 10.72 points Thursday, eased 3.06 points to 2,912.67. Utilities lost 32.36 points, financials gained 13.18, industrials fell 6.66 and properties closed rose 18.11 points.

An estimated 1.123 billion shares changed hands, up from the 997 million shares Thursday.

''There's no real buying interest in the market and very little exciting local news around,'' said a senior broker with a local securities firm.

''It looks like a secondary market at the moment, as the top 20 most actively traded stocks are all second-line companies. There aren't any blue-chips among them,'' one analyst noted.

Traders said the market was likely to remain quiet in the coming week, with a technical resistance level seen at around 2,960.00 on the Hang Seng Index.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the Singapore Stock Exchange in line with the advance in Tokyo.

The Straits Time Industrial Index, which gained 7.05 points Thursday, rose 10.2 points to 1575.98. The narrower All Singapore Index rose 2.21 points to 432.76.

An estimated 128 million shares chnaged hands, up from the 82 million shares Thursday.

''Tokyo affected the market but bargain hunting also played a part in pushing prices higher,'' an analyst said.

On the trading floor, Singapore Airlines (foreign shares) paced the advancing issues, followed by Singapore Airlines (domestic), Overseas Chinese Banking Corp. and Singapore Press.

Singapore Press (foreign shares) led the declining issues, followed by Golden Plus, Lion Corp., Great Eastern Life and Overseas Chinese Banking Corp. (foreign shares).

In Australia, stock prices closed higher in light trading on the Sydney Sharemarket boosted by gains in Tokyo and New York.

The All Ordinaries Index, which fell 12.6 points Thursday, added 8.8 points to 1579.3. The All Industrials Index rose 8.8 points to 2430.0 and the All Resources Index gained 8.2 points to 926.9.

An estimated 74 million shares changed hands, down from the 80 million shares Thursday.

Analysts said investors were encouraged by the strong advance in Tokyo and the 26.58 point gain in the Dow Jones Average Thursday.

Also, analysts said some bargin hun ting helped to boost prices.

On the trading floor, News Corp. paced the actives,. gaining 35 cents to $11.

Among the day's highlights, BTR gained 14 cents to $5.96, Adsteam added 5 cents to $4.95, Brambles gained 20 cents to $13.20, Elders-IXL eased 7 cents to $2.08 and BHP Mining rose 12 cents to $9.70.

GENEVA, SWITZERLAND (MARCH 9) UPI - The Soviet Union has formally requested observer status at the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the world free trade regulatory body announced Friday.

The U.S. GATT representative, Ambassador Rufus Yerxa, welcomed the Soviet move as a sign that Moscow is serious about making free-market economy reforms. "We are favorably disposed towards the Soviet request, very favorable on them becoming observers," Yerxa said.

"It has symbolic significance and is a good sign that they want to learn about the international organizations governing world trade and will ultimately adopt a market-oriented system in order to become fully integrated into GATT," he said. But any full Soviet membership is still a long way off, Yerxa said.

The European Community's external affairs commissioner, Frans Andriessen, told reporters that the EC also "is not averse" to Soviet observer status. The current 96 full contracting members in GATT account for about 97 percent of annual world trade.

GATT has close links with but is not a part of the U.N. system, and is basically a set of free trade rules with provisions for exceptions in special cases and with procedures for resolving trading disputes between members.

China last year asked for membership, but the request has been effectively shelved, mainly because of last year's crackdown on pro-democracy demonstrators.

GATT spokesman David Woods said Evgeny Makeyev, the Soviet ambassador to the U.N. and other organizations in Geneva, presented the formal request Thursday to GATT director general Arthur Dunkel of Switzerland.

Moscow asked the permament GATT Council to discuss the request at its next monthly meeting April 3, Woods said. There would be no early decision, however, because members will have to consult first among themselves and then with the Soviets, he said.

Observer status would allow the Soviets to attend but not intervene at regular meetings of the GATT Council and various committees but not at private discussions such as dispute settlement proceedings.

PARIS (MARCH 9) UPI - A pro-Iranian Moslem fundamentalist leader, Fouad Ali Saleh, was convicted Friday on charges of coordinating a wave of terrorist attacks in Paris in 1986 and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Eight other defendants were convicted by the Paris 10th Criminal Tribunal and received varying prison terms for belonging to the ring that organized the bombings, which killed 13 people and injured 250 others in the French capital.

The trial was the first of two in Paris involving the attacks. The proceedings that ended Friday concerned the organization of the attacks. Saleh, a 31-year-old Tunisian, and three of his alleged accomplices are to stand trial separately at the Paris Assize Court on charges of complicity in the killings and injuries.

A 10th defendant present Friday was ordered released because of lack of sufficient evidence against him.

Eight other people were convicted in their absence, including Habib Haidar a leading figure in the Lebanese pro-Iranian Hezbollah organization, who is at large. He received a 20-year prison term.

ADDIS ABABA, ETHIOPIA (MARCH 9) UPI - Students at Addis Ababa University sent a petition to the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain asking the three countries to help end two civil wars in Ethiopia, the official Ethiopian News Agency reported Friday.

The petition called for pressure to be applied to unnamed Arab governments which, it said, ''for their own selfish motives encourage, support and arm secessionist groups to wage civil war in Ethiopia.''

The students have staged demonstrations this week to support planned economic and political change in Ethiopia and calling on the Eritrean

People's Liberation Front and the Tigre People's Liberation Front to lay down their arms and support President Mengistu Haile Mariam's call for national unity.

Mengistu announced sweeping reforms of Ethiopia's Marxist system Monday, giving land and food ownership back to the peasants and saying limited opposition would be tolerated.

He said Ethiopia should take change in other socialist countries into account.

Western diplomats in Addis Ababa said the planned reforms would be of little significance without the cooperation of the two rebel groups, who between them control over one third of the country.

The EPLF has fought a 28-year war of independence in the north and recently consolidated its hold on Eritrea province with the capture of the key northern port of Massawa, 470 miles north of Addis Ababa.

The hard-line Marxist TPLF has fought to overthrow the central government since 1977. It is currently fully in control of Tigre province.

The student petition blamed the rebels for economic disaster in Ethiopia, which has suffered a series of major famines in the past 10 years.

JERUSALEM (MARCH 9) UPI - The government announced Friday that construction of 4,000 apartments for Jewish immigrants from the Soviet Union and other newcomers would begin next week.

Some 2,000 of the apartments will be in East Jerusalem and Housing Minister David Levy, speaking to local officials in northern Israel, said the construction in East Jerusalem was a clear answer to U.S. policy questioning Israeli sovereignty over the area, Israel Radio reported.

The status of East Jerusalem, land that was held by Jordan and seized by Israel in the 1967 Six Day War, has become the center of a dispute between Israel and the United States.

On March 3, President Bush said the United States opposed new settlements in the West Bank and East Jerusalem. State Deparment officials then said the United States considered East Jerusalem an Israeli-occupied territory.

The Jerusalem Post said U.S. officials reportedly were angered by an internal report showing that large numbers of Soviet immigrants were moving to East Jerusalem neighborhoods.

The White House later said it supports the rights of Jews and others to live in East Jerusalem in ''the context of a negotiated settlement.''

Although the statements were a reaffirmation of established U.S. policy, they unleashed a storm of criticism from Israeli leaders who consider Jerusalem the nation's religious and political capital and reject any discussion of negotiations on its status.

East Jerusalem is also at the core of the deadlock between the Labor and Likud Parties over the peace process. Labor favors East Jerusalem Arabs participating in the peace process, while Likud sees their involvement as a threat to Israeli control of the eastern half of the city.

Of the 4,000 apartments to be built for immigrants in Jerusalem, 2,000 are in the neighborhoods of Nave Ya'akov and Pisgat Ze'ev, Housing Ministry spokeswoman Aliza Goren said.

The two neighborhoods are on land that was incorporated into municipal Jerusalem after the 1967 war, and are part of a ring of Jewish neighborhoods built around the Arab areas of East Jerusalem to consolidate Israeli control of the city and ensure it would not be divided again. About 120,000 Jews and 150,000 Arabs live in East Jerusalem.

The new apartments are for immigrants in general, but most are expected to be filled by Jewish emigres from the Soviet Union.

The increase in Soviet immigration to Israel, due to tighter restrictions governing entry of Soviets into the United States and looser Soviet emigration policies, has caused concern among the Arab world and criticism from the United States which opposes further settlement of any kind in the territories.

Israeli officials estimate as many as 100,000 Soviet Jews to emigrate to Israel in 1990, and up to 500,000 over next five years. In 1989, 12,900 Soviet Jews came to Israel, 54 percent of total immigration of 24,700.

In response to the wave of Soviet Jewish immigration, Israel has announced an overall building program of 50,000 apartments to be built this year.

Palestinians in East Jerusalem, the West Bank and Gaza Strip, meanwhile, observed a general strike call to mark the start of the 27th month of the uprising against Israeli occupation. One Gaza Strip Arab was wounded by army gunfire in clashes, Palestinian sources said.

TOKYO (MARCH 9) UPI - Former Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita, who still calls many of the political shots in Japan, travels to Washington Saturday for talks with President Bush on the deepening economic rift between the two nations.

Takeshita's trip, which comes one week after Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu and Bush met in Palm Springs, Calif., could prove to be more important than the Kaifu-Bush summit because of the strong influence Takeshita wields, analysts said Friday.

"It is quite possible when Takeshita comes to Washington he will cut a deal - the deal we did not get when Kaifu visited," said David Hale, chief economist for Kemper Financial Services.

Kaifu promised Bush he will give top priority to reducing the nearly $50 billion annual U.S. trade deficit with Japan, but critics in Congress said nothing is likely to change because Kaifu made no specific promises. An atmosphere of secrecy surrounds the Takeshita visit.

Takeshita, who often prefers to operate behind the scenes, has been silent on his intentions and has no plans to announce the results of his meetings Monday with Bush and Secretary of State James Baker.

"If you look at Japanese politics with a cool eye, you will see the person running the country is not Prime Minister Kaifu," said Rei Shiratori, dean of the political science department at Tokai University. "Kaifu is a puppet manned from behind the curtain, and the person operating the puppet is Takeshita."

Takeshita's meeting with Bush could add to Kaifu's image as a weak leader if Takeshita is seen as accomplishing more than the prime minister did at his summit with Bush.

"Takeshita is still very important and influential," said Seizaburo Sato, a professor of politics at Tokyo University. "This meeting could be very important."

Takeshita, Japan's prime minister from November 1987 to June 1989, resigned from office because of his links to a bribery scandal. Takeshita played a key role in elevating Kaifu from obscurity to prime minister last August, and many analysts believe Kaifu owes his position to Takeshita.

Takeshita leads the largest faction in the ruling Liberal Democratic Party and comfortably won re-election to his seat in Parliament in nationwide elections Feb. 18.

High-level officials from the Foreign Ministry, Finance Ministry and Ministry of International Trade and Industry will accompany Takeshita, according to a report in the Yomiuri Shimbun, Japan's leading daily newspaper.

As prime minister, Takeshita was viewed as a powerful back-room leader who had little charisma but could get the job done. Takeshita was able to accomplish several major changes in Japan's trade policy that had eluded his predecessors. Takeshita opened the beef and orange markets to imports and the construction market to foreign contractors.

Takeshita's trip poses a threat to Kaifu, who is struggling to establish himself as a strong, independent leader. "If Takeshita holds substantive talks with U.S. officials on the structural trade issues, it will spotlight Kaifu's weak leadership, possibly sparking an intra-party drive to unseat him," said the Asahi Evening News in an editorial.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The Pentagon's offensive in the war on drugs will be unveiled today . One official says the plan WON'T include stationing U-S warships off the coast of Colombia... which Colombia denounced earlier this year despite its own war on the drug cartels. The Pentagon plan is expected to set up naval task forces- but NOT off Colombia.

Right now, Colombian officials are more concerned about left-wing guerrillas than drug traffickers. An election is coming up Sunday... and leftists are blamed for 885 deaths this year. One governor says the intimidation campaign is the worst it's ever been. Three leftist guerrilla groups are operating in Colombia. A fourth, M-19, formally surrendered its weapons yesterday.

Opening statements and other court procedures delayed Oliver North's testimony in the Iran-Contra trial of his former boss, John Poindexter, until today. North said at one time Poindexter was the only man who did NOT hang him out to dry during the scandal. The prosecution will call North to the stand... despite objections from both North and Poindexter.

Some political observers of Haiti expect General Prosper Avril to give up his power in the near future. But the U-S Embassy says Avril is holding on. Anti-government demonstrations broke out across the island yesterday- the worst since Avril became Haiti's military ruler in overthrowing the previous government two years ago.

Pakistan's foreign secretary says an attempt to overthrow the government of Afghanistan is NOT over. He says rebel troops are still fighting forces loyal to the government at a key air base, while government forces remain in control of the capital, Kabul. Afghanistan accuses Pakistan of being behind the attempted coup. But Pakistan says the accusation is ''baseless.''

ANALYSIS BY ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Perhaps it was an accident of timing, but on one day late last month, the business page of the newspaper looked more like the blotter of a precinct police station than a chronicle of commerce and finance.

-One story was about Texas Air Corp. selling part of the air travel reservation system it bought from its subsidiary Eastern Airlines for a $100 million note a few years ago. Texas Air got $250 million for half interest in the system, but denied it had fleeced the now bankrupt Eastern in the original deal it imposed on the ailing air carrier.

-A second story reported that Drexel Burnham Lambert, in the months immediately before it filed for bankruptcy because of a cash flow crisis, paid out $260 million in bonuses to its executives. The company said the bonuses had nothing to do with the cash shortage that forced it to the wall.

-A third story reported that the management of the Cummins Diesel firm was being sued by stockholders on charges of allowing the company's founding family to reap a windfall from a stock purchase the family described as a self-sacrificing way of saving the company from a hostile takeover.

This list of alleged holdups, muggings and scams makes one wonder whether the people in charge of these enterprises ever read the commercial history of the United States in the 19th and early 20th centuries.

It was behavior of this very sort that provoked a wave of revulsion against ''robber barons'' such as Jay Gould, John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Mellon and Henry Ford and brought down a deluge of government regulation on hitherto unfettered American businessmen.

Federal regulation hit a peak in the 1930s because it was popular to blame unethical business practices for the Depression that devastated the country in that decade.

It took 40 years of assiduous propagandizing by business groups to turn the tide of regulation, which finally began ebbing when Congress drew the line over the readily ridiculed regulations of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

With political conservatism on the rise, the argument that over-regulation was crippling the mighty engine of American enterprise gained new appeal and soon Congress was deregulating one business after another.

Airlines, railroads, broadcasting stations and a list of other busineses were freed from various levels of government oversight in the 1980s, with more promised by the anti-Big Government zealots.

But then some sour notes were heard. The great Bull Market of the 1980s turned up some inside traders who weren't playing by the rules, and some of the bonds issued to finance the takeover mania of the decade actually turned out to be junk. Then, at an immense but still uncounted cost, large sections of the deregulated savings and loan industry went broke and had to be bailed out by an inadequate government insurance fund.

All this was punctuated by stories about a junk bond dealer ''earning'' $500 million in a single year and a billionaire publisher flying hundreds of people to North Africa for a birthday party. ''Free'' enterprise ws getting a self-inflicted black eye.

What is going to happen now? Don't be surprised if we see the regulation fever of the 1930s revisited. and in the process watch four decades of efforts to free business from the heavy hand of government go down the tubes.

(MARCH 9) UPI - A report says a slain Marine corporal was helping investigate an alleged embezzlement scheme involving personnel assigned to the helicopter squadron that serves President Bush. The scheme involves the payment of travel money for trips never taken by military personel or funds skimmed from travel vouchers. Corporal Estella Pearson was shot to death in a parking lot in Woodbridge, Virginia, Monday.

A robbery suspect who was shot during a Brooklyn holdup 17 years ago has died of those wounds. 35-year-old Willie Jones was left a paraplegic after being shot by a storekeeper. The medical examiner's office says Jones' death was caused by those wounds. Police termed the death a homicide. The Brooklyn district attorney's office will decide if charges will be filed in the case.

The new president and chief executive of Forbes Incorporated made a happy announcement to employees grieving over the death of his father, Malcolm Forbes. At his late father's request, he gave Forbes magazine staff members an extra week's pay and forgave all personal debts to the company of up to 10-thousand dollars. Three-dozen staffers have such loans. Forbes died February 24th.

HAMDEN, CT (MARCH 9) UPI - A poll Friday showed that independent candidate Lowell Weicker would easily defeat both the Democratic and Republican contenders for governor if an election were held now.

The Quinnipiac College poll showed that Weicker had the support of 41.7 percent of the voters while Democratic Gov. William O'Neill and Rep. Bruce Morrison, D-Conn., received only 16.7 percent apiece.

The leading Republican candidate, Rep. John Rowland, R-Conn., averaged about 22 percent in both matchups.

About 19 percent of the 871 people polled at random earlier this week were undecided.

The poll conducted by the private college was the first taken since Weicker, a former Republican senator, announced one week ago he was running for governor as an independent candidate.

Almost 50 percent of those polled gave Weicker a favorable rating.

O'Neill slipped to 33.2 percent in the favorability ratings from two polls taken last October and in January, while Morrison climbed in the ratings from 36 percent to 40 percent.

The poll had a margin of error of plus or minus 3.4 pecentage points.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 10) UPI - President Bush, hoping to win freedom for the U.S. hostages, spoke by phone last month with someone claiming to be Iran's president, but the call turned out to be a hoax, his spokesman said.

''We get a lot of hoax phone calls. I get a lot myself,'' White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said Friday.

He said the caller told national security adviser Brent Scowcroft that Iranian President Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani wanted to speak to the president at a certain time. When the man phoned again in the afternoon, the president took the call.

But Fitzwater acknowledged, ''We were suspicious because of the interpreter.''

Fitzwater said the president thought, ''What if it is him? We don't have contacts. We have an unorthodox relationship. The hostage families would want me to take that risk. And why not?''

''The president wanted it out that he had taken the call and that he was not going to miss a possible opportunity (to free the hostages),'' Fitzwater said. ''He knew when he took the call there was a good chance it wasn't real.''

Thursday night Fitzwater initially said Bush had called a prearranged number to reach Rafsanjani, but Friday he said Bush actually spoke to the prankster after he called the White House.

Tehran radio, in a dispatch monitored in Athens, quoted Rafsanjani as telling a prayer congregation Friday, ''Iran's position is now so high in the world that the most powerful oppressor government tries to make contact with us.''

Rafsanjani also was quoted as saying he thought it strange that ''the world's most powerful man should talk to someone without knowing whom he was talking to, despite all the facilities at his disposal.''

The Bush administration has not determined who was behind the hoax, Fitzwater said.

Deputy press secretary Steve Hart said Thursday, ''About a month ago, a phone call was received by the staff of the National Security Council from someone claiming to be an Iranian government official.''

''The caller said Rafsanjani wanted to talk with President Bush by telephone,'' Hart said.

''President Bush was, of course, prepared to talk to President Rafsanjani '' he said. ''He has said continually he would talk to anyone that could facilitate the release of the hostages. And that, of course, remains the case.''

Hart said, ''Various methods were used to check the veracity of the caller '' but he wasn't proven to be a prankster until Bush came to the phone.''

Fitzwater said Bush, frustrated by his inability to free the hostages, was not particularly upset by the hoax.

''If a call comes in at some future point that he (Bush) thinks is real, he will take it,'' Fitzwater said.

Factions of the pro-Iranian Hezbollah organization in Lebanon are holding 18 Western hostages, including eight Americans.

All U.S. dealings with Iran have followed a pattern of message-sending through third parties and non-government officials, raising questions about how a bogus call could make its way to Bush.

Rafsanjani said Wednesday the issue of the hostages held by the pro-Iranian radicals ''is going to be solved,'' according to Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency.

Rafsanjani set no timetable for the release of the captives and said Iran was not negotiating with the United States on the release of the hostages.

#90068u0976 03/09/1990 ~United Press International
(MARCH 9) UPI - When Martin Scorsese's film ''The Last Temptation of Christ'' was released to the public in 1988, it caused a furor in the religious world, bringing fundamentalists pickets to movie theaters and raising the spectre of censorhsip, anti-Semitism and blasphemy.

Some people think ''The Handmaid's Tale,'' the film version of Canadian novelist Margaret Atwood's dystopian novel just now reaching theaters, may spark an equivalent reaction.

To date, however, reaction to the chilling, cautionary tale has been muted and the reasons why may be instructive.

First and foremost may be the changed religious and political climate.

''The Last Temptation,'' which was based on a novel by Nikos Kazantzakis, was released near the height of the political activism of the theologically fundamentalist and politically conservtive Religious Right.

Ronald Reagan presided over a White House where the Moral Majority's Jerry Falwell was a frequent visitor; Pat Robertson was marshalling the troops for a run for the presidency; money and energy were pouring into groups aimed at putting a conservative stamp on the nation's soul.

Much of that has changed. George Bush's more pragmatic White House is less interested in the domestic social agenda than in foreign affairs, and the cooling of the anti-Communist ardor has undercut a primary source of energy and ideology for the Religious Right.

Also important, Atwood's tale - set in the near future when fundamentalists have taken over a portion of the United States and imposed a feminist's nightmare in which women are stripped of all control over their sexuality - while plausibly frightening when the conservative Christians were at the peak of their power, now seems a little dated as that influence wanes.

Also working against the film's inflaming of theological passions is the fact that it does not deal directly with Jesus Christ as Scorsese's film did, and thus does not reach to the core of Christians' most deeply held beliefs.

Still, the film is likely to offend some people, especially in the present climate where feelings run strong on the issues of sexuality and the nation's major political debate is over protecting laws that guarantee a woman's right to control her sexuality, including the right to abortion.

Directed by Volker Schlondorff, with a screenplay by Harold Pinter and starring Natasha Richardson, Robert Duvall and Faye Dunaway, the film, while visually austere, is also much more accessible and potentially popular than Scorsese's ''Last Temptation.''

Accidentally - but for feminists and supporters of legal abortion, serendipitiously - the film seems to echo some of the news coming out of Romania, where under the former totalitarian regime of Nicolae Ceausescu both birth control and abortion were legally forbidden.

And that echo is not being lost on those who will use the movie in the current debate.

''Handmaid's Tale,'' author Atwood told a Washington screening, is about ''the dangers of not noticing; not paying attention, having your freedoms removed. Of course you never notice that until you're in a situation in which the removal of those freedoms affects you.''

A lot of people are going to make sure that this nightmare of a vision does get noticed, and with it a different mix of the religious and political than that which dominated the 1980s.

BONN, WEST GERMANY (MARCH 9) UPI - West German government sources confirmed Friday Bonn had evidence that Libya produced 30 tons of mustard gas in a test at a chemical weapons plant built with assistance from West German companies.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Hanns Schuhmacher denied reports of a dispute between the West German and United States governments on how to respond to the evidence.

''We passed on the information to Washington in February,'' a senior government source said, adding that the evidence had been obtained by the Federal Information Service, the West German secret service.

''I can confirm we have evidence that a possible testing of the installation produced a stock of about 30 tons, which we consider to be a small quantity,'' the source said.

Schuhmacher said the Bonn government was working ''shoulder to shoulder'' with the U.S. administration in seeking ways to prevent further production of the chemical weapons at the Rabta plant, 35 miles southwest of the Libyan capital of Tripoli.

''There are no misunderstandings or differences of opinion,'' he said.

Reacting to reports the U.S. State Department had rejected a West German proposal for an international inspection of the plant, Schuhmacher said it was only one ''of several alternatives aimed at stopping or preventing production.''

''It's not that we are keen on inspecting the plant, we simply want production to stop,'' he said.

Libya claims the plant is not a chemical weapons factory but a pharmaceutical plant.

Several West German companies, including Immhausen-Chemie, allegedly played a key role in the construction of the plant.

Former Immhausen-Chemie Chairman Juergen Hippenstiel-Immhausen has been under investigative police custody since last May for his alleged role in the affair.

The authorities had earlier cleared the firm, but reopened investigations after they were criticized internally and internationally for failing to crackdown on illegal exports of sensitive technology to Libya and other areas of potential conflict.

The Bonn government had first angrily rejected U.S. claims that West German firms were involved in the construction of the Rabta plant but later admitted West German secret service had suspected such an involvement since 1980.

EAST BERLIN (MARCH 9) UPI - Twenty-four political parties and movements will take part in March 18 elections, the first free and secret general elections in East Germany, the commission preparing the ballot announced Friday.

Approximately 12.2 million voters are expected to participate, the official election commission said.

Observers believe there is little chance any of the parties, or even electoral alliances, vying for the 400 seats in the East German Parliament to be able to obtain the majority needed to form a government.

There has been widespread speculation in recent weeks that the two main contenders, the conservative Alliance for Germany and the Social Democratic Party may be forced to form a government coalition.

The three parties in the Alliance for Germany are backed by West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl's Christian Democratic Union, while the Social Democrats are supported by their sister party in the West German opposition.

The Communist Party that ruled the country along Stalinist lines until massive popular pressure forced its leadership to resign last fall has admitted it did not expect to take much more than 10 percent of the vote.

The election commission in announcing that a total of 24 parties and movements will be fielding candidates at the polls said it had not approved parties with racist or fascist tendencies.

LONDON (MARCH 9) UPI - Stock and share markets fell Friday amid fear of political instability after hundreds of rioters looted and fought police over Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's plan to impose a controversial tax in England and Wales.

Police and news reports said about 800 people late Thursday swept through a shopping center in the north London district of Hackney, looting stores and attacking police in the worst anti-tax violence that left 29 officers and at least one activist wounded.

Police said they arrested 60 people, 20 of them residents from outside the borough. The chief superintendent responsible for security said a "significant minority" of agitators had come to attack police lines, bolstering claims by ruling Conservative party members that protests are being stage-managed by left-wing radicals.

Newspapers and the British Broadcasting Corp. said activists within an assembled group of about 4,000 protestors pelted police lines with rocks, bottles, firecrackers and smoke bombs.

The demonstrators blocked roads, torched a police vehicle and smashed all windows along a 500-yard stretch of shops, from which merchandise was stolen, the reports said.

Clashes have erupted in numerous communities as local councils set the poll tax, a flat fee replacing property rates and levied for local community costs regardless of residents' income. Critics say the levy is unfair, citing Britain's richest man, the duke of Westminster, who will pay the same amount as his chauffeur.

Thatcher is lagging in opinion polls at her lowest-ever standing of 19 points behind Labor, and many of her party fear they will lose elections that must be held before mid-1992.

Analysts said her mounting political crisis affected Friday's markets, with pound sterling by midday dropping two cents against the U.S. dollar to 1.6235 and share values falling 13 points to 2236.4.

The Independent quoted Conservative Party sources as saying some Cabinet ministers had met to discuss strategy, including an option that Thatcher "might be asked to step down in favor of an agreed alternative candidiate."

However, the newspaper said the "tentative conspiracy" had no solid contender to replace Thatcher, and no ministers wished to present the idea to their leader because "she would shoot the bearers of any such message." An official of Thatcher's Downing Street office dismissed any notion of her resigning, saying "these reports are utter and absolute rubbish."

Thatcher, speaking to reporters during a visit to the Scottish city of Glasgow, claimed the left-wing Militant Tendency group had instigated the violence.

"It is not the way to conduct affairs at all," she said. "Anything that is intimidatory or violent is absolutely flatly contradictory to democracy. People can protest but they should do so peacefully."

Authorities in Scotland have launched proceedings against more than 500,000 people who have not paid their poll tax in the region, which with Northern Ireland has been subject to the new levy for about one year.

England and Wales are to start payments in April, and protests have been spurred by local councils setting an average per head fee of $613, about 34 percent more than what they paid under the previous property rate system.

Labor leader Neil Kinnock also condemned the violence, but said it was rooted in the poll tax, for which his party has presented a vague alternative of a property tax based on a person's ability to pay.

"(Thatcher) has got to go a little bit further and understand the reason why the crowds are gathering to enable the fringe elements to baton (latch) onto them," he said. "The reason for that of course is the poll tax itself."

The last time an English government imposed a poll or head tax was in 1381 precipitating the Peasant's Revolt, when mobs beheaded the archbishop of Canterbury and the treasurer. The tax was abandoned.

EAST BERLIN (MARCH 9) UPI - East and West German officials Friday began talks in East Berlin aimed at preparing a German unification conference with the two Germanys and World War II victors Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States.

In Bonn, a West German government spokesman confirmed the six powers would meet Wednesday in Bonn for the first meeting of a unification conference, dubbed two-plus-four, that was conceived at a meeting in Ottawa last month.

The two delegations meeting in East Berlin were expected to discuss the international angle of German reunification, said an East German Foreign Ministry spokesman.

The delegations, consisting of senior foreign ministry officials, were widely expected to agree to keep secret the details of their discussions before next week's meeting in Bonn.

No concrete decisions were anticipated before East Germany forms a new government after March 18 elections.

Observers believe the question of military affiliation may prove to be the main obstacle in the unification talks.

The Western powers insist a united Germany should remain in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Western military alliance and counterpart to the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact. Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and East German Prime Minister Hans Modrow have dismissed the idea.

In the Danish capital of Copenhagen Friday, West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher issued a joint statement with his Danish counterpart, Uffe Ellemann-Jensena reaffirming the importance of NATO.

''The alliance is necessary for stability, for the continuation of the Atlantic dimension and for the entire ongoing arms control process,'' the communique said.

But the joint statement said it is ''imperative'' that NATO continue to keep up with political developments so it can enter broader security structures by which all Europeans' legitimate security interests are taken into account.

Genscher also said Europe has nothing to fear from a united Germany.

''We are not looking for a German Europe but a European Germany,'' said Genscher following talks with .

In the joint communique, Genscher and Ellemann-Jensen also guaranteed Polish borders and gave assurances of Poland's right to consultation on the issue of German unification.

''It is of special importance to emphasize that the right of the Polish people to live within secure borders will not be questioned either now or in the future,'' the communique said.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, who had sought to link a guarantee of Polish borders to Poland's renunciation of war reparations, reversed himself on the issue amid strong pressure from within his own government and criticism from abroad.

But Polish President Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, lashing out at West German ''double talk,'' arrived in Paris Friday with Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki to seek French help in safeguarding Poland's frontiers.

In an interview published by the left-wing newspaper Liberation, Jaruzelski said Poland was counting on France to support its demand to attend forthcoming talks on German reunification.

But French officials said Paris, while sympathetic to the stance of the Polish government, was not supporting direct participation of Poland in such talks. Mitterrand is looking for some kind of formula that would satisfy the Poles they were not being overlooked, they say.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The United States has discussed the possibility of selling Israel the Patriot air defense system to combat a potential ballistic missile attack but Israel has not requested a purchase, defense officials said Friday.

The defense officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified, confirmed most of the details of a story that first appeared in the Los Angeles Times.

''We have discussed the possibility of a sale of the Patriot missile with the Israeli government,'' a defense official said. ''However, they have not made a request purchase.

''The process is that we brief them on the system, then they go and decide what they want to spend their money on.''

The suggested sale, which would need congressional approval, calls for the transfer of Patriot air-defense missiles and the use of information from U.S. early-warning satellites needed to activate the new Israeli missile defense system, officials said.

The sale, if requested, would mark the first time a superpower has introduced a missile-defense shield into the Middle East.

The Times said the missiles could be deployed by late 1991, a full decade before Israel expects to complete work on its own Arrow, an anti-tactical ballistic missile system.

The suggested sale comes at a time of ballistic missile proliferation in the Middle East.

Iraq tested a ballistic missile in December and boasted that Iraqi military designers had built a Tammuz missile with a range of 1,250 miles. Iran and Iraq bombarded each other with non-nuclear tipped missiles for a two-month period in 1988.

In addition, Saudi Arabia has obtained Chinese-made missiles.

Israeli officials have said that such Arab missiles, equipped with standard warheads or chemicals, could terrorize Israel and its military installations.

Defense sources told the Times that satellite information to be shared with the Israelis currently is provided only to Western Europe, where thousands of U.S. troops are based.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher said Friday he hopes his trip next week to Japan to meet with Japanese government and business leaders will help clear the air about U.S.-Japan trade relations.

''It's becoming more and more important to make sure there is a clear understanding between the president and the prime minister,'' Mosbacher said.

Mosbacher will arrive in Japan on Tuesday for three days of meetings with various Japanese industrial leaders and the new minister of international trade and industry. He also has tentatively set up a meeting with Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu.

At a summit meeting in Palm Spring, Calif., last week President Bush and Kaifu met to discuss global issues. Bush later said the two talked about trade disputes involving telecommunications.

Upon his return to Japan, Kaifu met a firestorm of criticism and has denied he discussed specific trade issues with Bush.

Trade relations between the United States and Japan have long been sensitive and Mosbacher said he wants to smooth any trade-related misunderstandings between the world's two wealthiest nations.

''Obviously we don't want to make things difficult,'' Mosbacher said. ''We don't want to get involved in their politics. Period. I'd be remiss if I didn't talk about the trade thing. That's my job.''

Despite the post-summit flap, Mosbacher said he is optimistic that the trade friction between the two nations will ease.

''I think for the first time there is a real opportunity,'' he said, basing his optimism on the growing sensitivity of Japanese government officials toward Japanese consumers.

A joint survey by the Commerce Deparment and Japan's Ministry of International Trade and Industry found that almost 90 percent of the surveyed goods produced in the United States are priced higher in Japan. Forty percent of the goods made in Japan cost more to buy there than in the United States.

Mosbacher said the most important part of his trip will be to make a greater effort to meet members of Japan's private sector, which he believes holds a key to solving the trade disputes between the two nations.

He will meet with leaders of the Japanese semiconductor, automobile and banking industries as well as with trading companies. Mosbacher will bring with him the complaints of U.S. industrial leaders who are frustrated about their inability to penetrate the Japanese market.

''The basic case is the Japanese won't buy the products or let them in,'' Mosbacher said.

''I will reinforce that trade is an absolutely essential part to the whole partnership,'' Mosbacher said. ''The problem with the relationship with Japan is we are supportive. We're building a global partnership but we still have this very important problem'' of equal access to Japanese markets.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The rates on 30-year fixed mortgages increased by 0.06 percentage points this week while adjustable-rate mortgages were also up by 0.02 percentage points, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said Friday.

The agency, which buys mortgages from lenders and packages them as securities for sale to investors, said interest on fixed-rate loans increased to 10.29 percent this week from 10.23 percent the week before. Adjustable-rate mortgages averaged 8.50 percent, up from 8.48 percent last week, the agency said.

The fixed-rate average is for a 30-year loan covering 80 percent of a home's cost. The average adjustable-rate mortgage also is for 30 years, but for 75 percent of the home price.

BEIRUT, LEBANON (MARCH 9) UPI - Unofficial American negotiators have had direct contacts with the captors of 18 Westerners believed held in Lebanon and are working on a deal to pay ransom for the hostages' releases, the leading Lebanese magazine Ash Shiraa said Friday.

Ash Shiraa, which has good contacts among Islamic fundamentalists and was the magazine that first broke the Iran-Contra scandal story, said Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite may be the first hostage freed in the proposed deal.

The deal would involve all 18 Western hostages believed held by pro-Iranian Shiite extremists in Lebanon, including eight Americans, the magazine said.

''U.S. figures with no official capacity have been engaged in direct contacts with the captors, focusing on a proposed deal to pay some money in exchange for releasing hostages,'' Ash Shiraa said.

Ash Shiraa quoted a source as saying that Waite may be the first hostage to be freed following intensive contacts between the United States and Iran.

Waite, 50, was abducted Jan. 20, 1987, in Moslem west Beirut while negotiating the release of Western hostages held by Moslem extremists in secret hideouts in Lebanon.

No group has claimed responsibility for his abduction. But Walid Jumblat, the Druze militia leader who had provided security for Waite, charged publicly that the church envoy was being held by the pro-Iranian Hezbollah or Party of God.

Waite, 50, is among 18 Westerners believed being held hostage in Lebanon by various fundamentalist groups. Also being held are eight Americans, three Britons, two West Germans, one Irishman and an Italian.

''Direct contacts were now under way between (American) mediators who have no official representation and the kidnappers to settle the hostages issue '' the magazine said.

Ash Shiraa said that negotiations focused on freeing the hostages in return for an undisclosed amount of money.

According to the same source, contacts were now concentrating on solving the hostages issue as an overall deal that would include not only the Americans but all 18 hostages.

The magazine also said secret U.S.-Iranian diplomatic contacts took place recently, but said no details were available.

President Bush denied early this month that the United States was partcipating in secret talks aimed at winning freedom for the eight U.S. hostages, although the White House confirmed Friday Bush had taken a call from someone who identified himself as Iranian President Ali Akbar Hashemi

Rafsanjani. The call turned out to be a hoax.

Rafsanjani said Wednesday the issue of the hostages ''is going to be solved,'' according to Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, but he set no timetable for the release of the captives and said Iran was not negotiating with the United States on the release of the hostages.

UNITED NATIONS (MARCH 9) UPI - Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar asked the U.N. General Assembly Friday to lift an oil embargo on Namibia, which will emerge as an independent state March 21 after 75 years of occupation by South Africa.

Perez de Cuellar's move came in response to a request by President-elect Sam Nujoma of Namibia, the southwestern African territory in which the U.N. intervened as part of its measures to fight South Africa's apartheid policies.

The General Assembly and the Security Council have imposed economic and military sanctions against the Pretoria government to force it to change its policies of racial separation. The economic sanctions include an oil embargo and disinvestment by multi-national corporations of their assets in South Africa.

Nujoma, elected president by Namibia's first constituent assembly last month, asked Perez de Cuellar in a letter to use his good offices ''to advise all oil producing and trading nations to forthwith lift the ban of oil and other goods destined for Namibia'' on its independence day.

Nujoma said Walvis Bay should be considered Namibia's official port of entry for refined oil and other goods.

In response to the request, Perez de Cuellar asked the president of the 159-nation General Assembly to reconvene at an early date to lift the sanctions on Namibia.

MEXICO CITY (MARCH 9) UPI - Oil production in Mexico, which has been criticized by oil analysts for failing to invest in new production facilities, stayed almost level in 1989, the state-owned oil monopoly Petroleos Mexicanos reports.

The company said the average daily production of crude for 1989 rested at 2.516 million barrels, a slight increase of 0.4 percent over the production level during 1988.

Mexico, the world's fourth largest oil producer, is not a member of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, but has coordinated its production and pricing policies with the oil cartel.

It announced early in 1989 that it was holding down production in support of OPEC placing a limit on its output in an effort to bolster higher world prices.

Analysts said, however, that Mexico could not raise production, because of its failure to invest in oil-production facilities in the mid-1980s when the bottom fell out of the world oil market. OPEC raised its production ceiling by 2.5 million barrels during 1989 to 22 million barrels a day for the first six months of 1990.

In its report issued Wednesday night, the Mexican oil monopoly, known as Pemex, said it produced an average of 2.517 million barrels of crude a day in January. According to preliminary information the total daily volume of crude produced in January consisted of 1.210 million barrels of heavy Maya crude and 1.307 million barrels of light Isthmus and extra-light Olmeca crudes.

Of the total volume of crude extracted during January, Pemex exported an average of 1.255 million barrels a day. Of the daily exports, Maya amounted to 793,000 barrels, Isthmus 282,000 barrels, and Olmeca 180,000 barrels.

SAN DIEGO (MARCH 9) UPI - For the past year, the charred shell of Sharon Rogers' family van has been locked in storage, waiting for someone to determine who planted a pipe bomb under the Navy wife's vehicle - and why.

The explosion of the Toyota minivan last March 10 was initially thought to be a reprisal for the deaths of 290 Iranians aboard a civilian plane mistakenly shot down by the USS Vincennes under orders from Rogers' husband, Capt. Will C. Rogers III.

A year later, the image of the blackened van at a suburban intersection is still vivid. But fears that the attack was the work of foreign terrorists have dimmed as investigators failed to find any firm leads.

Federal agents have neither ruled out nor confirmed the theory that the van was blown up by an operative working for the late Iranian leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Nor will investigators discuss other hypotheses for the bombing, including reports that an angry associate of Capt. Rogers has been a suspect and allegations that an extramarital affair involving the Navy skipper could have provided a motive.

With no information to give, federal agents have patiently offered reassurances. ''The scope of the investigation has not narrowed. We're still looking at all avenues and treating this as a very high priority case,'' said FBI spokesman Ron Orrantia.

But with no resolution in sight, the Rogerses, along with the community at large, have remained in a psychic limbo.

''It's one thing to deal with an event like that explosion. It's another thing to deal with an event that has not come to a natural conclusion in a reasonable period of time,'' said Patrick Shea, an attorney who has represented Mrs. Rogers since the blast.

Immediately after the explosion, which occurred as Mrs. Rogers was driving to her job at the La Jolla Country Day School, the Rogers moved to a Navy base for six weeks and remained under heavy guard after they returned home.

Several anonymous telephone callers told news organizations the bomb was planted by loyalists of the Ayatollah Khomeini, whose followers had vowed revenge for the accidental downing of the Iranian Airbus.

On May 28, in what was termed a routine transfer, Capt. Rogers turned over command of the ship and began directing a Pacific Fleet training program in San Diego.

Mrs. Rogers never returned to her teaching post. Under pressure from headmaster Timothy Burns and others who said they feared for student safety, she resigned and was given a $135,000 settlement.

Declaring that she would ''start pounding the pavement,'' Mrs. Rogers began working as a substitute teacher in a San Diego suburb and became a spokeswoman for Crime Stoppers, a non-profit group that has offered more than $55,000 in reward money for tips on the van bombing.

Then, last fall, news reports said the FBI was questioning George Marxmiller, a former Eastern Airlines pilot whose estranged wife had named Capt. Rogers in a witness in her divorce suit.

Denying any role in the explosion, Marxmiller told the San Diego Tribune he had alerted the FBI to an alleged extramarital affair between Capt. Rogers and an unnamed Maryland woman who supposedly was a friend of Marxmiller's wife.

Marxmiller's wife and others vehemently denied that account. Neither of the Rogerses commented on Marxmiller's story and the couple has since turned down all requests for interviews.

Judith Ross, executive director of Crime Stoppers, said the Marxmiller wrinkle left the community confused.

''Initially, people were frightened by the thought that a terrorist could come into a quiet neighborhood like that, plant a bomb and leave unseen,'' said Ross.

''Then, when news reports began focusing on the possibility that Will Rogers was having an affair, people began thinking, 'Maybe it wasn't terrorism after all.' But the need to know was still there,'' said Ross.

Those who have worked with Mrs. Rogers over the past year have marveled at her calm and composure.

''Sharon Rogers is a hero in every sense of the word - an ordinary person caught up in extraordinary circumstances who has met every criterion of greatness,'' said Shea.

''She and Will both showed remarkable self-discipline. It was especially tough for him to go to his job every day and then come home and deal with all the emotional, personal and family difficulties,'' said Shea.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Congress would freeze crop subsidy rates - one of the key elements of farm policy - for the next five years in a bill introduced Friday by Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., who said the bill would protect farmers' income.

The farm policy law that expires this year set in motion a series of reductions in the so-called target prices that help determine crop subsidy payments. The Bush administration, in its package of ideas for the new farm law, has refused to suggest a level for target prices.

Lugar's bill, the first comprehensive farm bill to be introduced in the Senate this year, generally followed the administration outline. However, he called for a freeze on target prices, limited the amount of cropland that could be idled each year and proposed slightly stronger rules for land stewardship.

As Republican leader on the Senate Agriculture Committee, Lugar is one of the most influential voices on farm policy in Congress.

''The basic thing I've tried to do is unleash the most productive acres in America so we will have the lowest cost of production'' and can win more export sales, Lugar said.

Some farm organizations oppose any further cut in target prices out of fear it will mean lower farm income.

''This is a strong bill for income maintenance of farmers,'' Lugar said.

The administration has estimated the farm program will cost $11.5 billion in fiscal 1991, the first year of the new farm law.

But he warned against any increases in target prices because it might make U.S. products noncompetitive.

Lugar's bill includes the Bush administration plan for giving farmers more freedom to switch acreage among oilseeds, wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice. However, it would say the maximum land setaside that could be ordered by the government would be 10 percent for wheat and feed grains and 20 percent for rice and cotton.

It also would extend the conservation provisions of the 1985 farm law - the first to link environmental and farm program goals - and add some details, such as a 15-year Conservation Reserve contract for planting hardwood trees.

''We're trying to get something more for that money (spent on farm programs), namely conservation,'' Lugar said.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - Baseball club owners, accused by the players of concentrating more on public relations than ending the lockout of major league camps, Friday held a news briefing to explain their latest proposal.

The Player Relations Committee said the owners' latest proposal would raise the salary of players with more than two and less than three years' service an average of $60,000 per year.

The key issue in the labor dispute has been salary arbitration. The union wants players with two years of service eligible for arbitration, while the owners want to keep the current system that makes players wait for three seasons before they can seek arbitration.

The Players Association scheduled a 1 p.m. EST news conference to discuss the dispute that has resulted in a 23-day spring training lockout.

Commissioner Fay Vincent failed in a bid Thursday to bring the sides together. The owners agreed to his plan but the union dismissed it as a ''staged media event.''

Trying to salvage Opening Day on April 2, Vincent asked the 26 club owners to open the camps in Florida and Arizona if the players would pledge not to strike during the season.

Owners agreed within moments, but union chief Don Fehr refused to even dignify the idea. Without explicitly rejecting the overture, Fehr complained that owners failed to formally notify him. He said if they ever did, he would respond.

''It is unfortunate we are at this place,'' Fehr said, blistering his foes with sarcastic references to press releases and their ''terrificly successful lockout.''

''This isn't a proposal,'' he said. ''If it was a proposal, they would have told us about it first. They didn't bother to tell us about it first, 'cause they know the answer.''

Added union official Gene Orza, ''No self-respecting union gives away the right to strike.''

The union's response darkened the outlook for playing Opening Day as scheduled. Bud Selig, Milwaukee Brewers owner and chairman of management's labor committee, said the lockout would remain in place unless the union offered a no-strike pledge.

Fehr gave no such pledge, but he refused to rule out further talks.

''If they believe it would be helpful to talk,'' Fehr said, ''we'll talk.''

Eric Yaverbaum of New York, co-founder of Strike Back, an organization founded in the 1985 labor dispute, said his group has received 9,200 letters from ''very aggravated baseball fans.''

''What's happening is that professional baseball is hitting the fans' tolerance level,'' Yaverbaum said.

Selig denied the lockout has failed.

''The lockout was designed to produce an atmosphere where both sides had to do it, rather than get into May or June, July, where the complications are far more enormous than they are in March,'' Selig said.

Vincent, sitting is a room where books on labor relations filled the shelves, read a two-paragraph statement on his offer to lift the lockout. He said he was acting because he believed no agreement could come in the short term.

Later, he discussed the union's response.

''I'm not surprised by Fehr's reaction but I am disappointed,'' Vincent said. ''I hope the players will really think about this.''

''I don't believe the union shares my concern for the season,'' Vincent said. ''That's one of the issues. I view it as an opportunity for everyone including the ballplayers, to enjoy the season and get paid while the bureaucrats - like Don and I - do what we do. I think the season is a very special and fragile commodity.''

Vincent's bid came one day after the sides exchanged proposals on how to reach agreement on salary arbitration. Owners want to cover the difference with a bonus pool. Players are offering a compromise on service time.

The suggestion came with Opening Day 25 days away. Had both sides abided by the proposal, the players would have about three weeks of spring training before the opener.

The commissioner said in the past he preferred the parties settle the dispute themselves. But with start of the season in question, he attempted a similar step to the one made by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in 1976.

Owners announced on Feb. 23 of that year they would close the camps. Kuhn ordered them open March 17, allowing the season to start on time.

Vincent refused to say when he would begin to start pushing back Opening Day, but he said the training period should last three weeks.

''It seems like the union should say, 'This is one we owe the fans,''' he said. ''This contract is down to a small amount of issues.''

PENSACOLA, FL (MARCH 9) UPI - A man dressed as a woman was nabbed by police after stolen clothing stuffed in his underwear slipped down his leg and tripped him, authorities said Friday.

Darryl Willums, 23, of Pensacola, was charged with strong-arm robbery after he stumbled on the underwear Wednesday outside a women's clothing store in Pensacola, said police officer Dusty Cutler.

A store manager said a customer was selecting clothing off a rack when she noticed a large bulge under the customer's skirt and several empty hangers nearby.

When the manager asked the customer to remain in the store until security arrived, the suspect grabbed her wrists, pushed her and threw money at her as he fled, Cutler said.

The store manager, who was not identified by police, and a witness chased the suspect into the parking lot.

''She had taken off her high heels to run across the parking lot,'' Officer Bill Mack said of the suspect, who at the time was thought to be a she.

As the suspect ran, underwear fell down his leg and tripped him, Cutler said. She said the suspect pulled off the underwear and continued running, tossing clothing from his purse. Cutler said she used her patrol car to cut off the suspect.

Cutler said she did not know the suspect was a man until after he was put in her patrol car.

''... The man was dressed as a woman and obviously made to look quite feminine,'' Mack said.

Cutler said a check later determined the suspect had taken 14 separate articles of clothing valued at $457.

BOSTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The Bank of New England Corp, which lost $1.23 billion last year, Friday named Lawrence K. Fish, a former high ranking executive at the Bank of Boston, as its new chairman.

Fish, a banker with wide overseas experience but little or none in working out troubled loans, faces the daunting task of leading the bank's recovery from a disastrous policy of fast growth in the region's now swooning real estate market.

Fish promised to act fast.

''I plan to be thoughtful but to make decisions promptly,'' he said. ''I intend to build on our strengths and address our problems starting immediately.''

The bank has experienced an enormous erosion of deposits since December as the scope of its real estate losses became steadily more apparent.

Bank assets have shrunk by more than $5 billion just since last fall to $26 billion from a high of more than $31 billion. And as of Wednesday the bank had borrowed up to $1.5 billion from the Federal Reserve's discount window, borrowings that normally are considered ''overnight'' funds but which have been recognized as ''extended'' for Bank of New England.

It has embarked on a $6 billion asset sale and also even said most of its banking subsidiaries in four New England states were up for sale.

Fish, 45, succeeds H. Ridgely Bullock, a member of the board of directors, who was named interim chairman in January after the dismissal of Walter J. Connolly Jr., the man regarded as the architect of both the company's rapid growth and its sudden fall.

Fish spent 17 years at the Bank of Boston, the region's biggest banking company. He spent 12 of those years in Brazil, Japan and Hong Kong. He became head of its New England group retail operation in 1984. But his path to the top position at Bank of Boston was apparently blocked with a new chairman there.

In 1988 Fish quit to become No. 2 man at Columbia Savings & Loan Association, a Beverly Hills, Calif., institution that prospered with the rise of junk bonds. Fish spent 17 months with Columbia and when he left last August both he and Columbia said he had finished his job there.

WEST LAFAYETTE, IN (MARCH 9) UPI - Students from up to six universities will meet Mar. 17 at Purdue University to put the lid on simplicity.

The students, competitors in the national Rube Goldberg contest, will demonstrate their contraptions for sealing a Ball canning jar in the most complicated manner possible. The contest is in keeping with the spirit of cartoonist Rube Goldberg, who specialized in drawing complicated machines to perform simple tasks.

In less than five minutes and with a minimum of 25 steps, the machine must fix the lid on the jar so that it can be turned upside down without spilling the water inside. Students will receive extra points for imaginative steps leading to completion of the goal.

''It's a unique competition in that people, mainly technology and engineering students, have taken principles of science and engineering and turned them inside out, finding complex ways to do simple tasks,'' said David Oliver, student chairman of the contest.

Purdue had its local version of the contest Feb. 17. The winning team of that contest, Team Technology, will meet the challengers on its home turf. Universities from Wisconsin and Arkansas are expected to attend, and others from Mississippi and Michigan have expressed interest.

The contest named for the late cartoonist who originated a strip at Purdue in 1949 that ran until 1955. In 1983 the competition was revived by Theta Tau fraternity as part of National Engineering Week activities celebrated each year at Purdue.

Since then, the contest has attracted attention nationwide. The contest also has been featured on The David Letterman Show, The Tonight Show, and the Today program.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - ''The Sound of Music'' has never sounded better than it does in an opulent New York City Opera revival with Debby Boone in the starring Mary Martin-Julie Andrews role.

The production, which opened Thursday, has been co-produced by theatrical producer James M. Nederlander with an eye to a national tour or a move to Broadway after its limited run at the New York State Theater ends Apr. 22.

Whatever its future, this show mixing Broadway talents with opera company singers is definitely of Broadway caliber.

''The Sound of Music'' was a runaway success when it opened at the Lunt-Fontanne Theater in 1959 for a three year-stay, extensive tours and overseas productions. The 1965 film version held the record for top grossing musical for years and is a television favorite. It was last revived here at the New York City Center in 1967.

It has never been a favorite of theater hard-liners, who found Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II's Austrian version of ''The King and I'' overly sentimental.

Hammerstein's son, James, has directed this revival so adroitly that it avoids even a hint of bathos while still evoking an occasional tear from the opening night audience.

Award-winning pop singer Boone as Maria Rainer, the governess who marries her aristocratic boss and acquires a ready-made family of seven children, is a real surprise, although this is her third appearance in a company of ''The Sound of Music.''

She has a luminous personality, not unlike Andrews's, a fresh soprano voice, a touch of tomboy and a charming vulnerability that Mary Martin lacked in the role.

Boone's performance is strong enough never to be upstaged by the children, those notorious stealers of scenes. She seems at times to be simply their eldest sister.

Boone also plays well opposite Broadway veteran Laurence Guittard as Capt. Georg von Trapp, the anti-Nazi she marries on the eve of their flight to Switzerland.

Guittard is not as authoritarian as Theodore Bikel was in the original production, lending the role an attractive sensitivity and a fine if not strong baritone voice.

Werner Klemperer scores with the audience as the amusing, urbanely manipulative impresario who melds the Von Trapps into a choral ensemble that historically brought them to the attention of the Western world and Rodgers & Hammerstein. He does what little singing the role requires adequately.

One of the strengths of this production is the beautifully conceived Mother Abbess of Claudia Cummings, a New York City Opera soprano. She handles the role and Maria, a onetime postulant at her abbey, with conviction, giving the plot a reality that this Cinderella story may not have had otherwise.

Cummings brings both acts of the musical to a thrilling climax with ''Climb Every Mountain,'' a song without match in Rodgers & Hammerstein repertory with the exception of ''You'll Never Walk Alone'' from ''Carousel.''

Others who turn in fine peformances are Marianne Tatum as the rich Viennese widow who charms Von Trapp for a time, Marc Heller as as a nice young man turned Nazi who has a flirtation with the eldest Von Trapp girl, pertly played and sung by Emily Loesser, Ellen Tovatt as the Von Trapp housekeeper and David Rae Smith as the butler.

Neil Peter Jampolis's tasteful sets and impeccable lighting lift ''The Sound of Music'' above the level of City Opera's four previous spring musical comedy productions paid for by a $5 million grant from the late Mae and Lawrence Wien. This is the fifth and last of the series.

The reception hall of the Von Trapp schloss is a lyric summation of the baroque style and the schloss' terrace with distant mountain views conjure up a leisurely lifestyle soon to be doomed by war. The abbey scenes are deliciously detailed, especially the gilded altar screen set against an ornateretable mural depicting a convolution of angels singing the gloria.

Suzanne Mess' costumes are delicious, especially the children's Credit goes to conductor Richard Parrinello, making his debut with the opera company, for a lively reading of a lovely score which contains such standards as the title song, ''My Favorite Things,'' ''Do Re Mi,'' ''Sixteen Going on Seventeen,'' and ''Edelweiss.''

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK (MARCH 9) UPI - Israel and East Germany concluded a second round of sensitive discussions Friday on establishing diplomatic relations between the two countries, an official communique said.

''A second round of talks took place in Copenhagen on the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries. An official letter was submitted from Prime Minister (Hans) Modrow to Prime Minister (Yitzhak) Shamir,'' the short communique from Israel's embassy said.

''The letter, together with further clarifications, was forwarded to Israel for further consideration and the delegations decided to continue the talks at a later date,'' it said.

An East German source close to the talks said a new round of discussions was expected to take place in about four weeks.

The last round of talks between the two states took place Jan. 29 following remarks by East German leaders that East Berlin sought to open relations with Israel.

''There were statements by East German leaders suggesting they were interested in a normalization of relations,'' Israeli ambassador to Denmark, Amos Ganor, told United Press International.

Several East European countries have moved to resume the diplomatic ties with Israel, which were broken after the 1967 Middle East war.

Israel's chief diplomat at the Copenhagen talks was Michael Shiloh, the Foreign Ministry Adviser on Overseas Jewish Affairs, who was a former Israeli ambassador to West Germany.

The East German representative was Reiner Neumann, head of East Germany's Middle East department.

The meeting in Copenhagen appeared to bring closer the prospect of diplomatic relations between two states, which have never had bilateral diplomatic relations.

''The main issue of the talks is to see whether we can get any closer to solving the issue that has divided the two countries for 40 years,'' said an Israeli source who asked not to be named.

East Germany has previously flatly refused to accept any moral responsibility for the Holocaust of World War II in which 6 million Jews were killed.

Israel has said that East German officials made the first approach with a view to holding talks after statements by Modrow that his country was willing to discuss the question of paying reparation to Holocaust survivors.

LONDON (MARCH 9) UPI - Aircraft enthusiasts paid up to 10 times the expected price for military aircraft at an auction Friday, which included eight fighter aircraft once used by the world-famous Royal Air Force Red Arrow aviation display team.

Officials at Sotheby's auction house said the Defense Ministry reaped $2 million from the sale of 23 military aircraft to private collectors and representatives of museums.

The highest price paid was $219,000 by an unidentified American, bidding by telephone, for the best preserved of eight Folland Gnats. The planes were used by the Red Arrows in some 1,300 performances in 18 countries before being phased out in 1979.

Sotheby's had been expecting a maximum of $125,000 for the plane, still painted in the distinctive red colors of the display team, which now flies British Aerospace Hawkes.

One of the Gnats sold for a low of $58,000, which was 10 times the predicted price for the plane, listed as being in a ''poor and weathered condition.''

The Air Force said the eight aircraft had been kept in a heated hangar and used for training flights during the past decade.

Seven French-made Aerospatiale Alouette helicopters used for observation work in Cyprus were also sold, for $104,600. The auction included three de Havilland Sea Devon aircraft and four de Havilland Sea Heron planes.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - A human skull loaded with radiation detectors and covered with plastic make-believe skin flew aboard the shuttle Atlantis earlier this month to study the effects of penetrating space radiation, a magazine reported Friday.

Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine also says in its March 12 issue that NASA researchers are considering the launch of a human torso on future shuttle flights to learn more about the radiological health risks associated with long-term space missions.

''It is anticipated that a full torso will be flown in future shuttle missions to verify (a radiation) organ-dose equivalent model,'' the magazine said, quoting a NASA document.

A NASA official said Friday he was familiar with the skull project - dubbed the ''phantom head'' by space agency researchers - but he did not know whether the skull had flown in space and he was not aware of any plans to launch a human torso.

The 11-pound skull, which also flew in space during a military mission last August, will be launched a third time next month, the magazine said, as part of a NASA-Air Force study to find out how space radiation might affect astronauts on long-term missions to Mars or on the moon.

''The objective of this joint NASA-Defense Department investigation is to establish and verify analytical and measurement methods for assessing and managing (astronaut) health risks from exposure to space radiation,'' according to a NASA document quoted by Aviation Week.

The ''phantom head'' was mounted on the right wall of Atlantis's lower deck during its recent military mission. How it was mounted, and whether its visage was visible to the astronauts, was not disclosed.

Aviation Week said the skull, measuring 6-by-8-by-10 inches, came from a small individual, presumably female, whose body was willed to science but who had no knowledge that it one day would fly in space.

''For its space mission, the skull was first sliced into sections an inch thick,'' Aviation Week said. ''More than 100 dosimeters (radiation detectors) and nuclear track detectors then were inserted into the head bones.

''The skull was reassembled and covered with a plastic material formulated to act like human skin and tissue, giving the head facial features.''

Aviation Week said a real human skull was required for the study ''to obtain the best data on how much space radiation penetrates the head.''

The skull was first launched aboard the shuttle Columbia, which blasted off Aug. 8 on a top-secret military mission. It was launched a second time aboard Atlantis Feb. 28 and it will be launched April 12 for a third time, Aviation Week said, aboard the shuttle Discovery.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - CBS has cancelled the series ''Island Son'' starring Richard Chamberlain, it was announced Friday.

The series, which had consistently disappointing ratings since its premiere last fall, will have its final broadcast on Thursday, Mar. 29, 9-10 p.m. Eastern time.

For the next three weeks the time period will be filled by ''Max Monroe: Loose Cannon,'' including a two-hour special on Apr. 12 that will pre-empt ''Knots Landing'' on that night only.

''Falcon Crest,'' bumped from its former 10-11 p.m. Eastern time Friday birth by ''Dallas'' as of Mar. 30, will return with its final four episodes of the season on Thursday, Apr. 26, 9-10 p.m. Eastern time.

The week before ''Dallas'' moves on, the entire Friday CBS prime time schedule will be pre-empted by NCAA basketball.

LONDON (MARCH 9) UPI - Stock prices closed lower in a jittery session Friday on the London International stock exchange dragged down by weakness in the British pound.

The blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which climbed 19.7 points Thursday, fell 15.7 points to 2,234.3. For the week, the key index which measures the value of Britain's top 100 companies in terms of market capitalization, fell 20.5 points.

The narrower top 30 industrial average lost 10.6 points to 1,763.8 and lost 10.4 points for the week.

Volume amounted to around 546 million shares, compared with 440 million shares traded Thursday.

Analysts said political turmoil over the proposed new poll tax pushed the pound lower on foreign currency markets and this affected the stock market.

The poll tax is a flat fee of $613, or about 34 percent more than the current property tax rate, and is levied regardless of residents' income.

On the London Foreign Exchange, the pound ended the week against the U.S. dollar at $1.6185 compared with $1.6435 Thursday despite aggressive support by the Bank of England.

The pound ended the week 1.8 percent lower against the dollar and 2.3 percent lower against the West German mark from a week ago.

Analysts said press reports that leading Conservative Party members would ask Margaret Thatcher to step down as prime minister and continuing political turmoil over the poll tax unsettled the market.

Among the most widely traded stocks, Thorn EMI PLC tumbled 20 cents to $10.90 amid rumors that the record company would float a rights issue to help finance its acquisition of Geffen Co. for an estimated $700 million.

Reckitt & Colman lost 22 cents to $17.84 after announcing plans to spend $1.25 billion to acquire Boyle-Midway, a home products division of American Home Products. Reckitt said it will launch a $326 million rights issue to raise some of the money.

British & Commonwealth Holding PLC added 2 cents to 91 cents a share after announcing its plans to sell Gratmore Investment Management Ltd. to a French company.

Psion, an electronics company, tumbled $1.16 to $2.88 after reporting less than expected profits.

Among the day's other highlights, B.A.T. Industries gained 7 cents to $12.92 and GKN, the engineering giant, gained 8 cents to $6.51.

Elsewhere in Europe, prices on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange closed slightly lower in thin trading.

The German Stock Index eased 2.18 points to 1,858.74.

Traders said concerns over the merging of the two German states caused many investors to step to the sidelines.

BEIJING (MARCH 9) UPI - The Chinese government has earmarked spending $7.4 billion this year on 204 industrial projects focusing on energy, transportation and raw materials production, an official newspaper reported Friday.

The money, representing 40 percent of this year's capital construction budget, reflects the government's effort to concentrate on large-scale infrastructure and industrial projects even as it continues an economic retrenchment program of austerity and tight credit that began in late 1988.

The state-run China Daily quoted an official of the State Planning Commission as saying the 204 projects would include a nuclear power station, a chemical fiber plant and a major steel complex in east coastal China and a coal field in Mongolia. Other projects are aimed at improving transportation. The 204 were chosen from 580 large- and medium-size projects nationwide.

"The state will guarantee the smooth sailing of those massive construction projects in terms of funds, labor force, raw materials, equipment and transportation," the planning official said.

The government attempted recently to set aside more funds for projects and enterprises because the austerity program has slowed industrial production and increased unemployment, which has fueled concern that China could tilt into a recession and that the chances for unrest could increase.

One of the country's largest banks, the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China, announced this week a slight easing of credit, saying it will make available more than $500 million in new loans to faltering enterprises in industrial regions.

In a separate article in Friday's China Daily, officials defended the retrenchment and denied that it represents an effort to roll back reforms put into effect in the 1980s that allowed private enterprise to flourish.

The government has swung away from market-oriented reforms since last June's crackdown on the pro-democracy movement. Smaller private businesses have been among the first to suffer.

The number of private enterprises has shrunk to a current total of 12.4 million from 14.5 million at the end of 1988, said Wang Zhongxing, director of the individual and private economy department in the State Administration for Industry and Commerce.

But he attributed this to smaller businesses' vulnerability to the austerity program and said suggestions that official policy had changed were "groundless." The private economy still had official support, he said.

ANCHORAGE, AK (MARCH 9) UPI - Moose are starving in snow so deep that they have trouble walking and finding food, prompting the state of Alaska to launch plans to save the suffering creatures, state wildlife officials said Friday.

More than 1,300 of the large mammals have died and many more face death.

Moose make their way onto roads or railroad tracks, which are plowed and provide easier walking, but those moose are hit and killed. Others die searching for something to eat as they struggle through extraordinarily deep snow.

''The moose population of south-central Alaska has taken a big hit and is going to take a bigger hit in the next six to eight weeks,'' said Lew Pamplin, director of state division of wildlife conservation, which launched the save-the-moose effort for the Department of Fish and Game.

Some 250 tons of hay will be scattered around the Susitna Valley north of Anchorage where the deepest snows in decades are making life impossible for the moose.

Feeding wildlife normally is frowned upon, even outright rejected, but this winter's relentless snow storms and the suffering they have brought to the moose have prompted state wildlife officials to alter their normal policies.

The state Department of Fish and Game has been joined by the Alaska Railroad, the state Department of Transportation, the state Division of Forestry, the Army, the National Guard and a private volunteer group called Save the Moose.

The government agencies intend to start clearing areas on either side of the railroad tracks and roads where moose are being killed, to give them somewhere else to walk as well as an escape path. Trails, leading away from tracks and roads, will be created using bulldozers and snowmobiles.

So far this winter, 570 moose have been killed by the state-run Alaska Railroad trains - more than twice the average winter railroad kill with the spring snow melt still two months away.

Until this year the record number of moose killed by trains was 382 in the winter of 1984-85.

More than 300 moose have been killed by cars on the roads around Anchorage this winter. Another 275 moose have died on the roads of the Kenai Peninsula south of Anchorage.

Sixty moose have been killed by people defending themselves and their property as the desparate moose invade cities, subdivisions and yards.

Ninety more moose have been killed by people simply taking advantage of the animals' plight and perhaps seeing the opportunity to fill their freezer with meat.

An unknown number of moose have died of starvation this winter, and March is traditionally the worst month for starvation so Pamplin said the situation would have worsened without government intervention and that it may worsen anyhow.

This winter's snows are the heaviest in a quarter century.

The save-the-moose plan is being supported by Alaska Gov. Steve Cowper and a $750,000 rescue appropriation is being considered by the state legislature.

The ambitious effort is to get under way Monday.

SAN SALVADOR, EL SALVADOR (MARCH 9) UPI - Leftist rebels attacked a coffee storage compound owned by a relative of President Alfredo Cristiani and other spots in eastern El Salvador Friday, reportedly drawing government aircraft fire in clashes killing three soldiers and wounding eight.

The latest fighting followed a brief battle Thursday night in the capital, San Salvador, where fighting erupted hours after the government extended a state of siege for 30 days.

No casualties were immediately reported in San Salvador, which appeared calm Friday with troops in armored cars posted at different positions.

Instead, the worst fighting was reported in the town of Santiago de Maria, the site of the large coffee facility in Usulatan province, 52 miles east of San Salvador.

Residents of the small, mountain-ringed town said rebels of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, known as the FMLN, descended on the town at 1 a.m. and still were fighting from positions in town at 8:30 a.m.

''The guerrillas appear to be surrounded near the seminary and helicopters have started bombing in that area,'' a resident of Santiago de Maria told United Press International in a telephone interview. ''There are no cars on the streets. Everything is shut down.''

A priest reached at the Franciscan Seminary said the air fire was targeted several blocks away.

''Right now there is an airplane and a helicopter firing five blocks from here,'' said Father Jesus Humberto Gomez. ''We hope the planes do not inflict a lot of death on the civilian population.''

The Salvadoran Red Cross had no immediate reports of civilian casualties, but a spokesman said land routes into the town had been closed by the army.

The initial attack in Santiago de Maria centered on the Oromontique coffee bean storage facility, which is among the biggest in the country and is owned by a relative of Cristiani.

''In the coffee granary there are a lot of injured soldiers, but we do not have an exact figure,'' a spokesman for the Salvadoran Armed Forces Press Committee said. ''At this time we have the terrorists surrounded.''

The military spokesman said three soldiers were killed in the fighting and at least six wounded.

Sporadic skirmishes between rebels and government troops also were reported in three different locations in the southeastern province of San Miguel, military sources said. The military reported two soldiers were wounded.

The decade-long Salvadoran civil war has cost more than 72,000 lives, mostly civilians.

The rebel attacks came as U.N. mediation aimed at organizing rebel-government peace talks showed little progress, with the FMLN accusing the government of obstructing talks by insisting rebels agree to a partial cease-fire first.

The Salvadoran military also claims the recent election defeat of Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government left Salvadoran rebels isolated and weak.

''We have returned to the military campaign to prove wrong the facist sectors that say we are weak,'' the FMLN said in a Friday morning broadcast of clandestine Radio Venceremos.

The rebel attack on Santiago de Maria followed a series of small attacks Thursday night in the northern working class suburbs of San Salvador, areas hard hit last November when the FMLN launched its biggest offensive.

About an hour after the shooting started in the capital, helicopters began patrolling, dropping flares. The sound of fighting quickly subsided.

Hours earlier, the Legislative Assembly extended a state of siege in effect since November. The state of siege first curbed almost all constitutionally guaranteed rights, but has been softened during the past five months.

In another development in Geneva, Switzerland, the office of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees said last Friday and Saturday it repatriated 886 more Salvadoran refugees from Honduras - the last refugees staying in the San Antonio camp. A spokesman said the UNHCR repatriated 7,669 Salvadoran refugees from Jan. 1 to March 4.

Remaining in the Mesa Grande camp in Honduras are 2,600 others who have said they do not want to return to El Salvador.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The Labor Department says the U-S UNemployment rate stood at five-point-three percent in February. This morning's report shows that the number of jobs increased dramatically to 372-thousand... the largest increase since 470-thousand in June 1988. The government cited auto workers being called back to their factories after temporary layoffs and more hiring in the service industries.

Coast Guard officials in Miami say one helicopter crash survivor was rescued from the Atlantic Ocean early today following an all-night search for the wreckage. The charter helicopter, which was bound for the Bahamas... was found floating upside down in the ocean about four miles off North Miami Beach. Officials say the bodies of two passengers have been recovered.

Federal investigators in Philadelphia are looking for a nut and a cotter pin, which they believe caused this week's subway crash that killed three people and injured more than 160. Last night, investigators said the nut and pin allowed a bolt supporting an electric motor to slip, which then dragged until it struck a switch and forced the rush-hour derailment of the six-car train.

Former Prime Minister Takeshita travels to Washington tomorrow for talks with President Bush on the deepening economic rift between the two nations. Takeshita's trip comes one week after Prime Minister Kaifu and Bush met in California. Analysts say the Takeshita trip could prove to be more important than the Kaifu-Bush summit because of the strong influence Takeshita wields.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., stepping up his fight against President Bush's capital gains tax plan, released a report Friday saying rich Americans had ''staggering'' increases in income since 1977 but paid lower taxes.

In a briefing for reporters, committee Democratic staff members also said nine of the tax-writing panel's Democrats have asked Rostenkowski to study whether the tax cut will produce the benefits Bush claims, such as more jobs, investment and economic growth.

The request from the nine, who opposed Bush's call for a different type of capital gains cut in 1989, was expected to result in a study that refutes some of the economic pluses Bush insists would result from cutting taxes on profits from the sale of assets such as stock, bonds and real estate.

The latest Ways and Means study shows, as did an earlier study released last month, that the richest American taxpayers have disproportionately benefited since 1977 as their income levels have skyrocketed while their tax rates fell.

''The magnitude of these changes in income and tax distributions are staggering,'' Rostenkowski said in a statement accompanying the latest report.

He said the share of pre-tax income from the top 1 percent of the population increased from 8.7 percent in 1977 to 13.3 percent in 1990.

''As a result of this increase in the share of income, total income to this group increased by $192 billion,'' he said. ''At the same time, taxes were reduced for this group by $39 billion.

''In 1990, the top 1 percent of the population has about the same amount of after tax-income as the poorest 40 percent of the population,'' Rostenkowski said.

At the same time, income for the middle 20 percent of income earners fell by $46.3 billion from 1977-1990 while their federal taxes went up by $8 billion, Rostenkowski said.

Even though a capital gains tax cut passed the Ways and Means Committee and the House last year - over the objection of Rostenkowski and Democratic leaders - Democrats blocked it in the Senate after a bitter, months-long battle with Bush.

Bush has a different capital gains proposal on the table this year and has been pushing hard but Democratic leaders have vowed to fight him again, stressing the proposal's unfairness.

Under Bush's plan, 10 percent of an individual's profits from the sale of eligible assets held at least a year would be excluded from taxes, 20 percent of profits would not be taxed on assets held at least two years and 30 percent of profits would not be taxed on assets sold after being held three years or more.

The president's proposal applies only to individuals, not corporations.

Rostenkowski's reports criticizing the tax cut, as well as other recent studies, have tried to show that since 1977 the tax system has gotten more regressive, with the rich earning far more and paying lower tax rates while poorer Americans earned less and saw their federal tax burdens rise.

Cutting capital gains taxes, opponents say, would only add to that trend.

Democratic opponents of the capital gains cut have long argued that it is an unwarranted giveaway to the rich and the latest studies are aimed at putting some hard evidence behind their claims.

The administration has disputed the methodology of the first Ways and Means Committee study, arguing that figures show the rich are really paying more tax dollars than before.

But Democrats say that's only because income for wealthy Americans has grown so enormously the past 13 years that the tax dollars they paid had to rise. The real measure, they say, should be the tax rates on the wealthy, which have fallen.

CARMEL, CA (MARCH 9) UPI - Landmark Land Co. Inc. said Friday it has sold the Carmel Valley Ranch Resort for $60 million in an effort to comply with new savings and loan requirements to get out of the real estate development business.

American International Golf Resorts Inc., of Greenbrae, Calif., has agreed to purchase the resort, which includes a 100-rooom hotel, golf course and tennis club. Landmark said it expected to record a $28 million profit from the sale in its second quarter.

The savings and loan bailout bill passed by Congress last year required savings and loans to divest of equity investments in real estate. Landmark through its savings and loan subsidiary, owns about a $1 billion of such assets, said William Vaughan III, vice president and general counsel.

The company expects to either sell the assets or refinance them through the parent company to comply with the law. Under the law, the company must write-off ten percent of the assets by July of this year and all of them by 1994.

SEATTLE (MARCH 9) UPI - Shell Oil Co. officials declined Friday to comment on reports it is considering selling company-owned stations in the Puget Sound region to another major oil company.

Dealers said they were told Thursday by Shell officials the company was considering a sale, but they did not identify any potential buyers. "It might be good for us if we got a more aggressive company in here," said Pat Wardian, operator of a Shell station in Tacoma.

Shell spokeswoman DeeDee Taylor said the company had made no decision to sell its Puget Sound-area stations. "We have been studying that market for some time, examining many possible future scenarios," Taylor, speaking from Shell headquarters in Houston, said."No decision has been made at this time to change, and if such a decision were made our dealers and employees would actually be the first to be told."

Oil industry publications have said the two most likely buyers of Shell stations in the region would be Texaco Inc. and BP Oil. The British Petroleum Co. PLC subsidiary purchased Mobil Oil Co.'s Washington refinery near Bellingham and stations in Washington, Oregon and northern California last year. Local dealers also said they were told by Shell the company's Washington refinery at Anacortes was not for sale.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Widening differences among Tehran's ruling clergy have left Iranian policy in tatters, and the rift is delaying the release of Western hostages thought to be held in Lebanon, officials and observers believe.

Gulf Arab officials and political observers said they are now convinced that Iran's pragmatist president, Hojatoleslam Ali-Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, wants to find a way to free the 18 Western hostages, including eight Americans, and normalize ties with the West.

But there are camps in both Iran and Lebanon that totally oppose Rafsanjani's policy and want to continue exporting the Iranian revolution around the Moslem world, they said.

Speculation about the fate of the hostages was rekindled when a Tehran newspaper close to Rafsanjani said 1990 would be their last year of captivity. It was the second editorial in an Iranian newspaper within a week saying that the hostages would be freed without preconditions.

But many observers believe Rafsanjani is not in a position to dictate policy to the pro-Iranian Shiite fundamentalist groups thought to be holding the hostages, even though it was Iran's 1979 Islamic revolution that inspired their creation and subsequent actions.

''Rafsanjani has always had enemies among the ruling clergy in Iran, but reports and statements we are seeing indicate the rift at the top is widening, and even affecting Rafsanjani's political allies,'' said one southern Persian Gulf Arab official who recently visited Iran. The official asked that his name and nationality not be used.

''Rafsanjani knows the (Iranian) economy will make or break the second decade of the Iranian revolution. So he wants to free the hostages, and normalize ties with the West, but without leaving himself open to attacks from radicals both at home and in Lebanon,'' he said.

Regional observers said opponents of Rafsanjani, such as former Interior Minister Hojatoleslam Ali Akbar Mohtashami, visited Lebanon late last year after a policy row with the president, and were reported to have met with Lebanese Shiite radicals.

''We don't know the loyalties of the kidnappers,'' said one Western envoy in Dubai, United Arab Emirates. ''They may well be loyal to Iran, but the question now, after the death of (Ayatollah Ruhollah) Khomeini, is which faction in Iran are they loyal to. They may only be paying lip service to Iran as fellow Shiites.''

The death of Khomeini 13 months ago ushered in a new era for Tehran - an era in which the country was no longer dominated by one, strong, central figure.

Khomeini had the religious and political authority to brush aside murmurs of protest from radicals, who wanted to continue the Gulf war ''until victory.''

With his approval, Iran signed a U.N.-brokered ceasefire with Iraq in 1988 after eight years of war. If he had lived, Khomeini might also have ordered Western hostages released if such a move would have served Iranian interests.

Most observers believe the kidnappers would have obeyed such an order from Khomeini, but there is no longer anyone in Iran who can command that respect. And the differences of opinion among the ruling clergy in Tehran remain.

For instance, anti-Western Iranian radicals claiming to act in Khomeini's name are giving Rafsanjani different interpretions of the late Iranian leader's words.

''Even though Khomeini gave his nod of approval for the ceasefire, radicals who opposed it, and who now oppose freedom for the Western hostages, still claim absolute loyalty to his name,'' said Stephen D. Brondenberg, a California-based writer on Mideast affairs.

Recent reports of disturbances in Tehran and other major Iranian cities, which authorities blamed on soccer hooligans, have reinforced reports of Rafsanjani's relatively weak position. Iranian opposition sources said hundreds of people were shot dead in the disturbances.

Unless Rafsanjani succeeds in curbing high inflation and unemployment, which affects one in every three Iranian workers, his tenure could be threatened.

Although Iran has not issued accurate economic statistics since its revolution began, Tehran residents believe the rate of inflation for domestic products is raging at between 50 and 80 percent a year. Imported goods, including many basic necessities, are priced according to the prevailing black market rate of the Iranian currency, the riyal, to the dollar, which often ranges between 14 and 20 to one.

Rafsanjani recently appealed to the nation's poor - the backbone of the Iranian revolution - by attacking the multi-million dollar Imam Khomeini Welfare Fund for misusing funds. Last year, the head of another Moslem welfare organization was sentenced to death for embezzling millions of riyals of fund money.

VIENNA (MARCH 9) UPI - Austria, traditionally a beacon to Eastern European refugees, is putting up a ''no vacancy'' sign for Romanians, now pouring into the country at a rate of up to 180 a day.

Interior Minister Franz Loeschnak said Friday the government is expected within the next week to start requiring visas of Romanians wishing to enter the country.

Romanians currently need only a valid passport to enter Austria, and more than 7,000 have taken advantage of the lax regulations since the December revolution that overthrew communist dictator Nicolae Ceausescu. Unlike past refugees, Austria believes many of the newcomers are fleeing economic hardship rather than political repression.

Due mostly to the heavy influx of Romanians, Austria's main refugee reception camp in Traiskirchen is filled to capacity and has been closed to new arrivals since Thursday, Loeschnak said.

''It's hard to know exactly the situation in Romania, but we don't think most of these people are political refugees,'' said Rainer Mayerhofer, spokesman for the Interior Ministry.

''Most of them are young people with new 1990 passports,'' he said. ''They are looking for jobs, economic opportunity.''

Mayerhofer said Romanians are arriving in Austria at a rate of 150 to 180 a day. Of an estimated 20,000 people currently sheltered in Austrian refugee centers, nearly half are Romanians, he said.

The spokesman said in addition to introducing the visa requirement, the government plans to use more stringent standards in determining which refugees legitimately qualify for political asylum.

The government's efforts to find new quarters for refugees already in Austria have often met with intense local resistance. In the most recent case, hundreds of residents of the southwestern town of Kaisersteinbruck demonstrated for three days to protest a plan to house 800 Romanian men in a vacant army barracks.

Following meetings between Loeschnak, President Kurt Waldheim and 16 mayors from the region, the government decided Thursday to limit the number of refugees in the Kaisersteinbruck area to 300 and to divide them into small groups to be housed in hotels and private homes.

Loeschnak appealed to regional and community leaders across the country to help find living space for the 500 others, saying all Austrians shared the responsibility for caring for the refugees.

Neutral Austria traditionally has maintained an open-door policy toward political refugees from Eastern Europe. More than 230,000 Hungarians fled to Austria after the failed uprising in 1956, and 160,000 others entered the country from neighboring Czechoslovakia after the 1968 Warsaw Pact invasion.

MOSCOW (MARCH 9) UPI - A Lithuanian priest has challenged popular Soviet faith healer Anatoly Kashpirovsky to a televized duel to determine ''which side the gift of God is on and who is on the other side,'' the Izvestia government newspaper said Friday.

Kashpirovsky became a national rage last year when he put millions of his followers into trances of tranquility during frequent TV appearances, but he has mysteriously disappeared from the screen in recent weeks after President Mikhail Gorbachev ridiculed him and a woman accused him of rape.

Russian Orthodox Archpriest Kotsk of Klaipeda, a mainly Russian city of 195,000 on the Baltic Sea in western Lithuania, responded to an opinion poll in which 71 percent of Muscovites surveyed said they want Kashpirovsky back on the air.

''The Kashpirovsky phenomenon is nothing but a spiritual narcotic and spiritual addiction,'' Kotsk wrote in a Klaipeda newspaper article reprinted by Izvestia.

Kotsk, in the article published under the headline ''About a new personality cult,'' scorned Kashpirovsky's followers for being ''ready to follow their idol straight to hell.''

Kashpirovsky's popularity is widely viewed as a product of disillusionment among Soviets groping for something to believe in as the country's basic institutions are challenged under Gorbachev's ''perestroika'' reform drive.

The faith healer's star among official circles has been in decline since Gorbachev's sarcastic comment this year that he cannot ''wave a magic wand like Kashpirovsky'' and solve the nation's problems.

Kashpirovsky's reputation suffered again last month when Soviet newspapers reported that criminal proceedings had begun in connection with a woman's allegation that he had tried to rape her when she went to him for a consultation in his hotel room while he was on a lecture tour in the Ukrainian city of Mariupol on the Sea of Azov.

But the Moscow survey indicated that his followers remain unshaken in their faith in Kashpirovsky, who speaks in a slow, hypnotic monotone and stares intently out from the screen during his TV seances that are essentially nationwide seminars on positive thinking.

''I challenge Kashpirovsky to assemble a hand-picked audience made up of his most yielding patients and to invite some clerics,'' Archpriest Kost said. ''Let television viewers see for themselves which side the gift of God is on and who is on the other side.

''As for myself, a human being who is fallible and sinful like all people, I am ready to take part in the confrontation, so help me God.''

Izvestia, which has joined other Soviet media in reporting numerous UFO sightings and other supernatural phenonmena in the faith-starved country, ended the account with its own challenge: ''If I were the health minister, I would undoubtedly sponsor the show.''

CAPE CANAVERAL, FL (MARCH 9) UPI - NASA has revised its space shuttle launch schedule, moving up a delayed military shuttle flight one year to 1991 and delaying three subsequent missions, officials said Friday.

Apparently bowing to pressure from the Air Force, space agency managers agreed to reschedule the launch of a military infrared sensor technology package from Jan. 23, 1992, to Jan. 31, 1991, aboard the shuttle Discovery.

The flight originally was scheduled for November, but it was delayed to 1992 after recent problems readying the shuttle Discovery for launch in April to ferry the Hubble Space Telescope into orbit.

But sources said the Air Force objected to the long delay of the November mission, prompting NASA managers to reassess the schedule.

Moving the military flight from 1992 to January 1991 triggered a domino-like ripple effect in the shuttle manifest, forcing the space agency to delay the launch of a new NASA Tracking and Data Relay System communications satellite aboard Discovery from January to May 1991.

That slip, in turn, delayed the launch of an Italian science satellite aboard Discovery from May to September, pushing a Strategic Defense Initiative mission called ''Starlab'' from September to January 1992.

''Additional changes to the ... manifest beyond the January 1992 launch of Starlab are under review,'' NASA said in a statement. ''NASA plans to issue a new manifest in June.''

ISLAMABAD, PAKISTAN (MARCH 9) UPI - Kabul was reported calm Friday, three days after a coup attempt against the pro-Soviet regime, but a Moslem guerrilla group backing the revolt said heavy fighting continued in several other areas of the Afghanistan.

State-run Pakistan Television reported sporadic gunfire in Kabul and said forces loyal to President Najibullah have not ruled out the possibility of an attack by rebel troops.

However, it said the ''situation remained calm but tense'' in the city, which is under government control.

The situation at Bagram air base, 30 miles north of Kabul, scene of the heaviest fighting since the coup was launched Tuesday, remained unclear.

Najibullah has said the takeover bid was staged by Defense Minister Shah Nawaz Tanai and backed by Gulbuddin Hekmatyar, the head of a fundamentalist Moslem guerrilla group based in Pakistan, the Hezbe Islami. The president has maintained his forces have crushed the coup attempt.

Pakistan has said Moslem guerrilla commanders, who have been fighting the communist government since 1978, were cooperating with troops loyal to Gen. Tanai in a ''pragmatic alliance.''

The Hezbe Islami reported in statements issued in Islamabad that heavy fighting continued in the northern provincial capital of Kunduz, around the eastern city of Jalalabad, western Herat and in Logar Province, just south of the capital, where it said 190 troops had surrendered. The group earlier claimed in had captured Kunduz.

Moslem resistance sources said a long-range ''Scud'' missile fired from Kabul killed 12 guerrillas and wounded 10 others outside the eastern town of Khost, 15 miles from the Pakistan border. They said thousands of Afghan refugees were moving towards Khost in anticipation of its capture by the guerrillas.

The reports could not be independently verified.

Official Kabul Radio reported Gen. Mohammad Sharif was killed ''fighting Tanai's forces'' in Kabul and was buried with full military honors on Friday. Najibullah said 25 civilians and a smaller number of military personnel died in rebel air bombardments of the city on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Pakistan, meanwhile, Friday rejected a protest delivered to its charge d'affaires in Kabul that said Afghanistan ''has undeniable documents to prove Pakistan's military intelligence and the Pakistan government had a hand in planning this conspiracy.''

The Afghan government protest, issued Thursday, also charged Pakistan had made a deal with Tanai that he would flee to Pakistan if the attempt failed.

''The charges are utterly baseless,'' a Pakistan government spokesman said. ''Recent events have proved the Kabul regime stands rejected not only by all segments of Afghan opinion but also by important elements of his armed forces and the civil administration.''

Official sources have said Tanai arrived in Pakistan aboard a military helicopter with his family and several senior Afghan officers on Wednesday.

The Pakistan government has denied this, insisting Tanai landed on the Afghan side of the border, where he met with guerrilla leaders and then returned to deeper inside Afghanistan

Najibullah came to power in 1986, seven years after the Soviets invaded Afghanistan to support the first of a series of Marxist rulers against anti-communist Moslem rebels.

The Soviet Union withdrew its more than 100,000 troops last year, and Najibullah's administration defied predictions it would fall to the U.S.-backed rebels within months of the pullout.

(MARCH 9) UPI - TODAY'S PEOPLE:

MADONNA SPEAKS: Madonna bares her soul and a good deal of her skin in the April issue of Vanity Fair, discussing her relationship with Warren Beatty her failed marriage with Sean Penn and her career. ''Sometimes I'm cynical and pragmatic and think it will last as long as it lasts,'' she says of the Beatty romance. ''Then I have moments when I'm really romantic and I think, 'We're just perfect together.''' Madonna, who shows lots of cleavage on the Vanity Fair cover and exposes a breast on the inside, says Beatty's sexual history is a little daunting to her. ''He's been with the world's most beautiful, most glamorous, most talented women,'' she says. ''I mean, how can I ever be as fabulous as Brigitte Bardot when she was 25? Or Natalie Wood? Or any of those people?'' Madonna's eyes filled with tears when she talked about Penn, saying they do not see each other anymore. ''It's too painful,'' she said. ''It's horrible. I hope someday we can be friends again. Time heals everything.''

FORBES FORTUNE SPREAD AROUND: Malcolm Forbes left a posthumous bonus for his employees at Forbes magazine. The late millionaire's son, Steve, sent out a memo Thursday announcing that his father had left instructions to give workers an extra week's pay and to forgive all personal debts to the company up to $10,000. Forbes employees of more than a year were permitted to borrow money at low interest rates and three dozen staffers took advantage of the offer, which left other employees wishing they had gone for the loans, too. ''As Pop put it, 'Like a lottery, it's pure chance as to who benefits,''' Steve's memo said. ''In accordance with my father's wishes, you are receiving one extra week's pay. ... As for your extra pay, his advice should be no surprise: 'Enjoy it!'''

CHURCH OF TAMMY FAYE: Tammy Faye Bakker is about to be back in the church business. She's signed an agreement to buy a 15,000-square-foot building in Orlando, Fla., as a home for her New Covenant Church, which has been headquartered in a dying shopping mall and a piano store since the downfall of Tammy Faye and Jim Bakker's PTL Ministry. Donnie Beck, who heads fund-raising operations for New Covenant Church, said services would be held in the new building this Sunday. ''We are buying the building,'' he said without revealing the price. ''We're all excited about it.'' Part of the building will be converted into a television studio and other portions would be used as a sanctuary and office space. Jim Bakker is in federal prison in Rochester, Minn., serving a 45-year term for defrauding PTL contributors.

KERRY'S RETURN: Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., is going back to Vietnam next month for the first time since he won a Medal of Honor there. Details of the trip are still being arranged but Kerry plans to go to Vietnam and Cambodia and meet with their leaders. Kerrey was a 25-year-old Navy lieutenant leading a Seal team in Vietnam in 1969 when an enemy attack left him severely wounded, eventually resulting in him losing a leg.

GLIMPSES: Al Pacino and girlfriend Diane Keaton flew to New York from Italy to attend the funeral of his grandmother, Katie Girado, on Thursday. Pacino and Keaton were in Rome filming ''Godfather III'' ... Mikhail Baryshnikov will be replaced as director of the American Ballet Theater by Jane Hermann and Oliver Smith for the company's 50th anniversary season. Baryshnikov's clash with Hermann over her money-saving moves was one of the reasons the Russian ballet star announced he was leaving the ABT last September after nine years. Smith first started with the ABT as a designer and became co-director with the late Lucia Chase in 1945, holding that post until he retired in 1980.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The Pentagon, shelving its major Colombian initiative, announced its long-awaited military anti-drug plans Friday to use more ships, planes, radar and dogs in efforts to detect drug smugglers.

''Yes, it's more of the same,'' Assistant Defense Secretary Stephen Duncan conceded under questioning at a news conference outlining the plans. ''But it's substantially more of the same.''

The military will only engage in detection and monitoring of illegal drug traffickers and will not attempt to make arrests or seizures, he said.

''President Bush gave the Defense Department a clear set of marching orders when he issued his National Drug Control Strategy. These plans carry out those orders,'' Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said in a written statement. He did not attend the news conference.

The administration postponed plans in January to send a U.S. aircraft carrier and other ships to monitor drug traffic off the Colombian coast in response to widespread denunciation of the mission in Colombia, where it was portrayed as a ''naval blockade.''

The use of a carrier group was proposed to Cheney last October in response to his directive to military commanders to devise plans for inceasing the military's role in the drug war.

As envisioned by the Pentagon, naval task forces were to be stationed in international waters off the Caribbean coast of Colombia, permitting E-2C radar planes and surveillance craft to monitor drug traffic.

The Pentagon originally planned to announce Cheney's Colombian initiative at a news conference in early January, but that was postponed when the Colombian operation ran into opposition.

With that operation on indefinite hold, Duncan said no aircraft carriers will be used in the scaled-back plans that were announced Friday, and that all radar planes will have to fly from U.S. military facilities.

The Pentagon outlined the following stepped-up efforts:

-Four to five U.S. warships that are part of the Atlantic Command's Caribbean Task Force at Key West, Fla., will be assigned to ply international waters in the Caribbean each day to try to detect drug smugglers from Central and South America.

In addition, several Airborne Warning and Control System, or AWACS, radar planes based in Puerto Rico and the Navy's smaller E-2C Hawkeye and other observation aircraft will continue to be used to detect aircraft suspected of hauling drug shipments.

-The North American Aerospace Defense Command, or NORAD, will employ a network of 44 U.S. ground radars and ''can call on any number of 50 interceptor alert aircraft, which are positioned at 25 U.S. locations,'' officials said.

''We won't force an aircraft down'' with the interceptors, Col. Larry Izzo of the Joint Chiefs of Staff told reporters. He said they will simply track suspicious craft and report them to law enforcement authorities.

Aerostat radar balloons also will be used on the Southwest border.

-In Panama, the Southern Command will increase both training of Latin American anti-drug units and operational support - such as communications and intelligence - to the drug-producing countries of Colombia, Peru and Bolivia.

-The Pacific Command - ''due to the vast size'' of the ocean ''and the number of vessels that cross it'' - will only collect intelligence and data with ships and planes to try to sort out drug-carrying vessels from Southeast Asia, the Pentagon said.

-A Marine contingent at Fort Bliss, Texas, will continue to help patrol the Mexican border when called upon by the Border Patrol.

-Drug-sniffing dogs and their military handlers will be used to search cargo at ports in Hawaii and the continental United States.

Duncan said the number of military personnel set aside to help law enforcement agencies will rise from 40 to up to 275, and that the Pentagon expects to spend up to $877 million on the anti-drug effort this year.

The Pentagon has requested $1.2 billion in fiscal 1991.

Pentagon officials could offer no total number of ships or planes involved in the ''new'' anti-drug plans and rejected criticism that the military efforts so far have provided few results.

''It's a crusade,'' Izzo said. ''It's going to be a long crusade.''

But the Drug Policy Foundation denounced the anti-drug plan, describing it as a ''slippery slope that will cost us the lives of American soldiers in a jungle quagmire.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - House Armed Services Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., told the House budget panel Friday that deep cuts in Pentagon spending are possible in the next few years but they will have to begin small.

Aspin outlined his views in a letter to Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., but he did not suggest a particular level. Neither Aspin nor Senate Armed Services Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., are believed to back numbers well below the $12 billion spending cut suggested by Senate Budget Committee Chairman James Sasser, D-Tenn.

Meanwhile, the senior Republican on Aspin's panel, Rep. Bill Dickinson of Alabama, told Panetta, chairman of the House Budget Committee, that GOP members of the panel want President Bush's budget of $306 billion in spending authority and $303 billion in cash outlays during fiscal 1991 left unchanged.

The defense budget has fallen by about 2 percent a year since its high point in 1985, and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney this year submitted a plan to drop the budgets by 2 percent a year, after inflation, for the next five years.

''Neither domestic or international politics, nor projected Soviet military capablities justify cuts in the 1991 defense budget,'' said Dickinson.

Aspin pointed out the difficulty in making deep cuts immediately by noting that killing production of the B-2 bomber, allocated $4 billion in budget authority for five planes that would take several years to finish, would save just $400 million in actual spending in 1991.

The fastest way for the Pentagon to save money is to reduce the size of the armed forces because money in the personnel accounts is spent far more quickly than money in the weapons accounts.

''Significant reductions in military spending are possible over the next several years,'' said Aspin. ''The full policy and fiscal significance will not be reflected in calculations of lower first year outlays. Reductions in force structure and cuts in weapon programs yield much greater savings in the second and subsequent years than they do in the first. Big defense cuts, ironicaly, start with small outlay cuts.''

In another development Friday, Nunn's committee gave its approval to 85 percent of the more than $900 million in account shuffling sought by the Pentagon for this year to mitigate the effects on servicemen of automatic budget cuts. But because Aspin has refused to permit the transfer of funds the vote by Nunn's panel was purely for the record.

Last year the Pentagon waived its right to seek an exemption for personnel accounts from the effect of the budget balancing law, an action that effectively protected weapons systems from taking deep cuts. The agency later sought permission to transfer money into the personnel accounts to cover the shortages there.

The Pentagon says without permission to juggle money around it will have to delay promotions, stop moving soldiers and their families to new duty posts, reduce the number of new volunteers accepted and turn out as many as 60,000 soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines up to three months before their enlistments eand.

Nunn, in remarks on the Senate floor, was sharply critical of the administration for its action, saying, ''Thousands of military personnel were put at risk here by the administration in an apparent effort to protect (weapons) accounts. In other words, people were risked to protect equipment. Unless we allow the (Pentagon) to win this shell game this time military families are going to be hurt through no fault of their own.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - A top government health official told a Senate hearing Friday that because of bureaucratic delays it could be years before a 1988 law requiring regulation of all medical laboratories actually goes into effect.

Congress passed the Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 in response to evidence of widespread inaccuracies in lab tests - notably Pap smears used to identify cervical cancer - that in some cases caused deaths.

But the Health Care Financing Administration so far has not even proposed regulations for implementing the law, which requires that all labs, including the growing number in doctors' offices, be subject to federal standards.

New HCFA Administrator Gail Wilensky told angry members of the Labor and Human Resources Committee and the Subcommittee on Government Management that she hoped to begin proposing some of the regulations next month.

After the proposals are made, experts would have 90 days to comment. The HCFA would then consider the suggestions and issue final rules. Wilensky said she would not know until at least after the comment period how long it would take the HCFA to fashion the final regulations.

When asked by Sen. Brock Adams, D-Wash., whether the law would be in effect two years from now, Wilensky said she ''would hope it would be better than that,'' but was not more specific during the hearing.

Senators repeatedly criticized the HCFA for the delays, and suggested it issue interim rules so dangerous labs could be shut down.

''Women are just as likely to die from misread pap smears now as they were two years ago before this law was passed. Victims of AIDS may be unaware they are carrying the virus, and people with dangerously high cholesterol levels may go untreated,'' said Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md.

''And why? Because the Health Care Financing Administration has let us down. They did not do their job,'' she said.

Wilensky said a key problem in implementing the law, which she estimated would affect 300,000 to 600,000 labs, is that scientists do not agree on which tests are safe and simple enough to be exempted from regulation.

''I think you are entitled to be frustrated. I'm frustrated as well,'' said Wilensky, who assumed her current position last month. ''I believe the delay was a reflection of major, unexpected dissension in the scientific community.''

Wilensky said the HCFA next week would issue final rules for 12,000 labs that serve Medicare or Medicaid recipients or are engaged in interstate commerce. The rules provide for periodic testing and set minimum standards for workers.

Wilensky said 75 percent of Pap smears are done in labs that will be covered by the new rules. But Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., said that meant 15 million to 20 million of the tests each year would be performed in unregulated labs.

NAIROBI, KENYA (MARCH 9) UPI - President Daniel Arap Moi named a replacement Friday for a popular foreign minister whose brutal death sparked rumor and unrest across Kenya.

The official Voice of Kenya radio reported Minister for Water Development Ndolo Ayah would replace the late Foreign Minister Robert John Ouko, who was shot in the head and set on fire Feb. 16.

Students staged a series of violent protests after his death, claiming he was the victim of a political murder and that the government was engaged in a cover-up.

Ayah, a relative unknown in Kenyan politics, is of the same tribe as Ouko, the Luo. The tribe is Kenya's second largest and has a history of conflict with the largest tribe, the Kikuyu.

British detectives from London have been in Kenya for two weeks, attempting to clear up the mystery surrounding Ouko's death. They are still treating the death as ''suspicious,'' rather than labeling it a murder.

Security forces have questioned almost 50 people in connection with what the government has called a coordinated campaign of rumor-mongering over Ouko's death.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The Food and Drug Administration has given a San Francisco community group approval to conduct a controversial study of Compound Q, an experimental AIDS drug derived from a cucumber plant, officials said Friday.

The group, Project Inform, received the formal go-ahead for testing the drug on Wednesday, FDA spokesman Brad Stone said.

Stone said the group's application for testing the drug was reviewed by the agency as ''it met with our standards for authorizing human testing'' and ''we have given them permission to conduct the study.''

The move sparked criticism from researchers who said the decision could encourage unauthorized, potentially harmful testing of other possible AIDS drugs. Project Inform had earlier conducted an underground study.

''I think there's a great potential that we've opened a Pandora's box and I don't know what's going to come out of it,'' said Dr. Donald Abrams, an AIDS researcher at the San Francisco General Hospital and University of California in San Francisco. ''The people who get taken advantage of are the people with HIV infection and their families.''

Abrams, a member of a panel that advises the FDA on such matters, said he was considering resigning from that post because of the decision. Other FDA-approved Compound Q studies are already underway, making the Project Inform study unnecessary, he said.

''It doesn't seem necessary to have a second one, which emerged through rather unorthodox routes, approved,'' he said.

But Martin Delaney, director of Project Inform, defended the FDA's decision.

''The people making these whining complaints have not seen the protocol (the plan for the testing),'' he said. ''This study was approved by the same standards and by the same people that their studies are approved by.''

The study, which is being conducted with a $250,000 grant from Sandoz

Pharmaceutical Co., will involve about 100 patients, including those in the original underground trial, he said.

Compound Q is a protein derived from the root of a cucumber plant that the Chinese have used for centuries to induce abortion and treat cancer. Test tube studies have indicated it may kill cells carring the deadly virus responsible for acquired immune deficiency syndrome, which destroys the body's natural defense against disease.

Project Inform began testing the substance on AIDS patients last summer without FDA approval. It stopped at the request of the FDA after reports of adverse reactions, including two patients who went into comas and died.

''We asked them to stop and evidently they did stop,'' Stone said. ''We had some concerns about the safety of the study was well as some of the procedures. Since we hadn't had an opportunity to look at the study or know much about their procedure there were some concenrs, particulary when there would start to be reports that there might have been adverse reactions.''

The group then submitted a formal request to study the drug, which the FDA reviewed and determined met its standards, Stone said.

''They expressed an interest in doing testing in the proper fashion and at that point we said we would be willing to consider an application that laid out the proper scientific and ethical methods for testing the drug,'' he said.

Stone stressed the new study meets FDA standards.

''We're not lowering them (FDA standards) for Project Inform,'' he said.

The group made several changes in how it was studying the drug, including using a refined version of the drug and improving its record-keeping and monitoring systems, he said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - President Bush welcomed the University of Miami Hurricanes to the White House Friday and declared that the national championship squad is ''the college football team of the decade.''

In a sunny Rose Garden ceremony, Bush noted that the Hurricanes won three national titles in the past 10 years, and rolled up a record of 55-5 since 1985, including an 11-1 record last season.

Listing a recent wave of Miami quarterbacks who have gone on to the National Football League - Jim Kelly, Bernie Kosar, Vinny Testaverde and Steve Walsh - the president also quipped, ''No wonder they call it Quarterback U.''

Referring to the team's current signal caller, Craig Erickson, Bush joked, ''Some say that when Craig throws the ball, anything that flies that far should be showing an in-flight movie and serving a meal.''

Several members of the Florida congressional delegation attended the ceremony, which occurred a week after Bush welcomed the NFL champion San Francisco 49ers to the White House.

''For all of us name-droppers, it's been a great two weeks,'' Bush said. ''Last week the San Francisco 49ers, the NFL's team of the '80s. And now we've got the college football team of the decade.''

Miami Coach Dennis Erickson thanked the president for the visit to the White House, and presented Bush with a Miami jersey emblazoned with the No. 1.

PASADENA, CA (MARCH 9) UPI - Two women were each sentenced Friday to 15 years to life in state prison for drowning a teenage friend in a remote mountain stream after angrily accusing her of sleeping with their boyfriends.

Laura Doyle and Karen Severson, both 22, of Arleta, were convicted Jan. 31 of second-degree murder by a Superior Court jury that rejected the prosecution's call for a first-degree murder conviction.

Several jurors said afterwards they had not been convinced the slaying had been planned.

Under the sentence imposed Friday by Superior Court Judge Jack Tso, Doyle and Severson will be eligible for parole in about seven years.

Prosecutors said Doyle and Severson, who were teenagers at the time of the killing, lured Michele ''Missy'' Avila, 17, to an isolated canyon in the Angeles National Forest on Oct. 1, 1985 and drowned her in a shallow creek.

Authorities said Doyle and Severson killed Avila after angrily accusing her of sleeping with their boyfriends.

Deputy District Attorney Tamia Hope said Avila was an outgoing, pretty Arleta girl who was popular with her high school classmates.

''Her only problem, at least on that fateful day, was that she was very popular with the boys and this drove Laura Doyle and Karen Severson crazy '' Hope said at the trial.

''They started yelling at her, telling her how mad they were at her, and how she slept with entirely too many boys and messed up entirely too many relationships,'' the prosecutor said.

Hope said the women killed Avila by holding her head in about six inches of water. Then they put a 4-foot-long log on her body to keep her head underwater, she said.

Hikers found the body three days later.

The victim's mother, Irene Avila, said she never suspected Doyle or Severson until after their arrest nearly three years after her daughter's death when a witness to the slaying finally came foward.

Doyle and Severson had attended Michele's funeral and Severson even moved in with the Avila family for a short time afterward to console them.

''She was close to me, like another daughter,'' Avila said of Severson. ''Karen was my daughter's best friend. They grew up together.''

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Public health officials from across the nation Friday unanimously adopted a resolution urging tobacco companies to avoid marketing campaigns aimed toward women, minorities, and people younger than 21.

R.J. Reynolds Vice President David Fishel called the resolution misleading, claiming it stems from a nationwide publicity campaign against the tobacco industry.

Some 100 officials from all states except Alaska and Nevada attended the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials' first conference on tobacco prevention and control to discuss how to discourage tobacco use.

The resolution urged tobacco companies to avoid marketing products intended for those under 21 years old. In particular, it charged that R.J. Reynolds promoted the Dakota brand cigarette at "young, undereducated, and underemployed females."

Reynolds recently started selling the Dakota cigarette in Houston and Nashville, its two test markets, with ads geared toward smokers of the nation's leading cigarette, Marlboro, Fishel said.

"They're trying to make people believe something that is not happening. I don't think people are that vunerable," Fishel said. "We decided months ago that Dakota was a brand that was going to compete with Marlboro."

He said the marketing promotion is aimed at all Marlboro smokers, a group cutting across demographic lines as Marlboro holds about 25 percent of the U.S. cigarette market. Marlboro is manufactured by Philip Morris Companies.

Sister Mary Madonna Ashton, the Minnesota Commissioner of Health who chaired the ASTHO meeting before the vote, disagreed. She said anti-smoking groups have the hardest time having an impact upon women aged 18 to 24.

"This is what Dakota has been targeted for," Ashtion said. "This is the group of people that we are having the most difficulty impacting in terms of reduction in smoking. All other groups of our population in the United States are decreasing their smoking rates ... it's a great concern for the health of the future mothers of our nation and young people in their teens." Ashton urged the people to Houston to boycott Dakota cigarettes.

ATHENS, GREECE (MARCH 9) UPI - Iranian President Akbar Hashem-Rafsanjani welcomed a new U.N. initiative Friday to resume the stalled Iran-Iraq peace talks, but said he had little hope it would lead to a lasting peace in the region.

Speaking at prayer ceremonies in Tehran, Rafsanjani said Iran accepted a proposal by U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar for the peace talks to be resumed, but charged Iraq with procrastinating.

If the new initiative failed, he was quoted as saying by Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, ''One day the Iranian people may have to use force to retake their territories.''

''Although there are grounds for continuation of negotiations, the news agencyparaphrased Rafsanjani as saying, ''there is little hope for solving the problem because oppressive powers see their interests in prolonging the strife between the two countries.''

''However, we welcome this new move and hope Iraq gives up its mischiefs and the (big) powers would desist from causing any damage in this regard '' Rafsanjani said.

The peace talks between the two sides began under U.N. auspices days after the August 1988 cease-fire that ended the eight-year Persian Gulf war. But the talks broke down early last year.

Iran said it at the time that it agreed to a cease-fire based on a U.N. Security Council resolution, which also called on the two sides to hold discussions toward a lasting peace in the region.

The talks broke down when Iran insisted that Iraq should pull its troops out of some 800 square miles of Iranian territory before further discussions could be held.

The Iraqi side urged instead that the next step should be an exchange of 100,000 prisoners of war and demanded the right to clear the Shatt al Arab estuary, which is choked with vessels trapped there since the war began in September 1980.

The cease-fire line runs along the Shatt al Arab in the south, and the waterway is the only opening to the Persian Gulf for the port of Basra, Iraq's second largest city. Iran sent gunboats into the estuary to stop any attempt to dredge and clear it.

Iran insisted on following the letter of Resolution 598, in which an exchange of POWs precedes other steps in the peace process.

Rafsanjani said the latest U.N. initiative called for Iraqi troop withdrawals, release of the POWs, freedom of shipping in the Gulf and clearing the Shatt al Arab, which Iran calls the Arvand River.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 9) UPI - Federal investigators, probing the subway derailment that killed three people, prowled through a subway tunnel Friday, looking for a fist-sized nut that came off and allowed a heavy motor to fall.

It was that motor on the third car that scraped along the rail ties until it hit a switch, causing the three rear cars of the six-car train to derail Wednesday, killing three people and tossing some 100 passengers about in the darkness.

Alan Pollock, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board, said investigators hoped to find the missing nut and the cotter pin that was supposed to keep it in place.

''That's something we'd like to find,'' Pollock said. ''It would be helpful to have that.''

Pollock said a horizontal bolt and brackets which were supposed to stop the motor if the vertical bolt sheared off failed as well, and there appeared to be a lot of wear on the brackets from the motor.

The motor's rear support held and when the motor hit the track bed it flipped over, scarring the wooden ties heavily, Pollock said.

Pollock said investigators also were interviewing survivors of the accident and train personnel and were looking into train maintenance by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority. There were reports of other motors falling from the same train car.

The train crew was tested for drug and alcohol use, but the results were not available.

Pollock said investigators counted 94 people were injured, although hospital surveys by the media the day of the crash counted 163 injured. Pollock said he could not account for the discrepancy.

The three dead were identified as Alice Dix, 73, who died after her leg was amputated to free her from the wreck; Denise Devlin, 34, and Gospodin Kancev, 52, all of Philadelphia.

SEPTA resumed subway-surface trolley service through the tunnel Friday.

The route passed by the wreck site, where passengers could see workmen attempting to pry away metal wrapped around the concrete and steel support posts.

The wreckage was transported to a repair yard for further study.

Passengers on the train said seeing the wreckage made them nervous.

''Just gliding right by really made for a sense of pain for the people riding that car and anybody else who has to ride SEPTA,'' said James Ebo of West Philadelphia. ''It really is a really bad feeling.''

Kimberly Bagdonavicuis of Willow Grove said, ''I'm very nervous. ... I just told my husband if he hears about any accidents on the green line I won't be back for lunch.''

SEPTA, meanwhile, was bracing for an expected rash of lawsuits. At least one attorney was at a hospital passing out his business cards as the injured were brought in.

Under a controversial state law, SEPTA is limited to $1 million liability per accident, or $250,000 for an individual. Last year the agency paid out $50 million in accident claims.

A 1978 sovereign immunity statute limits liability of state agencies. However, a case before the state Supreme Court challenges the assumption that SEPTA is a state agency.

Robert Daniels, the attorney who argued that it was not, said, ''The law is really a ruse to cloak what isn't a government entity with government protection.''

He said it should be considered on par with Amtrak or Greyhound.

CHICAGO (MARCH 9) UPI - Widespread precipitation this week in the Great Plains continued to pressure wheat futures Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat closed lower but other grain and soybean prices were higher.

Even the sale of nearly 400,000 tons of wheat to China could not overcome the selling by professionals and commission houses. More rain was predicted for the Wheat Belt during the weekend which also depressed prices.

Corn was fractionally higher in light trading activity. Long-liquidation and positioning ahead of the weekend were the features in the corn trade.

Prices throughout the soybean complex were at or near session highs at the final bell. May soybeans had a high of $6 per bushel, the highest they have been in more than two months, and closed at $5.99 1/2 for a gain of 5 cents on the day.

Soybean oil and meal were moderately higher on the prospect of near-term export sales, especially for meal. A firm tone to the soymeal market in Rotterdam contributed to the gains.

Country movement was light.

At the close, corn was up 1/2 to 1 1/2, soybeans up 3 1/2 to 6, wheat unchanged to down 2 1/4 and oats up 1/4 to 2.

DAR ES SALAAM, TANZANIA (MARCH 9) UPI - Black nationalist Nelson Mandela pledged in Ethiopia that South African ''freedom fighters'' will struggle until they stop apartheid, then flew back to Tanzania Friday to visit African National Congress military camps.

Mandela spent only 24 hours in Ethiopia in a last-minute sidetrip during his 17-day anti-apartheid tour, meeting President Mengistu Haile Mariam and addressing delegation chiefs from the Organization of African Unity.

Looking tired when he arrived back in Tanzania after more than two weeks of travel since leaving South Africa, the 71-year-old Mandela planned to fly to Iringa, 250 miles southwest of Tanzania's main city, Dar Es Salaam.

He was to spend two days inspecting military training camps of the ANC, Africa's oldest freedom-fighting organization. Mandela himself helped set up the camps at Iringa and at Morogoro, 150 miles to the northwest, in 1961 before his arrest in South Africa and subsequent 27 years in jails there.

Until Mandela came to Tanzania this week, just three weeks after his release, the ANC never publicly acknowledged the existence of the camps in its armed struggle against the South African government.

Although Mandela, now deputy leader of the ANC, spoke openly of the camps existence and thanked Tanzania for its help in their maintenance, Tanzanian authorities banned news coverage of the two-day visit at Mandela's request.

Ethiopia also hosts about 700 ANC fighters, who reportedly moved there from Angola after a November 1988 accord on Angola's demilitarization.

Much-feted on his tour of African countries, Mandela has not explained his last minute decision to visit Ethiopia, but an OAU spokesman said he had been invited a month ago.

Mandela thanked Ethiopians for their support and said he was confident ''the struggle waged by the people of South Africa, with countries which stand for freedom and peace, will be crowned with total success, since the freedom fighters will not cease their struggle until victory is sustained.''

Mengistu decorated him with Ethiopia's highest honor - the ''Order of Africa, first rank,'' and praised Mandela's courage and work on behalf of all Africans.

Mandela told delegation chiefs from the 49-state OAU, dedicated to cooperation in the African cause and headquartered in Addis Ababa, ''The constant support of the Organization of African Unity to Liberation movements in my country has been a permanent source of encouragement.''

The OAU consistently fought for Mandela's release and is now active in promoting Mandela's belief that sweeping reforms announced Feb. 2 by South African President Frederik de Klerk do not yet constitute grounds for celebration.

OAU Secretary General Salim Ahmed Salim, echoing Mandela, said several conditions had to be met before talks with de Klerk on a new South African constitution were possible.

He said these were the release of all political prisoners, a complete end to the state of emergency, the withdrawal of security forces from black townships and the abolition of all remaining apartheid laws.

Mandela is to leave Tanzania Sunday and fly to Stockholm for five days to visit ANC President Oliver Tambo, recovering after a stroke last year. Tambo's convalescence makes Mandela effective leader of the ANC.

Mandela will also reportedly see British opposition Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock in Sweden. Britain's ruling Conservative Party ignored ANC and OAU advice against lifting economic sanctions against South Africa after de Klerk's reforms and Mandela's release.

KISSIMMEE, FL (MARCH 9) UPI - A mother who failed to make her 15-year-old son go to school began serving a three-day jail term Friday, shortly after her husband completed a similar sentence and was released, officials said.

Ernest and Kathleen Bennett were each given three-day jail terms for allowing their son to stay home from school.

Osceola County school records show Michael Bennett, a freshman at Osceola High School, was absent last year from Aug. 21 to Nov. 17.

State law requires children between the ages of 6 and 16 to attend classes. Parents can be sentenced to a maximum of 60 days in jail and fined $500.

''We generally will not prosecute unless the school has exhausted every possible way to convince the parents to get their kids in school,'' said Donna Eddy, assistant state attorney. ''What we did was a last resort.''

The Bennetts pleaded guilty Tuesday to violating the state's compulsory school attendance law. Judge Ronald Legendre sentenced each to three days in jail, plus six months probation and 40 hours of community service.

Ernest Bennett, 35, began his term immediately and was released Friday morning, the sheriff's office reported.

His wife, who picked him up, returned at 1:45 p.m. EST to begin her term, they said. She entered the jail through a backdoor to avoid reporters.

The couple told the judge they felt powerless to force their son to go to school.

''I realize that some kids are going to be a problem, no matter how hard parents try,'' Legendre said. ''But some effort has to be made. If a 15-year-old child gets the impression their parents don't care, they're not going to.''

SAN FRANCISCO (MARCH 9) UPI - Chevron Corp. has told California energy officials it expects to spend $1.3 billion to modernize its Richmond, Calif., oil refinery. The modernization is expected to create 2,000 construction jobs between 1992 and 1994, Chevron said.

The San Francisco-based oil giant gave details of its plans to staff members of the California Energy Commission in Sacramento Thursday. Previously it had said only that the modernization would cost more than $1 billion. The modernization will have little impact on the plant's 2,700-member work force, the company said.

Chevron's board has not given the official go-ahead to the modernization, but the company expects to do file permit application with the energy commission by June.

The modernization could reduce the Richmond plant's power costs by as much as 80 percent, Chevron said. The company now plays Pacific Gas & Electric Co. more than $60 million a year for electricity and an undisclosed amount for natural gas.

The modernization also will shift the plant's production mix away from high-sulfur fuel oil to more profitable products. A 45,000-barrel-a-day felxicoke will be added to cook crude oil residue, separating it into natural gas, coke and lighter, refinable components.

IRVING, TX (MARCH 9) UPI - The Boy Scouts of America will remove an Indian symbol that resembles a Nazi swastika from future editions of a catalog of supplies and other items for sale.

The elimination of the item was agreed to by the scouts at the request of the Anti-Defamation League in a letter to Ben H. Love, chief executive of BSA in its headquarters in suburban Dallas.

''It is an Indian good luck symbol, and an element of Indian art,'' said Susan Teplinsky, spokeswoman for the BSA. ''Everything in the catalog was there so people could see them, but we were pleased to be able to take it out if it was going to make them feel better.''

The elimination of the item was confirmed by Teplinsky following the release of a statement about it in New York City by Jeffrey P. Sinensky, director of the ADL's Civil Rights Division.

Sinesky said that on Feb. 14 he wrote the letter to Love pointing out that a photograph of the ''Indian Pictograph Stamp Set'' in the 1990 catalog included a swastika as an element of Indian art.

''In a letter dated Feb. 26 to Mr. Sinensky, Harold Sokoksky, asistant to the Boys Scouts chief executive, told the League that 'in the spirit of friendliness and the sincere desire to avoid perception of insensitivity, we will remove the symbol from future editions of our literature,''' the League said.

In his origional letter, Sinensky said he and other members of the League were not suggesting there were Nazi influences in the Boy Scout catalog.

''We realize that the Boy Scouts in no way intended to offend or distress anyone, but in light of the painful associations the swastika conveys to millions of Americans - including many supporters of scouting - and the fact that it remains the favored emblem of many bigots today, may we ask you to consider removing this symbol from future editions of your literature?'' the letter said.

BASEBALL

Los Angeles prosecutors declined to file spousal battery or weapons charges against New York Mets outfielder Darryl Strawberry, whose wife had accused him of slapping her and pointing a gun at her. City Attorney James Hahn said there was insufficient evidence to file misdemeanor weapons charges against Strawberry, 27. Hahn said misdemeanor battery charges would not be filed because Strawberry had completed the initial step of an alcohol abuse program. Prosecutors concluded Strawberry's drinking problem was the cause of the fight.

... The Milwaukee Brewers signed shortstop Bill Spiers and pitchers Don August, Angel Miranda, Jaime Navarro and Spiers to one-year contracts. They also renewed the contracts of first baseman George Canale and shortstop Gary Sheffield, bringing all players on 40-man roster under contract.

... The Pittsburgh Pirates canceled eight more exhibition games Friday because of the lockout. All games through Sunday, March 18 now have been canceled. The Pirates have canceled nine home games scheduled for McKechnie Field in Bradenton, Fla., and eight on the road.

BOXING

An assault charge against middleweight champion Michael Nunn in his hometown of Davenport, Iowa, has been dropped, officials said Friday. Nunn the International Boxing Federation champion, was involved in a sidewalk altercation between his family and another family Oct. 1 in his old neighborhood. Charges against Nunn's mother, Madies Nunn, 49, who was accused of striking a police officer, and a nephew, Raymond Jones, 21, were reduced to misdemeanors. Both paid $100 fines.

COLLEGE

A viewing will be held Sunday evening and Monday morning for college basketball star Hank Gathers, who collapsed during a game and died. The viewing for the 23-year-old Philadelphia native and Loyola Marymount star will be held at the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Philadelphia. The funeral will follow Monday's viewing and Gathers will be buried at Mt. Lawn Cemetery. ... Larry Anderson resigned as basketball coach at Carnegie Mellon in Pittsburgh, effective June 30. Anderson's seven-year record at CMU was 56-101 and his team finished this season 4-21.

DOG SLED RACING

Lavon Barve was the leader midway through the marathon Iditarod race from Anchorage to Nome, Alaska. Barve received $3,000 in silver ingots when he pulled into the ghost town of Cripple leading the 68-sled field.

FOOTBALL

The NCAA Administrative Committee has rejected the Football Rules Committee's recommendation to reduce the width of goal post uprights in college games. The Administrative Committee refused to reduce the width of the uprights from 23 feet, 4 inches to 18-6. The Executive Committee told the rules committee to study the issue further by soliciting information on the costs to institutions and garnering the opinions of coaches. ... The University of Texas-El Paso was ordered to limit the duties of newly hired assistant football coach Charlie Bailey or face NCAA sanctions. The NCAA Committee on Infractions found last August that Bailey was involved with major violations of NCAA legislation while he was the head coach at Memphis State. Bailey is prohibited from off-campus recruiting until Aug. 2, 1991.

GOLF

Swede Magnus Persson shot a 7-under 65 for the second straight day to lead the $451,000 Majorca Open at Palma, Spain by one shot over Severiano Ballesteros. Ballesteros also shot 65 in the second round after an opening-round 66. American Bill Malley slipped to 72 Friday, falling five strokes behind the leader at 9-under 135 for the tournament.

SKIING

Bad weather caused the cancellation of a women's downhill in Norway, threatening to throw the women's World Cup calendar into crisis nine days from the scheduled end of the season. Women's coaches in Stranda, just inland from the North Sea, and International Ski Federation women's circuit coordinator Heinz Krecek voted to call off the downhill scheduled for Friday.

TEGA CAY, SC (MARCH 9) UPI - The palatial home once occupied by PTL founder Jim Bakker and his family was ravaged Friday by fire, and wife Tammy Faye rejoiced, suggesting that God torched the place.

''I believe it is a sign from God that he is still doing big and wonderful things for Jim Bakker,'' said Tammy Faye, who is carrying on her husband's ministry while he does time behind bars for bilking his PTL followers.

Jim Bakker, who watched his children grow up in the five-story, split-level house before losing the home when he left PTL in 1987 amid a sex and money scandal, was not as overjoyed about the blaze.

''I am very sad that a house that was such a good friend to our family and children is now gone, but our hope is in God and his wonderful, eternal, heavenly home,'' said Bakker in statement issued from the federal prison in Minnesota where he's serving a 45-year term.

Tega Cay Police Cpl. Russell Case, the first person on the scene, said the report of a fire at the lakeside home, now owned by a New Jersey businessman, came from a neighbor at about 2:15 a.m.

''When I got there, the entire roof was already on fire and flames were going 30 feet high,'' Case said. ''The structure burned very fast because it was a wooden structure and had a cedar roof.''

The officer said firefighters needed two hours to contain the blaze but got help from a light rain in preventing the fire from spreading to other nearby homes.

The charred interior of the house continued to smolder hours after the flames were extinguished, preventing investigators from getting a closer look. The cause of the blaze was not immediately clear.

Authorities said there was no one in the house when the fire broke out.

Case said neighbors reported that some belongings were moved out the residence earlier in the week.

The home was purchased at auction for $675,000 in 1988 by businessman Robert Rubino, owner of the Bobby Rubino's pizza chain. Case said officials were attempting to contact Rubino, who was out of town on business.

Rubino had been trying to sell the richly appointed home, which was an easy target for critics who portrayed Jim and Tammy Bakker as high-living demigods who lost touch with their religious roots.

The mansion featured three kitchens, a fish-shaped pool and 25 closets that were put to good use by Tammy Faye, who once was depicted as the Imelda Marcos of the evangelical set.

One of the closets was so large that Rubino had it turned into an extra bedroom when he remodeled.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The nation's civilian jobless rate remained UNchanged in February at five-point-three percent for the ninth month in a row. The Labor Department says the number of jobs increased dramatically by 372-thousand. That's the largest gain since 470-thousand jobs were created in June 1988. The government attributes some of the increase in jobs to the number of auto workers called back to their plants after temporary layoffs.

Lebanese and Israeli sources say at least one person was killed and two others wounded today in a rare Israeli air strike on Lebanon's Syrian-patrolled northern region. Israeli jets bombarded Palestinian positions near Tripoli... about 42 miles north of Beirut. An Israeli spokesman says the targets were staging bases which the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command used to launch attacks.

Federal investigators in Philadelphia are concentrating their probe of Wednesday's subway train derailment on two parts of the train. Investigators say a nut and a cotter pin allowed a bolt supporting an electric motor to slip. The motor was then dragged along the tracks until it struck a switch... forcing the derailment. Officials say a backup system meant to keep the motor in place also failed. Three people died and more than 100 others were injured in the derailment.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - A federal appeals court Friday reversed the remainder of a $95 million product liability award given to a District of Columbia boy who contends the morning-sickness drug Bendectin caused his birth defects.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia found no scientific foundation for experts' claims that 10-year-old Sekou Ealy's deformities to his hands and arms were caused by Bendectin.

The ruling reverses a 1987 jury award of $20 million in compensation to the boy. A lower court had already rejected the jury's decision to award him $75 million in punitive damages, finding no evidence of willful disregard or outrageous conduct by Richardson-Merrell Inc. in Cincinnati, which manufactured Bendectin. The company has since been renamed Marion Merrell Dow Inc.

The $95 million award was one of the largest damage awards ever in a products liability case.

Judge Abner Mikva, writing for the unanimous three-judge panel, said the case turned on the admissibility of expert testimony.

''Unfortunately for the Ealys, the only evidence they have on the issue of scientific causation is the testimony of their experts,'' Mikva wrote. ''Once that testimony is deemed inadmissible, it is self-evident that the evidence is insufficient to support a verdict for (the Ealys).''

Mikva wrote that future scientific research may generate new epidemiological data that will provide a basis for experts' claims that Bendectin causes birth defects.

''Until that day, the existing body of published epidemiological studies ... must be recognized as the measuring stick,'' he wrote, adding that none of those studies find a significant connection between Bendectin and birth defects.

Other federal appeals courts have also issued rulings in past years that favor Richardson-Merrell, which voluntarily ceased production of Bendectin in 1983.

''It's a real sad day in American law when they make such an attack on the jury system,'' said Barry Nace, lawyer for Sekou Ealy and his parents, Sandra and Robert Ealy.

''It's totally absurd,'' he said. ''I feel like we're knocking our heads against a brick wall. They are asking our kids to meet a burden of 95 percent certainty that this drug caused the defects. This is not a case of epidemiology. It's a case of what interfered with the cells in the uterus.''

Nace, who said thousands of babies were born with deformities to mothers who took Bendectin, said he will ask the full appeals court to hear the case. Al Schretter, a lawyer for Marion Merrell Dow, said he was pleased with the court's decision.

''It's consistent with results we have been obtaining in other courts for several years now,'' Schretter said. ''The epidemiological evidence is very clear that it has not been shown to cause birth defects. The Food and Drug Administration to this day has continued to give its approval for the product. If we wanted to, we could market it again. We simply don't want to.''

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - President Bush announced Friday he is nominating Dr. Karen L. Gillmor to be director of the Labor Department's Women's Bureau.

Gillmor, 41, has served as manager of physician relations at the Ohio State University Hospitals in Colombus since 1987. She would succeed Jill Houghton Emery in the post traditionally held by women.

Gillmor also held the position of dean and assistant to the vice president at Ohio State University.

ALEXANDRIA, VA (MARCH 9) UPI - Hughes Aircraft Corp. pleaded guilty Friday to two criminal counts and was ordered to pay $3.67 million in fines and penalties for illegally using secret Pentagon planning documents prosecutors said.

Hughes, the nation's fifth largest military contractor, pleaded guilty to two counts of "conveyance without authority" in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, said U.S. Attorney Henry Hudson.

Both counts charge Hughes, a division of General Motors Corp., with illegally acquiring secret editions of the Defense Department's budget document for fiscal years 1984 and 1985 to gain an edge in winning defense contracts. The document, called a "five-year defense program," was given to Hughes by Frank J. Caso, a former employee, Hudson said.

The government said that from 1978 to 1985, Hughes acquired copies of a wide range of secret Pentagon documents from employees of other defense contractors.

U.S. District Judge James Cacheris accepted the guilty pleas and ordered the company to pay a total of $3.67 million in fines and for settlement of civil claims and penalties.

The pleas are part of a grand jury investigation into the illegal inside-information ring that funneled many of the Pentagon's budget secrets to leading defense companies. The government investigation, dubbed "Operation Undercover," at one time focused on the activities of more than a dozen large defense contractors.

The Boeing Co. previously pleaded guilty to two similar felony counts and was ordered to pay fines of $5.2 million. In addition, a Boeing employee, Richard Lee Fowler, was convicted in December 1989 of 39 counts that included conspiracy, passing on secret documents and mail fraud. Described as the ringleader of the scheme, he was sentenced to two years in prison.

On Feb. 5, RCA Corp. pleaded guilty to two felony counts of passing on secret documents and was ordered to pay fines and restitution of $2.75 million. Ronald Stevens, an RCA employee, and Leonard Kampf, a former employee of the company, pleaded guilty to one felony count each of passing on Pentagon planning documents. Both Kampf and Stevens face maximum prison sentences of up to ten years and fines of up to $10,000. Sentencing has been set for April 6.

VIENNA (MARCH 9) UPI - World oil markets could face a "surprise shortage" in the mid-1990s because of rising demand spurred on by changes in Eastern Europe and the developing world, OPEC's top officer said Friday.

OPEC Secretary-General Subroto called on industrialized nations to help OPEC stabilize the "fragile" equilibrium of oil supply and demand, saying a sudden shortage could send shock waves around the globe. "There is a possibility that a surprise shortage in oil supply may take place in the mid-1990s if we do not do something about it now," Subroto said.

"We must sit together as soon as possible, exchange information and gain a deeper understanding of each other's needs," Subroto told a news conference in Vienna. "Multinationals have the technology and capital. The banking world has the resources. OPEC has the potential. Let these different elements interact and produce lasting energy stability," he said.

Subroto, an Indonesian, made the comments a week before a scheduled meeting of eight ministers of OPEC's market monitoring committee, which is expected to tackle the issue of market instability.

Subroto said the talks would provide "important input" for OPEC's mid-year ministeral conference in May, where decisions are to be made on production quotas for the second half of the year. "I don't think any decisions will be made next week," he said.

The 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries pumps more than a third of the world's oil and its actions in limiting production influence the prices of crude oil and petroleum products.

The cartel in November placed a ceiling of 22 million barrels a day on OPEC production for the first six months aimed at maintaining a target of $18 a barrel as the average price for seven Mideast crudes.

Because of cheating on individual quotas by countries such as Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, daily production has been running above 23 million barrels.

In recent appearances around the world, Subroto has been warning of a tight world crude market developing unless the industrial nations help finance an expansion of OPEC production.

He told the Vienna news conference that oil demand was certain to rise in the next few years, partly because of the growth potential unleashed by the new economic freedom in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. Newly industrialized nations in Asia also will be consuming more oil, fueling concerns over whether OPEC will be able to meet the increased demand.

Also adding to market instability is widespread unrest in several major oil-producing countries, including the Soviet Union, where output has dropped by 300,000 barrels a day in the past year.

"We need to develop a dialogue between producers and consumers. We need to create reciprocal security for both producers and consumers," he said. "There is a communality of interest between the two groups. Together they can bring stability to the world oil market."

ANCHORAGE, AK (MARCH 9) UPI - Redoubt Volcano blew its top again Friday shortly after a moderate earthquake rocked a wide area of Alaska and geologists said the two events might be related.

Redoubt's latest eruption sent an ash plume 35,000 feet high blowing toward the sparsely populated mountainous region to the northwest, the Alaska Volcano Observatory said.

The 10,197-foot mountain 110 miles southwest of Anchorage has been following an irregular but twice-weekly eruption schedule, geologists noted.

Geologist John Ewert said Friday's eruption, at 9:51 a.m. Alaska time (1:51 p.m. EST), appeared to shoot less ash into the sky than in previous eruptions - offering some relief to Alaskans who have had the grit rain down on them off and on since the mountain burst to life almost three months ago.

Ewert said prevailing winds were carrying the plume northwest of the volcano, and no population centers were in line for ashfall.

Earthquakes have continued to rumble beneath the mountain for months, often increasing in magnitude immediately before each new explosion.

The sizable tremor that shook many Alaskans awake Friday may have had a connection to the new Redoubt eruption, said Tom Sokolowski, director of the Tsunami Warning Center in Palmer.

The moderate earthquake Friday at 3:34 a.m. Alaska time was centered just southeast of Redoubt and measured 5.4 on the Richter scale, Sokolowski said.

Usually, volcanic eruptions and strong earthquakes have no connection, Sokolowski said, ''but this one was so close, I don't know.''

The epicenter of the quake was 25 miles from Redoubt Volcano. The proximity of the two, and the known geological formations beneath the region, are evidence of a possible connection, Sokolowski said.

The same pressure that triggered the quake may have set off the explosion of Redoubt, Sokolowski suggested. However, he said the epicenter of the quake was 80 miles beneath the earth and the rumbling beneath Redoubt has been fairly shallow.

The quake caused no damage or injuries was felt strongly in Anchorage and a dozen other communities.

There was another moderate quake Friday morning in the interior of Alaska, 170 miles southwest of Fairbanks near Mount McKinley. That quake hit at 8:03 a.m. Alaska time and measured 5.5 on the Richter scale, said Paul Whitmore of the Tsunami Warning Center. The quake was felt in several towns but caused no damage.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The new owner of Piper Aircraft Corp. said Friday that unless Congress solves general aviation's product liability problem he may have to move his business out of the country.

Stuart Millar, who bought the firm in 1987 and has turned the sliding business around, testified before a Senate Judiciary Committee subcommittee considering legislation to provide a uniform federal product liability standard for the industry.

He spoke both for his firm and for the General Aviation Manufacturers Association, saying the industry backed the legislation not to avoid responsibility for building safe planes but ''for fairness, rationality and predictability in our country's product liability laws.''

Joining Millar was an official of the Beech Aircraft Corp., which along with Cessna is based in Kansas and is the other major domestic maker of general aviation planes, as well as an official of Teledyne Continental Motors, a firm that builds many of the engines used in light planes.

''If (the insurance issue) continues, Piper will not be in the United States anymore. It can't afford to,'' said Millar, who added later in an interview that roughly 8 percent of the price of a basic Piper plane is set aside for self-insurance against claims from suits brought from accidents among the entire fleet of 65,000 Pipers still flying throughout the country.

''It could be anywhere from one month to maybe three, four or five years'' before he faces the decision on moving the firm overseas from its current location in Vero Beach, Fla., he said.

He said in the case of his firm, 60 percent of the $12 million devoted to liability coverage is used not to pay out legitimate claims for damages but to buy off frivolous suits that threaten to cost hundreds of thousands of dollars to defend.

''It costs a half million to $3 million to win a case,'' added Robert Martin of Beech. ''It isn't the losses that are hurting us, it's the wins.''

Also backing the legislation was Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, D-Kan., who noted that while general aviation accident rates are falling, liability costs are soaring.

''There is no uniform standard which applies to liability cases for this industry. The result is inconsistent court judgments from state to state and, in turn, instability and unpredictably in the industry,'' she said.

A spokesman for the nation's private pilots also testified for the legislation, which would set up a 20-year liability period without capping awards or limiting legal fees. A House version of the bill contains a 12-year liability period.

Opposing the legislation were representatives for trial lawyers, state court judges and a consumer organization.

Bill Wagner, immediate past president of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, argued the legislation would supercede state laws. And, he said, there is no justification for the claim that because most aspects of aviation are regulated by the federal government the liability issue should also be covered.

WARNER ROBINS, GA (MARCH 9) UPI - A crippled military transport jet made an emergency landing Friday at Robins Air Force Base after losing its main right landing gear upon takeoff from an air base in Panama.

No injuries were reported.

The Air Force C-141 cargo craft carrying 26 people, including nine crew members, landed at 3:50 p.m. EST at the air base about 100 miles south of Atlanta. The passengers were U.S. military personnel and their families, officials said.

It was not clear how much damage the airplane sustained when it skidded to a halt, spewing sparks from its belly and engine as they scraped the runway.

The plane landed on its left side and the fire and smoke briefly gushed from beneath the giant plane as its right side made contact.

Emergency vehicles lining the airstrip in preparation for the landing sprayed foam on the bulky craft as it came to a stop.

The plane, bound for Charleston Air Force Base in South Carolina, sustained damage to its landing gear after taking off from Howard Air Base in Panama around 10 a.m. EST, said Cliff Tyler, a spokesman for Robins.

Tyler said the pilot was going to try to land on the left gear and ''feather the right side down as easy as he can.''

He said details were not available on what caused the aircraft to lose its landing gear.

He said Robins was chosen as a landing site because it is the operations center and repair hub for the plane, which is large enough to carry 200 fully equipped troops.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Senate leaders are trying to ward off bids to alter a delicate compromise on clean air legislation. Both Democratic and Republican leaders repeatedly warned the Senate against adopting costly amendments that would upset a deal with the Bush administration. Senators voted against a plan regulating toxic emissions from cars, which are NOT subject to specific limits under the deal.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says it was a hoax, but NO one at the White House laughed. Fitzwater says Bush took the call he did NOT want to miss an opportunity to free the hostages.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Pending completion of a routine background investigation, President Bush will nominate Timothy Ryan as director of the troubled Office of Thrift Supervision, an administration official said Friday.

The official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said the background check by the Federal Bureau of Investigation would take at least six weeks, but added that Bush wants Ryan, a former Labor Department attorney, to head the agency.

Earlier Friday, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, "We haven't announced that appointment yet. He's still undergoing background checks. When those are completed, then we'll have the final decision."

On Tuesday, Bush appointed Salvatore Martoche, the Treasury's assistant secretary for enforcement, to head the agency temporarily. Martoche replaced M. Danny Wall, who resigned in December amid congressional criticism for his handling of the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan Association.

The Washington Post reported Friday that the appointments of Martoche and Ryan apparently are linked to a lawsuit alleging that all OTS actions taken under Wall's tenure are invalid because Wall was never confirmed by the Senate to lead the agency.

The newspaper reported that administration officials already have "ratified" some of Wall's decisions as OTS director in a bid to ensure the actions were defensible legally.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, HAITI (MARCH 9) UPI - Official sources said Friday Haitian dictator Prosper Avril was creating a five-member ''crisis Cabinet,'' but it was unclear whether he would bow to demands by demonstrators and step down.

U.S. sources in Washington said it appeared possible that Avril would abdicate his power and that the United States would not only welcome the move but facilitiate his departure, as it helped Gen. Henri Namphy flee to the Dominican Republic when Avril took control of Haiti in a 1988 coup.

Demonstrators demanding Avril's ouster outside the presidential palace have clashed with troops over the past two days, leaving at least one soldier and three civilians dead.

Radio Metropole reported soldiers in some Haitian provinces Friday laid down their arms and joined anti-Avril protests and said the armed forces had instructed soldiers not to fire on demonstrators, an indication Avril's military support may be waning.

Haitian government officials, who asked not to be identified, said Avril, 52, was forming a five-member crisis Cabinet but would not reveal who would serve on it.

They said it was possible Avril would leave Haiti for an undisclosed European country and other sources close to the palace said Avril's two grown sons had already left for Europe, possibly to prepare for their father's departure.

Some observers were skeptical of the reports, which could not be confirmed and a U.S. Embassy source called the scenerio ''unlikely.''

Radio Metropole reported troops fired on a student-led demonstration Friday in front of the gleaming white presidential palace in downtown Port-au-Prince where Avril was reportedly holed up with his closest aides.

The report said the soldiers beat and arrested many of the students but there were no casualties, unlike Thursday when two demonstrators were shot and a soldier was stoned and burned outside of the palace.

The body of a fourth person, who police said was shot by soldiers patrolling the streets in a jeep, was discovered Friday morning in downtown Port-au-Prince.

Opposition parties have stepped up calls for Avril's ouster, saying he reneged on his promise to restore democracy to Haiti when he cracked down on political opposition parties last month. The protests escalated this week after an 11-year-old girl in the northern town of Petite Gauve was killed Monday by soldiers who fired on anti-Avril demonstrators.

On Wednesday, Avril said in a widely broadcast interview that he would be willing to step down from power but said to do so would create ''chaos'' in Haiti. The island nation has been governed in succession by a military tribunal, an elected president and two military dictators since president-for-life Jean Claude ''Baby Doc'' Duvalier was toppled in a popular uprising in February 1986.

''I am ready to leave power if popular sovereignty decides so, and if Western political (authorities) can assure a transition of power without violence,'' Avril said in the interview with Radio Metropole and private television Tele-Haiti.

Most shops and businesses in Port-au-Prince remained closed Friday and public transportation was scarce.

Independently run Radio Metropole said angry demonstrators burned military barracks in Petite Guave and that soldiers fled from the crowd. The reports said protesters also torched the homes of some Avril aides in Petite Gauve and Gonaizes.

The Association of Political Parties, a group of 12 opposition organizations, issued a statement calling for the protests to continue until Avril leaves the country and leaders Friday urged Haitians in radio broadcasts to remain firm in their resolve that Avril must go.

There is no clear leader of the movement, which wants Avril to hand over power to a civilian transitional government as provided for in the Haitian Constitution.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Pending completion of a routine background investigation, President Bush will nominate Timothy Ryan as director of the troubled Office of Thrift Supervision, an administration official said Friday.

The official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said the background check by the FBI would take at least six weeks, but added that Bush wants Ryan, a former Labor Department attorney, to head the agency.

Earlier Friday, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, ''We haven't announced that appointment yet. He's still undergoing background checks. When those are completed, then we'll have the final decision.''

On Tuesday, Bush appointed Salvatore Martoche, the Treasury's assistant secretary for enforcement, to head the agency temporarily. Martoche replaced M. Danny Wall, who resigned in December amid congressional criticism for his handling of the failed Lincoln Savings and Loan Association.

The Washington Post reported Friday that the appointments of Martoche and Ryan apparently are linked to a lawsuit alleging that all OTS actions taken under Wall's tenure are invalid because Wall was never confirmed by the Senate to lead the agency.

The newspaper reported that administration officials already have ''ratified'' some of Wall's decisions as OTS director in a bid to ensure the actions were defensible legally.

PARIS (MARCH 9) UPI - President Francois Mitterrand met with Polish leaders Friday and called for a international agreement guaranteeing Poland's border before German reunification.

He also said Poland must be involved in the upcoming ''two-plus-four'' talks on reunification between the two Germanys and the four victorious World War II allies, but only on matters affecting Polish affairs.

''It is up to the four powers to give their opinion on these subjects, to give in a certain fashion their guarantee,'' Mitterrand said after nearly five hours of talks at the Elysee Palace with Polish President Wojciech Jaruzelski and Solidarity Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki.

Mitterrand stressed ''Poland is not a member of the six,'' and indicated Warsaw could not participate directly in initial stages of the talks on the future of Germany.

''But Poland must be associated with what concerns Polish affairs,'' Mitterrand said at a joint news conference with the Polish leaders, who arrived for a one-day visit Friday.

Mitterrand also reiterated France's view the Oder-Neisse frontier between Poland and East Germany is inviolable, adding, ''It is up to Poland and Germany to debate the ruling of the frontiers.''

''The Polish demand should be consecrated by international juridical act '' he said. ''I hope that this juridical act be negotiated as soon as possible and in any case before the probable unification of the two Germanys.''

Jaruzelski said he was pleased France had joined the Societ Union in backing Polish demands, saying, ''We rejoice that France - Mr. Mitterrand - gave a similar response.''

In an interview with the French daily Liberation published Friday, Jaruzelski spoke harshly of the ''excuses'' and ''double talk'' of West Germany on the highly sensitive frontier issue.

The one-day visit marks the first time Jaruzelski and Mazowiecki have made an official foreign trip together, underlining the importance Warsaw attaches to French support, diplomatic experts said.

Mitterrand has repeatedly stated he regards the Oder-Neisse frontier is inviolable and has called for an ''international agreement'' to guarantee the border between Poland and East Germany.

French Foreign Ministry sources said the ''compromise'' Bonn offered up this week on the frontier is ''an important turning point'' in the process of obtaining the necessary German guarantees.

The French-Polish talks are being held as East and West German officials

Friday began working-level talks in East Berlin aimed at preparing a German unification conference with the two Germanys and World War II victors.

A West German government spokesman confirmed the six powers would meet Wednesday in Bonn for the first meeting of a unification conference, dubbed two-plus-four, that was conceived at a meeting in Ottawa last month.

French fears of German expansionism have blossomed recently but evidently have yet to shake irrevocably the traditional postwar French-West German alliance within the European Community, some say.

Before the talks started in Paris, the Polish leaders placed a wreath at the Arc de Triomphe and at a monument to Polish war dead in the Place de Varsovie.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Growers are salvaging more fruit than expected following the devastating winter freeze, the government said Friday, boosting its estimate of the orange crop by a sharp 2 percent.

In a monthly crop report, the Agriculture Department also raised its forecast of the overall citrus crop by 1 percent, for a total of 10 million tons. It was the second month in a row the orange and citrus estimates have gone up.

Nonetheless, the orange crop, pegged at 172 million tons, and the citrus crop would be far smaller than the 1988-1989 harvest - citrus down 22 percent and oranges down 18 percent.

''Fruit droppage continues to be heavy in most areas of Florida, but salvage operations have progressed rapidly and (the) amount salvaged continues to exceed earlier expectations,'' the department said.

''It is too early to assess tree loss but significant wood damage has occurred in Texas while some wood damage is evident in the upper interior and central areas of Florida.''

Citrus production in Texas and Florida was slashed by a Christmas weekend freeze which reduced the size of an already short U.S. citrus crop.

Oranges are the dominant U.S. citrus crop and Florida is the No. 1 orange state. Last season, the U.S. crop filled 207.1 million boxes.

Based on March 1 conditions, the government raised its forecast for Florida's crop by 3 percent, to 103 million boxes but still 30 percent below last season's 146.6 million boxes.

The crop was forecast to include 68 million boxes of early and mid-season oranges, the same as last month but 20 percent less than last season. The Sunshine State was projected to grow 32 million boxes of Valencias, 9 percent more than last month's estimate but 43 percent less than the 61.3 million boxes picked last season.

Harvest of the early and mid-season varieties is nearly completed in Florida. About 35 percent of the Valencia crop has been picked.

Texas was forecast to harvest 1.2 million boxes of oranges. Last season, it grew 1.85 million boxes.

California's orange crop was forecast for 66 million boxes, the same as in February and 12 percent larger than last season's 57 million boxes. Navel orange production was forecast for a record 41 million boxes, 21 percent larger than last season. The harvest is half over.

Valencia production in California was estimated as 25 million boxes, 1 percent larger than last season.

Frozen concentrated juice yield from Florida oranges was estimated at 1.29 gallons per box, down .05 gallons from last month and well below last season's 1.53 gallons. The reduction is a sign of freeze losses. The record is 1.55 gallons, set in 1987-1988.

The U.S. grapefruit crop was forecast to fill 41.6 million boxes, the same as the February estimate but 36 percent less than last season.

In Florida, the grapefruit harvest was projected as 34 million boxes, the same as last month and 38 percent less than last season.

Texas growers were forecast to harvest 2 million boxes, 58 percent less than the 4.8 million harvested last sason.

Forecasts for California's desert grapefruit production were unchanged at 3.7 million boxes. Output from the state's ''other areas,'' which grew 5 million boxes last season, will not be estimated until April.

Production of tangelos, tangerines and temples was projected to run at least 22 percent below last season, due to the freeze in Florida. Lemons would be virtually unchanged.

Citrus measurements vary from crop to crop and from state to state. For example, California and Arizona orange boxes are 75 pounds each. Florida orange boxes weigh 90 pounds each.

The U.S. citrus crop was worth $2.59 billion last season.

Here are Agriculture Department citrus estimates of the 1988-89 crop, based on March 1 conditions, with the 1988-89 harvest in parentheses:

Oranges: Arizona 1.7 million boxes (1.7 million), including 1.2 million of Valencias (1.15 million); California 66 million boxes (58.8 million), including 25 million of Valencias (24.8 million); Florida 103 million boxes (146.6 million), including 35 million of Valencias (61.3 million); Texas 1.20 million boxes (1.85 million), including 155,000 of Valencias (650,000).

Grapefruit: Arizona 1.9 million (1.95 million); California 3.7 million boxes, excluding ''other areas'' (8.5 million); Florida 34 million boxes (54.75 million); Texas 2 million boxes (4.8 million).

Lemons: Arizona 3 million boxes (3.8 million); California 16.5 million boxes (16.2 million).

Tangelos: Florida 3 million boxes (3.8 million).

Tangerines: Arizona 650,000 boxes (400,000); California 1.75 million boxes (1.8 million); Florida 1.7 million boxes (2.9 million).

Temples: Florida 1.4 million boxes (3.75 million).

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The Senate's drive to pass clean air legislation stalled Friday over a plan to provide millions of dollars in special unemployment aid to coal miners who may lose their jobs because of acid rain controls.

Senate leaders delayed further action on the bill because of the controversy over the coal miner aid proposed by Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., who appeared to have the votes to push his measure through despite strong opposition from the leadership and White House.

Byrd, chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee, pressed Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine for a vote on his amendment. Byrd - a tenacious defender of his state's coal industry - told Mitchell that while some of his supporters were missing, ''I'm willing to risk a roll of the dice.''

Mitchell, however, declined Byrd's challenge and announced further consideration of the clean air bill would be put off until after senators return March 20 from a recess.

In the meantime, Mitchell said he would work with Byrd to reach a compromise on aiding dsiplaced miners. West Virginia mines, like most of those in the East, yield coal that is high in sulfur, a key component in acid rain.

In other remarks, Mitchell said other senators had 225 amendments to the bill, but that he expected ''very few'' of them to come a vote and that the Senate would to soon finish action on the legislation.

Senate leaders say Byrd's amendment would destroy the complex compromise they worked out with the Bush administration in three weeks of private negotiations.

They warn the huge cost of Byrd's plan - an estimated $700 million - would certainly provoke a Bush veto. The House also is considering clean air legislation and any final bill would have to be approved by both houses.

In addition, they argue the measure is unfair because it would help coal miners while doing nothing for workers in other industries also likely to be hurt by the bill. For example, they note stringent air toxics provisions may close down some chemical and steel plants.

Byrd's measure would provide up to four years of benefits to Midwest and Appalachian coal miners thrown out work due to reduced demand for high-sulfur coal.

The bill would require 107 coal-burning power plants in the Midwest and South to cut emissions of sulfur dioxide by 10 million tons by 2000. Sulfur dioxide is a primary cause of acid rain.

One of the cheapest ways for utilities to meet the requirement is to switch to low-sulfur coal from western states.

Byrd said the Environmental Protection Agency estimated fuel-switching could cost 3,000 to 5,000 high-sulfur coal mining jobs by 1995 and 14,000 to 16,000 by the end of the decade.

Under his plan, the government would pay a coal miner a percentage of the pay and benefits he or she received in the year before being laid off.

Byrd's plan called for coal miners to receive 80 percent of their past year's pay and benefits in the first year of unemployment, 70 percent in the second year, 60 percent in the third year and 50 percent in the fourth year.

He estimated the average coal miner earned $50,000 a year in salary and benefits.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 9) UPI - Defense giant Northrop Corp. said Friday it has amended its previously announced 1989 financial results to include the $17 million fine it agreed to pay last week to settle a defense fraud case. The action increases Northrop's loss for 1989 to $80.5 million from $63.5 million, which it reported Feb. 21.

Northrop agreed on Feb. 26 to plead guilty to 34 felonies and pay the fine - one of the largest ever in a defense fraud case - to settle the case involving falsified tests and the sales of defective weapons and parts to the military. The settlement was reached hours after the trial had been scheduled to start on 175 charges against Northrop in federal court in Los Angeles.

Northrop had said its 1989 losses stemmed mainly from cost overruns in its fixed-price research and development contracts, which it has refused to accept since early 1988. Revenues for 1989 were $5.2 billion, off from $5.8 billion in 1988.

CARACAS, VENEZUELA (MARCH 9) UPI - Vice President Dan Quayle began a tour of Latin America Friday with an endorsement of Argentina's beleagured President Carlos Menem as a ''courageous leader.''

Quayle's comments on Menem were published in an Argentine newspaper Friday the day he arrived in the Venezuelan capital of Caracas on his way to attend the inauguration of Chilean President-elect Patricio Aylwin.

Menem has been under attack by ex-president Raul Alfonsin who has charged his ruling Peronist Party was studying a contingency plan to disband Congress so it can impose an unpopular austerity program.

''Menem has shown himself to be a very courageous leader, and he is working hard to reform the economy, so the population of his country can have a better life,'' Quayle said in the interview published in La Nacion.

Quayle's endorsement of Menem, prior to his South American tour, was mainly directed at the president's free market economic program, which is a departure from the Peronist Party doctrine of the past that upheld state controls, subsidies, and high tariffs.

Quayle was met at the Caracas airport by Venezuelan Foreign Minister Reinaldo Figueredo and left for a one-one-one meeting with President Carlos Andres Perez.

Democratic Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts arrived on the same plane as Quayle and was scheduled to be present at a number of the vice-president's meetings.

Quayle and Kennedy were to travel to Barbados later Friday for a meeting with Prime Minister Erskine Sandiford.

On Sunday, Quayle will travel to Santiago, Chile, where he will meet Aylwin at the residence of military leader Augusto Pinochet. Aylwin, elected president last year, is scheduled to take over power from Pinochet who ousted Salvador Allende in a 1973 military coup.

Quayle will attend Aylwin's inuaguration ceremony Sunday in Valparaiso.

He will also meet with Britain's Deputy Prime Minister Sir Geoffrey Howe and Latin American leaders including Costa Rican President Oscar Arias, Uruguayan President Alberto Lacalle and Jaime Borja, president of Ecuador. Quayle will round out his tour of duty with visits to Paraguay and Brazil.

It is Quayle's second mission to Latin America since he became vice president.

In January, he attended the inauguration of Honduran President Rafael Leonardo Callejas and then traveled to Panama for the inauguration of U.S.-installed Panamanian President Guillermo Endara.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - A favorable Labor Department jobs report propelled the dollar higher Friday in New York trading that pitted the revitalized U.S. unit against a politically troubled British pound sterling.

The dollar also gained on the West German mark and the Japanese yen as it had all week despite central bank dollar sales. But traders hesitated to press on those currencies for fear of central bank punishment.

Instead dollar bullishness was directed against sterling, vulnerable because of British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's political woes over an unpopular poll, or head, tax replacing traditional property levies.

The pound declined sharply in London on an unfounded rumor that Thatcher, now at a career low in opinion polls, tendered her resignation. Police reported serious riots in the East End of London over the poll tax.

Sterling's downward plunge continued in the New York session. "It was not a good day for the pound," said Morris Armstrong, a Girozentrale Vienna vice president. "It got thrashed."

In late New York trading the pound was quoted at $1.6155, off 2.35 cents from the preceding day's late price of $1.6390.

Near the end of the New York session the dollar was trading at 1.7025 German marks, up slightly from 1.7020 marks Thursday. The dollar was changing hands at 151.25 Japanese yen, up from 151.10 the day before.

Mitsui Bank senior dealer Erik Lehtis said British economic problems underlay sterling's current Waterloo. Recent trade figures were "not encouraging," he said, adding that the foreign exchange market was "unloading pounds" in anticipation of next week's budget presentation.

Building the dollar's renewed vigor was a U.S. government report showing jobs increased in February by a healthy 372,000, keeping national unemployment at a 5.3 percent rate. The non-farm payroll growth was stronger than expected.

The dollar climbed on the news, which suggested the Federal Reserve Board had less reason to lower short-term interest rates. But Kansallis Osake Pankki foreign exchange manager Albert Soria said the rally was short-lived.

"I think the whole market expected intervention" by the Fed and other central banks if the dollar challenged prevailing deutsche mark and yen levels, Soria said. "The dollar failed to materialize on the upside."

The investment bank vice president and other traders said it was believed the Fed had carried "discreet" or indirect intervention, perhaps by leaving banks with instructions to sell dollars at certain levels.

Other dollar rates: 1.5085 Swiss francs, up from 1.5075; 5.7525 French francs, up from 5.7455; and 1,256 Italian lire, up from 1,254.75.

In Europe the dollar finished mostly higher against the main currencies. In Frankfurt it declined to 1.7010 German marks against 1.7020.

But it strengthened in Zurich, Paris and Milan to 1.5075 Swiss francs against 1.5065, 5.7545 French francs compared with 5.7455 and 1,257.05 lire against 1,255.50. In Brussels it held at 35.36 Belgian francs.

Despite aggressive Bank of England support the pound lost 2 1/2 cents against the dollar in London to close at $1.6185 against $1.6435. On the week it was 1.8 percent off against the dollar and 2.3 percent off against the mark.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold unchanged for the second day at $400.25 an ounce. The New York Commodity Exchange settled gold at $399.80 an ounce, down from $400. In Zurich gold closed lower at $399.50 an ounce. London gold finished lower at $399.25 an ounce against $401.25.

Republic closed cash silver at $5.115 an ounce, off from $5.13. Comex spot silver fell to $5.095 an ounce from $5.112. Zurich silver was unchanged at $5.15 an ounce. London silver fell to $5.11 an ounce from $5.17.

(MARCH 9) UPI - A hostile Oliver North today began testifying against his former boss after a federal judge in Washington ordered him to take the witness stand at the Iran-Contra trial of John Poindexter. North did NOT want to testify against the former national security adviser and had to be subpoenaed. North argued with the prosecutor on almost every question, objecting to certain words and phrases.

North... who was convicted on some Iran-Contra charges last year... is testifying under a grant of immunit. But he could face new criminal charges if he lies while on the stand. His former boss, Poindexter, is standing trial on charges of misleading Congress, obstructing its investigation of the Iran-Contra affair and falsifying and destroying documents.

The White House is NOT sure who was behind a hoax last month that had President Bush speaking by telephone with someone claiming to be Iranian President Rafsanjani. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater says the Bush administration does NOT know if Iran was behind the hoax. Tehran Radio quotes Rafsanjani as saying he thought it strange that- quote- ''the world's most powerful man should talk to someone without knowing whom he was talking to, despite all the facilities at his disposal.''

Defense officials confirm the United States has briefed Israel on the sale of a new air defense system to combat a potential ballistic missile attack. The officials, who asked NOT to be identified, say the two nations discussed the possibility of a sale of the Patriot missile to Israel. But they say the Israeli government has NOT requested a purchase, which must be approved by Congress. If it does, the suggested sale would mark the first time a superpower has introduced a missile-defense shield into the Middle East.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - United Press International claimed in court papers filed this week that the Reuters news agency used a photo-exchange agreement between the two companies as a "cover" to encroach on UPI's market and put UPI newspictures out of business.

The British-based news agency, in response, called UPI's claims a "conspiracy theory." Any U.S. expansion plans by Reuters were permitted under the contract and were based on a belief UPI probably would go out of business, Reuters said in documents filed in U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

Reuters, claiming a deterioration in the volume and quality of UPI's newspictures, announced Feb. 16 it was terminating the five-year-old contract through which UPI clients in the United States receive Reuters' photos from abroad and Reuters' clients outside the United States receive UPI domestic news photos.

Reuters then filed suit seeking to recover what it claimed was the additional cost of supplementing UPI's domestic photo service. UPI, in a counterclaim to the Reuters suit, is seeking an injunction to prevent Reuters from breaching the ten-year exchange agreement that went into effect in January 1985.

U.S. District Court Judge Peter Leisure issued an order Feb. 27 temporarily restraining Reuters from stopping the flow of news photos to UPI clients as it did for four hours and five minutes Feb. 16. A hearing was scheduled for Monday.

In court documents filed Tuesday to support its request for a preliminary injunction, UPI said internal Reuters memos it obtained show Reuters violated the cooperative agreement "by stealing UPI's staff and subscribers and denigrating UPI's newspicture service" in an effort to take over UPI's domestic market.

"It is evident that virtually from the creation of the UPI-Reuters partnership, Reuters began to contemplate causing and exploiting - rather than responding to - the 'demise' of the UPI service," UPI said. The Washington-based news agency said, "These internal memoranda disclose Reuters' naked bad faith."

Reuters, in court papers filed Friday opposing UPI's request for an injunction, said UPI distorted the meaning of its internal memos. The British news agency said it had developed contingency plans for operating in the United States and cited a memo by a Reuters executive saying, "In our view, UPI's demise is almost certain."

"Reuters was planning for the day that UPI might suddenly stop feeding Reuters U.S. pictures, not as part of a strategy to put UPI out of business," Reuters said. "Reuters never had a plan of any sort to drive UPI out of business," the Reuters filing said.

"UPI simply cannot run away from the fact that its well-documented financial troubles caused it to drastically curtail its picture operations and to function with far fewer competent photographers and adequately equipped picture bureaus," Reuters said.

"It strains credulity to believe that 300-400 subscribers dropped UPI's picture service because of the increasing quality of that service," Reuters said. UPI said Reuters' claims about the quality of UPI's newspictures are "a smokescreen for Reuters' efforts to invade the United States market."

"Reuters' executives concocted an elaborate 'cover' for their invasion of the United States market - if questioned by UPI, they would simply complain, as they do in this court, that their expansion of business in the United States is the unfortunate but necessary consequence of UPI's shortfalls and inadequacies," UPI said.

UPI cited a February 1989 internal memo by Reuters President Andre Villeneuve that said Reuters would try to maintain its relationship with UPI and that "we will seek to explain our expansion in U.S. pictures by saying that it has been necessary to make up for deficiencies in UPI's coverage."

UPI contended Reuters' strategy to expand into the U.S. market went well beyond a contingency plan. Reuters was developing its own electronic photo terminal called RNPT, which it planned to offer on a free trial basis to UPI subscribers, UPI said.

An internal Reuters document obtained by UPI said, "If we could dictate the timing, an ideal situation would be to establish market interest via the RNPT launch, then provoke a UPI sale by the offer of free service trials and acquire the picture assets (primarily transmitters) required for our service."

Reuters noted that under the terms of the agreement it was allowed to market and sell its service in the United States. It also denied UPI's claims that the British news agency denigrated UPI to subscribers, other news agencies or government agencies where UPI is a member of pool coverage.

UPI maintains it has held up its end of the contract, but Reuters failed to give adequate termination notice and that the loss of the Reuters service would be "life-threatening."

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - While Americans attention is focused on the cocaine war being fought in the South America, heroin trafficking from Southeast Asia appears to be on the rise, experts and senators agreed Friday.

Witnesses told a joint Senate panel on narcotics and Southeast Asia that both the demand for and supply of heroin are increasing worldwide.

''Some experts believe the United states is now on the verge of a new heroin epidemic,'' said panel Chairman Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass.

Production of heroin, believed to be more potent than ever, has more than doubled in the past four years to over 4,000 tons annually, said David Westrate, a Drug Enforcement Administration official.

The Golden Triangle of Burma, Laos and Thailand is considered the world's largest source of heroin, which is produced from opium extracted from poppies.

U.S. effectiveness in controlling drug trafficking in Southeast Asia is hampered by war, political strife and corruption in the region. Drug producers also have become increasingly sophisticated in distributing their illegal product and laundering profits, Westrate said.

''Addressing this heroin problem is 10 times more difficult than addressing the cocaine situation,'' Westrate said.

In Burma, the world's largest producer of opium, the United States ended a 14-year-old drug eradication program in 1988 because of political turmoil. Last year production doubled, Westrate said.

Thailand presents other problems, according to Assistant Secretary of State Melvyn Levitsky. He said that while the Thai government has supported U.S. efforts to convert famers from drugs into legitimate crops, military and government corruption has made Thailand a major trade route for heroin from other countries.

Levistsky said the Bush administration has begun to develop a comprehensive heroin policy similar to its anti-cocaine initiative that will require international assistance to succeed.

Kerry told the two administration drug experts they should consider focusing their plan on reducing demand instead of supply.

''Consumption is the most critical issue facing this country,'' Kerry said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration announced Friday it was investigating an unusual number of bottlenose dolphin deaths in five state on the Gulf of Mexico.

As many as 160 of the dolphins have died since the beginning of the year, with at least 93 deaths occurring in Texas, 50 in Louisiana and Mississipi and 16 in Alabama and the Florida panhandle, officials said.

''We're greatly concerned over the unusual number of strandings at this time of year,'' said Dean Wilkinson, a marine research management specialist for NOAA's Marine Fisheries Service.

''We don't know yet how serous the situation is, but we're making every effort to determine the magnitude and cause of the deaths as quickly as we can,'' he said.

The deaths have occurred before the normal stranding peak during the calving season in March and April.

In 1987 and 1988, about 740 bottlenose dolphins died on the East Coast. An investigation indicated the deaths were related to a naturally occurring toxin called brevetoxin traveling up the food chain to the animals.

The Marine Mammal Stranding Network, a group of volunteers along coastal areas that investigates marine mammal strandings, has provided NOAA with carcasses of the recently found dolphins to study, officials said.

Many of the carcasses were severely decomposed. But about 30 carcases were fresh enough to provide tissue samples from the liver, blubber and stomach for analysis.

There is no way to know whether the recent deaths were also caused by natural toxins until the analysis is complete, Wilkinson said.

NOAA marine biologists are also using aircraft to search remote areas, such as the barrier islands in Louisiana and Mississippi, for more dead dolphins, officials said.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - Negotiators scheduled no further talks on Day 23 of the spring training lockout Friday, meaning that sometime over the weekend the last chance for starting the season on time will probably disappear.

In the absence of talks, both sides took their case to the public. Owners issued a fact sheet on their latest proposal, and players charged that this season has already suffered damage.

''Today there is an asterisk on the 1990 season,'' union chief Don Fehr said, pointing out that, when the season finally starts, some players won't think they had enough time to make a team. ''The asterisk is already there.''

In a conference room overlooking the East River and the borough of Queens, Fehr even raised the spectre of a season in jeopardy.

''Somebody on the other side of this has gotta' look and ask himself a very simple question,'' Fehr said. ''Do they really intend to shut this industry down for what will be a very long time, to break the players? Longer than any of them imagine in their wildest imagination, in their worst nightmares it's longer than that, over one half year of salary arbitration?''

Both parties said they were willing to talk, but neither indicated it had anything new to offer. Club negotiator Chuck O'Connor conceded, ''We've worn ourselves out'' on some issues.

Each side has offered a plan to solve the dispute over salary arbitration, with both parties dismissing the other.

A spokesman said the commissioner's office has not even set aside a briefing room for the weekend. O'Connor said a meeting might take place early next week, leaving no more than 21 days to the scheduled season opener.

''Today's player takes extremely good care of himself,'' National League President Bill White said. ''Don Mattingly has his own batting cage. In a few days he could be hitting line drives. Pitching is a little bit different. Today's pitcher worries about his arm. It would probably take at least three weeks for that pitcher to go out there and feel comfortable throwing the fastball, breaking ball, split-fingered pitch.''

Cleveland first baseman Keith Hernandez agreed.

''If I'm (Mets owner) Fred Wilpon and I've got Ron Darling and Dwight Gooden,'' said Hernandez, ''I'm not going to want to risk their arms rushing into the season.''

Hernandez, in a visit to union headquarters, accused management of trying to break the Players Association.

''It's union busting,'' Hernandez said. ''They're trying to squeeze the players. I can tell you that it's not going to happen. No way.''

More than half the scheduled Grapefruit and Cactus League games have become victims of the lockout.

In a briefing attended by O'Connor, Wilpon, and both league presidents, the PRC denied that Fay Vincent's plan to open camps was a public relations move.

''Fay Vincent's proposal was sincerely made and sincerely considered by the Player Relations Committee,'' said O'Connor.

The PRC said the owners' latest proposal would raise the salary of players with more than two and less than three years' service an average of $60,000 per year. According to its fact sheet, Milwaukee Brewers owner Bud Selig would recommend that all economic terms of a new agreement be retroactive.

Owners want to create a pool of $4 million from which players would be rewarded. Players offered a compromise under which half the players in the two- to three-year category would be eligible for arbitration. The other half would not.

''You have to look at the whole agreement,'' Wilpon said when asked his objection to the players' approach. ''There are gives and takes in the totality of the agreement. You can't isolate just on this one area.''

Vincent failed in a bid Thursday to bring the sides together. The owners agreed to his plan but the union dismissed it as a ''staged media event.''

Trying to salvage Opening Day on April 2, Vincent asked the 26 club owners to open the camps in Florida and Arizona if the players would pledge not to strike during the season.

Owners agreed within moments, but Fehr refused to even dignify the idea. Without explicitly rejecting the overture, Fehr complained that owners failed to formally notify him. He said if they ever did, he would respond.

''It is unfortunate we are at this place,'' Fehr said, blistering his foes with sarcastic references to press releases and their ''terrificly successful lockout.''

''This isn't a proposal,'' he said. ''If it was a proposal, they would have told us about it first. They didn't bother to tell us about it first, 'cause they know the answer.''

Added union official Gene Orza, ''No self-respecting union gives away the right to strike.''

(MARCH 9) UPI - Polish President Wojciech Jaruzelski, arrived in Paris, where he lashed out at what he called West German ''double talk'' on the border issue. Jaruzelski and Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki are seeking French help in safeguarding Poland's frontiers. West German Chancellor Kohl had sought to tie a guarantee of Polish borders to Poland's renunciation of war reparations. Kohl later reversed his stance amid strong pressure from his own government.

In Paris, a pro-Iranian Moslem fundamentalist leader was convicted today on charges of coordinating a wave of terrorist attacks in the French capital in 1986 and sentenced to 20 years in prison. The Paris 10th Criminal Tribunal also found eight other defendants guilty for belonging to the ring that organized the bombings that killed 13 people and injured 250 others. They received varying prison terms.

South Africa's white-led minority government arrested more than 100 people today in a major crackdown on political UNrest. Despite appeals by anti-apartheid leaders for peace, a war between rival taxi operators continues to rage in a township where at least 19 blacks were killed. A police spokesman in Pretoria says 53 blacks were arrested overnight in sweeps of Central Orange Free State province under the 44-month-old state of emergency. Another 67 people, all whites, were arrested for obstructing justice when they tried to stop a march by black teachers in Welkom.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - A bankruptcy court judge Friday approved an agreement giving a group of creditors access to the internal operations of Drexel Burnham Lambert Group Inc. while the investment house is in bankruptcy.

Four Drexel creditors will form a subcommittee and meet daily with an oversight committee of three Drexel directors to discuss any transactions planned by Drexel, said the firm's bankruptcy attorney, Alan Miller. The creditors would not be able to veto the transactions, but would refer any disputes to the bankruptcy court.

The plan, drawn up by Drexel and its creditors committee after several days of negotiations, was approved by U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Howard Buschman III after a hearing in New York. Drexel filed for bankruptcy protection Feb. 13.

Drexel originally proposed creation of the three-member oversight committee after the head of the creditors committee, First City Bancorp. of Texas, requested an examiner be appointed in the case.

First City, which is owed $25 million by Drexel, said it was concerned about the sale of Drexel's assets. Examiners are not usually appointed in bankruptcy cases unless the creditors and the judge believe a third-party, independent observer is necessary.

First City dropped its request for an examiner earlier this week while it was in discussions with Drexel over the makeup and role of the oversight committee. Drexel's lawyer said he was "delighted" by the agreement.

Marc Kirschner, an attorney for First City, said the creditors hoped the creation of the subcommittee would help in their efforts to obtain maximum value for Drexel's assets.

Kirschner, however, said he anticipated some of the asset sales proposed by Drexel may have to be resolved in the bankruptcy court because of "philosophical differences" between Drexel and its creditors. "The creditors believe it may well be those assets should be retained for some longer time rather than sold today," he said.

Named to the subscommittee were First City, Equitable Capital Management Corp., Home Capital Services Inc. and Copenhagen Handelsbank. The three Drexel directors on the oversight committee are John Shad, former Securities and Exchange Chairman; Roderick Hills, another former SEC chairman; and Ralph Saul, former head of the American Stock Exchange. They each will be paid an annual salary of $190,000, Miller said.

The judge also urged the creditors committee and the SEC to reach an agreement on the SEC's request to be named to the 17-member creditors committee.

The SEC claims Drexel owes $150 million of a $650 million settlement of securities law violations following a government investigation into insider trading at the firm.

The $150 million is part of $350 million earmarked to pay damages to victims of securities law violations by the firm, the SEC said. "What we have here is a large creditor who is going to be part of this bankruptcy proceeding either on or outside the committee," the judge said.

Kirschner, however, said the creditors committee opposes the addition of the SEC to the committee. "I'm not really confident this one can be resolved," he said.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Private exporters sold more than 200,000 metric tons of U.S. corn to buyers in Japan and South Korea in deals worth more than $19 million, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

Exporters sold 100,000 tons for delivery to South Korea and 101,600 tons for delivery to Japan. There are 39.4 bushels of corn in a metric ton of 2,204.6 pounds, so the sales involved 7.9 million bushels.

Japan is the No. 1 buyer of U.S. agricultural exports and has been forecast to buy $8.2 billion worth of them this fiscal year.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Oliver North, forced to testify at the Iran-Contra trial of John Poindexter, said Friday ''no one ever told me to lie to Congress'' but insisted he told his former White House boss all about secret operations to arm the Nicaraguan rebels.

North, during five hours of often tedious questioning from federal prosecutor Dan Webb, also said he could not remember testifying in his own trial last year that Poindexter congratulated him after an August 1986 meeting at which North deliberately misled members of Congress about the covert military aid.

Poindexter, a retired Navy rear admiral who was Ronald Reagan's national security adviser, is charged with five counts of lying to Congress and obstructing its investigation of the affair, which involved the sale of arms to Iran and a scheme to help the rebels when U.S. aid was banned.

Poindexter's lawyers had fought to prohibit Webb from asking about the White House situation room meeting North held - at Poindexter's direction - with members of the House Intelligence Committee.

Before the meeting, North testified, he warned Poindexter he was worried the lawmakers would ask about the secret operation, which he had been told not to reveal. North told the court that Poindexter replied, '''You can handle it' or 'you can take care of it' or words to that effect.''

North added, ''I didn't walk in there intending to lie. I lied in the meeting.''

Webb pounded away repeatedly at whether Poindexter told North to lie.

''No one ever told me to lie to Congress,'' countered North, a former Marine lieutenant colonel who was convicted last year of some Iran-Contra scandal crimes.

Webb then asked North about a ''well done'' message Poindexter sent him after the meeting. Even though North testified about that message during his trial, he said Friday he could not remember it.

North, who reported to Poindexter at the National Security Council, was the key White House operative in both the Contra effort and the Iranian arms sales. He insisted repeatedly Friday that he never acted without approval of his superiors, including Poindexter.

Webb sought that admission in an effort to prove Poindexter knew about all aspects of the Central American program and refused to tell Congress the truth.

''I certainly kept Admiral Poindexter aware of what I was doing,'' North said.

North did not want to testify against his former boss, but was forced to appear under a grant of immunity from further prosecution.

Poindexter's trial adjounred Friday afternoon for the weekend and was to resume Monday morning with North returning to the stand. Webb said he would then delve into the Iranian portion of the scandal.

North's reluctance to testify was clear from the minute he took the stand.

He and Webb sparred over the meaning of words and North frequently said he could not recall things, even aspects of his own trial testimony.

The tense tone began when Webb, a former U.S. attorney from Chicago, greeted North by saying: ''Good morning.'' North said nothing and simply glared back.

Webb, trying to prove that Poindexter directed a conspiracy to keep Congress in the dark about the scandal, repeatedly pressed North on whether the retired Marine ever acted without the authority of Poindexter and other superiors.

North used one-word answers to insist that he always kept Poindexter and others advised of his actions.

North's lawyers angered U.S. District Judge Harold Greene at the outset of the proceeding, insisting that he sign a second immunity order forcing North to give testimony.

Greene had signed a grant of immunity for North in December, before pre-trial hearings, and said it covered the entire Poindexter trial.

''He has immunity. He will testify,'' Greene snapped at one of North's lawyers. ''I'm not going to sign another order just because you want one.''

Throughout the questioning, North quibbled with Webb's use of the word ''enterprise'' to describe the secret operation to help the Contras.

Even though the term ''enterprise'' has been used repeatedly since the scandal broke open, North insisted he called the operation ''project democracy'' and ''the operation.''

Webb eventually told North, ''I'm not here to argue with you over names such as 'enterprise' and 'operation.'''

North testified in a tremulous voice, at times turning to look at the jury of seven women and five men. His face wore a wounded expression and at times his voice cracked.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Former officials of a New Jersey public housing authority padded their pockets with HUD dollars to build their ''private fiefdom'' at the expense of poor families who did not receive proper services, a House panel was told Friday.

A House Government Operations subcommittee held a 6 1/2 hour-hearing on the Passaic Public Housing Authority, which in January became the first public housing authority ever to be taken over by the Department of Housing and Urban Development after an inspector general's audit.

A separate criminal investigation of the authority is being conducted.

The housing authority's former executive director, Paul Marguglio; his wife, Louise; and his deputy, Donald Pieri, all took the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination. They had been ordered to appear under subpoena.

The audit revealed Paul Marguglio held at least four separate jobs and collected at least four salaries, totaling at least $245,956, in 1988. However, HUD allegedly thought several individuals were holding the various jobs.

Pieri also allegedly held several jobs and Louise Marguglio allegedly worked one day during two years but earned more than $95,000.

The authority's attorney, August Michaelis, allegedly earned $321,353 in 1988. He told the committee he spent about 25 percent of his time in 1988 on Passaic housing business.

Marguglio directed a seven-member unpaid board of commissioners, who met monthly to vote on resolutions written by Marguglio.

Marcia Young, a tenants' association member, testified the authority's officials and commissioners ''turned the Passaic Housing Authority into their private fiefdom ... and their benign neglect resulted in substandard living conditions, lack of safety and security.''

''The poor got screwed,'' said Rep. Christopher Shays, R-Conn.

Four of the commissioners testified they always approved the resolutions but never quite understood what they were signing. They range in age from 60 to 82.

Subcommittee chairman Rep. Tom Lantos, D-Calif., asked the commissioners to explain a May 8, 1986 resolution that in essence approved all additional but unspecified jobs for Marguglio retroactively, and it said he had done them ''in an exemplary manner.''

''We were dupped by the executive director and the counsel,'' Commissioner Frank Scancarella said.

''We just gave up too much control'' to Marguglio and Michaelis, said former Commissioner Joseph Giordano.

''Shouldn't you have known? Don't be so self-righteous,'' admonished Lantos, saying the resolution amounted to ''highway robbery.''

''You had no business being on the board,'' Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., told the commissioners because they simply rubber-stamped what ever Marguglio wanted.

The committee members saved their venom for Michaelis.

Michaelis testified he kept quiet unless he thought something was illegal.

''I saw no illegality,'' he said, adding the commissioners ''were not dupped by me. ... They never questioned anything.''

Of Marguglio, Michaelis said, ''I agree Mr. Marguglio was not very clever. I think he was a little greedy. But I'm not here to condemn anyone.''

Lantos exclaimed, ''He (Marguglio) could not have done anything if you blew the whistle. ... You sat there as the paid lawyer and kept your mouth shut.''

Lantos said the situation is a ''disgrace'' and added, ''I hope you'll be disbarred. These old commissioners did not know what they were signing and you let them down.''

Passaic Mayor Joseph Lipari testified he was not involved in, or approved, Marguglio's salary scheme.

But committee members indicated he must known some of the goings-on because one of the commissioners, Louis Salerno, also worked on the mayor's staff.

Lipari also testified the authority sold five 1986 cars to the city in 1988 for $1 apiece. The authority then bought new cars.

Lipari said two of the cars were used by ''my police director and one of my housing inspectors ... at no cost to the city. They put in their own gas.''

The other cars were used to patrol the housing project, he said.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Tempers flared in federal court where Oliver North took the witness stand today at the Iran-Contra trial of former national security advisor John Poindexter. North was subpoenaed to testify against his ex-White House boss who faces criminal charges in the scandal. During testimony, North argued with prosecutors about the questions he was asked. Prosecutor Dan Webb asked North about his role in the secret U-S arms sales to Iran and the diversion of profits to Nicaraguan rebels at a time when such aid was banned by Congress.

A Lebanese magazine says UNofficial American negotiators made direct contact with the captors of 18 Westerners believed to be held in Lebanon. The same magazine which first broke the Iran-Contra scandal, now reports Anglican envoy Terry Waite may be the first hostage released in a proposed deal to pay ransom to obtain the captives' freedom. The magazine says the deal involves all 18 Western hostages, including eight Americans, believed held by pro-Iranian extremists.

The White House says there is NO truth to reports President Bush is angry with Federal Reserve chief Alan Greenspan and is UNlikely to re-appoint him. Bush economic advisor Michael Boskin denies the report, calling it ''out of left field.'' The report quotes sources close to the president as saying Bush is angry over Greenspan's refusal to lower interest rates. The Fed chief's term expires in August 1991.

The streets of Port-Au-Prince were calm today, but Haitian opposition leaders say dictator General Prosper Avril must go. A day of street protests yesterday left three people dead. Witnesses say the streets of Haiti's capital were quiet today, but many shops remained closed and public transportation was scarce. A coalition of 12 opposition groups urged Haitians in radio broadcasts to remain firm in their resolve to get Avril to step down.

(MARCH 9) UPI - In Geneva, Switzerland, the United States says it agrees with the Soviet Union that prospects are good for completing a chemical arms reduction agreement soon. A Soviet spokesman says the text of the agreement will be ready for Presidents Bush and Gorbachev to sign at their Washington summit in June. The superpowers ended a 14th round of diarmament talks yesterday.

All is calm in Afghanistan's capital today, three days after a failed coup attempt against the pro-Soviet government. State-run Pakistan Television reports the situation remained ''calm but tense'' in Kabul. But the broadcast says there is sporadic gunfire in the city and forces loyal to President Najibullah have NOT ruled out the possibility of an attack by rebel troops.

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) UPI - A mysterious chemical cloud engulfed a school, making more than 100 children and adults ill Friday, and in a separate incident ''sewer gas'' fumes sickened 40 workers at an airport.

In the first incident, students and teachers from Woodland Acres Middle School were taken to hospitals in ambulances and school buses after inhaling the stinking chemical Friday morning.

Seven hospitals received a total of 107 children and adults. Most of the victims were released after treatment for nausea, breathing problems and irritated throats and eyes. A school district spokeswoman said she hadn't heard of any critical illnesses.

Four children were admitted to Hermann Hospital and three to Texas Children's Hospital, hospital spokeswomen said.

''We do not know where the chemical spill originated from,'' said Gloria Brown, spokeswoman for Galena Park Independent School District. ''All we know is some students started feeling nauseous and vomiting. They were outside on the track when they started getting ill.''

About 700 students were evacuated from the middle school and nearby Woodland Acres Elementary School after the odor was noticed.

The same chemical cloud apparently sickened five workers as it passed through a construction area shortly before reaching the school, said Galena Park Assistant Fire Chief Eugene Niemeyer.

Galena Park is east of Houston near the Houston Ship Channel, home to a massive petrochemical complex. Police and firefighters speculated the chemical cloud came from a barge traveling on the channel or a nearby plant that was burning railroad ties coated with creosote.

The chemical cloud later dissipated, and fire department officials said it was safe for students to return to the schools.

In the second incident, 40 workers became ill after what is believed to be hydrogen sulfide fumes filled a Continental Airlines office building at Hobby Airport Friday afternoon.

''It appears ... it was hydrogen sulfide which, in layman's terms, is an indication that a sewer pipe might have backed up, causing gas from a sewer pipe to enter into the air system,'' Continental spokesman Ned Walker said.

The workers were expected to be treated and released from local hospitals.

The building and an adjacent office building were evacuated, and workers will not be allowed to return until the source of the gas is determined, Walker said.

NEW YORK (MARCH 9) UPI - The stock market had its second winning week in a row, but prices seesawed as bouts of profit taking emerged after each attempt to extend the recent rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average lost 12.84 Friday to close at 2683.33 for a gain of 22.97 points on the week, or about 0.86 percent.

Among the broader market averages, the New York Stock Exchange composite index added 1.21 points to close the week at 186.18. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 2.39 to 337.93.

Advances led declines 1,056-787 among the 2,149 issues traded this week. Big Board volume totaled 768,924,120 shares, compared with 808,235,330 a week earlier and 798,813,200 a year ago.

After posting their first five-day winning streak since November and for the first time since July, the Dow industrials had an up-and-down week but ended with a gain.

The market lost ground Monday and Wednesday to profit taking sparked by the feeling that the market may be approaching a short-term peak. They declined Friday in line with steep losses in the bond market after news that the number of non-farm payroll jobs jumped by a dramatic 372,000 in February.

The sharp rise, the largest since a gain of 470,000 in June 1988, was far above expectations of an increase of about 270,000 in payrolls.

The news would seem to rule out any imminent drop in interest rates since the Federal Reserve will not feel the need to lower them to pump up the economy. Some analysts said the news might even mean higher rates down the road.

Tuesday and Thursday were up days. On Tuesday prices gained in line with a rebound in the bond market. And on Thursday, momentum from the previous week's rally allowed the market to overcome heavy selling in Hilton Hotels which said late Wednesday it had decided to take itself off the auction block after the takeover bids it attracted fell short of expectations.

Analysts were generally upbeat in their assessment of the week's action.

''The market has gained over 100 points (in the seven sessions prior to Wednesday), so I think it was a fairly healthy showing,'' said Sidney Dorr vice president of institutional trading at Charles Schwab and Co. in San Francisco.

Others said that if rates rise sharply again on Monday, which would happen if bond prices decline, the market could see another down day.

''It depends. If bonds swoon again on Monday then the equity markets could feel a little more pain,'' said Dennis Jarrett, chief market strategist at Kidder, Peabody and Co.

Bonds were down 3/4 point at 98 21/32, yielding 8.62 percent, in late trading Friday.

''But for a market up so much over the last two weeks it was a good showing,'' said Jarrett.

Jarrett also noted that it was a good week for certain market sectors, such as specialty retailers and technology issues. Retailers such as The Gap and The Limited gained after reporting strong sales gains for February thanks to unseasonably warm weather which caused spring fashions to attract buyers' attention.

Technology issues such as Compaq Computer and Businessland also shone. Compaq said this week it would once again allow Businessland to sell and service its products, an unexpected move.

''The announcement seemed to help the whole group,'' said Jarrett.

On the trading floor this week, American Express was the most active issue off 1 3/8 to 28.

Philip Morris followed, up 3/8 to 37 1/4. Hilton Hotels was third, sinking 114 to 51 1/2.

Among the other blue chips, AT&T gained 5/8 to 41, IBM rose 1 5/8 to 106 1/2, USX lost 1 to 36 1/8, and Eastman Kodak rose 1 1/8 to 39 3/4.

Elsewhere, Compaq Computer surged 8 7/8 to 90 1/2 after its agreement with Businessland.

On the American Stock Exchange, the Amex Market Value index rose 5.03 to close Friday at 361.15. Advances led declines 482-326 among the 1,000 issues traded.

Amex volume totaled 76,147,995 shares, compared with 85,838,325 traded a week earlier and 65,282,495 traded in the same week a year ago.

Bolar Pharmaceuticals led the Amex actives, surging 3 1/8 to 8 1/8. The company, the subject of a government probe of its generic drugs, approved a stock buyback, temporarily closed its manufacturing plants and laid off 117 workers pending completion of the investigation, reports said.

The National Association of Securities Dealers index rose 5.74 to end the week at 436.76.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 9) UPI - The Federal Aviation Administration ordered an emergency revocation Friday of the pilot licenses of three Northwest Airlines flight crew members suspected of flying under the influence of alcohol.

''Safety and alcohol do not mix,'' FAA Administrator James Busey said. ''We have taken quick and effective action in this case and we will take equally forceful action against any other airman who violates the agency's regulations against alcohol.''

A Northwest Airlines pilot, his co-pilot and second officer were arrested by airport police Thursday after they were placed under citizen's arrest by an FAA inspector who suspected them of being intoxicated. The Boeing 727, Flight 650 from Fargo, N.D., landed at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport at about 6:45 a.m. with 91 passengers aboard.

Airport Police Chief Jim Welna said the three consented to blood-alcohol tests. They were released at about 10:40 a.m. after being taken to Hennepin County Medical Center for the tests, according to officials. The test results may not be available for up to 10 days, Welna said.

The FAA said the flight crew has a right to appeal the revocation of their licenses within 10 days to an administrative law judge of the National Transportation Safety Board.

Federal regulations prohibit crews from flying under the influence of alcohol and having a blood-alcohol level of more than .04 percent by weight. They also forbid flight crews from flying within eight hours of drinking alcohol.

Northwest spokesman Kevin Whalen said the pilots have been grounded pending the outcome of the investigation.

''They have not been found guilty of anything and that's why we are doing an investigation,'' he said. ''They are innocent until proven otherwise. We're investigating the circumstances surrounding the cockpit crew's operation of Northwest Flight 650 this morning. We don't know all the details.''

A police statement said the pilot was a 51-year-old man from Georgia, the first officer was a 35-year-old Colorado man and the second officer was a 34-year-old Tennessee man. The crew members were not available for comment.

Officials with the Airline Pilots Association could not be reached for comment.

Northwest spokesman Alan Muncaster said FAA offiicals received an anonymous call indicating the three had been drinking in the Fargo area Wednesday night.

FAA inspector Douglas Solseth, who is based at the airport, told police he suspected the flight crew was under the influence, Whalen said. After an investigation at the gate, Solseth made a citizen's arrest of the three men.

Another Northwest spokesman, Doug Miller, said there no known irregularities in the flight, which took less than an hour. Miller also said the crew was experienced.

State law prohibits operation of an aircraft by any person having a blood-alcohol content of higher than 0.05 percent. The misdemeanor is punishable by up to 90 days in jail and a $700 fine. Welna said charges also can be filed if the alcohol content is between 0.03 and 0.05 percent and there is additional relevant evidence under state law.

Whalen said the airline has a rule that requires a 12-hour interval between the time a pilot consumes an alcoholic beverage and then flies the plane.

The FAA also announced Friday it has proposed a $200,000 civil penalty against Northwest for improper aircraft maintenance that led to the in-flight loss of an engine.

The incident occurred Jan. 4 when the right engine of a Northwest 727 fell off at 35,000 feet over western Florida. No one on the jet or on the ground was injured. The jetliner made an emergency landing at Tampa, Fla.

An investigation showed that fluid from a leaking drain valve for the forward lavatory froze to the fuselage as the aircraft was en route from Miami to Minneapolis. A chunk of the ice broke off and hit the engine, causing it to fall off.

The FAA said the investigation also showed that the leaking valve was reported to the airline several times between Dec. 23 and the day of the accident, but it was not repaired. The FAA said as a result, the jet was operated in an ''unairworthy condition'' on 53 flights.

LAS VEGAS, NEV (MARCH 9) UPI - Millionaire stock trader Meyer Blinder and four others pleaded innocent Friday to charges of racketeering and fraud in connection with an alleged multimillion-dollar stock swindle.

After their arraignment, U.S. Magistrate Lawrence Leavitt released Blinder 68, on his own recognizance pending trial despite a request by federal prosecutors that bail be set at $9.5 million. Assistant U.S. Attorney Howard Zlotnick requested the high bond because he feared Blinder would attempt to flee the United States.

Blinder moved more than $10.9 million in corporate assets to Hong Kong between March and April 1989, Zlotnick said, noting an extradition proceeding from Hong Kong would be a ''cumbersome process.''

The $9.5 million amount requested by the prosecutor matches the amount of money the government would be entitled to seize from Blinder's assets if it prevails in the case against the penny-stock mogul.

Rick Wright, Blinder's Las Vegas attorney, said his client plans to remain in the United States and to vigorously defend the federal allegations.

Also entering innocent pleas during the arraignment were: Stuart Cohen and Anthony Beshara, former executives of Blinder's nationally known brokerage Blinder Robinson Co., of suburban Denver, and Ronald Wheeler Sr. and Ronald Wheeler Jr., former operators of the defunct Stoneridge Securities in Las Vegas. They also were released in their own recognizance.

Beshara, 34, is the former head trader of Blinder Robinson, and Cohen, 38, once was president of sales for the brokerage.

The five were indicted by a federal grand jury in Las Vegas last month in connection with an alleged massive stock swindle. The indictment charges that Blinder used his company to secretly manipulate blind-pool securities in the multimillion-dollar stock scam.

They are charged with fradulently trading stock from three phony corporations in violation of the Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act.

Blinder, Beshara and Cohen face 60 years in prison if convicted of the charges in the federal indictment. The Wheelers each could each get 85 years.

The indictment alleges that the defendants conspired to engage in fradulent trade practices in the sale of securities originally created by Arnold L. Kimmes, a convicted con man, and by Salt Lake City businessman Michael Wright.

Kimmes pleaded guilty last March to racketeering charges and provided federal investigators with information leading to the indictment against Blinder and his four associates. Kimmes is scheduled to be sentenced May 11 in Las Vegas.

Wright, also a government witness, entered guilty pleas in the case last month. He faces up to six years in prison and property forfeiture when he is sentenced May 17.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Oliver North took the stand today in Washington as the first witness in John Poindexter's Iran-Contra trial. But North wasn't happy about testifying and he sparred with prosecutors over meanings of words. The tone of the testimony was generally tense. North was forced to testify under a grant of immunity from further prosecution.

More on the hostages in Lebanon. A Lebanese magazine says UNofficial American negotiators have had direct contact with the captors of 18 Westerners believed held in Lebanon. The magazine says the Americans are working on a deal to pay ransom for the hostages' release... and says Terry Waite could be the first one freed.

In Washington, the White House says President Bush spoke by telephone last month with someone claiming to be Iran's president... in an effort to win freedom for American hostages. But the call turned out to be a hoax. The White House says the Bush administration does NOT know if Iran was behind the fraud.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski today stepped up his fight against President Bush's capital gains tax plan. The Illinois Democrat released a report saying rich Americans' income skyrocketed since 1977 but their tax rates fell... while poorer Americans earned less and saw their taxes rise. Opponents say cutting capital gains taxes would only add to that trend.

The government today reported the largest surge in jobs last month since June 1988. The Labor Department says some 372-thousand people were hired in February... keeping the nation's civilian jobless rate steady at five-point-three percent for the ninth consecutive month.

CRESTED BUTTE, COL (MARCH 9) UPI - The explosion that destroyed the Crested Butte State Bank and left three people dead was caused by a buildup of a gas in the historic coal mining town, federal investigators said Friday.

Ron Wolters, head of a national response team with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said the investigation had ruled out the possibility a bomb had demolished the two-story brick building.

The explosion occurred just moments after the bank opened for business Tuesday, leaving nothing but the bank vault - encased in concrete - still standing. Three people were killed and 14 hurt.

Residents had speculated a bomb might have been set off, because two other businesses in town had received bomb threats during the weekend. Also, the bank was heated by electricity and there were no natural gas or propane lines to the building.

''It was a classic gas explosion,'' Wolters told a news conference. He said tests showed that the explosion was caused by a hydrocarbon-based gas possibly either methane or propane.

Methane had been mentioned earlier because there are several old coal mines in the Crested Butte area. The closest mine was a full quarter-mile away but Wolters said the gas could have seeped through the ground and built up in the tightly sealed crawl space under the building.

Propane leaking from a nearby line might also have leaked through the ground into the crawl space, he said.

As a precaution, the mountain town's 1,000 permanent residents were told to ventilate all their crawl spaces.

The report was backed up by a statement from Dr. Mike Renzinger, a pathologist who performed autopsies on three women who died in the explosion. He said preliminary results showed no marks on the bodies ''to indicate explosives were involved.''

Geologist Ray Pilcher also said there were ''tremendous amounts'' of methane stored in the coal beds around the town.

''The area has a history of very extensive gas conditions,'' Pilcher said, citing an explosion at the Jokerville mine in 1884 that killed 59 miners.

Coal is no longer mined in the town, and the mines have been closed for several years.

Bank records had been stored at a Colorado Springs computer service, and the bank reopened for business Wednesday in a nearby building.

The dead, all bank employees, were identified as Monica Henning, 30, Jade Woelk, 32, and Donna Smith, 31.

ANCHORAGE, AK (MARCH 9) UPI - Redoubt Volcano blew its top again Friday shortly after a moderate earthquake rocked a wide area of Alaska and geologists said the two events might be related.

Scientists at the Alaska Volcano Observatory and the Tsunami Warning Center were investigating a possible relationship between the sizable earthquake and the significant eruption. They acknowledged, though, that the timing of the events could merely be a coincidence.

The 5.4 magnitude earthquake caused no damage, and the eruption shot ash high into the sky, but no ashfall was reported in any populated areas, according to the volcano observatory and the warning center.

A plume of steam and ash rose to 35,000 feet from the 10,197-foot mountain 110 miles southwest of Anchorage.

The eruption caused flooding on the nearby Drift River, volcano observatory geologist Cynthia Gardner said. But the floodwaters did not breach the dikes at the Drift River oil terminal 20 miles from Redoubt.

She said the volcano spit out hot rocks that landed on glacial ice and snow, causing melting into the river. Also, volcanic debris landing in the river raised its level.

At first, scientists thought the earthquake was centered directly below the volcano and had a magnitude of 5.5. Later, the magnitude was revised to 5.4 and the epicenter was placed 25 miles from Redoubt, but suspicions remained that there might be a connection.

The 5.4 quake hit at 3:34 a.m. Alaska time (7:34 a.m. EST) and was centered 25 miles southeast of Redoubt, said Tom Sokolowski, director of the Tsunami Warning Center in Palmer. The tremor was strongly felt in Anchorage and a dozen other communities.

Redoubt erupted at 9:51 a.m. Alaska time, accompanied by lightning, volcano observatory geologist John Ewert said.

He said the eruptive plume shot less ash into the sky than previous eruptions - offering relief to Alaskans who have had the grit rain down on them off and on since the mountain burst to life three months ago.

Winds carried the plume northwest of the volcano, and by afternoon there had been no reports of ashfall in any towns, Gardner said.

Relatively small, localized, shallow earthquakes rumble beneath volcanoes and often increase just before an eruption. Such tremors often warn scientists when Redoubt is going to explode.

But the moderate quake that shook half the state's population awake early Friday was not the kind of quake that normally is a precursor to an eruption, intriguing scientists at the possible relationship.

The quake was deep, about 50 miles below the Earth, in a plate system that underlies the volcano, which has quakes 3 miles to 7 miles beneath the surface, Gardner said.

The eruption and the earthquake occuring so close together could be just a coincidence, Gardner said, noting that the region is on the Aleutian Arc of active volcanoes and that it is an area of active tectonic plate movement causing earthquakes.

Normally, there is no connection, Sokolowski said, ''but this one was so close, I don't know.''

There was another moderate quake Friday morning in the interior of Alaska, 170 miles southwest of Fairbanks near Mount McKinley. That quake hit at 8:03 a.m. Alaska time and measured 5.5 on the Richter scale, said Paul Whitmore of the Tsunami Warning Center. The quake was felt in several towns but caused no damage. That quake was more distant from Redoubt and no connection was suggested.

Redoubt has been erupting every three to six days since mid-February. It exploded to life Dec. 14 after a quarter-century slumber.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 10) UPI - The Bush administration threatened Friday to veto a rural development bill up for House debate next week unless changes are made, including one to reduce the role of local officials.

A White House statement said the legislation would unwisely give local officials too much power in deciding how federal money would be spent.

''The administration strongly opposes the enactment (of the bill),'' the statement said, before listing five recommended changes ''so that acceptable legislation can be presented to the president.''

The bill, which would impact $1 billion in rural development programs run by the Agriculture Department, would give the government authority to shift money among programs to ensure that the most important project in an area receives funding.

That would be a major change from the current system of grant and loan programs dedicated to a specific use, such as community facilities or sewage treatment plants.

Local officials would write plans for development in their area under the bill and state committees would assign priorities for funding. The bill also would create a Rural Development Administration in the Agriculture Department to coordinate development programs.

The administration complained the plan would unconstitutionally empower state officials to decide how federal funds would be spent. It said more power should be reserved to the Agriculture Department to make those decisions.

In addition, the administration asked for removal of sections that it said could increase Rural Electrification Administration spending by $570 million.

The White House also wants to eliminate a proposal to set up economic ''action teams'' in the Forest Service and wants to delete proposed new $30 million water and sewer loan program.

Sponsors of the bill say the legislation imposes no additional costs on the government, but will get more effective use out of the money that is available.

The veto threat from the administration marked the second time in two weeks that powerful opposition has arisen to the development bill.

House Appropriations Committee chairman Jamie Whitten objected Feb. 27 to allowing any reprogramming of money from a $400 million water and sewer grant program run by the Farmers Home Administration.

Members of the House Agriculture Committee adopted compromise language to limit transfers from the grant program before approving the bill and sending it to the floor.

BOISE, ID (MARCH 9) UPI - The state House of Representatives voted 47-36 Friday to approve a bill that would give the Gem State the most restrictive abortion law in the nation. It now goes to the Senate.

The measure would make abortions illegal in Idaho as a means of birth control, outlawing all abortions except in cases of rape, incest, profound fetal physical or mental disability, or threats to the life or the health of the mother.

The House on Tuesday approved amendments that sponsors said strengthened the constitutionality of the measure.

One of those amendments would make all abortions illegal in Idaho after fetal viability, except when the life of the mother is endangered. Fetal viability is generally reached after the 20th to 23rd week of pregnancy when a fetus could survive outside the womb.

Meanwhile in Annapolis, Md., the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee voted 7-4 Friday in favor of legislation that would write into law current unrestricted abortion practices in Maryland.

The measure - if adopted by Maryland legislators this session - is expected to be tested in a voter referendum in the 1990 general election. The legislation is expected to generate extended debate in the Senate next week.

Maryland pro-choice legislators introduced the bill this session in case the Supreme Court eventually reverses the landmark 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that legalizes abortions.

The National Right to Life Committee, which helped draft Idaho bill, hopes it will become the test case that could force the Supreme Court to reverse Roe vs. Wade.

Supporters believe it would halt up to 93 percent of abortions in Idaho and Attorney General Jim Jones has endorsed the bill.

However, opponents argue it is broadly unconstitutional and will cost the state up to $1 million to defend in court.

''It's important that we not be the guinea pig of the United States and pass an unconstitutional law,'' said Rep. Ruby Stone in debate on the floor.

Rep. Patricia McDermott, an attorney, said she is adamantly against abortion - calling it ''infanticide'' - but argued the bill had major constitutional flaws and would not be upheld by the Supreme Court.

''I am honestly and genuinely convinced that if we pass this bill, it will hurt the pro-life movement and that it will be stricken down,'' McDermott said.

''Nobody knows what's constitutional in this case,'' said Rep. L. Ed Brown a co-sponsor of the bill. ''Roe vs. Wade is now being questioned even by the justices of the Supreme Court.''

Brown said there are many constitutional and legal scholars who argue the Supreme Court should be challenged to address Roe vs. Wade with such a state law.

''It is our confident feeling that this legislation ... is the legislation the Supreme Court ultimately needs to look at,'' Brown said.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 12) UPI - As promised, Pathe Communications Corp. made a $50 million down payment Friday to MGM/UA Communications Inc., the first such payment in Pathe's $1.27 billion deal for the studio.

The payment came after extensive speculation the deal would collapse.

Investors have been worried that Pathe, controlled by Italian fiancier Giancarlo Paretti, would be unable to meet Friday's deadline for the $50 million payment, the first of four payments required under the terms of the deal.

MGM/UA, which also said Pathe's $20-a-share cash tender offer would start next Wednesday, announced the payment was deposited into an escrow account after the stock market had closed Friday afternoon. MGM/UA stock fell 50 cents to $16.875 a share on the New York Stock Exchange, after dropping 37.5 cents Thursday.

The price of the stock jumped $3.75 a share Wednesday after the deal was announced.

MGM/UA's calling for the down payments did not surprise analysts, since the studio saw a $1.45 billion deal with Qintex Australia collapse last October after the Australian company was unable to deliver a $50 million line of credit.

MGM/UA sued Qintex for breach of contract as a result. The litigation is pending.

Film production at troubled MGM/UA, controlled by financier Kirk Kerkorian has slowed to a trickle since the studio went on the sales block over a year ago.

MGM/UA also will get a $75 million security interest in Pathe's first three films - ''Russia House'' with Sean Connery and Michelle Pfeiffer, ''Quigley Down Under'' with Tom Selleck and ''Fires Within'' with Jimmy Smits.

MGM/UA announced last Sunday that it had signed a five-year agreement to distribute Pathe's films despite Pathe's previously announced distribution deal with Warner Bros.

The next three installments of $50 million each are due April 9, May 9 and June 9. The deal is scheduled to be completed June 23.

BOSTON (MARCH 12) UPI - Bank of Boston Corp.'s debt was downgraded Friday by Standard & Poor's, which cited the company's big real estate losses and said its ability to absorb further reversals ''has been lessened.''

It was the second such reduction by a major rating agency in a month. Duff & Phelps lowered its rating on about $1.7 billion in Bank of Boston debt in February.

The S&P downgrade applies across a broad range of debt instruments issued by both the parent, New England's biggest banking company, and by its various affiliates, including Boston Australia Ltd. and Bank of Boston Canada.

''Substantial deterioration in the bank's relatively high risk loan portfolio, which includes a sizable portfolio of highly leveraged transaction loans, would place pressure on already strained risk adjusted capital levels,'' S&P said.

Bank of Boston, which lost $125 million in the third quarter of 1989, earned $9 million in the fourth quarter, down from $70 million in the same quarter a year earlier. The results were attributed to troubled real estate loans.

''Real estate-related asset deterioration has led to higher loan losses, increased non-performing assets and reduced profitability,'' S&P said.

The effect of the downgrades is to make future borrowing by the banking company more expensive by raising the interest rates it will have to pay. Likewise, existing debt instruments in the hands of investors become less attractive in the secondary markets and thereby command a lower price than if their ratings had been maintained.

Senior debt was lowered to BBB+ from A-. Subordinated debt was dropped to BBB from BBB+. Other securities on which which ratings were lowered included preferred stock, letter of credit-backed debt and certificates of deposit as well as commercial paper.

HOUSTON (MARCH 9) UPI - Public health officials from across the nation Friday unanimously adopted a resolution urging tobacco companies to avoid marketing campaigns aimed toward women, minorities and people under age 21.

Some 100 officials from all states except Alaska and Nevada attended the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials' first conference on tobacco prevention and control to discuss how to discourage tobacco use. They voted for the resolution at the end of the meeting.

R.J. Reynolds Vice President David Fishel called the resolution misleading claiming it stems from a nationwide publicity campaign against the tobacco industry.

The resolution urged tobacco companies to avoid marketing products intended for those under 21. In particular, it charged that R.J. Reynolds promoted the Dakota brand cigarette at ''young, undereducated and underemployed females.''

Reynolds recently started selling the Dakota cigarette in Houston and Nashville, its two test markets, with ads geared toward smokers of the nation's leading cigarette, Marlboro, Fishel said.

''They're trying to make people believe something that is not happening. I don't think people are that vulnerable,'' Fishel said. ''We decided months ago that Dakota was a brand that was going to compete with Marlboro.''

Fishel said the marketing promotion is aimed at all Marlboro smokers, a group cutting across demographic lines as Marlboro holds about 25 percent of the U.S. cigarette market. Marlboro is manufactured by Philip Morris Cos.

Sister Mary Madonna Ashton, the Minnesota health commissioner who chaired the ASTHO meeting before the vote, said anti-smoking groups have the hardest time having an impact upon women ages 18 to 24.

''This is what Dakota has been targeted for. This is the group of people that we are having the most difficulty impacting in terms of reduction in smoking. All other groups of our population in the United States are decreasing their smoking rates ... it's a great concern for the health of the future mothers of our nation and young people in their teens.''

Ashton urged the people to Houston to boycott Dakota cigarettes.

PITTSBURGH (MARCH 10) UPI - Stormie Jones, the plucky little girl who became the world's first heart-liver transplant recipient in 1984, left Children's Hospital Friday following a 19-day stay for a second liver transplant.

Hospital officials released Stormie, 12, of White Settlement, Texas, on Friday afternoon but said she will remain in the Pittsburgh area with her mother, Lois ''Susie'' Purcell, for about two weeks for follow-up visits to the hospital.

Surgeons said they are pleased with Stormie's recovery from her second liver transplant and will continue to closely monitor her progress. Her stepfather, Alan Purcell, said he hopes his wife and Stormie will stay at a Ronald McDonald House, reserved for young patients, during the rest of their stay in Pittsburgh.

Stormie was rushed to Pittsburgh from Texas last month so doctors could replace her liver, damaged severely by hepatitis that threatened her life. The liver was replaced during a 10-hour operation Feb. 20.

On Feb. 21, surgeons stopped internal bleeding by replacing a ruptured artery with a ready spare from the unidentified liver donor. Stormie's condition eventually improved and she began to walk the halls of the hospital and visit the gift shop.

Stormie told reporters Thursday that she has been feeling fine and cannot wait to get home to ''take a bath and go to bed.''

On Valentine's Day 1984, Stormie became the world's first patient to undergo a combined heart-liver transplant. She is believed to be the only survivor of such an operation.

WARNER ROBINS, GA. (MARCH 9) UPI - A crippled military transport jet made an emergency landing Friday at Robins Air Force Base after losing its main right landing gear upon takeoff from an air base in Panama.

The Air Force C-141 cargo craft carrying 26 people, including nine crew members, landed at 3:50 p.m. at the air base about 100 miles south of Atlanta. The passengers were U.S. military personnel and their families, officials said.

No injuries were reported but everyone aboard the craft was taken to the base hospital to be checked, said Cliff Tyler, a Robins spokesman.

He said base officials praised the pilot.

''He brought it down without anybody getting hurt,'' Tyler said. ''He did a great job. We were really excited about the way it turned out.''

Capt. Phil Hutchinson, director of public affairs at Robins, said crew members confirmed four pallets of cargo were dropped out of the aircraft to reduce the weight of the plane before the emergency landing.

Hutchinson said the pallets were ejected from the plane onto a drop zone at Fort Benning, Ga. Crew members believed the pallets contained military cargo.

''They didn't seem to think there were a lot of personal possessions involved,'' Hutchinson said.

Tyler said it wasn't clear how much damage the airplane sustained when it skidded to a halt during the landing, spewing sparks from its belly and engine as they scraped the runway.

The plane landed on its left side and the fire and smoke briefly gushed from beneath the giant plane as its right side made contact.

Emergency vehicles lining the airstrip in preparation for the landing sprayed foam on the bulky craft as it came to a stop.

The plane, bound for Charleston Air Force Base in South Carolina, sustained damage to its landing gear after taking off from Howard Air Base in Panama around 10 a.m. EST, Tyler said.

He said the pilot was going to try to land on the left gear and ''feather the right side down as easy as he can.''

He said details were not available on what caused the aircraft to lose its landing gear.

He said Robins was chosen as a landing site because it is the operations center and repair hub for the plane, which is large enough to carry 200 fully equipped troops.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (MARCH 9) UPI - The family of Hank Gathers will sue for damages in the death of the Loyola Marymount star, including the trauma they suffered watching his fatal seizure on the court, the family's lawyer said Friday.

The attorney, Bruce Fagel, said he plans to file a lawsuit in Los Angeles Superior Court next week alleging medical malpractice and that negligence of doctors and university officials resulted in the family suffering emotional distress.

Gather's mother, Lucille Gathers of Philadelphia, and his brothers, Derrick and Charles, were among the 5,000 fans at Loyola Marymount's Gersten Pavilion who saw Gathers collapse at midcourt Sunday after a dunk.

He died later at a hospital without regaining consciousness.

The suit will also seek damages representing the money Gathers would have earned as a professional, Fagel said. NBA scouts said after Gathers' death that he was a likely first-round draft pick, which likely would have produced a million-dollar contract.

Fagel said he has not yet decided who to name as defendants in the suit, but is considering suing university officials, physicians, trainers and the hospital where Gathers was taken. He expected to file next Thursday or Friday.

The suit will be filed on behalf of the entire Gathers family, including the athlete's 5-year-old son, Aaron Crump.

''This is not a typical wrongful death case where you file just for the surviving child,'' Fagel told the sports daily The National. ''Hank was the family's ticket out of the ghetto, and they are all involved in this case.''

Gathers grew up in a Philadelphia housing project, where he became a basketball legend at Dobbins Tech High School.

During a Dec. 9 game, Gathers collapsed and was diagnosed with cardiac arrhythmia. He was placed on medication to control the condition and returned to play Dec. 30.

Loyola President Rev. James Loughran told the Los Angeles Times the school would not be liable for Gathers' death. He cited a letter dated Dec. 21. and signed by Dr. Michael Mellman that released Gathers for ''full participation'' within seven to 10 days of Dec. 21.

The autopsy on Gathers has yet to be released. Fagal said he is in the process of gathering the various medical records relating to Gathers' heart condition and treatment.

Fagel said one of the issues in the suit will be an alleged failure to electronically restart Gathers' heart in the moments after his collapse. Team doctor Bernard Schaeffer, an orthopedic surgeon, and university officials purchased the a heart defibrillator and kept it courtside after Gathers' fainting spell and subsequent diagnosis in December.

Other physicians not associated with the school have said that officials may have waited too long before using the defibrillator.

It was also reported in the days after Gathers died that he was warned to quit basketball after his fainting spell and that he may have stopped taking his heart medicine in the days before his final game.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Oliver North testifies against his boss... Reports say negotiations are underway to pay ransom to free the hostages in Lebanon... And some good news on the jobless front. U-P-I has these top stories and more... next.

Oliver North took the witness stand today in the Iran-Contra trial of John Poindexter, and immediately began sparring with prosecutor Dan Webb.

In several hours of often tense questioning in a Washington courtroom, North quibbled with Webb about the meanings of words and frequently gave one-word answers to questions.

He did NOT want to testify against Poindexter, who was his boss when the two worked at the White House. North had to be subpoenaed to testify. He has already been convicted in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Webb is trying to prove that Poindexter directed a conspiracy to keep Congress in the dark about the scandal. He asked North today if he ever acted without the authority of Poindexter and other superiors.

North insisted he NEVER acted without that authority.

Poindexter faces five criminal counts stemming from the scandal, which involved the secret sale of arms to Iran and the illegal diversion of funds to the Contra rebels.

Reports indicating a possibility of release of the hostages in Lebanon are continuing.

The latest comes from a leading Lebanese magazine, which says UNofficial American negotiators have had direct contact with the captors of the 18 Westerners believed held in Lebanon.

The magazine says the negotiators are working on a deal to pay ransom for the hostages' release. It says the deal would be for all 18 of the captives... including eight Americans.

The report also says Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite might be the first hostage freed in the proposed deal.

In Washington, there's a new twist on the hostage issue. The White House says President Bush talked last month by telephone with someone claiming to be Iran's president. But it turned out to be a hoax.

The White House says Bush is NOT particularly upset by the hoax, and says he felt it was useful ''to let the American people know he is willing to take the extra step'' to win freedom for the hostages.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The return of 90-thousand laid off auto workers to the work force last month helped boost overall civilian employment figures by 372-thousand. And the UNemployment rate held steady at five-point-three percent.

The Labor Department report shows UNemployment has held steady for the past nine months.

February's relatively warm weather also helped bring more jobs to the construction industry. And new jobs also could be found in the service industry... especially in health care.

But all of the increases could NOT force UNemployment rates down. That's because the ratio of people working remained basically the same against the six-point-six-Million people who wanted to work but had NO jobs to go to.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski is stepping up his fight against President Bush's proposed cut in the capital gains tax.

Rostenkowski released a report today saying rich Americans had ''staggering'' increases in income since 1977... but paid lower taxes. He says total income for the top one percent of the population increased by 192-BILLION dollars... but at the same time their taxes went down by 39-BILLION dollars.

Today's report and other studies have tried to show that since 1977, the tax system has gotten more regressive. They show the rich earning far more and paying lower tax rates, while poorer Americans earned less and paid higher federal taxes.

Another study is in the works to examine whether the capital gains tax cut will produce the benefits Bush claims, such as more jobs and economic growth.

The Bush proposal calls for cuts in the tax on profits from sale of such items as stock, bonds and real estate.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The Pentagon today announced its military anti-drug plans that call for using more ships, planes, radar and dogs in efforts to detect drug smugglers.

Assistant Defense Secretary Stephen Duncan told a news conference in Washington that the military will engage only in detection and monitoring of illegal drug traffickers. They will NOT attempt to make arrests or seizures.

Duncan also concedes that the plan is- in his words- ''more of the same.'' But he said it's ''substantially more of the same.''

The new plan does NOT include an earlier initiative that called for aircraft carriers to be stationed in international waters off Colombia to monitor drug traffic.

That plan was discarded when it ran into opposition in Colombia. The administration had planned in January to send an aircraft carrier and other ships to monitor drug traffic off the Colombian coast. But Colombian officials denounced the proposal, calling it a ''naval blockade.''

Federal investigators in Philadelphia are trying to find out what caused Wednesday's fatal subway derailment.

Investigators are prowling through a subway tunnel, looking for a fist-sized nut that came off and allowed a heavy motor to fall. The motor scraped along the rail ties until it hit a switch... causing the three rear cars of the six-car train to derail.

Three people were killed and more than 100 other passengers were injured.

A National Transportation Safety Board spokesman says investigators hope to find the missing nut and the cotter pin that was supposed to keep it in place.

According to N-T-S-B spokesman Alan Pollock- ''That's something we'd like to find. It would be helpful to have that.''

Pollock says a horizontal bolt and brackets which were supposed to stop the motor if the vertical bolt sheared off failed as well, and there appeared to be a lot of wear on the brackets from the motor.

He says investigators also are interviewing survivors of the accident and train personnel... and are looking into train maintenance by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority. There are reports of other motors falling from the same train car.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Preliminary working-level talks aimed at an eventual unification of Germany got under way in East Berlin today.

Senior foreign ministry officials from East and West Germany are discussing preparations for a unification conference. That meeting will include the two Germanys and the four victors in World War Two- the United States, France, England and the Soviet Union.

A West German government spokesman says the first meeting of the so-called two-plus-four conference will take place next Wednesday in Bonn. But NO concrete decisions on unification are expected before March 18th... when East Germany holds elections.

The military affiliation of a unified Germany is likely to be the main obstacle in the negotiations. The United States and other Western powers want a unified Germany to remain a member of NATO, but the Soviet Union and East Germany oppose the plan.

The White House said today it's unsure if Iran was behind last month's hoax phone call in which a man claiming to be the Iranian president spoke to President Bush. But spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said that because of the mishap, the administration will NO longer say whether it is talking with Iran about American hostages. President Bush refused to talk about it with reporters, but while walking to his helicopter shouted kiddingly, ''Got to get on the phone.''

Senate leaders today postponed action on a plan they say will destroy a clean-air-bill compromise they worked out with the Bush administration. The proposal by Senator Robert Byrd calls for Millions of dollars in special unemployment aid for coal miners who might lose their jobs because of acid rain controls. Opposition to British Prime Minister Thatcher's tax plan for England and Wales now is threatening the pound sterling. The Bank of England stepped in today to halt a run on the pound that was sparked by the crisis over the controversial poll tax. (MARCH 9) UPI - News from across the nation and around the world... United Press International has the latest details and developments.

Oliver North testified today in the Iran-Contra trial of John Poindexter, but he gave his testimony grudgingly.

North tried to avoid testifying against his former boss but was forced to appear under a grant of immunity from further prosecution. He sparred with prosecutor Dan Webb from the beginning, quibbling over meanings of words and saying he did NOT remember things.

North said he could NOT remember testifying in his own trial last year that Poindexter congratulated him after a 1986 meeting at which North deliberately misled members of Congress about the Iran-Contra operation.

North also testified that NO one ever told him to lie to Congress. He also said he never acted without the authority of his superiors, including Poindexter.

Poindexter, a former national security adviser, is charged with lying to Congress and obstructing its probe of Iran-Contra.

North is to testify again Monday when the trial resumes in federal court in Washington.

There's another report offering hope for the release of Western hostages in Lebanon.

This one is from a leading Lebanese magazine- the same one that first broke the story of the Iran-Contra scandal. The deal would involve all 18 hostages, including eight Americans.

In Washington, a White House spokesman says he's NOT aware of any such dealings. But he said- ''there are plenty of people out there'' trying to win release of the hostages.

(MARCH 9) UPI - The Federal Aviation Administration today ordered an emergency revocation of the pilot licenses of three Northwest Airlines fliers suspected of working under the influence of alcohol.

The Northwest Airlines pilot, co-pilot and second officer were arrested last night by an F-A-A inspector who suspected them of being intoxicated. The Boeing 727 from Fargo, North Dakota, landed at Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport with 91 passengers aboard.

Airport police said the three consented to blood-alcohol tests and were released. The test results may NOT be available for up to 10 days.

Federal regulations prohibit crews from flying with a blood-alcohol level of more than four-hundreths of one percent by weight. They also forbid flight crews from drinking within eight hours before a flight.

A Northwest spokesman said the pilots have been grounded pending an investigation but noted they have NOT been found guilty of anything yet.

Fighting erupted in El Salvador again today when leftist rebels attacked a coffee storage facility owned by a relative of President Cristiani.

A military spokesman says four government soldiers and one guerrilla were killed in the day-long battle in eastern El Salvador. Six soldiers were hurt, and six civilians were hit by shrapnel.

A Salvadoran radio reporter says the dead guerrilla appears to be a boy about 15 years old.

Government troops later drove the rebels out of the town, 52 miles east of San Salvador, and back into the mountains.

Today's battle came just hours after a fierce battle in San Salvador last night. The capital was reported quiet today.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Authorities say a Greyhound bus carrying passengers in Ohio today was struck by several bullets fired from an automobile that pulled alongside the bus. NO one was injured and NO arrests were made in the latest incident of violence involving the struck carrier.

Police say one shot glanced off the driver's side window, and another off a left-side passenger's window. A third bullet lodged in the lower-middle body of the bus.

The shooting occurred on Interstate 71 involving a bus taking 28 riders from Columbus to Cincinnati.

Greyhound today asked the striking Amalgamated Transit Union to join in seeking injunctions to avert clashes between pickets and strike-breakers.

Union president James LaSala replied that the union will defend its right to convince Greyhound to return to bargaining. But LaSala said the union does NOT condone violence.

The strike by nine-thousand workers has been marred by violence several times, including the death of a striker hit by a bus, and sniper shots fired at loaded buses in Chicago.

Analysts say political turmoil over a controversial tax plan for England and Wales today prompted the Bank of England to intervene to reverse a run on the pound.

Analysts said the pound sterling dropped nearly three cents against the dollar before the Bank of England spent hundreds of Millions of dollars to prop up its currency.

The trouble stems from a plan by Prime Minister Thatcher to institute the poll tax. It would be a flat fee replacing property rates and levied for local community costs- regardless of residents' income.

England and Wales are to start payments in April. Local councils have set an average per head fee of 613 dollars, about 34 percent more than what was paid under the previous property rate system.

Critics say the levy is unfair, citing Britain's richest man, the duke of Westminster, who will pay the same amount as his chauffeur.

The plan gave rise to a riot in a shopping center in east London late last night. Some 800 people looted stores and threw rocks and bottles at police in clashes that left 29 officers and at least one activist injured. 60 people were arrested.

After it speeds around the sun, it should be visible with the naked eye in the early morning hours of late April and early May.

If this is Austin's first exposure to the sun, it could be spectacular since its icy surface might sparkle and shine.

A geologist says an eruption of Redoubt Volcano in Alaska today caused flooding on the nearby Drift River. But a spokeswoman at the Alaska Volcano Observatory says floodwaters did NOT breach the dikes at the Drift River oil terminal 20 miles from Redoubt. The geologist says the volcano spit out hot rocks that landed on glacial ice and snow and melted them into the river. Volcanic debris also raised the river level.

Federal investigators say an explosion that destroyed a bank in Crested Butte, Colorado, this week was caused by a buildup of gas, possibly from one of several old coal mines in the area. Spokesman Ron Wolters says the investigation ruled out the possibility that a bomb caused the blast, which killed three people and injured 14. The explosion came just after the bank opened for business Tuesday, leaving nothing but the bank vault still standing.

(MARCH 9) UPI - Syria's President Assad is calling for a holy war against Israel. Damascus Radio quotes him as saying he regrets the- ''inability of Arab countries to form a unified front against dangers'' posed by Israel. He said he wants a holy war that will last ''until doomsday,'' as he put it. Assad's comments came today in a speech marking the 27th anniversary of his ruling party's rise to power. In Washington, a State Department spokeswoman says Assad should work for peace instead of calling for war.

Israel and East Germany today finished a second round of talks on establishing diplomatic relations. An official communique says East German Prime Minister Modrow submitted a letter to Israel. Talks are expected to resume in about a month. An Israeli source says the talks center on whether East Germany will accept responsibility for the killing of Millions of Jews in World War Two.

Officials in Alaska say moose are starving in an area that's been hit by the heaviest snows in decades. A conservation official says- quoting now- ''the moose population of south-central Alaska has taken a big hit.'' The snow is so deep the moose have trouble walking and finding food, so the state is launching plans to save the suffering animals. Officials say some 250 tons of hay will be scattered around the Susitna Valley north of Anchorage.

Police say a man dressed as a woman was arrested in Pensacola, Florida, after stolen underwear stuffed in his clothing fell and tripped him. Police say the store manager spotted a bulge under the customer's skirt and several empty hangars. When the manager asked the customer to wait for security, the suspect pushed away and ran out into the parking lot. The suspect took his high heels off, but got tripped up by the falling undergarment- size extra large.

CAIRO, (MARCH 10) - Twenty-seven Moslem fundamentalist students were arrested in Upper Egypt Saturday for smashing windows at a Christian Coptic school during a demonstration, police sources said.

The students were charged with illegal assembly and destruction of public property and ordered arraigned for 15 days pending an investigation, they said.

Two communities in the same Minia governorate last week witnessed anti-Coptic incidents incited by fundamentalists who set fire to several buildings, including a church and two pharmacies, they said.

BERLIN, (MARCH 10) - The ruling Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party is prepared to separate its activities from those of the state, the party's leading ideologist, B. Tsakhilgaan, told a joint press conference with the opposition on Saturday, the East German news agency ADN reported.

According to ADN, Mr. Tsakhilgaan also promised that the party apparatus would be significantly cut and that it would adopt programs guaranteeing equal rights to all political forces.

All the parties taking part in the round table talks here have agreed that scheduled elections for 1991 should be brought forward to this year, ADN said.

KABUL, (MARCH 10) - Afghanistan has protested to the United Nations over Pakistan's alleged role in a failed coup against the Kabul government this week.

Foreign Minister Abdul Wakil wrote to U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar, accusing Pakistan and its military intelligence of direct involvement in Tuesday's coup bid led by then defense minister Shah Nawaz Tanai.

Mr. Wakil asked Mr. Perez de Cuellar to distribute copies of his protest letter to members of the United Nations, a government spokesman said Saturday.

The government here has claimed to possess "undeniable" evidence to prove Pakistan's alleged involvement, which the Pakistan government has denied.

Mr. Tanai is reported to have fled to Pakistan, home to some three million Afghan refugees, following the bid, and Kabul has accused Islamabad of reaching an agreement with the former defense minister that he would escape to Pakistan in the event of failure.

SAN SALVADOR (MARCH 11) EFE - Seventeen leftist guerrillas and six Salvadoran troops have been killed in recent clashes, the Armed Forces reported Saturday.

The Armed Forces Press Committee (COPREFA) said the casualties came Friday in battles in the eastern departments of Usulutan and San Miguel, where Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN) guerrillas attacked military positions and coffee processing plants.

COPREFA said ten soldiers, one officer, 25 guerrillas and five civilians were wounded in the clashes, centered in the cities of Santiago de Maria and Ciudad Barrios.

The FMLN's clandestine Radio Venceremos said its units had killed or wounded 32 soldiers Friday and had destroyed a military barracks in Yayantique, 169 km east of the capital, but gave no details of rebel casualties.

Four soldiers and one guerrilla were killed Thursday in clashes in the capital as Army officials warned that the guerrillas may be preparing a new major offensive.

Some 2,500 people were killed last November when the FMLN launched its largest offensive of the country's decade-old civil war.

More than 70,000 people have been killed in the conflict.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (MARCH 10) UPI - The speculation that lingered after Friday night's first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament centered more on one of the beaten teams than the survivors.

Clemson, Virginia, Duke and Georgia Tech advanced to the semifinals, but questions remained about embattled North Carolina State Coach Jim Valvano.

''It's always a difficult thing to do, to talk about what's going to happen in the future,'' said Valvano, whose Wolfpack bowed to Georgia Tech 76-67. ''If the university would like me to continue, that's what I'd like to do. If not, we'll deal with that.''

N.C. State couldn't deal with No. 13 Georgia Tech in the second half. Dennis Scott and Brian Oliver combined for 29 points after halftime as the Yellow Jackets erased a 40-30 deficit and won going away.

Earlier, No. 11 Duke used a rare zone defense to thwart Maryland 104-84, No. 15 Clemson held off Wake Forest 79-70 and Virginia nudged North Carolina 92-85 in overtime.

Clemson plays Virginia and Duke takes on Georgia Tech in Saturday's semifinals.

Scott totaled 23 points, Oliver 22 and Kenny Anderson 17 for Georgia Tech, 22-6. The Yellow Jackets staged a 20-5 run over eight minutes to pick up the victory.

Rodney Monroe scored 20 points to lead N.C. State, 18-12. The Wolfpack, which shot only 28 percent from the floor in the second half, is ineligible for postseason play because of NCAA probation and is under a cloud because of point-shaving allegations.

Phil Henderson scored 24 points and Duke used a zone to limit Maryland to two field goals over 11 minutes of the second half for its victory. The Blue Devils went from a three-point deficit to a 92-74 lead with five minutes to play.

Duke, 24-7, became the first team to reach 100 points in an ACC Tournament game since 1983. Maryland, banned from postseason play for two years beginning next season, fell to 18-13 and squarely on the bubble for an NCAA invitation.

The zone was instrumental in the Terrapins' scoring drought.

''We haven't played that much zone in my career here, but it was definitely a good tactic at that point,'' Henderson said. ''It kept Maryland from getting to the line. If it's appropriate, we'll probably use it again.''

Clemson won a tournament game for the first time since 1980. The Tigers finished first in the regular season for the first time in the league's 37 years.

''If there's been a monkey (on our back), he's gone,'' Clemson Coach Cliff Ellis said. ''We played hard. You have to give credit where its due.

Tradition has been kicked in the butt again.''

Clemson, 24-7, opened with a rush, building a 26-point first-half lead and still leading by 17 early in the second half. But Wake Forest, 12-16, wouldn't quit, and when Chris King scored with 1:53 left, the Tigers lead was only 71-68.

David Young then hit his only basket of the game, a three-pointer from the left corner, and Clemson pulled away.

Derrick Forrest and Sean Tyson each had 16 points to lead Clemson. King scored 21 points and Robert Siler 17 to lead the Demon Deacons.

In Virginia's victory, Anthony Oliver scored eight of his career-high 23 points in overtime to lead the Cavaliers, 18-10.

Oliver hit back-to-back jumpers, the second with one minute left, giving Virginia an 88-85 edge. After Scott Williams missed a three-point try for the Tar Heels, Matt Blundin made both ends of one-and-one free throws, then Oliver did the same with 12 seconds left to clinch the victory.

''I had that feeling all game,'' said Oliver, who made 10 of 11 field-goal attempts. ''But I really wanted Bryant (Stith) to take the ball. But they were collapsing on him and I was open on the back side and had to take the shot. I felt good, I got in a groove and I kept hitting them.''

Virginia was led by Stith with 32 points. Kenny Turner scored 17 and John Crotty 11 for the Cavaliers, who are trying to win the tournament in Coach Terry Holland's final year at the school. Holland is to become athletic director at Davidson following this season.

Rick Fox scored 21 points and Williams 20 for North Carolina, 19-12. The Tar Heels have won 20 or more games for 19 consecutive seasons and figure to have the opportunity to extend the streak in the NCAA Tournament.

(MARCH 10) UPI - For a second straight day Friday, civil unrest rocked the Haitian capital of Port-Au-Prince. The opposition coalition is calling for a strike Monday to- quote- ''totally paralyze'' the city.''

Oliver North sat through five hours of often tedious questioning Friday at the Iran-Contra trial of John Poindexter in Washington. North said NO one ever told him to lie to Congress, but he insisted his former White House boss, Poindexter, was aware of secret deals to arm the Nicaraguan rebels.

A Nicaraguan legislative commission has approved an amnesty law that will forgive any crimes committed by the Contra rebels, Sandinista soldiers, or Sandinista government agents. Also, the incoming opposition government of Violeta Chamorro says the Sandinistas are trying to block a smooth transfer of power.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Two small planes collided in midair about 900 feet over Miramar, Florida, Friday, killing the three people aboard. BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (MARCH 10) UPI - Vice President Dan Quayle, begining a five nation Latin American tour, pledged the United States would not abandon its commitments in the hemisphere despite the dramatic changes under way in Eastern Europe.

''The United States will not reduce its aid to countries in the region, which will always have priority for George Bush's government,'' Quayle told reporters Friday during a news conference at his first stop in Caracas, Venezuela.

''You should not think that the United States will aid Eastern European countries at the cost of reducing aid to Latin America,'' he said speaking at the presidential residence in Macuto, a suburb of Caracas.

Answering questions from reporters, Quayle said the United States has no plans to invade Cuba and described the Dec. 20 invasion of Panama as a unique situation that was prompted by special circumstances.

Quayle continued the theme at his next stop in Bridgetown, Barbados, telling reporters Washington would not do anything to violate the sovereignty of countries in the eastern Caribbean and saying the Bush administration was committed to the fight against illegal drugs in the region.

During his 24-hour stop in Barbados, the vice president was to meet with leaders six Caribbean islands - St. Lucia, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, St. Kitts-Nevis, Dominica, Grenada and Barbados Saturday.

Officials of the Barbados Foreign Ministry said the meeting would focus on economic relations between the United States and the eastern Caribbean. Quayle's visit is the first by a high ranking U.S. official since President Reagan visited in 1982.

The vice president's tour also includes stops in Chile, Paraguay and Brazil.

Earlier in Venezuela, Quayle held private talks with Venezuelan President Carlos Andres Perez and later met with Perez and Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., arrived on the same plane as Quayle. Kennedy was part of a small delegation that included Bernard Aronson, the undersecretary of state for inter-American affairs. They were met at the Simon Bolivar airport by Foreign Minister Reinaldo Figueredo Planchart.

The vice president said that during his meeting with Gonzalez and Perez, the three discussed the situation in Nicaragua, where the ruling Sandinista Front lost elections Feb. 25 to the U.S.-backed opposition.

Quayle said the three agreed on the need to demobilize Nicaragua's Popular Sandinista Army and the Contra rebels, who have been fighting a U.S.-funded war against the leftist government since 1981.

Quayle later returned to the airport to fly to Barbados, where he will meet with Prime Minister Erskine Sandiford. On Sunday, Quayle will travel to Santiago, Chile, where he will meet President-elect Patricio Aylwin at the residence of military leader Augusto Pinochet.

Aylwin, elected president last year, is scheduled to take over power from Pinochet, who ousted elected President Salvador Allende in a 1973 military coup. Quayle will attend Aylwin's inauguration ceremony Sunday in Valparaiso.

He will also meet with Britain's Deputy Prime Minister Sir Geoffrey Howe and other Latin American leaders, including Costa Rican President Oscar Arias, Uruguayan President Alberto Lacalle and Ecuadoran President Jaime Borja.

It is Quayle's second mission to Latin America since he became vice president.

In January, he attended the inauguration of Honduran President Rafael Leonardo Callejas and then traveled to Panama for the inauguration of Panamanian President Guillermo Endara.

In an interview published Friday in the Argentine newspaper La Nacion, Quayle praised Argentine President Carlos Menem as a ''courageous leader.'' His remarks followed accusations by former President Raul Alfonsin that Menem's ruling Peronist Party was studying a contingency plan to disband Congress so it can impose an unpopular austerity program.

''Menem has shown himself to be a very courageous leader and he is working hard to reform the economy so the population of his country can have a better life,'' Quayle said.

Quayle's endorsement of Menem, the day before his South American tour, was mainly directed at the president's free market economic program. The free market program is a departure from previous Peronist Party doctrine, which once supported state controls, subsidies, and high tariffs.

(MARCH 10) UPI - No. 5 Missouri, blown out by Oklahoma and Notre Dame in the past two weeks, extended its nightmarish stretch run Friday night with an overtime loss to lowly Colorado in the opening round of the Big Eight Tournament.

The Tigers, who were ranked No. 1 on two occasions this season, became the first top seed in the 14 years of the Big Eight Tournament to lose in the first round when they fell 92-88.

Stevie Wise scored 9 points in overtime and fed Rodell Guest for a clinching dunk to propel Colorado, 11-17 and playing under lame-duck Coach Tom Miller, into the semifinals against Oklahoma State. The Cowboys defeated Kansas State 82-78.

''We just couldn't get over the hump,'' Missouri Coach Norm Stewart said. ''We made a tremendous effort to get back in the game. We were just a little out of sync. That happens. If we could have gotten the lead, it might have turned out different. But it didn't and we lost.''

The loss was the third in four games for the Tigers, 26-5. Missouri was blown out by Oklahoma on the road and rebounded to scrape by Kansas State at home before being bombed at Notre Dame to end the season.

The loss to Colorado spoils the Tigers' likely top seed in one of the NCAA Tournament regionals, to be announced Sunday.

''I think we can regroup and do the things necessary to be better,'' he said. ''(Colorado) played good and won the ballgame.''

After Colorado lost Feb. 28 at Nebraska, forcing the Buffaloes into a fifth consecutive last-place finish, Miller was fired. He brought a 33-78 four-year record as the Colorado coach into the tournament.

''The kids just refuse to give up,'' Miller said. ''I'd prefer you don't call this a 'Win one for the Gipper' thing because since Oct. 15, this team has really worked for it. It was a total team effort.''

Also in Big Eight action at Kansas City, Mo., William Davis scored 26 points, including the basket that gave Oklahoma the lead, boosting the top-ranked Sooners to a 78-65 victory over Nebraska.

Pekka Markkanen scored 16 points and seven other Kansas players scored in double figures, pacing the second-ranked Jayhawks to a record-setting 118-75 thrashing of Iowa State. Kansas' 118 points topped the old mark of 116 set by Oklahoma in the 1985 tournament.

Big East

At New York, Derrick Coleman hit a shot from the lane with 21 seconds left and made a game-saving block of a dunk in the final seconds, allowing No. 4 Syracuse to escape with a 58-55 victory over Pittsburgh.

Dikembe Mutombo struck for 18 points and 14 rebounds and No. 6 Georgetown withstood a gutty comeback by Providence in the closing minutes, giving the Hoyas a 78-77 victory.

Tate George scored 20 points and No. 7 Connecticut's tenacious defense recorded 17 steals, lifting the Huskies to their first conference semifinal since 1980 with a 76-58 victory over Seton Hall.

Tom Greis scored 16 points and Villanova made 14 free throws in the final 2:20, sending the Wildcats to a 70-60 victory over St. John's. The Wildcats hit 26 of 30 free throws, including 14 of 15 in the final 2:20 when St. John's was forced to foul.

Atlantic Coast

At Charlotte, N.C., Phil Henderson scored 24 points and No. 11 Duke used a rare zone defense to thwart Maryland 104-84. The Blue Devils became the first team to reach 100 points in an ACC Tournament game since 1983.

Dennis Scott scored 23 points and Brian Oliver had 22, propelling No. 13 Georgia Tech past troubled North Carolina State 76-67. Scott and Oliver combined for 29 second-half points as the Yellow Jackets overcame a 10-point halftime deficit.

David Young hit a three-point shot with 1:16 left, his only basket of the game, to help No. 15 Clemson turn back a Wake Forest charge and emerge with a 79-70 victory.

Anthony Oliver scored 8 of his career-high 23 points in overtime, leading Virginia to a 92-85 victory over North Carolina. Oliver hit consecutive jumpers, the second with one minute left, to give Virginia an 88-85 edge.

Southeastern

At Orlando, Fla., John Caylor hit a three-pointer with seven seconds left to give Auburn a 78-76 upset over Louisiana State. Auburn trailed by as many as 14 points but charged back behind the 34-point performance of Derrick Dennison and 22 points from freshman Ronnie Battle.

Scott Draud and Derrick Wilcox made clutch free throws in the closing seconds of overtime to give Vanderbilt a 78-74 victory over top-seeded Georgia. Vanderbilt outscored the Bulldogs 9-5 in the last 1:45 of overtime.

David Benoit and Melvin Cheatum spearheaded an Alabama run at the start of the second half to spark the Crimson Tide to a 59-44 victory over Mississippi State.

Gerald Glass scored 28 points and freshman Joe Harvell hit three last-minute free throws to give Mississippi an 87-86 victory over Tennessee.

Metro

At Biloxi, Miss., Jerome Harmon scored 22 points and No. 18 Louisville took command late in the first half in posting a 76-73 semifinal triumph over Memphis State. The Cardinals will seek their fourth Metro Tournament title in five years.

Darrin Chancellor scored 21 points and Southern Mississippi took advantage of a startling 30-4 advantage at the free-throw line to earn its first berth in the tournament finals with a 75-63 victory over Cincinnati.

(MARCH 10) UPI - First, the Calgary Flames caught up with the Edmonton Oilers, then Los Angeles captured Wayne Gretzky. So few would be surprised by the evolution of a three-team race in the Smythe Division.

Except that the Winnipeg Jets are in it.

While Gretzky's Kings never have jumped in the running and the defending champion Flames never have shaken free of the Oilers, the Jets have rebounded quietly.

They were silent for 20 minutes and 36 seconds Friday night as the Oilers set about scoring four goals. Then, Winnipeg scored six straight times in posting a 7-5 triumph.

The victory allowed the Jets to move within four points of the second-place Oilers just as home-ice advantage for the playoffs is about to be determined.

''It's a huge disappointment,'' said Edmonton's Mark Messier, who scored his 40th and 41st goals of the season Friday night. ''We probably played our best first period of the season. I guess we thought it was the whole game. They came back hard. They never quit. They played great from the second period on.''

Paul Fenton scored his 26th and 27th goals - a career high - and added an assist during Winnipeg's five-goal second period and Pat Elynuik contributed a goal and two assists.

Under new general manager Mike Smith, coach Bob Murdoch and his shrewd staff, Winnipeg is only six points out of first place - one season after failing to make the playoffs.

Much of their resurgence has come via speed and penalty-killing and on Friday night, Dave McLlwain provided the winning goal with his sixth short-handed score of the season, tying for the league lead.

McLlwain - a throw-in in the trade with Pittsburgh for Randy Cunneyworth - stole the puck from Edmonton speester Glenn Anderson to score the goal that chased goaltender Grant Fuhr 21 seconds into the third period. The Jets had pulled their starter, Bob Essensa, for Stephane Beauregard at the start of the second period.

Trailing 4-0 after the first period, ''the players just looked at themselves,'' said Winnipeg's Brent Ashton, who managed a goal and assist while checking Messier.

''We knew it was a big game,'' Ashton said. ''We knew we could compete with them and we were embarrassed to be down 4-0 in our own building. We just said we have to go out and play our own game and not worry about what they are going to do.''

The Jets won their fourth straight game and third at home in their season series against the Oilers. Edmonton has won all four home games against the Jets this season, with the finale at Winnipeg Arena on the last day of the season.

In other NHL games Friday night, Washington edged Quebec 4-3 and Calgary tied Vancouver 4-4.

Capitals 4, Nordiques 3

At Landover, Md., Dino Ciccarelli broke a tie midway through the third period with his 34th goal of the season to lead Washington. The Capitals moved one point ahead of the New York Islanders for the final Patrick Division playoff spot. Quebec fell to its 13th straight loss on the road and 11-51-7 overall. Goaltender Mike Liut made in his first appearance as a Capital since being acquired from Hartford and made 21 saves in his 600th NHL game.

Canucks 4, Flames 4

At Vancouver, British Columbia, Paul Reinhart scored during a power play at 5:42 of the third period to complete the Canucks' comeback from a two-goal deficit.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Vice President Quayle started a Latin American tour in Caracas , Venezuela, Friday. Quayle sought to reassure Latin American leaders of the U-S commitment to fulfilling its promises in the region, despite dramatic changes in Eastern Europe. The vice president now is in Barbados to meet with leaders of six Caribbean nations. He'll also travel to Chile, Paraguay, and Brazil.

More violence in El Salvador. Government troops battled leftist rebels at a coffee storage facility Friday. Four soldiers died and six others were wounded in the fighting. In the town of Santiago de Maria, government forces backed by airplanes and helicopters also engaged in battles against rebels. One guerrilla, about 15 years old, was killed and six civilians were injured.

The Greyhound busline was the target of another gunfire attack Friday. Authorities say a bus carrying 28 passengers was hit by several bullets as it traveled along Interstate 71 between Columbus and Cincinnati. There were NO injuries in the attack... the latest in a series of violent incidents involving the carrier. Greyhound officials are asking union leaders to help end strike-related violence.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 10) UPI - The driver of an improperly maintained subway train that derailed in a rush-hour crash killing three people and injuring 163 this week has tested positive for cocaine use, federal investigators said.

Investigators also said they found cases of improper maintenance of Philadelphia city trains and the municipal transit authority began pulling 240 subway cars out of service for inspection.

National Transportation Safety Board investigator John Lauber said Friday urine and blood tests of Southeastern Pennsylvania Transit Authority personnel aboard the train that crashed Wednesday showed the driver had been using cocaine.

The tests that showed traces of both raw and metabolized cocaine were initially taken within three hours of the fatal crash, and were later confirmed by the same laboratory and an independent one, Lauber said.

But SEPTA General Manager Louis Gambaccini and Lauber both refused to link cocaine use to the accident.

''No one we interviewed reported any unusual sound or anything abnormal about the train prior to the accident,'' Lauber said, adding that the driver placed an emergency call from the tunnel immediately after the accident.

Gambaccini, however, said the driver had been suspended without pay. The driver has not been identified.

Lauber said the NTSB Friday issued a recommendation that the 240 subway cars be inspected immediately before being returned to service.

Gambaccini said the SEPTA began taking cars out of service as soon as it received the NTSB recommendation.

NTSB investigators Friday discovered 27 instances of poorly torqued nuts and cotter pins that hold traction motors in place during inpections of 19 subway cars, including three cars from the crash.

A traction motor, housed in the car's undercarriage, is believed to have dislodged and hit a rail switch causing the derailment in a downtown tunnel on the Market-Frankford line, Lauber said.

''The traction motor mount is a safety critical assembly,'' Lauber said. ''We've seen what can happen when one comes loose.''

Following the accident, SEPTA personnel had inspected all subway cars on the Market-Frankford line but Gambaccini did not know why the inspectors had failed to find the improperly installed parts.

''Our view is that the cotter pin was not the reason for the motor falling '' Gambaccini said.

He vowed to restore all SEPTA lines to full service by Monday morning and said despite the findings SEPTA was safe and would be made safer.

A panel of three outside experts was being set up to review the system's safety and maintenance procedures, Gambaccini said.

Investigators are continuing to look for the nut and cotter pin that have held the dislodged motor.

SEPTA resumed subway-surface trolley service through the tunnel Friday. The route passed by the wreck site, where passengers could see workmen attempting to pry away metal wrapped around the concrete and steel support posts.

The wreckage was transported to a repair yard for further study.

Passengers on the train said seeing the wreckage made them nervous.

''Just gliding right by really made (for) a sense of pain for the people riding that car and anybody else who has to ride SEPTA,'' said James Ebo of West Philadelphia. ''It really is a really bad feeling.''

SEPTA, meanwhile, was bracing for an expected rash of lawsuits. At least one attorney was at a hospital passing out his business cards as the injured were brought in.

(MARCH 10) UPI - The Boston Celtics, virtually unbeatable before a home crowd for years, endured a third-straight loss as the home team Friday night when Jeff Malone scored 43 points to lead the visiting Washington Bullets to a 115-108 victory.

The loss, coming after setbacks to Chicago and Portland earlier this week, marked the first time since Larry Bird joined the team in 1979 that Boston has dropped three straight at home.

The Celtics are now 19-11 at home this season after never losing more than nine home games during a campaign in the 1980s.

''This is the low point for us,'' said Boston forward Kevin McHale, who scored 31 points.

Bird, who played the entire game, added 27 points for Boston.

Malone, who connected on 17 of 25 attempts, nailed his first four shots in the opening quarter.

''Jeff was shooting the lights out and when that happens there's a good chance we're going to win,'' said Bernard King.

''When he's doing that it opens up a lot of things for me,'' said King, who scored 29 points of his own, including 11 in the final five minutes of the game.

''Jeff was getting a lot of open shots and we don't see that very often,'' said Bullets forward Mark Alarie. ''Jeff's very quick and none of their guards could stay with him.''

''We had no answer for Malone or King,'' said Boston coach Jimmy Rodgers. ''It's been a tough week for us.''

After Boston took the lead, 95-94, on Charles Smith's jumper with 5:52 to play, Darrell Walker's 3-point play triggered a 12-4 Bullets' run.

King followed Walker's 3-point play with a jumper, Grant hit two free throws and King hit another jumper before capping the decisive run with a 3-point play with 3:19 left.

''We did a good job of spreading the floor in the fourth quarter and took advantage of their double-teaming,'' said King. ''We controlled the tempo for the most part tonight.''

After Washington took control for good, Boston never closed the gap below six the rest of the way.

Harvey Grant scored 17, Walker 12 and Alarie added 10 for the Bullets.

Trailing 87-81 early in the final quarter, Jim Paxson scored 5 points during a 6-1 Boston run, closing the gap to one with 9:38 left.

The Bullets, who trailed 59-57 at the half, opened the first 1:55 of the third quarter with a 10-2 run to regain the lead. Malone connected on his first five shots to key the run.

After Washington moved ahead, the lead changed hands seven times before the Bullets pulled in front, 85-80, after three.

Bird, who scored 20 points in the first half, hit a 3-pointer with 12.5 seconds left in the second quarter to give Boston a 59-52 lead at the intermission.

The Bullets jumped in front 18-8 behind Malone's 8 points early in the first quarter and moved to a 31-25 lead after one. Washington hit 68 percent of their field goal attempts in the opening quarter.

Boston used a 10-4 run midway through the second quarter to take its first lead of the game, 42-41, on reserve guard Smith's driving layup.

Pistons 99, Nets 95

At East Rutherford, N.J., Isiah Thomas scored ten of his 20 points in the fourth quarter to rally Detroit to its seventh straight victory. James Edwards had 21 points to lead Detroit, with Bill Laimbeer hitting for 13 and Joe Dumars scoring 12. The Nets were paced by Dennis Hopson with 21 points, Chris Morris with 19 and Charles Shackleford with 15. Shackleford also posted a game-high 24 rebounds.

Trail Blazers 104, 76ers 100

At Philadelphia, Jerome Kersey hit a baseline jumper with 27 seconds remaining, breaking a tie and lifting Portland to their fourth straight victory. Charles Barkley led Philadelphia with 31 points, while Clyde Drexler led Portland with 25 points.

Hawks 107, Supersonics 97

At Atlanta, Dominique Wilkins and Moses Malone combined for 48 points to rally the Hawks. Seattle held a 53-46 halftime lead before Atlanta went on a 13-5 run to begin the third quarter and hold a 59-58 lead. Atlanta never trailed from that point. Seattle got 26 points form Dana Barros, while Michael Cage added 14 points and 10 rebounds.

Suns 134, Pacers 130

At Indianapolis, Tom Chambers scored 41 points and Jeff Hornacek added 27 Friday for Phoenix. Chambers scored 13 points in the final quarter as the Suns, 40-19 and winners of 26 of their last 31 games, held off an Indiana rally. Reggie Miller scored 32 points, Vern Fleming had 22 and Chuck Person added 20 for Indiana. Kevin Johnson had 23 points and 13 assists for the Suns.

Jazz 108, Bucks 100

At Milwaukee, Karl Malone scored 40 points to lead Utah to its third victory in a row, while Milwaukee has lost five games in a row including its last three home games. Ricky Pierce, Fred Roberts and Paul Pressey each had 15 points for Milwaukee.

Lakers 131, Warriors 115

At Los Angeles, Magic Johnson scored 33 points, pulled down 13 rebounds and added 16 assists to lead Los Angeles. The ''triple double'' was the 120th of Johnson's career. James Worthy added 24 points for the Lakers, who remained 3 1/2 games ahead of the second-place Portland Trailblazers in the Pacific Division, and improving their home record to 27-4.

#90069u0406 03/10/1990 ~United Press International

TEMPE, AZ. (MARCH 10) UPI - Bill Frieder, who missed out on a very exciting tournament run last season, now is involved in one he can call his very own.

The former Michigan coach, sent packing by the eventual champion Wolverines before last year's NCAA tournament when he agreed to come to Arizona State, has the surprising Sun Devils in the semifinals of the Pacific-10 tournament.

Alex Austin scored nine of his 17 points in the final 3:10 Friday to rally

Arizona State to an 83-75 upset of top-seeded Oregon State, the conference co-champions.

The Sun Devils, playing on their home court before a exuberant crowd, sank 66.7 percent (30 of 45) of their field-goal attempts.

''These kids have not quit all year,'' said Frieder. ''I'm so happy for these kids. They haven't experienced wins like this for a long time - maybe never.''

Arizona State, 15-14, trailed 60-51 with 10:57 to play, but Austin sparked a 24-8 burst that enabled the No. 8 seed to advance to a Saturday game with UCLA, a 94-76 winner over Oregon.

No. 16 Arizona will face Stanford in the other semifinal.

Jud Buechler scored 20 points and Matt Muehlebach had the first triple-double in Wildcats' history in an 80-57 rout of Southern Cal. And Adam Keefe muscled his way to 26 points in the Cardinal's 77-61 triumph over California.

Gary Payton had 31 points for the Beavers, 22-6, who suffered the biggest upset in the four-year history of the tournament.

It marked the first time the No. 1 seed fell. Still, Oregon State expects to advance to the NCAA tournament.

''Hopefully, this will make us better,'' Beavers Coach Jim Anderson said. ''We will hope for some good news Sunday (when the NCAA field is announced) and become a better team for the adversity we have faced lately.''

Isaac Austin, Alex's younger brother, contributed 19 points and eight rebounds for the Sun Devils.

Arizona State, which edged Washington 57-51 in the first round Thursday night, had lost its previous nine games with Oregon State, including the first two this season.

With the score 68-68, Alex Austin nailed a three-pointer with 3:10 left. After teammate Brian Camper hit a layup, Austin followed with a jumper that made it 75-68 with 1:58 left.

Payton sank two foul shots, but Austin made a steal, then found Camper streaking downcourt for a dunk. Payton made a three-pointer with 90 seconds to play to make it 77-73, but Austin sealed the triumph with a jumper 49 seconds later.

In the first game, Don MacLean collected 25 points and 11 rebounds, and freshman Mitchell Butler keyed the first-half surge that carried the Bruins.

Butler, who finished with a season-high 16 points, came off the bench to trigger a 20-3 burst as UCLA, 19-9, bolstered its NCAA hopes.

''We realized we needed at least one win (in the Pac-10 tournament) to get into the NCAA tournament,'' said MacLean.

Keith Reynolds had 20 points for the Ducks, 15-13, who lost their third straight. Terrell Brandon, Oregon's top scorer, missed his first nine shots and finished with only 12 points.

In the Arizona victory, Muehlebach turned in a superb defensive effort on Harold Miner and finished with 10 points, a career-high 11 rebounds and 10 assists. Cal's Kevin Johnson and Payton have the only other triple-doubles in Pac-10 history.

''We had great direction from our two veterans (Buechler and Muehlebach) '' Arizona Coach Lute Olson said. ''It's important in tournament play that they solve some jitters (for others).''

Miner, averaging 20.9 points, had only 14 points on 5 of 20 shooting. But the USC guard finished with 578 points this season, bettering by one the Pac-10 freshman record MacLean set last year.

The Wildcats, 22-6, won their 12th straight conference game. The Trojans finished at 12-16 - Coach George Raveling's best season in his four-year stint at USC.

Keefe made 8 of 10 shots from the floor and all 10 attempts from the line for Stanford, 18-10.

Cal, seeking to advance to the NCAAs for the first time since 1960, fell to 21-9 with its first two-game losing streak of the season. The Bears, who received 20 points from Keith Smith, were outscored 22-5 at the line.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Thunderstorms rumbled from the Great Lakes to Texas early Saturday, while fog shrouded much of the East and snow piled up in Oregon's Cascade mountains.

The thunderstorms were particularly intense in the Texas Panhandle and southwestern Oklahoma where they produced heavy rain and strong winds.

Winds gusted to 71 mph at Bock International Airport in Lubbock, Texas, causing some damage, the National Weather Service said.

Dense fog settled over western New York state, central and southern Ohio, northern Kentucky, southern Michigan, the Washington, D.C., area and South Carolina. Fog also enveloped the Texas-Louisiana Gulf coast.

Visibility was reduced to zero in northern South Carolina and from one-fourth to one-eighth mile in other areas.

A cold front moving into Oregon produced rain along the coast and dropped the snow level in the mountains to 1,500 feet. Up to one foot of snow was forecast for higher elevations.

Early morning temperatures were warmer than usual across the nation's midsection, after a day in which record highs were set in four cities.

Temperatures ranged from the 40s in the Great Lakes to the upper 60s in Texas. Temperatures dipped below freezing in the northern Plains and northern New England. Temperatures reached the 50s in California, the South and Middle Atlantic region and the 60s in the Southwest and Florida.

BEIRUT, LEBANON (MARCH 10) UPI - Maverick Christian leader Gen. Michel Aoun is ready to enter into direct dialogue with Syrian-backed Lebanese President Elias Hrawi and step aside if an accord ending Lebanon's 15 year-old civil war is reached, the An Nahar newspaper said Saturday.

An Naharr quoted Aoun as saying that he was ready to leave the Presidential Palace in Beirut's suburbs of Baabda and ''take a vacation'' from Lebanese political life.

''Baabda (the palace) is not an objective in itself. What is more important is to reach a solution acceptable to all Lebanese,'' Aoun said. ''Then I can take a vacation.''

It was the first time the 54-year-old Aoun has publicly expressed his readiness to step aside since he was appointed to head a military cabinent September 22, 1988 by former President Amin Gemayel.

Aoun said that he was prepared to begin direct talks with President Hrawi, but without preconditions regarding a peace accord hammered out in Taif, Saudi Arabia, Oct. 21.

The application or abrogation of the Taif accord should not be made a condition for the proposed dialogue, Aoun said.

The Lebanese Parliament approved the agreement, which was backed by the Arab League, but Aoun rejected the pact because it failed to ensure a speedy withdrawal of Syrian troops from Lebanon.

He has also refused to recognize the authority of President Hrawi, who was elected by the Parliament under the terms of the Taif accord. Aoun has since declared himself the head of the only legitimate government in the country.

In an interview with United Press International last Thursday Aoun called for internationally backed peace negotiations to end his country's 15-year-old civil war and said he was ready to negotiate for control of east Beirut.

The general, in an interview Thursday at his bunker in the battered presidential palace, struck a conciliatory tone toward his enemies in the Moslem and Christian sectors and stressed that fighting among the various groups ''will never resume again.''

''Experience does not encourage more violence, it only encourages dialogue '' Aoun said.

The general's remarks suggested that he was turning away from force in an effort to resolve the country's stalemate. Aoun's 15,000-member army last year began a six-month ''war of liberation'' to drive some 35,000 Syrian troops out of Lebanon. At least 750 people were killed before the fighting ended.

On Jan. 31, fighting erupted in Beirut between Aoun's troops and the Christian Lebanese Forces militia. The struggle for control of the Christian enclave killed more than 800 people and wounded 3,000 others.

VALLEY STREAM, NY (MARCH 10) UPI - Two men were stabbed during a melee involving 100 people at the premiere of the movie ''House Party,'' Nassau County police said Saturday.

The fight broke out about 10 p.m. Friday night at the Sunrise Cinema in Valley Stream at the opening night of the award winning film that features rap music stars, police said.

The fight started between a few men in a bathroom, spread to the theater lobby and escalated in the parking lot outside the theater, police said.

Keith Pearson, 20, of Jamaica, Queens, was stabbed in the back of the neck and suffered cuts and bruises on his face, eyes and ribbs and was listed in stable condition Saturday morning in Franklin General Hospital.

A second man, Rodney Caspard, 16, of Laurelton, was slashed in the face and treated and released at a local hospital, police said.

The film, written and directed by Reginald Hudlin, won the Filmmakers Trophy and Cinematography Award at the Sundance United States Film Festival last month.

LOS ANGELES (MARCH 10) UPI - Motion picture actor Corey Feldman, who starred in the movie ''Stand By Me,'' was arrested and booked on suspicion of possessing heroin for sale, authorities said Saturday.

Feldman, 18, of Beverly Hills, was arrested just south of downtown about 7:15 p.m. Friday, Sgt. Gene Leary said. Police did not immediately disclose the circumstances of the arrest nor the amount of heroin seized.

He was booked at the Parker Center jail on suspicion of possession of heroin for sale.

Feldman, who appeared in the movies ''Lost Boys,'' ''Goonies,'' and two of the series of ''Friday the 13th'' horror films, was handcuffed to a bench at the Newton Division station before he was taken to the jail division for booking, Sgt. Doug Tantee said.

''He was sitting there shaking,'' Tantee said of the actor.

Bail was set at $5,486, including fines for outstanding traffic warrants, Leary said.

Feldman, who was born in the San Fernando Valley community of Reseda, began performing at the age of 3. Besides his movie credits, he has appeared in over 100 commercials and numerous television shows, including ''Love Boat,'' ''Mork and Mindy, ''Eight is Enough'' and the series ''The Bad News Bears.''

BOSTON (MARCH 10) UPI - Charles Stuart's mother reportedly will testify next week before the special grand jury trying to shed more light on the bizarre murder case that shocked the nation.

Dorothy Stuart may also be asked to waive the attorney-client privilege that prevents her son's lawyer from speaking out on the case, according to reports published Saturday in The Boston Globe and the Boston Herald.

The Suffolk County grand jury is investigating the shooting death of Carol Stuart, a pregnant attorney from suburban Reading, and subsequent revelations that her husband Charles was the likely culprit.

Charles Stuart told authorities he and his wife were kidnapped by a black gunman as they left a birthing class at a Boston hospital on Oct. 23, 1989. Stuart said the assailant robbed and then shot the couple. His dramatic call for help on his car telephone was broadcast on news programs across the nation.

The case has sparked outrage in the black community, which claims the shootings received excessive publicity because the victims were white suburbanites and the supposed attacker was black. They also accusedinvestigators of intimidating witnesses into implicating a black ex-convict who is no longer considered a suspect in the shootings.

Authorities now believe that Stuart killed his wife - and subsequently their son, who was delivered by emergency Caesarean section but died 17 days later - and then wounded himself to divert suspicion. Stuart committed suicide by leaping from a bridge on Jan. 4 as police sought to arrest him.

If Stuart's mother agrees to waive the attorney-client privilege, his lawyer would be free to talk about their conversations following the shootings.

''The district attorney's office has discussed the legal ramifications of the attorney-client privilege in connection with this case for several weeks,'' First Assistant District Attorney Paul K. Leary told the Globe.

Leary said it appears the right to waive the attorney-client privilege may be transferred from the client to the client's legal representative after the client's death.

If Dorothy Stuart agrees to waive that privilege, attorney John Dawley likely will be called before the grand jury. Dawley was retained by the Stuart family to act as a spokesman following the shootings. He later became Charles Stuart's attorney, but abruptly resigned on Jan. 3, the day before Stuart jumped to his death.

Dawley has repeatedly refused to discuss his conversations with Stuart, citing attorney-client privilege. He did, however, say shortly after the suicide that before Jan. 2 he ''had no reason to believe anything more than it was a random act of violence.''

Dawley could not immediately be reached for comment on the reports.

Meanwhile, an attorney representing Stuart's brother Matthew told the Herald prosecutors' request to waive the attorney-client privilege and plans to have Dorothy Stuart testify are ''excessive.''

''What relevant information does Dorothy Stuart have?'' attorney Nancy Gertner said. ''What's the purpose of dragging this poor, grieving woman into the grand jury? I think it's excessive.''

Gertner's client, Matthew Stuart, has told police he became an unwitting accomplice in the shootings. Matthew Stuart said he met his brother on the night of the shootings and disposed of a gun and several items that Charles Stuart reported as stolen during the supposed robbery.

Matthew Stuart maintains he did not realize he had become embroiled in a murder plot until after Carol Stuart was killed. Authorities re-focused the investigation on the victim's husband after Matthew went to them with evidence implicating his brother.

BUSTED ACTOR: Actor Corey Feldman, 18, is free on $5,486 bail after Los Angeles police charged him with possession of heroin Friday night. An officer pulled over Feldman's car for an undisclosed traffic violation and found ''numerous balloons of heroin'' inside, said a police spokesman, who did not reveal the precise quantity of the drug. Feldman, who appeared in the movies ''Stand by Me,'' ''Lost Boys,'' ''Goonies,'' and two of the ''Friday the 13th'' horror films, was handcuffed to a bench at the police station while awaiting booking, Sgt. Doug Tantee said. ''He was sitting there shaking,'' Tantee said.

NO POLITICS: Natasha Richardson, the star of ''The Handmaid's Tale,'' says she supports the movie's underlying abortion rights theme. ''I am a woman and I can't remain silent on this issue,'' she told The Washington Post on a promotional visit. Otherwise, Richardson did not inherit the political bent of her mother, Vanessa Redgrave. ''The fact that my mother is a very political person has, unfortunately, put me off politics for the rest of my life,'' Richardson says. ''I'm not politically well educated enough to talk about things.'' However, there was one issue that she took up with Sen. Frank Lautenberg, who was introduced to her as one of the driving forces behind legislation to ban smoking on airplanes. ''Oh, is that you?'' said Richardson, a chain smoker who doesn't like to fly. ''I must talk to you. Can you get me a special dispensation? Ninety minutes I can manage but I think that you've gone too far with this six-hour business, haven't you?''

JAPANESE GENEROSITY: The Guggenheim Museum in New York annnounced Friday it has received an unrestricted gift of $15 million from Japanese engineering and construction tycoon Akira Tobishima, the largest cash gift ever received by the museum since the founding bequest of copper tycoon Solomon R. Guggenheim. Tobishima said he hoped his gift would help the Guggenheim expand ''thoughout the world, including Japan.''

(MARCH 10) UPI - Around the world... around the clock... U-P-I brings you the world, next:

Oliver North testified for five hours yesterday in the Iran-Contra trial of former national security adviser John Poindexter. North insisted his former White House boss knew about secret operations to arm the Contras. Poindexter is charged with five counts of lying to Congress and obstructing justice.

Vice President Quayle has begun a five-nation Latin American tour. At his first stop in Caracas, Venezuela, Quayle told reporters that Washington will NOT reduce its aid to Latin American countries. Quayle called the U-S invasion of Panama a unique situation, which was prompted by special circumstances.

There's a new wrinkle in this week's subway derailment in Philadelphia. Federal investigators say the driver of the improperly maintained subway train has tested positive for cocaine use. However, officials refuse to link cocaine use to the rush-hour accident, which left three people dead and injured 163 others.

The White House says it's UNaware of efforts by UNofficial American negotiators to win freedom for 18 Westerners believed held in Lebanon. A respected Lebanese magazine reports that Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite may be the first hostage freed in a proposed deal.

The Pentagon announced its long-awaited military anti-drug plans yesterday. The new plan calls for using more ships, planes, radar and dogs in efforts to detect drug smugglers. Officials say the U-S military only will engage in detection and monitoring of drug traffickers- and NOT make arrests or seizures.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Waves of civil unrest rocked the capital of Haiti yesterday for a second straight day. Haiti's dictator, General Prosper Avril, reportedly has created a ''crisis cabinet'' to deal with the turmoil. However, it's unclear if he will give in to popular demands for his resignation.

South African black leader Nelson Mandela is in Tanzania today visiting military camps of the African National Congress. Until this week, the A-N-C never publicly acknowledged the existence of the camps in its armed struggle against the South African government.

Aviation authorities in Miramar, Florida, say three people were killed yesterday afternoon when two small planes collided about 900 feet above a residential area. The Cessna 152 and a Piper Cub damaged at least two houses... but NO one on the ground was injured.

Damascus Radio reports Syrian President Assad calling for a holy war against Israel ''until doomsday.'' In a nationwide speech, Assad said he regretted the inability of Arab countries to unify against Israel. He also accused the United States of aiding expansionism by the Jewish state.

In a Pasadena, California, courtroom yesterday, two 22-year-old women were each sentenced to 15 years to life in prison for drowning a teenage friend in a mountain stream. Authorities say Laura Doyle and Karen Severson killed the girl after accusing her of sleeping with their boyfriends.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, HAITI (MARCH 10) UPI - Haitian dictator Prosper Avril was reported ready to relinquish power Saturday and massive celebrations broke out throughout the capital even though the general postponed a scheduled speech on radio and television.

Crowds of Haitians poured into the streets shortly after noon, waving palm fronds and cheering. A crowd also forced its way into the government-run television station, a source said.

Clarence Renoir, news director at the independent Radio Metropole, quoted French Ambassador Jean Raphael Dufour as saying Avril would relinquish power in a nationally broadcast speech at noon from the presidential palace.

However, shortly before the scheduled broadcast, Judith Prosserd, news director of state-run television, told reporters a camera crew had been sent to the presidential palace to film Avril's statement. She said the crew would return to the station and await orders to broadcast the statement. No reason was given for the delay.

Reliable sources said Avril was ready to step down and that the feared presidential guard, backbone of his rule, ''does not exist'' any longer. Their badges and identification cards have been taken away from them, the sources said.

Officials at the government television said a mob gathered outside and that authorities refused to send troops to protect the station.

''We asked for security and they didn't send it. They don't want the soldiers to shoot any more people,'' said the source by telephone.

''I have to run now. They are getting inside the door,'' the source said.

Under the plan reportedly negotiated between Avril and the U.S. and French ambassadors, Avril would turn over the government to acting army Chief of Staff Gen. Herard Abraham. Abraham, diplomatic sources said, has agreed to hand over the government on Monday to the Supreme Court until elections can be held.

It was not clear whether Avril would leave the country.

Avril's decision came after reported intense negotiations between him and Dufour and U.S. Ambassador Alvin Adams.

Avril's ouster was demanded by a 12-party opposition coalition that launched a round of protests throughout the West Indian nation March 4. The coalition, the Association of Political Parties, had demanded that the provisional government be headed by the vice president of the Supreme Court, Volcy Alphonse.

Sporadic gunfire was heard in several parts of the capital before dawn Saturday but residents seemed unconcerned.

''The soldiers are shooting because they are afraid of the people,'' a resident of the Fort Nationale section of the city said.

Demonstrators erected barricades of burning tires around the city Friday and staged demonstrations calling for Avril's ouster. Students clashed with police at one college, and authorities opened fire, wounding several people and creating panic at a nearby hospital, a student representative said.

''We have to get rid of this guy. He can't stay any longer,'' said one Haitian. ''Everyone wants him to go.''

An estimated 200,000 people have participated in the weeklong demonstrations that have spread to every part of Haiti, an impoverished nation of 6 million people that occupies the western third of the island of Hispaniola in the Caribbean.

At least four people, including one soldier, have died in the demonstrations, officials said.

Earlier it was reported that Avril was planning to leave Haiti for an undisclosed European country. Sources close to the palace said his two grown sons had already left for Europe, possibly to prepare for their father's departure.

U.S. sources in Washington said the United States would not only welcome a decision by Avril to leave the country but would facilitate his departure, as it helped Gen. Henri Namphy flee to the Dominican Republic when Avril took control of Haiti in a 1988 coup.

The island nation has been governed in succession by a military tribunal, an elected president and two military dictators since President-for-life Jean Claude ''Baby Doc'' Duvalier was toppled in a popular uprising in February 1986.

The latest unrest began March 4 after the 12 political parties issued a joint declaration calling for the general's resignation. Police fired on protesters the following day in Petite Goave, 20 miles west of the capital killing 11-year-old Roseline Vaval as she studied on the porch of her home.

Protests spread throughout the country in the next few days and erupted in the capital Thursday. Despite the slayings, diplomatic sources said the army was acting with relative restraint compared with previous periods of unrest, when soldiers repeatedly killed civilians at random.

Radio Metropole reported soldiers in some Haitian provinces Friday laid down their arms and joined anti-Avril protests and said the armed forces had instructed soldiers not to fire on demonstrators, an indication Avril's military support may be waning.

Most shops and businesses in Port-au-Prince remained closed Saturday and public transportation was scarce.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (MARCH 10) UPI - Tommy Carter was less than thrilled when he discovered his recently-purchased used car turned out to be a lemon. But it really left a bitter taste in his mouth when the dealer began to call him names.

A jury agreed that the dealer was out of line and Friday awarded Carter $73,300 in damages - enough money to buy several new cars.

According to court records Carter, 21, bought an orange 1984 Volkswagen Jetta from Nix Used Car Center in January 1989 for $4,995.

Almost immediately, Carter said, the car developed problems. He said he took it back to the used car dealer, but the dealer reneged on promises to fix the automobile.

That's when Carter decided to get even. He taped huge signs to his Jetta reading ''Nix Lemon,'' and began driving up and down the street in front of the dealership.

Nix employees decided to get even. They put up a sign that read, ''Tommy Carter is a faggot.''

Carter successfully sued the dealership for libel.

Carter was not available for comment on the victory but his attorney, William Applegate, said his client feels vindicated by the victory.

''He felt people had certainly believed his side,'' Applegate said.

NEW YORK (MARCH 10) UPI - A newborn boy was pushed down a chute into a trash compactor in the basement of a housing project, where a caretaker heard his cries and saved the infant's life Saturday by shutting off the machine, police said.

The caretaker, Ferris Brown, heard the wailing baby boy about 8:40 a.m. while he was cleaning up trash in the basement of the building in the East New York section, said Sgt. Mary Wrensen, a police spokeswoman.

Brown turned off the trash compactor and then called 911. When police and an ambulance crew arrived, they discovered the baby in a plastic bag inside the compactor, Wrensen said.

The baby was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where he was listed in guarded condition in the neo-natal intensive care nursery, hospital spokesman Stephen Phelps said.

''He has a good cry and his breathing and reflexes seem good,'' Phelps said.

If Brown had not heard the cries and turned off the compactor, the baby ''would have been compacted'' to death, the sergeant said.

Police were searching for the baby's mother, Wrensen said, adding that it was unclear whether she lived in the building.

She said the baby had apparently been pushed down one of the chutes which transport trash to the garbage compactor in the basement.

The baby was about four hours old when he was brought to the hospital and he had an abrasion on the back of his head about one and a half square inches in area, apparently from the fall down the chute, Phelps said.

The baby was found still attached to the umbilical cord and placenta, Phelps said.

He said the hospital was conducting extensive tests on the baby, including blood tests and X-rays.

The building, part of the Park Rock housing project, has trash disposal chutes on each of its four floors, a building resident said. Tenants open up a small door and push the trash into the chute, through which it slides down into the basement.

MINNEAPOLIS (MARCH 10) UPI - One of the three Northwest Airlines flight crew members whose pilot licenses were revoked for allegedly flying under the influence of alcohol once had his driver's license revoked for refusing an alcohol test, it was reported Saturday.

The Star Tribune in Minneapolis reported that Capt. Norman Prouse, 51, Conyers, Ga., had his Minnesota driver's license revoked for 90 days in 1979 after he refused an alcohol test when police stopped him.

According to records from the state Department of Public Safety, the newspaper said Prouse's driver's license was lifted for refusing the blood or breath test. Details of the charges against him were no longer on file because by law such information is erased after seven years, the newspaper said.

Prouse lived in Cottage Grove at the time. Records show that while he was eligible for reinstatement on Aug. 10, 1979, he applied for a driver's license and was reinstated on Nov. 22, 1982.

The newspaper said records indicate that on Nov. 17, 1982, an alcohol assessment was done on Prouse to determine whether he had an alcohol dependency problem. Results of the assessment are confidential, it said.

Prouse, First Officer Robert Kirchner, 35, Highland Ranch, Colo., and Second Officer Joseph Balzer, 34, Antioch, Tenn., were the cockpit crew for a Boeing 727 that flew from Fargo, N.D., to the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport early Thursday. The 146-passenger jet carried 91 passengers and landed without incident.

They were arrested by airport police after a Federal Aviation Administration inspector made a citizen's arrest. The inspector had been alerted by an anonymous call that the three allegedly had been drinking the night before the flight.

On Friday, the FAA ordered an emergency revocation of their pilot licenses.

''Safety and alcohol do not mix,'' FAA Administrator James Busey said. ''We have taken quick and effective action in this case and we will take equally forceful action against any other airman who violates the agency's regulations against alcohol.''

The FAA said the flight crew has a right to appeal the revocation of their licenses within 10 days to an administrative law judge of the National Transportation Safety Board.

Results of blood-alcohol tests taken of the three have not been revealed.

Federal regulations prohibit crews from flying under the influence of alcohol and having a blood-alcohol level of more than .04 percent by weight. They also forbid flight crews from flying within eight hours of drinking alcohol.

Northwest had grounded the pilots following their arrest pending the outcome of the investigation.

''They have not been found guilty of anything and that's why we are doing an investigation,'' he said. ''They are innocent until proven otherwise.''

NEW YORK (MARCH 10) UPI - Marla Maples, the blond model reputed to be behind the breakup of Donald Trump's marriage, is no longer invited to the grand opening of the Taj Mahal casino in Atlantic City, published reports said Saturday.

Maples had accepted an invitation extended by Trump to the April 5 gala, with her father reportedly even advising her to seek payment for the job.

But the billionaire developer apparently has had second thoughts about the affect the blond model's presence at the casino bash might have on his family, sources told the New York Post and the New York Daily News.

''Even though she is a good friend of his, and her presence would probably be one of the great promotional events of all time, he decided his family comes first,'' a source close to Trump told the News.

A source told the Post another reason for the rescinded invitation might be that Trump's estranged wife, Ivana, plans to attend.

''Ivana may be there. That's something that'll be determined as a result of how things unfold in the next few weeks - legal and emotional stuff,'' the source told the Post.

Maples, meanwhile, may not have heard the news and according to her agent, Chuck Jones, still plans to attend the event.

The about-face comes a week after the Post reported that Trump had asked Maples to attend the casino opening in what was expected to be her first public appearance since Trump announced he was seeking to divorce Ivana.

Maples has been hiding from the press for three weeks, but has denied through Jones rumors that she is Trump's mistress.

Trump could not be reached for comment.

CLEVELAND (MARCH 10) UPI - The site selection committee for the 1992 Democratic National Convention this week will visit Cleveland, a blue-collar Democratic Party stronghold being promoted as the logical choice for the party's rebirth.

Party officials in late May will make their choice among finalists Cleveland, Houston, New Orleans, Detroit and New York. They visited Houston earlier this month and plan to visit New York, Detroit and New Orleans in April. Their three-day tour of Cleveland is to begin Wednesday.

''It's the final process of the site selection for the 1992 Democratic National Convention,'' said Robin Schepper, a party spokeswoman in Washington. ''This is to actually see the cities - check drive times between the hotel and the facility, see how much the city really wants us.''

A national political convention has not been held in Ohio since 1936 when the Republican Party nominated Alfred Landon in Cleveland. The last time the Democrats met in Ohio was 1880 in Cincinnati.

In 1936 Cleveland was stronger poltical force - ranking sixth in population among American cities in the 1930 census compared with 22nd currently - and the city offered 14-year-old Public Hall, also host of the 1924 GOP Convention.

Now promoters of Cleveland talk of the city being a symbol of the so-called rustbelt weakened by factory closings in the early 1980s but, they say in Cleveland's case, making a comeback with service jobs.

The proposed site is the 2.5 million-square-foot International Exposition Center, billed as the largest single-building exposition center in the world. It was built to make aircraft during World War II and was used to make tanks during the Korean and Vietnam wars before being converted into a convention facility in 1986.

''I think we have any excellent shot at it,'' Brook Park Mayor Thomas Coyne Jr. said. ''All the (finalist) cities could house the convention.

''But the most important thing, and this is a political decision in my mind as a young Democrat, this party cannot take the northeast part of the United States for granted. The convention is a symbol. It stands for what the party stands for,'' he said.

On the line is the money that will be spent by 35,000 convention attendees and an estimated 14,000 news media personnel leading up to and during the July 13-16, 1992, convention.

It's estimated that Atlanta realized a $63 million to $70 million economic benefit in 1988, San Francisco $55 million in 1984 and New York $30 million in 1980.

Cleveland, with three downtown hotels now under construction and at least three others in the planning stages, also wants to prove it is capable of being a major convention city.

''During the presentation (to party officials in Washington), we found 80 percent of them haven't been to Cleveland in the last eight years,'' Coyne said. ''Visiting here, they are going to be extremely surprised.''

An official with the U-S Embassy in Moscow criticizes the F-A-A.

And, a mechanical cause for a subway crash in Philadelphia.

This and other top news today... from U-P-I.

Former White House aide Oliver North spent his first day on the witness stand yesterday in the Iran-Contra trial of his former boss, John Poindexter.

Poindexter, a retired Navy rear admiral who succeeded Robert McFarlane as Ronald Reagan's national security adviser... is charged with five counts of lying to Congress and obstructing its investigation of the affair.

North spent five hours answering questions from federal prosecutor Dan Webb... and will resume Monday morning.

Under a grant of immunity, North said he told Poindexter all about secret operations to arm the Contra rebels with money from weapons sales to Iran... and insisted he never would have acted without approval of his superiors.

North reported to Poindexter at the National Security Council... and was the key White House operative in both the Contra effort and Iranian arms sales.

North did NOT want to testify against his former boss... but was forced to appear under a grant of immunity from further prosecution. He is appealing a conviction in his own Iran-Contra trial.

A U-S Embassy official stationed in Moscow told a government panel the threat preceding the 1988 explosion of a Pan Am flight over Scotland was more specific than those usually received.

Raymond Smith, the former political counsellor at the U-S Embassy in Moscow, reviewed the threat after it was received. Smith told the President's Commission on Aviation Security and Terrorism the so-called Helsinki cable contained information stating a threat against the specific carrier, the route... and a two-week period over which a plane would be targeted.

Flight 103 from Frankfurt, West Germany, to New York exploded over Lockerbie December 21st, 1988, within the two-week period. All 259 passengers aboard died.

The commission is examining aviation security after the Federal Aviation Administration's decision NOT to alert airline passengers of a markedly increased threat on flights departing from Frankfurt.

Family members of victims of Flight 103 have sued Pan Am and its security company for failure to release information about the threat.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Federal investigators say the driver of the Philadelphia subway train that derailed Wednesday has tested positive for cocaine use.

But the National Transportation Safety Board and the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transit Authority refuse to link cocaine use to the accident that killed three people and injured another 163.

N-T-S-B investigator John Lauber says the likely cause of the crash was a traction motor that slipped from its position beneath the train and hit a rail switch.

Federal investigators yesterday discovered 27 instances of poorly torqued nuts and cotter pins that hold traction motors in place on 19 subway cars.

Following an N-T-S-B recommendation, SEPTA has removed 240 subway cars from service until they are inspected. SEPTA is also in the process of setting up a panel of three outside experts to review subway safety and maintenance procedures.

Witnesses told a joint Senate panel on narcotics that heroin trafficking from Southeast Asia appears to be on the rise.

Drug Enforcement Administration official David Westrate says production of heroin... believed to be more potent than ever... has more than doubled in the past four years to more than four-thousand tons annually.

The panel chairman, Senator John Kerry of Massachusetts, says ''Some experts believe the United States is now on the verge of a new heroin epidemic.''

Kerry told two administration drug experts they should consider focusing their plan on reducing demand instead of supply. Said Kerry... ''Consumption is the most critical issue facing this country.''

Westrate says U-S effectiveness in controlling drug trafficking in Southeast Asia is hampered by war, political strife and corruption in the region.

He says drug producers also have become increasingly sophisticated in distributing their illegal product and laundering profits.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Dr. Veronica Prego, the New York physician who says she is dying from AIDS because of the negligence of a fellow worker at a city hospital, has received a one-Million 350-thousand dollar out-of-court settlement.

State Supreme Court Justice Aaron Bernstein originally kept terms of the agreement secret but lifted his gag order yesterday.

Prego had sought 175-Million dollars... saying she became ill after jabbing her finger with a contaminated needle left by her supervising intern amid other medical trash in the room of an AIDS patient.

She also alleged that another doctor, Sheldon Landesman, illegally revealed her condition.

Members of the six-person panel hearing the case say they were leaning toward Prego in the landmark case. Several jurors say Prego's lawyers had proved that New York's Health and Hospitals Corporation was negligent.

The nation's first heart-liver transplant recipient is back on her feet and out of Pittsburgh's Children's Hospital.

YUCCA FLAT, NV. (MARCH 10) UPI - A nuclear weapon detonated 1,500 feet beneath the Nevada desert Saturday, generating the force of a moderate earthquake that was felt by some observers on high-rise gambling resorts 85 miles away in Las Vegas.

The test, code named ''Metropolis,'' was the first nuclear test announced by the United States this year.

Eleven anti-nuclear protesters conducted a vigil near the gates of the Nevada Test Site, 30 miles from ground zero where the weapon was triggered beneath Yucca Flat, an arid desert flat on the Nevada Test Site.

Two men were arrested on charges of trespassing when they stepped over the government property line at the top-secret Department of Energy facility. Eighteen protesters briefly picketed the Department of Energy building in downtown Las Vegas without incident.

A spokesman at the Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said the nuclear blast measured 5.1 on the Richter Scale, a magnitude equivalent to a ''moderate'' earthquake. The recent Southern California earthquake had a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter Scale.

Chris West, a spokesman for the Department of Energy, said government observers on the high-rise Fitzgerald's hotel-casino in downtown Las Vegas reported feeling ''a slight earth motion'' but were unable to determine the direction of the earth movement.

Observers at the high-rise Regency Towers, a posh condominum on the Las Vegas Country Club near the Strip, also felt slight motion.

There were no other reports of earth motion and no damage, said West.

The detonation at 8 a.m. PST had a yield of 20 to 150 kilotons, or a maximum equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT. The atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima during World War II was a 13-kiloton weapon.

U.S. officials announced 12 underground nuclear weapons tests last year at the Nevada Test Site, six of which were in the 20 to 150 kiloton range.

''No radiation escaped into the atmosphere and initial data indicates the test was a success,'' said West.

He described the earth motion from a control point 11 miles from ground zero as similar to ''sitting in a row boat and gently rocking back and forth.''

''There were no problems, everything went fine,'' said West.

The detonation sent a funnel of dust into the clear desert sky above ground zero, as the earth bulged skyward about a foot from the force of the underground detonation.

Helicopters and fixed-wing government planes circled above ground zero with radiation monitoring equipment, prepared to track any radiation that might leak into the atmosphere by accident.

The nuclear weapons test, conducted by the Livermore National Laboratory, was the 700th at the Nevada Test Site since the Rhode Island-sized facility became operational in 1951. The United States and the Soviet Union signed a treaty in 1963 mandating that nuclear weapons test be conducted underground to avoid the release of radiation into the earth's atmosphere.

NEW YORK (MARCH 10) UPI - Like a veteran player, the 1990 spring training lockout is passing milestones.

Not many fans will stand to salute them, however.

The lockout enters its 25th day Sunday, making it half as long as baseball's longest work stoppage in this century. In 1981, players struck for 50 days, thus splitting the season into halves.

Bud Selig, owner of the Milwaukee Brewers and chairman of the committee that has imposed the lockout, has spoken of the pain of 1981. At least one factor separates then from now, though. That strike is over, which is more than anyone can say of the lockout.

Last week's developments, in which each side rejected the other's proposal showed the gap on the arbitration issue. Commissioner Fay Vincent's plan to open the camps possibly made things worse.

No formal talks are scheduled until Monday at the earliest. Each day brings more exhibition cancellations. And unless many baseball insiders have exaggerated the time needed for spring training, then no one can open as scheduled on April 2.

Carl Pohlad, Minnesota Twins owner and also a member of the Player Relations Committee, said, ''I'm not optimistic we'll meet Opening Day.'' Union chief Don Fehr, though he hasn't ruled out an April 2 opener, says the 1990 season already carries an asterisk.

Fehr points out, not without justification, that the lockout has changed the races. Some players, he says, won't have enough time to make the team. Managers won't have enough time to pick a team. And a lack of conditioning will affect some early-season games, raising the question of what would have happened otherwise.

Then again, the lure of money could compress spring training once the agreement comes. In 1981, for instance, a settlement came on July 31, and the All-Star Game took place Aug. 10. Players needed just 10 days to shake off seven weeks of inactivity.

And remember the case of Tim Raines? Victimized by collusion in 1987, the Montreal Expos outfielder missed the entire month of April. He still led the majors with 123 runs, and ranked third in the National League batting race at .330.

Of course, no training schedule means anything until a settlement comes. Perhaps, in separate briefings on Friday, the parties established some basis for dialogue. Mets owner Fred Wilpon said the dispute was about economics, not ideology. And Fehr said it was about money.

Having agreed that the issue is cash, maybe the sides can produce something soon. Until then, the lockout grows by the day, passing milestones that not many fans will stand up and cheer.

WASHINGTON (MARCH 10) UPI - Nationally known homeless advocate Mitch Snyder, whose 51-day fast in 1984 forced the Reagan administration to allocate funds for the homeless, launched another hunger strike Saturday in the nation's capitol.

Snyder, 46, began his fast at noon along with 21 members of his Community for Creative Non-Violence homeless advocacy group.

The group is protesting a city council committee's plan to cut the Department of Human Services budget that funds shelters and other services to homeless families by a third this year and by nearly a half next year.

The committee on Human Services voted Friday to cut the department's budget by $19 million over the next two years. The action will be voted on by the full council March 20.

Snyder vowed to ''do whatever is necessary'' to change the committee's actions.

Starting Monday, the group of fasters will take turns demonstrating in front of city hall, he said. He was unsure whether the group would continue to fast if the committee's actions were sustained by the full council.

''The fast is an expression of moral outrage at a $6 million cut this year and a cut of nearly $13 million next year in district services to homeless families,'' Snyder told reporters at a press conference launching the fast.

''We plan to do whatever is necessary to see that the full council doesn't approve this action,'' he said.

The sharp reduction in funding could only be implemented if the district abolishes Initiative 17, the law that mandates the government provide housing for homeless people in the city.

Councilmember H.R. Crawford, chairman of the committee that recommended the cuts, has drafted legislation to address that issue and it is expected to see committee action next month.

Crawford has said the cuts are necessary because the city's Office of Emergency Shelter and Support Services spent $20 million last year paying for homeless people to stay in hotels and motels.

''They are the city government and if they can't run the city, let them get another job,'' said Snyder of the council members.

Snyder garnered nationwide attention when he launched a hunger strike during the 1984 presidential campaign, demanding that the White House turn over a decaying federal building for use as a homeless shelter.

On the 51st day of the fast - with the election two days away - Reagan capitulated and agreed to turn the building into a ''model'' shelter.

Actor Martin Sheen, himself a vocal homeless activist, later starred in a television movie on Snyder's life called ''Samaritan: The Mitch Snyder Story.''

CHICAGO (MARCH 10) UPI - Abbott Laboratories directors have sparked a legal battle by dismissing chairman Robert A. Schoellhorn five months before he was to retire, replacing him with chief executive officer Duane L. Burnham.

Schoellhorn, who relinquished the CEO post Jan. 1, filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court late Friday against four board members of the North Chicago-based pharmaeutical firm, charging they had overstepped their authority in removing him.

The lawsuit charged the dismissal caused Schoellhorn, who a company spokesman said was to retire in August, economic damage and ''severe personal humiliation.''

Circuit Judge Anthony Scotillo rejected Schoellhorn's request that he be allowed to remain as chairman and retain membership on certain board committees, but also ordered his contractural employment not be terminated by Abbott. Scotillo set a hearing for April 9.

Schoellhorn, 61, had served as Abbott chairman since 1981.

Burnham, 48, who was elevated from his post of vice chairman, joined Abbott in 1982. He served as chief financial officer until 1987.

''We are confident the current strong management team headed by Burnham will continue Abbott's excellent performance,'' said William Smithburg, head of a panel of Abbott directors that had been considering a successor to Schoellhorn, in a statement. Smithburg also is chairman of Quaker Oats.

The removal of Schoellhorn came amid reports of corporate dissension in the wake of last summer's exit of president Jack W. Schuler, who had been viewed as a potential successor to Schoellhorn. Schuler was the third Abbott president to depart since 1980.

In separate corporate development, Abbott declared a 2-for-1 stock split Friday and boosted the company's quarterly dividend from 35 cents to 42 cents - a 20 percent increase.

PHILADELPHIA (MARCH 10) UPI - The Philadelphia mass transit agency began inspecting its entire subway fleet Saturday after a federal investigation found poor maintenance practices and cocaine use by the driver in last week's fatal accident.

In a letter to the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority, the National Transportation Safety Board recommended that the 240 subway cars be inspected, SEPTA spokesman James Whitaker said Saturday.

''We inspected the entire fleet Wednesday and Thursday following the accident,'' Whitaker said. ''We are re-inspecting the fleet as per the recommendations of the NTSB - in particular, the motor assemblies.''

The inspections should be completed in time for SEPTA to resume full service on the line by Monday, officials said.

A portion of the line in downtown Philadelphia was shutdown Wednesday after a morning rush-hour derailment killed three people and injured 163. The driver of the train tested positive for cocaine use three hours after the crash.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation, but the probe is focusing on traction motor assemblies under the cars.

Preliminary NTSB findings have revealed that a traction motor, housed in the car's undercarriage, may have dislodged and hit a rail switch, causing the last three cars of the six-car subway train to derail.

The NTSB Friday inspected 19 cars used on the Market-Frankford elevated line, including three cars from the crash, and discovered 27 instances of poorly torqued nuts and cotter pins that hold traction motors in place.

SEPTA general manager Louis Gambaccini said the transit agency's maintenance procedures will be reviewed.

''I will convene a peer review panel with three experts from other transit systems to come in and look at us from up to bottom for our maintenance practices,'' he said.

The driver of the train, whose name has not been released, tested positive for cocaine use after the accident, Whitaker said. The 16-year SEPTA veteran's urine revealed he had both raw and metabolized cocaine in his system. The test was confirmed twice.

The motorman has not worked since Wednesday's accident and will be officially suspended Monday without pay, Whitaker said. He can appeal the suspension.

The other crew member on the train tested negative for drug or alcohol use Whitaker said. The tests are required of all crew members involved in an accident.

NTSB investigator John Lauber said officials were probing whether previous disciplinary action had been taken against the suspended driver because of drug use.

But, Lauber and Gambaccini were skeptical that human error caused the accident.

Investigators continued searching for the nut and cotter pin that held the dislodged motor. The on-site investigation in Philadelphia should conclude by Tuesday, an NTSB spokesman.

The wrecked cars were removed Friday from the subway tunnel.

BALTIMORE (MARCH 10) UPI - A federal grand jury has begun investigating allegations that the Navy was bilked out of millions of dollars in an overcharging scheme by a defense contractor's Maryland plant, a published report said Saturday.

The federal investigation concentrates on operations at Martin Marietta's plant in Glen Burnie, wes of Baltimore, when the plant was owned by Gould Inc.

Martin Marietta officials are cooperating with the investigation, The Baltimore Sun reported.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying the Defense Department was overcharged because Gould allegedly shipped some parts assembly work on sophisticated underwater listening devices to Juarez, Mexico, where the labor rate was significantly lower.

The Defense Department was allegedly charged at a rate comparable to what the work would have cost in Maryland.

A Martin worker, who asked for anonymity, told The Sun the ''defective pricing'' scheme ''involved millions of dollars and dates back to September 1986.''

The Glen Burnie plant is the Navy's leading supplier of ''sonar towed arrays,'' underwater listening devices that are towed by ships and used to detect, identify and trace the movements of other vessels in an area. For military purposes, the devices are used to track enemy ships and submarines.

The newspaper's source also said the Baltimore office of the Defense Criminal Investigation Service is looking at the pricing structure used by Gould.

''We are aware of this investigation, and we are cooperating to the fullest extent,'' a Martin spokesman, at corporate headquarters in Bethesda, told The Sun. ''We have no reason to believe that Martin Marietta is a target of this investigation.

A spokesman for Gould, based in Eastlake, Ill., said the company could not comment on matters under litigation.

The U.S. Attorney's office in Baltimore declined comment and declined to confirm the investigation.

Martin Marietta acquired the Gould Ocean Systems division in September 1988. Gould sold off its Glen Burnie plant as part of a corporate reorganization made public in the summer of 1986. At that time, Gould made the decision to sell off its defense holdings and concentrate on computer and commercial electronics operations.

Gould reported that the Glen Burnie operation had revenues of $100 million the year before its purchase by Martin Marietta.

(MARCH 10) UPI - The second week of a nationwide Greyhound strike began Saturday with a bullet fired at a bus on an Arizona highway, a loud demonstration by pickets in Seattle and another call by a company executive for the union to join its legal action to defuse the violence.

No new contract talks were scheduled, but federal mediators and union leaders are to meet in Washington on Monday to discuss the labor dispute.

Greyhound officials said Phoenix police interviewed a suspect after a bullet was fired from a car on Interstate 17 at a Los Angeles-bound bus about 4 a.m. Saturday, but he was not immediately charged.

John Butler, Greyhound division general manager, said the bus had been on the highway about five minutes when the bullet hit the passenger door window, shattering the glass. None of the 41 passengers was hurt.

In Seattle, a half-dozen buses were delayed by pickets who blocked the depot exit for several hours Friday evening. Some protesters used obscene language and gestures, but there were no fights and no arrests for violence, said police Lt. Steve Knechtel.

The protest in the Pacific Northwest was part of memorial services scheduled around the country for a striking Greyhound driver killed on the picket line last weekend. The strike, which began March 2, has been marred by numerous sporadic clashes.

Greyhound has been granted temporary restraining orders in 13 cities, holding union leders responsible for any violence. Greyhound chairman Fred C. Currey Saturday issued a second call to union leaders not to oppose the orders and to join the company as plaintiffs in the actions.

Currey's letter, printed in a full-page advertisement in the Washington Post, was addressed to James LaSala, international president of the union, and Edward Strait, president of the union's Greyhound council, which represents the 9,000 striking Greyhound workers.

LaSala responded Friday, saying the union does not encourage any property damage or violence, but that it plans to exercise its legal right to picket to convince management to return to the bargaining table.

In a statement Saturday, however, Currey targeted Strait.

''(Strait) is an honorable man, a peaceful, law-abiding citizen. I am sure that, privately, he is as opposed to violence as I am,'' Currey wrote.

''The issue is his silence ... I call on him again today to use his leadership and the authority of his office to put a stop to the violence so that the legitimate issues can be confronted.''

A spokeswoman at the union's offices in Washington D.C. said there was no immediate response to Currey's second statement.

Outbreaks of violence were also reported Friday in Ohio, where a bus carrying 28 passengers from Columbus to Cincinnati was hit with several bullets. No one was was injured.

Greyhound claims that 1,800 union employees have returned to work despite the strike, including 358 drivers. In addition, the company has hired 700 replacement workers and reported it was operating at 30 percent capacity Friday.

The union says only about 400 union members have crossed picket lines, including fewer than 100 drivers. The union also claims that the hiring of replacement workers is illegal.

The strike involves many of Greyhound's 9,000 union drivers, baggage handlers, mechanics, ticket agents and reservation clerks, who walked off the job after five days of intense talks in Phoenix failed to yield a new contract.

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (MARCH 10) UPI - The new Lithuanian Parliament convened Saturday to declare independence for the Baltic republic, shed its socialist name and demand immediate talks with Moscow on full secession from the U.S.S.R.

Nationalist legislators arriving at the Parliament building in Vilnius for the first meeting of a freely elected Soviet republican legislature were greeted by about 500 cheering people, who chanted ''Freedom, freedom'' and gave each deputy a red carnation.

The Parliament was to deal with procedural matters at its Saturday evening session and then meet Sunday to consider a ''Resolution on the Restoration of Lithuanian Statehood,'' said lawmaker Virgijius Cepaitis, a senior official of the Sajudis nationalist movement that swept the Feb. 24 parliamentary elections.

''We will declare an independent Lithuania within the Soviet Union,'' Cepaitis told United Press International. ''Following the declaration we will start talks with Moscow on how to get out of the Soviet Union.''

Lithuania's secession would be the first splintering of the Soviet Union since it was established in its present form in 1924 and then expanded in a series of conquests and annexations.

Cepaitis said the Supreme Soviet on Sunday would change the name of the territory from the Lithuanian Soviet Socialist Republic to the Republic of Lithuania and restore the national coat of arms showing a mounted knight with a spear.

''A proposal will be adopted saying that the Supreme Soviet of Lithuania has the right to decide the fate of Lithuania,'' Cepaitis said.

''Another document will restore the constitution of 1938 but it will be immediately suspended,'' Cepaitis said. That constitution was the last one of independent Lithuania.

''There will also be adopted a certain temporary constitution which will fit the current situation in Lithuania,'' he said, but he refused to disclose the contents of that document.

Cepaitis added that provisions for the election of a president of the republic would not be adopted due to the suspension of the constitution, and that parliament was to fulfill the role of president for a period of time.

The present government of premier Vytautas Sakalauskas was to resign and Kazimiera Prunskien was expected to take over as interim prime minister.

Prunskien is a respected Sajudis-supported member of the Communist Party of Lithuania and an economist. Cepaitis said she was expected to take over government for up to 14 days until a new government was elected.

The proposed declaration of independence, expected to be adopted by the Supreme Soviet Sunday afternoon, will in principle unilaterally restore the republic to its status prior to Soviet annexation.

The contents of the document were made available to United Press International by a Sajudis official who asked that it not be published in its entirety until the expected approval Sunday.

In part, the ''Resolution on the Restoration of Lithuanian Statehood'' said: ''The Supreme Soviet of the Lithuanian Republic expresses the will of the nation to solemnly decide to declare the restoration of the Lithuanian state whose operation was stopped by means of a foreign force.

''The territory of Lithuania is indivisible. A constitution of another state cannot operate on the territory of Lithuania,'' the proposal said, adding that human rights of all ethnic groups were guaranteed.

It said the Republic of Lithuania recognized national borders as formulated by the 1975 Helsinki conference on European security and cooperation.

Sunday's Supreme Soviet meeting in Vilnius comes after free elections last month in the recalcitrant republic in which the opposition Sajudis movement trounced the Communist Party to obtain a clear parliamentary majority.

But talk of a unilateral breakaway from the Soviet Union has fallen off in recent days after Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev announced he would present Lithuania with a bill for compensation of $33 billion if it secedes.

''I dont know how they arrived at this figure and I think they added up the investments in Lithuania year by year. We are preparing our bill, however, which is 10 times larger than the amount of money Moscow invested in us,'' Cepaitis said.

He added the Lithuanian demand for reparation would be based on the the fact that the Soviet Union has used Lithuanian land, built factories on Lithuanian soil and sent 300,000 Lithuanians to Siberia as forced labor.

Commenting on a television speech Wednesday by Lithuanian Communist Party leader Algirdas Brazauskas in which he warned against secession because of the economic situation in the country, Cepaitis said: ''He simply wanted to scare Lithuanians not to secede.''

Sunday's session of the Lithuanian Supreme Soviet was to begin at 9 a.m. (2 a.m. EST) and was expected to last all day, with the resolution on the restoration of Lithuanian statehood expected to be adopted at noon (5 a.m. EST).

(MARCH 10) UPI - The Iran-Contra trial of former national security adviser John Poindexter has adjourned until Monday. Former Reagan White House aide Oliver North took the stand yesterday... saying he told Poindexter all about the secret operation.

During five hours on the witness stand, North fought a question-by-question battle against federal prosecutors. North was reluctant to testify against his former boss... but had to under a grant of immunity from further prosecution.

SEATTLE (MARCH 12) UPI - A Seattle attorney expects a response next week from The Boeing Co. concerning a threatened suit against the airline manufacturer by a number of disgruntled employees who may be laid off.

Employees are also asking for relocation costs if they do lose their, attorney Kevin Peck said Friday.

After meeting privately with Boeing representatives, Peck said the company is looking into the matter seriously and will respond to the issues sometime next week.

Meanwhile Boeing issued two-week notices to 600 workers on Friday, about one-third of the number the company had warned of in an earlier letter.

The notices are the second step under a new federal law requiring employees to notify workers in advance of pending layoffs.

Boeing spokesman Paul Binder said growing numbers of voluntary departures and worker retirements had enabled the company to trim layoff plans for the time being.

''We still intend to reduce the number of jobs by 5,000 this year,'' he said. ''We could still end up with 2,500 layoffs by the end of the year.''

In January Boeing told 1,900 of its workers in the Puget Sound area to expect layoffs within 60 days and said it expected to layoff a total of 2,500 and slash 5,000 jobs from its payroll this year.

Boeing laid off almost 100 workers at its Wichita, Kan., plant and as many as 100 more may get pink slips by the end of the month.

About three-quarters of the 600 two-week notices were sent to workers at the Everett plant, which produces the company's 767 and 747 series airliners.

Binder said even if an employee gets a two-week notice, he or she may not be laid off if another job position becomes available.

In an attempt to preserve more Boeing jobs, Rep Norm Dicks, D-Wash., is scheduled to meet privately next week with Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett III to find out if there's way to restore funding for Boeing's experimental Sea Lance anti-submarine missile system, which employes 300 workers.

Funeds for research and development for the project are set to expire Sept. 15, unless Congress agrees to restore roughly $150 million dollars.

CHICAGO (MARCH 11) UPI - The Bozo Show, a 28-year fixture on a Chicago television station that broadcasts around the country, will start taking audience ticket reservations for the first time in a decade, officials said Saturday.

Acceptance of reservations for tickets was halted in 1980 because of a massive backlog of bookings extending years and years in advance for the show that features the famed orange-haired clown with floppy shoes and a bulbous red nose.

''The tickets got to be an administrative nightmare,'' said producer Al Hall of the show, which is attended mostly by Chicago-area residents. ''We have had people who sent in for tickets when their children were 5 years old and have moved and come back and brought the 15-year-olds down.''

Tickets will be available on March 17, St. Patrick's Day, once the station that carries the series, WGN, reveals a secret 900 telephone number people can call to make reservations, the producer said.

''I have a nightmare that (the calls) are going to tie up the whole city

'' Hall said. ''I suspect there will be a heavy demand (of up to 35,000 calls).''

Callers will be limited to four tickets.

The tickets themselves, starting with September dates, will be free. There will, however, be $3 charge to defray costs of the special phone number and administrative costs, he said.

WGN is seen in 34 percent of the United States and can also be viewed in Mexico and Central America, Hall said.

The comedy-variety show for children began in September 1961 with Bob Bell playing Bozo, a part held the last six years by Joey D'Auria.

Hall took part in the very first show and has been its producer since 1973.

''I find it interesting that we have such continued interest. It seems to be somehow or another a part of the culture of Chicago now.''

Hall said he recently had spoken with a woman who was part of the audience when she was 5 years old and had brought her 5-year-old to see the show.

''The viewers have developed a personal relationship with the characters, so we're all part of a family,'' he said.

MIAMI (MARCH 11) UPI - About 100 Haitians, demanding a say in choosing the next government of their native land, broke into the grounds of the Haitian Consulate Saturday upon learning dictator Prosper Avril stepped down as leader of the Caribbean island nation.

The Haitians climbed the walls of the consulate in southwest Miami and entered the building around noon. The building had been virtually empty, and authorities were summoned to deal with the otherwise peaceful intruders, said William A. Gavin, head of the FBI's Miami bureau.

''FBI agents interviewed the individuals who were leading the group. There were no injuries, there were no arrests and by approximately 4:45 p.m., the premises were completely clear of any unauthorized individuals,'' he said.

''The FBI will be in consultation with the United States Attorney's Office to determine if any charges are to be filed in the future, Gavin said.

He said negotiators for the Miami Police Department, the State Department and the FBI determined ''... that the people occupying the building wanted the government of Haiti to give them a voice in choosing the next Haitian government representative to Miami.''

The demonstrators were advised about 3:55 p.m. that they would face arrest if they did not leave. Most of them left the building after a city police SWAT unit entered and the rest exited shortly, Gavin said.

Haitian Gen. Herard Abraham went on national television in mid-afternoon to announce that Avril had resigned and turned over the government to him, and pledged to surrender power to a provisional civilian government in 72 hours.

Avril left the presidential palace in the center of Port-au-Prince in a motorcade. His destination was unknown.

Even before the official announcement that Avril had stepped down, throngs of Haitians poured into the streets of Miami's Little Haiti district, which is in the center of the city.

Avril's ouster was demanded by a 12-party opposition coalition that launched a round of protests throughout the nation March 4. The coalition, the Association of Political Parties, had demanded that the provisional government be headed by the vice president of the Supreme Court, Volcy Alphonse.

The island nation, poorest in the Western Hemisphere, has been governed in succession by a military tribunal, an elected president and two military dictators since President-for-life Jean Claude ''Baby Doc'' Duvalier was toppled in a popular uprising in February 1986.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Haitians anxiously await word on the reported resignation of military ruler General Prosper Avril... The Soviet Union and Hungary sign a pact for the withdrawl of Soviet troops... And the U-S government detonates a nuclear weapon below the Nevada desert... These stories and more from the wires of UPI...

Haiti's military ruler apparently is ready to step down.

Protests demanding Prosper Avril's ouster have been staged across the island nation in the Caribbean for about a week. Today, independent Radio Metropole said Avril would relinquish power in a nationally broadcast speech.

But just before the scheduled broadcast, the speech was delayed. NO reason has been given.

Despite the postponement, huge celebrations have erupted in the capital of Port-au-Prince. Crowds have poured into the streets, waving palm fronds and cheering.

Reliable sources say Avril is ready to step down and that his feared presidential guard ''does NOT exist'' any longer.

The plan for the resignation reportedly was negotiated between Avril and the U-S and French ambassadors. Under that plan, he would turn over power to the acting army chief of staff, who would hand over the government to the Supreme Court until elections are held.

The Soviet Army that invaded Hungary in 1956 is ready to start pulling out of the country Monday.

So say Hungarian officials today after signing a pact with the Soviets.

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze conceded the agreement should have been made earlier.

Hungarian Foreign Minister Gyula Horn declared the pact ''opens a new chapter'' in his nation's history. The pull-out is due to be completed by the end of June next year.

But differences remain between Moscow and Budapest. Horn says a united Germany should be allowed to belong to NATO.

And Horn noted that although the Warsaw Pact has condemned its invasion of Czechoslovakia, it has never apologized for the Soviet-led invasion of Hungary in 1956.

Hungary last year ended Communist rule and adopted a multi-party democracy. But Horn declared his country is NOT considering leaving the Warsaw Pact.

(MARCH 10) UPI - A nuclear weapon was detonated 15-hundred feet beneath the Nevada desert today in the first underground nuclear test announced by the United States this year.

The test, code-named ''Metropolis,'' generated the force of a moderate earthquake. It was felt by government observers watching from high-rise gambling resorts 85 miles away in Las Vegas.

A spokesman at the Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colorado, says the blast measured five-point-one on the Richter scale. Officials say there were NO reports of damage, and NO radiation escaped into the atmosphere.

11 anti-nuclear protesters conducted a vigil near the gates of the Nevada Test Site. The gates are 30 miles from ground zero where the weapon was triggered beneath Yucca Flat.

Two men were arrested for trespassing when they stepped over the government property line at the top-secret facility.

Nelson Mandela is resting in Morogoro, Tanzania , before continuing on the last leg of his international tour.

Earlier today, the South African black nationalist leader arrived in Morogoro and spoke to a crowd of thousands who had waited five hours in the rain. But the visibly tired Mandala postponed a speech to key members of the African National Congress.

He was taken to see a doctor, and he's now resting. The 71-year-old Mandela is two weeks into his international tour, and the strain is showing. Witnesses say he appeared tired when he arrived at the Morogoro stadium for today's speech.

His planned speech to A-N-C members was rescheduled for tomorrow morning. Later, Mandela is to return to Tanzania's capital, where he'll meet with the president before leaving for Sweden, the last stop on his tour.

In South Africa, unrest continues. Police detained 50 protesters in a demonstration in Cape Town demanding the release of political prisoners.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Nicaragua's National Assembly today approved a general amnesty that absolves Contra rebels, members of the Sandinista Popular Army and other officials from prosecution.

The amnesty law was approved by a vote of 72-6 in the Sandinista-controlled assembly. It was originally submitted by President Ortega, who is to hand over power to President-elect Violeta Chamorro on April 25th.

The law covers offenses committed between July 19th, 1979, when the Sandinista Front came to power, and February 25th of this year, when Chamorro beat Ortega in national elections.

Included in the amnesty are Contra rebels who have been fighting to overthrow the Sandinistas since 1981. Also presumably included are those responsible for the killings of a Nicaraguan and an American nun in an ambush January 1st in northeast Nicaragua.

British diplomatic sources say Iraq today sentenced a reporter to death on charges of spying. A British nurse who allegedly helped him received a 15-year prison sentence.

Farzad Bazoft is a 31-year-old Iranian exile working for the London weekly Observer newspaper. The British Foreign Office says Bazoft was arrested in Baghdad in September while investigating reports of a fatal explosion at an Iraqi military plant.

52-year-old nurse Daphne Parish was accused of helping him drive to the site of the plant.

Prime Minister Thatcher expressed shock over the severity of the sentences. She appealed to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein for clemency, but there was NO immediate reaction.

The British Foreign Office says NO evidence was produced to justify the sentences. The foreign office criticized the action at a time when Iraq is trying to ''show a more liberal face to the world.''

The Observer newspaper objected that the reporter received official permission for his visit to the site of the explosion, and talked openly about the visit. The paper said Bazoft's actions were NOT spying, but were reporting.

Abraham did NOT say whether he'd agreed to turn the government over to The Supreme Court next week.

Police say someone in a car fired a shot at a Greyhound bus carrying 41 passengers on a highway near Phoenix today. Shots were also fired at a Greyhound bus in Ohio yesterday, but NO one was hurt in either incident. Bus drivers in Seattle held a loud demonstration today to begin the second week of their nationwide strike against Greyhound.

The Sandinista-dominated Nicaraguan National Assembly has granted a general amnesty to both the Contra rebels and the Sandinista army. Members of the Interior Ministry and government officials are also covered by the amnesty. One opposition leaders say the measure is a way to let Sandinistas walk off with government property.

Chile's military president urges support for the incoming civilian government...

And Lithuania's new parliament prepares to declare independence...

These stories... and more... next, from United Press International:

Haiti is in turmoil again. The military dictator who took control of the Caribbean island nation in a 1988 coup stepped down today following a week of protests demanding his ouster.

General Prosper Avril's resignation prompted celebrations across the country. Thousands of people honked horns and waved tree branches and Haitian flags.

But in some areas, mobs took to the streets... destroying offices and homes of known Avril supporters. There were unofficial reports that 11 people were killed in violence across the country.

Earlier today, Avril surrendered the government to the army chief of staff who says he'll turn over power to a provisional civilian government in three days, as is required by the constitution.

A coalition of 12 opposition parties began meeting with army chief of staff Herard Abraham in an attempt to create the transitional government.

Opposition leaders call the resignation a victory, but also say they fear Avril might try to run the country from behind the scenes.

(MARCH 10) UPI - A Greyhound bus in Arizona earlier today became a target of gunfire, the second such incident in two days involving the strike-hindered carrier.

Greyhound officials say Phoenix police interviewed a suspect after a bullet fired from a car on Interstate 17 struck the door window on a Los Angeles-bound bus. NONE of the 41 passengers was hurt. The suspect was NOT immediately charged.

Yesterday, shots fired from a car struck a Greyhound bus in Ohio, but NO one was hurt.

A loud demonstration in Seattle marked the beginning of the second week of the nationwide Greyhound strike. A half-dozen buses were delayed by pickets who blocked the depot exit for several hours last night. Police say there were NO arrests for violence.

Greyhound chairman Fred Currey today issued a second call to union leaders to join the company in getting temporary restraining orders in 13 cities. The orders hold union leaders responsible for any violence.

NO new contract talks are scheduled, but federal mediators and union leaders are to meet in Washington Monday.

Homeless advocate Mitch Snyder... whose fast once forced the Reagan administration to give funds to the homeless... launched another hunger strike today in Washington.

Snyder began his fast with 21 members of his Community for Creative Non-Violence homeless advocacy group.

The group is protesting a city council committee's plan to cut the homeless budget by one-third this year and by half next year. The action would cut out 19-Million dollars set to go to shelters and other services for homeless families.

The full council is scheduled to vote on the plan March 20th. Snyder is vowing to ''do whatever is necessary'' to change the committee's actions.

Starting Monday, the group of fasters will take turns demonstrating in front of Washington's city hall.

In 1984, Snyder launched a 51-day hunger strike, demanding a decaying federal building be used as a homeless shelter. President Reagan gave in to the demand just before the presidential election.

(MARCH 10) UPI - Reports out of Baltimore say there are new allegations of defense contractor fraud.

A report says a federal grand jury is investigating allegations that the Navy was bilked out of Millions of dollars in an overcharging scheme by a defense contractor's Maryland plant.

The probe focuses on operations at Martin Marietta's plant in Glen Burnie, southwest of Baltimore. The alleged fraud occurred when the plant was owned by Gould Incorporated. Martin Marietta officials are cooperating with the investigation.

In the scheme, Gould allegedly had some parts assembly work done in Mexico where the labor rate is significantly lower. But the Pentagon allegedly was charged at a rate comparable to what the work would have cost in Maryland.

The Glen Burnie plant is the Navy's leading supplier of underwater listening devices that are towed behind ships and used to trace movements of other vessels.

A federal judge in Miami has dismissed a 10-Million-dollar suit filed by actress Zsa Zsa Gabor against Delta Air Lines. Gabor was mad because Delta kicked her off a flight because she allowed her dogs to run free in the plane.

The judge dismissed Gabor's suit yesterday, ruling the court lacked jurisdiction in the case. He said she can refile it.

In January 1989, Gabor was forcibly removed from the flight for refusing to keep her two Shih Tzu dogs... Macho Man and Genghis Kahn... from running around the plane's cabin.

Gabor angrily protested putting the dogs in carry-on kennels at a stop in Atlanta. Police escorted Gabor, the dogs, a maid and 15 pieces of luggage off the plane.

Gabor contends the fight was a result of her unwillingness to put a jewelry bag into an overhead compartment. Her lawsuit claimed negligence, defamation and assault and battery.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 12) COMTEX - Dallas-based Income Opportunity Realty Trust, the real estate investment trust controlled by the former top executives of Southmark Corp., has settled a class-action shareholder suit by agreeing to distribute $2.5 million in shareholder dividends.

The suit alleges that Income Opportunity breached a declaration of trust and its fiduciary duty by appointing National Realty Advisors Inc. as its advisor without shareholder approval.

Affiliated trusts -- Continental Mortgage and Equity Trust, Transcontinental Realty Investors and National Income Realty Trust -- also settled similar suits, according to a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

All the real estate investment trusts and National Realty Advisors are controlled by former Southmark Chairman Gene E. Philips and Vice Chairman William Friedman.

If approved by a federal court in California, the settlement will require that Income Opportunity distribute $2.5 million in dividends over the next 16 months, including distributions paid Feb. 22.

As part of the settlement, shareholders of Transcontinental Realty would receive an additional $7 million, National Income Realty shareholders an extra $10 million and Continental Mortgage shareholders another $10 million over the next 16 months.

Richard Lapp would resign as a management trustee for the trust, and three new outside trustees -- Don Johnston, Bennett B. Simms and Ted C. Stokely -- would be named.

Also, a special committee of the board of trustees would be created to review transactions with related parties and certain litigation involving members of the trusts' management.

This 8-k Filing was submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission on MARCH 9, 1990

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 12) COMTEX - Two Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission administrative law judges on March 1 recommended an annual rate increase of $117.4 million for Philadelphia Electric Co.

The recommended rate hike, if adopted by the full PUC, would represent about 21 percent of the utility's requested $549 million increase, according to a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The PUC is scheduled to conduct nonbinding polling on the rate case at its March 22 and April 5 meetings, and to issue a final order April 19.

The proposed rate hike would cover the company's investment in the Limerick Generating Station Unit No. 2 and associated facilities.

If the rate hike is passed, the company's future earnings would be substantially reduced and its ability to maintain its current common stock dividend impaired.

The utility's access to the capital markets would also be negatively impacted, according to the filing.

STAMFORD, CT (MARCH 12) COMTEX - Orexana Corp., which believes the president of its Bolivian subsidiary has misappropriated certain assets, said it has begun legal action in the United States against the individual.

Orexana has also instructed its Bolivian legal counsel to begin action in that country, according to a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Orexana has invested $500,000 in the Bolivian subsidiary and believes it is likely that its investment will be impaired by more than $100,000 in connection with the case.

The actual amount of the damage is unclear.

The executive was not named.

ISLAMABAD (MARCH 11) - Pakistan sent a senior official to Moscow Sunday for talks on bilateral and regional issues amid reports that Pakistan had new proposals on ending the civil war in Afghanistan.

Foreign Secretary Tanvir Ahmad was expected to raise the issue of last Tuesday's abortive coup against Soviet-backed Afghan President Najibullah and its ramifications for international efforts to reach a political solution to the 11-year-old Afghanistan conflict.

Ahmad was carrying ''a set of fresh proposals'' on Afghanistan from Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto, the daily Nation newspaper reported without elaborating.

Bhutto, 37, had been pushing the fragmented Afghan mujahedin resistance based in Pakistan to unite and seek a political settlement when the Kabul coup attempt divided resistance leaders anew.

TUNIS (MARCH 11) - Arab foreign ministers meeting here Sunday reached a compromise agreement to move Arab League headquarters back to Cairo, members of their delegations said.

Announcement of an agreement in principle on the move would be made at the end of the meetings, they added, with an official declaration coming at the next ministerial session in September.

Details of the transfer would also be worked out in September.

The Arab League pulled out of Cairo in 1979 after suspending Egypt's membership following the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty in March of the same year.

Egypt was readmitted to the League last May.

TEHERAN (MARCH 11) - Iranian authorities Sunday hanged 39 people in 12 cities convicted of ''being involved for many years'' in illegal drug trafficking, the national news agency Irna said.

''All those hanged had also confessed to smuggling of arms and munition into the country and selling them to bandits and drug gangs,'' Irna said.

The executions were in line with the country's January 1989 narcotics law, which provides for the death penalty and confiscation of property in cases of drug possession or smuggling, the agency said.

TEHRAN (MARCH 11) - Iranian President Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanajani on Sunday found himself in a trial of strength against former interior minister Ali Akbar Mohtashemi over the release of 17 Western hostages held in Lebanon.

The leader of the hardliners, who had kept his own counsel since there was talk of an imminent end to the hostage crisis, broke his silence to express his categorical opposition to releasing the hostages.

His position directly challenged the president's statement on Wednesday that the crisis was moving towards a solution.

In Saturday's edition of the radical daily Kayhan International, he argued that while Iran could not impose its policy on other Moslem countries, to free the hostages was tantamount to "breaking the chains holding blood-thirsty wolves", in a reference to the West.

He urged Moslem groups to pursue "the hostage Cold War", thereby dashing hopes for an early resolution of the problem.

The 55-year-old president, who has a reputation as a wily politician, has been clashing with the 44-year-old "man of the shadows" -- as Mohtashemi is known -- since the death last June 3 of former spiritual leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

On the one side, Mr. Rafsanjani wants to turn the page on the Islamic revolution and is seeking to enhance Iran's image abroad.

On the other, Mr. Mohtashemi is an intractable defender of the permanent Islamic revolution and has revived its gloomiest and most quarrelsome characteristics.

Although Mr. Rafsanjani has managed to score points, by eliminating hardliners from the succession of Ayatollah Khomeini and side-lining Mr. Mohtashemi, the latter's staying power has seriously hampered his activities on the domestic front and his attempts to open up to the West and to resolve the hostage issue.

The timing of Mr. Mohtashemi's comments set back hopes since a previous editorial in the paper's English edition led diplomats to believe the former minister would comply with settling the hostage issue and pave the way for Western investment to rebuild Iran's battled economy, ravaged by eight years of war with Iraq.

But the bigger issue, analysts said, was to determine how much power Mr. Mohtashemi still wields with the hostage-takers in Lebanon.

A radical MP, Mohammad Qomi, told a parliamentary session Sunday that during Mr. Mohtashemi's tenure as ambassador to Syria and during visits to Lebanon, he "established Islamic resistance cells against oppression."

Mr. Mohtashemi was ambassador to Damascus between 1981 and 1985 and is credited with playing a key role in Lebanon's pro-Iranian Moslem groups -- and helping establish the Hezbollah movement -- before being seriously wounded by a letter bomb in Damascus.

Mr. Qomi, a close Mohtashemi ally, also equated Iranian-U.S. relations to those of the wolf and the lamb -- a description often made by Ayatollah Khomeini -- and warned "those inclined to establish relations with America."

Last summer, Mr. Mohtashemi succeeded in opposing Mr. Rafsanjani's offer to help Washington with the hostages after a Shiite cleric, Sheikh Abdel Karim Obeid, was abducted to Israel from south Lebanon.

Mr. Mohtashemi then urged Hezbollah to react to "the crimes of Israel and the United States" and two days later, on August 9, the organization set off a booby-trapped car in south Lebanon in what it dubbed "the operation of allegiance to Imam Khomeini's line."

Iran's president has since tried - with his brother Mahmoud's help -- to break the "Mohtashemi networks" in Lebanon and the hostages' fate seems to depend on his ultimate success.

SANTIAGO (MARCH 11) - U.S. Vice President Dan Quayle ran into angry anti-U.S. demonstrators here Sunday when he met with outgoing president Augusto Pinochet.

As Mr. Quayle entered General Pinochet's home, the pro-Pinochet demonstrators chanted "Yankee go home" and shouted epithets against the December 20 U.S. invasion of Panama.

As the crowd became louder, Mr. Quayle's bodyguards ordered his armored automobile to enter the walled Pinochet compound so the vice president could safely get into his vehicle and drive away.

Mr. Quayle, who was heading the official U.S. delegation to the inauguration of President-elect Patricio Aylwin, paid an informal half-hour visit to Gen. Pinochet before the general was to depart for the northern desert resort of Iquique.

Later in the day, Mr. Quayle was to attend Mr. Aylwin's inauguration, marking an end to more than 16 years of military rule under Gen. Pinochet.

Gen. Pinochet siezed power in a bloody 1973 coup that ousted the elected socialist government of president Salvador Allende. Mr. Allende died in the coup.

Earlier Sunday, a series of explosions shook Santiago and sparked a fire at a large grocery store owned by Francisco Javier Errazuriz, a rightist candidate who lost his bid for the presidency in the December general elections.

Police said the capital was shaken by about 12 bombs, including one near the main headquarters of the Carabineros, the nation's militarized police force.

No group claimed responsibility for the attacks.

Local radio reports said no injuries were reported in the blasts.

A radical faction of the leftist Manuel Rodriguez Patriotic Front claimed responsibility for a similar series of bombings Friday night.

JERUSALEM (MARCH 11) - Israel's shaky national unity government was Sunday on the verge of collapse after the right-wing Likud bloc of Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir failed to back a U.S. Middle East peace formula.

Ministers from the centrist Labour party stormed out of a meeting of Israel's inner cabinet after Mr. Shamir refused a call for a vote on whether or not the government would endorse the plan.

The U.S. scheme stipulates an Israeli-Palestinian dialogue ahead of elections in the occupied territories.

"This non-answer constitutes a rejection," declared Deputy Prime Minister and Labour party head Shimon Peres.

"I would have preferred that we work together with Likud for peace. But when that becomes impossible a government of national unity no longer makes any sense."

Labour leaders in recent days had warned repeatedly they would quit the two-year-old coalition if the government did not back the U.S. scheme, proposed 10 months ago by U.S. Secretary of State James Baker.

Transport Minister Moshe Katzav of Likud appealed to Labour "to reconsider its position and to continue its efforts within the framework of the present government to promote peace in the Middle East."

Ministers from both Labour and Likud met separately to map future strategy following an inconclusive session Sunday of the 12-man inner cabinet.

At issue is which Palestinians should be allowed to take part in elections proposed for the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Likud has rejected the participation of Arab residents of east Jerusalem, which Israel annexed in the 1967 Middle East war and now considers to be part of Israeli territory.

Prior to the war, east Jerusalem was part of the Jordanian-controlled West Bank.

The Labour party acknowledges Israeli sovereignty over all of Jerusalem but maintains that Palestinian voters in the Arab eastern sector should be given the right to vote in the elections.

VALPARAISO, Chile (MARCH 11) - Christian Democrat Patricio Aylwin was inaugurated here Sunday, replacing General Augusto Pinochet as Chile's president.

Mr. Aylwin, who was elected December 14, was inaugurated at about 1 p.m. (1600 GMT) in a ceremony at the new National Congress building in this Pacific port, some 100 kilometers (60 miles) west of Santiago.

Mr. Aylwin begins his four-year term as the first popularly elected civilian president since September 1973, when Gen. Pinochet seized power in a bloody coup against Marxist president Salvador Allende. Mr. Allende died in the putsch.

Outside the Congress, angry opposition members pelted Gen. Pinochet with rocks, tomatoes and sticks as he approached the legislative building in an open automobile.

The general's security guards closed in tightly around the vehicle as the the protesters -- apparently led by relatives of people who were jailed or disappeared during the general's 16-and-a-half-year rule -- yelled "Murderer! Murderer!".

Last week, week, the general said he would not attend the inauguration here.

ISLAMABAD (MARCH 11) - Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto Sunday repeated Pakistan's offer of dialogue to India on Kashmir dispute.

However, Pakistan would reserve the right to take the issue to the United Nations which pledged the Kashmiri people a plebiscite in 1949 to determine their choice between the two claimants of the Himalyan state.

Bhutto told leaders of non-parliamentary parties called to a review of the current turmoil in Indian Kashmir that Pakistan would continue its support to the Kashmiris till they attained their right to self-determination.

The 37-year-old prime minister had been under pressure from the powerful parliamentary opposition to confront India on the Kashmir issue.

She is due to address the legislative assembly of Azad (Free) Kashmir, the Pakistani part of the disputed state, on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, a spokesman of the foreign ministry in Islamabad condemned the shooting down of 22 Kashmiri Moslems by Indian security forces in Srinagar on Friday. They wanted to go to mosques for Friday prayers in violation of curfew rerstrictions.

The shooting was a flagrant violation of human rights, the spokesman said.

Instead of unleashing terror on the Kashmiris, he said India should allow the Kashmiris exercise the right of self-determination it pledged to them under the 1949 U.N. resolution, he added.

MOSCOW (MARCH 11) - Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev Sunday proposed holding a key Soviet Communist Party Congress from July 2, Tass news agency said.

In a speech to a meeting of the policy-making central committee, Mr. Gorbachev also suggested that one delegate for every 4,000 party members should be elected to the congress. This would mean a total 4,700 delegates would be present.

The party currently had a total 18.8 million members, Mr. Gorbachev said.

A central committee meeting last month decided that the congress, which is notably to approve the abolition of the party's political monopoly and legalise other parties, would take place "in late June-early July". But no date was specified.

BONN (MARCH 11) - West Germany's opposition Greens party has asked U.N. secretary general Javier Perez de Cuellar to send a United Nations delegation to inspect a factory in Libya accused of producing chemical weapons.

Greens MPs Angelika Beer and Christa Vennegert said Sunday that pressure should be put on Tripoli to allow an inspection of the factory at Rabta alleged by the United States to be involved in the manufacturing of chemical weapons.

Libya has denied that the plant is producing chemical weapons but has refused to allow independent observers to visit the plant.

KINSHASA (MARCH 11) - Sudanese military ruler Omar Hassan Ahmed El Beshir met here Sunday with Zairean President Mobutu Seso Seko for talks on the situation in Sudan, Zairean officials said.

Gen. Beshir, who was met on arrival by Marshal Mobutu, was making "an official visit of a few hours", Zairean authorities said, although Sudanese officials had said earlier in Khartoum that the visit would last several days.

The Zairean leader has offered to mediate between the junta in Khartoum and rebels in southern Sudan led by John Garang.

The two leaders are expected to discuss peace moves aimed at ending the civil conflict during the talks, to be held at N'sele, 40 kilometres (25 miles) north of the Zairean capital, reliable sources said.

ISLAMABAD (MARCH 11) - At least eight persons were killed Sunday in random shooting by unidentified gunmen in Hyderabad city in ethnically tense southern Pakistan.

Another 22 people were injured in the shootouts which followed incidents of shooting in the city's university campus Saturday by Sindhi nationalist students, said reports from the city which is dominated by Mohajir settlers.

University examinations were cancelled after Saturday's incident which involved armed nationalists and police. No one was hurt in the shooting however.

Sunday's incidents were also sparked by the gunning down of a student outside a college in the city.

DAR ES SALAAM (MARCH 11) - Black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela said here Sunday that his African National Congress (ANC) had established "clear guidelines" for forging unity with rival anti-apartheid organisations.

Mr. Mandela, addressing a news conference here at the end of a six-day tour of Tanzania, said attempts were being made to involve all organisations in upcoming talks with the South African government.

Each organisation would first have to declare the size of its membership, army, assets and its location, he said, without naming any organisations.

Other anti-apartheid groups include the umbrella United Democratic Front, the Pan-Africanist Congress (PAC) and its allied Pan-Africanist Movement (PAM) created inside South Africa.

A black consciousness movement, the Azanian People's Organiation (AZAPO), has recently reported attempts to achieve unity between rival anti-apartheid movements.

The ANC deputy president said preparations were under way for negotiations with President Frederik de Klerk, but how soon they would take place would be determined by the ANC executive committee.

Mr. Mandela, 71, repeated however that negotiations could only take place after ANC demands had been met for the release of political prisoners and a lifting of the state of emergency.

"The release of political prisoners was crucial to give the negotiators the mandate" (to negotiate), he said.

Answering a question on last week's remarks by Mr. de Klerk, that continued disturbances in the so-called independent homelands would hinder reform,

Mr. Mandela said: "Mr. De Klerk is not sincere".

But he added, "I have always considered him as a man of integrity and hope that these disturbances, which have always been there, will not change his plans".

VILNIUS, Soviet Union (MARCH 11) - Workmen removed the hammer and sickle and red star emblem of the Soviet Union from the building housing the Lithuanian parliament here Sunday after members had voted unanimously to change the name of the Soviet Baltic state to "Republic of Lithuania".

The move drops the words "Soviet" and "Socialist" from the republic's title.

In place of the Soviet emblem, a huge Lithuanian national flag portraying a horseman on a white horse on a green, yellow and red striped background was hoisted in sight of a small crowd.

The 133 members had earlier approved a bill restoring the national flag which Lithuania used while it was a sovereign nation, from 1918 to 1940.

The deputies also voted to give themselves "full powers to represent the will of the people" before turning to discussion of a bill unilaterally proclaiming Lithuania's independence from the Soviet Union.

Correspondents said some deputies were expressing reservations, saying that they had not received copies of the drafts of the bill which had been distributed.

JOHANNESBURG (MARCH 11) - A pig's head was dumped on the steps of a synagogue at Kempton Park, northeast of here, Friday night and anti-semitic slogans daubed on the walls, police said late Sunday.

One slogan read "viva Mandela!" -- referring to black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela, released last month after 27 years in South African jails, while a poster bearing Nazi swatikas read "death to all race mixers!".

The incident comes amidst condemnation by the Jewish community here of anti-semitic acts carried out by extreme-right neo-Nazi groups.

The allusion to Mr. Mandela, vice-president of the African National Congress, appeared to refer to comments he made in Lusaka two weeks ago, comparing the struggle of South African blacks against apartheid to Palestinians' opposition to the state of Israel.

Organisations representing South Africa's 120,000-strong Jewish community bitterly protested at the comparison.
